A Good Slogan

"An Acre Of Alfalfa For Every Cow" Takes On New Meaning

"An acre of alfalfa for every cow" is a slogan adopted in many districts where live stock is kept, but with a modification to suit local requirements it is one which receives strong support in the Peace River district, says Mr. Atkinson. With the short crops and difficult seasonal conditions of 1928 and 1929, the issue of adequate provision with respect to fodder crops became more apparent. Not only will the application of this slogan to alfalfa, or suitable clover or hay crops, go far to meet the exigency of the present situation, but it would also provide a useful and profitable rotation medium for keeping soil up to productive capacity and assist in weed control. This scale of planting not only provides adequate pasturage but allows for surplus for feeding to other farm animals and often provides a carry-over of hay to a lean year.

More Milk Is Used

Consumption Per Capita Has Practically Doubled In Canada

During the past eight years domestic milk consumption per capita has practically doubled in Canada. The Dairy and Cold Storage Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture attributes this increase to the growing demand of the sweet milk trade and to increased popularity of ice-cream. Canada's exports of dairy products have declined materially, and this has been due in part to the increasing domestic consumption and in part to the large numbers of high quality cattle which have been sold to United States buyers and gone out of the country. In this connection it is noted that there were approximately 100,000 fewer good milch cows in Canada in 1926 than there were in 1921. Canada's dairymen are realizing the economic danger of the situation, however, and few sales of high grade milch cows are now reported.

Whilst the state of Canadian business in the main must be regarded as disappointing compared with that of a year or two ago, it is fair in comparison to world conditions, declares the monthly commercial letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Canada's unemployment problem, though by no means negligible, is not nearly so acute as in some of the older countries, the letter points out.

During the month of March business conditions showed a gradual accession in industrial and construction operations, which tended to offset unsettlement in other branches of commerce, says the bank's letter.

"We have mentioned before that the reduction in agricultural purchasing power would leave its mark on the economic structure and it's has proved to be the case. Until the banks have opportunity experiences favorable weather and market conditions, business as a whole will continue to show a smaller than its four preceding years. However, Canada is fortunate that capital expenditures are on important projects continue in large volume."

In the matter of European trade the bank's letter continues that with the prospect of further substantial progress, Europe seems to offer good opportunities as an export market for those Canadian commodities which require an expanding market owing to Canada's increased productive power.

Prairie Cattle For Peace River

Cannot Procure Right Type Of Cattle In British Columbia

The cattle suitable for sale on easy terms to settlers in the Peace River district have been found on prairies rather than in purebred herds recently, Hon. William Atkinson, minister of agriculture, announced on his return to Victoria from the district.

"There may be some surprise that we are not securing these cattle in British Columbia for sale to farmer settlers," said Mr. Atkinson. "The fact is that we cannot secure here the type of cattle which these people must have for their conditions. What is required is a general purpose animal. Our dairy cow would not endure the cold there. It is necessary therefore to secure cattle as are to be found on the prairies only at this time."

Mr. Atkinson proposes to send experts of his department to the prairie shortly to select the animals which will be moved north in May by Peace River people. Probably about 150 animals will be sent this year.

Ten Thousand Stings By Mail

Now Possible To Send Package Of Bees By Mail

With the improved technique which has been developed for the shipping of bees by express it is now possible to send them by mail, and the bee experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture feel that very satisfactory results are obtainable by apiarists through the use of the parcel post service, especially in colonies and to establish new ones The bee package is a wire-covered wooden box, usually containing two pounds of live bees. There are some five thousand bees to a pound. A shipment by mail is now possible and should a package of bees become broken open in transit the thousand stings is the potential result.

TRAIN TELEPHONE NOW A FACT

The Canadian National Railways, which first made possible the reception of radio concerts on board a moving train, an invention which many first class railroads have since copied, have achieved another mechanical triumph by perfecting the first two-way system of telephone communication in the world with moving trains. The system has been put into public service by the company on "The International Limited," which crosses the 1,554 miles separating Montreal and Toronto in 360 minutes, the fastest train in the world traversing a like distance.

The photograph shows Sir Henry Thornton, Chairman and President of the Canadian National Railways, inaugurating the telephone service from "The International Limited" while the train is travelling at 60 miles per hour. At the train is Mr. Archibald D. Turnbull, Chief Engineer of the Canadian National Telegraphs, who developed and perfected the train telephone system.

WEED CONTROL PROGRAMME

The Alberta Department of Agriculture has now completed its plans for the weed control programme of 1930.

Under the Field Crops Branch the Province has been divided into fifteen districts. In each of these districts a Field Supervisor will be stationed. His duties will be to co-operate with Weed Inspectors appointed by Municipal Councils, and all Local Improvement Districts, in general Weed control work and the enforcement of The Noxious Weed Act.

Farmers of the Province are urged to avail themselves of the services of these men. Their office centres are being advertised in this issue.

NEWS FROM DEWBERRY

This part of Alberta has made wonderful progress within the last twenty years or so. New towns have sprung up at convenient distances along the newly built railway lines on both sides of the great Northern Saskatchewan River; churches, schools, community halls, comfortable farm homes, dot the fertile countryside on every hand. Only one cycle of pioneer days remains to mar the march of progress: the old fashioned cumbersome ferry boat. In these days of speed by land, air and water, the slow tiresome ferry boat is a veritable anomaly.

One wonders that the taxpayers have tolerated this old-fashioned dangerous way of crossing rivers for such a long time. Take the case of Heinburg, and the cost would be trifling in comparison with the untold convenience.

It is rumored that strong pressure will be brought to bear on the Government on this much-needed utility before long. Thousands of ratepayers here are interested in the project.

Though now over 69, Dick can perform all sorts of hair-raising stunts on the bicycle. He can also stand on a chair and pick up a coin from the floor without bending his knees. About thirty-eight years ago, Dick Hennel held the title of bicycle champion in three continents: Europe ,Africa and North America. The late Bob Fitzsimmons, one time heavyweight boxing world champion, said if the "Flying Blacksmith" covered the boxing belt nobody could keep it from him. Dick will enter several sporting events at the Dewberry sports on July 1st.

The West Helps the East

The reduced volume of wheat production in Western Canada last year coupled with the severe fall-up in grain shipments owing to the absence of a profitable export market, has at least had the effect of opening the eyes of Eastern Canada to certain facts which formerly they did not realize, or at all events were loth to admit did exist.

For a long period of years, even in fairly recent years, the opinion was voiced throughout the eastern portion of the Dominion that the West immensely quite a drain on the East, that the East was taxed to provide immigration, transportation and other services for the West, and for which the East received no adequate return.

Now apparently this opinion is no longer held, for we find such an out-standing Toronto paper as the Globe, in its issue of March 4th, which more or less reflects the financial views of the city in which it is published, featuring an article which opens with the following paragraph:

Behind the new certainty of tone and emphasis which has been placed on fallow of the last crop to move the controversy over marketing methods with the resultant propaganda is to be found the true economic status of Western Canada's need. A clear and unbiased examination of the facts the facts divested from the passions aroused by factional contention is vital to east and west alike. Upon such knowledge only can the confidence of the manufacturer in his commitments for the summer and fall months of the year be founded. Upon it rests the disputing the fact that the balance between prosperity and a curtailed volume of trade rests upon the West's purchasing power.

The acceptance of responsibility implied in that last sentence is certainly refreshing and welcome to the people of Western Canada. Its recognition by the East is equally timely, mean the rapid development of a better understanding between the two last sections of that the Dominion which lie to the east and west respectively of the Great Lakes. And such better understanding is vital to the welfare of Canada.

The economic fact which the experiences of the past twelve months have brought forcibly to the attention of the whole country is, that the volume of freight traffic provided for our two great transportation systems by the grain shipments of the prairie provinces is a very vital factor, in maintaining their net profits at a satisfactorily high figure. Not so long ago, the railway managements contended that rates for western grain carriage fixed by the Railway Commission were so low that there was no margin of profit for them in the class of business that in fact there was a loss taken in the movement of western grain which loss had to be made up out of other earnings. This therefore is constituted a nothing of a grievance in the eyes of eastern shippers.

Now however both railways have frankly attributed the drop in their profits, in not merely the great part, but the whole part of such profits, to the heavy decline in grain shipments. In other words, they have admitted the profitable nature of the western grain business from a railway transportation standpoint.

These things are deeply significant. It is well known that freight rates on grain in Western Canada are much lower than they are on railways in western grain areas of the United States, and to that extent the Western Canadian farmer has an advantage over his United States competitor in world markets. It is, however, gratifying to know that such advantage is not gained by impossibly small loss upon the transportation companies of this Dominion.

To the West, too, it is gratifying to know that it is a vital factor in promoting the prosperity of the manufacturing industries of the East That is as it should be. The West desires to help Canada forward. It is anxious that the settlement of its broad acres and the fertility of its soil should result in big and profitable business for the East. The West prefers Canadian made goods above all others and it is a source of real grief to many people to realize that we have it in our power to confer the benefits of increased business and prosperity upon our fellow Canadian citizens east of the Great Lakes.

Out of the troublous times and somewhat bitter experiences of the last season there has come the happy realization to the east and west, of our dependence on each other. Out of such realization interest in the welfare of each other in our part of the and concern in the progress and prosperity of our common country.

Production and the Market

Dairy Products and Livestock Could Be Increased To Canada's Benefit

While Canada has been increasing her inland acreage at the rate of a million acres a year every year the major line of agricultural production has been standing still or sliding down hill. While the wheat crop is begging the British market is calling in vain for more Canadian Wiltshires, more Canadian cheese, more Canadian condensed milk and more Canadian poultry products. The simple fact is that Canada's eggs are all in one basket, grown all out of balance.

This is the argument of R. D. Colquette, Publicity Director, in The Country Guide, Winnipeg, and there is plenty of evidence to support his contention.

What has happened is that Canada's agricultural production has gotten completely out of balance. We have a national deficit of two such important products as butter and bacon. Our Wiltshire exports are not the vanishing point. It would be no surprise to some who see this situation as it is to see Denmark bacon beside New Zealand lamb on the meat counters of our cities if a change is not made. Of cheese, condensed milk and other products we are selling less abroad every year. This kind of thing can go on for only a few more years before the bottom drops out. Indeed, Mr. Colquette. Production has to be shaped to fit the market. We have got to know, he says, otherwise the figures at the bottom of the column will be written in red ink

These considerations, however, must not blind the observer to the fact that wheat growing is the chief business of three areas in the West, because these areas are adapted to cereal production and would fail as mixed farming areas.

Plan During Vacation

Group Of Japanese Business Men Sponsoring Air Line Across Pacific

A project of inaugurating a regular passenger and air line between Japan and the United States and Canada in the shortest distance between the continents to three days is reported to have been organized by a group of Japanese business men and financed at a capitalization of $75,000,000. Four huge airships, resembling the Graf Zeppelin, which circled the globe last year, are expected to be employed for the regular air trips.

The Japanese government has been officially asked for the necessary permits and those behind the enterprise say they propose to go right ahead with their preparations.

Seiji Hashimoto, Tokyo business man and one of the promoters says the plan was projected last year shortly after the visit of the German dirigible. The single fare for a passenger, he said, would be $1,500

"It may take two or two years to complete organization," said Mr Hashimo. "Material and agreements will have to be negotiated. But, we are absolutely serious in this undertaking. It is a daring venture, but we believe it will be successful and we are prepared to go right ahead with it."

Lives Have Been Shortened

Men Who Bear Actual War Scrvice Are Dying Comparatively Young

Hon. Dr. Manion, speaking before the parliamentary committee on pensions and returned soldiers' problems the other day, made a statement which is highly significant. He said that of those men who served in an actual theatre of war between 1914 and 1918, very few will live to reach the age of sixty-five. Being both a physician and a war veteran, Dr. Manion has some intimate knowledge of the conditions under which men lived during these war years, and of the effect which these conditions had on mind and body. And his considered opinion is that few of them will come within five years of reaching the allotted span of three score and ten years of life.

This statement is further amplified by the figures quoted by Major Wright of the pensions department. His figures showed that 618,004 Canadians reached an actual theatre of war. Of these, some 60,000 were killed in active service. Of those who did return to Canada, however, 29,376 are known to have died since the war. There may be many more who have died and of whose deaths there has been no record, but the records do show that the number of deaths in the first ten years after the close of hostilities

This is a condition worth pondering over. The war veterans of Canada are dying off at a great rate and it is natural to expect that the rate of mortality will increase rather than decrease during the next decade as the case in point. Indeed, Major Wright's figures rather support the assertion of Dr. Manion that few of the veterans who served in the actual theatre of war will reach the age of sixty-five.

This is not a very cheerful outlook—for the veterans. Yet it is recognized that war conditions were such as to prematurely age many men, and to rob them of that strength and vitality that would carry them on to the natural span of life. Their lives have been shortened by their service to their country. Their earning powers have been curtailed because they are growing old in body and mind although not in years. There is a definite situation, and one in which they merit all the sympathetic consideration that can be given them by a grateful people. — Calgary Times.

MANY CHANGES ANNOUNCED IN NEW BUDGET

Ottawa, Ont.—Hon. C. A. Dunning, in his first budget speech announced: Sales tax reduced from two to one per cent.

Downward revision of the tax bought in the last year on the sale and transfers of stock.

Duty on New Zealand butter increased one cent to four cents a pound.

Trade agreement now in operation with New Zealand will be terminated on October 12.

Trade agreement with Newfoundland to be announced soon.

Long list of tariff changes.

Increase in the general tariff on steel plate and structural steel, with duty lowered under British preference.

A countervailing duty to make Canadian tariff same as country of export on certain commodities, including certain vegetables, eggs and grain.

Ottawa.—An estimated surplus of $41,507,000 for the fiscal year 1929-30 was announced by Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, in his budget speech.

Together with this announcement came the important statement that "numerous applications" for changes in tariff rates are provided for.

Summarized briefly, the Minister told the House of the present budget tariff proposals involve, under the general tariff, increases in rates on 64 items and decreases on 46, under the intermediate tariff, increases in rates on 35 items and decreases on 34, and under the British preferential tariff, increases in rates on 11 items and decreases on 270. When the revision is completed, the Canadian tariff will be free from the 1,168 items, of which 549 will be free under the British preference.

The changes have been carefully related, will have the effect of greatly increasing the British preference in the Canadian market.

The scene as Mr. Dunning made his statement to the House of Commons and the Canadian people at large was tense with dramatic interest. On the floor of the House nearly every seat was filled, every aisle packed. For weeks the word had gone forth that this would be the most far-reaching budget in a decade. It was referred to as "an election budget" — the pronouncement on which the government would take its political life. Long before the bells throughout the parliament building announced the opening of the sessions, impatient crowds gathered outside the public and private galleries of the Commons chamber. Many women were there. They waited while the usual routine of prayers was gone through. Then the doors were flung open and they flocked into the gallerios

Good Market In Orient For Apples

British Columbia Growers May Build Up Big Business

Victoria, B.C.—Plans for invading Oriental markets with British Columbia apples are being shaped by the provincial government through the marketing branch of the department of agriculture, which has just received advices from Hon. Herbert Marler, Canadian minister to Japan, pointing to the possibilities of this business. A large market awaits the B.C. fruit in Japan and China, Mr. Marler said, and the Dominion trade commissioner at the fruit industry take advantage of these opportunities.

The impression made by experimental shipments from here to large markets like Hong Kong, has been favorable, Mr. Marler stated, and used for manufacturing purposes. The tampering of steel and the like. The Japanese are being educated to the quality of Canadian apples.

The department is also anxious to promote the shipment of canned B.C. fruit to Canadian centres in the Orient, and Mr. Marler believes that a large business in this line can be built up. He has been active advertising to compete with huge American exports is stressed. Officials of the department, however, are hopeful of considerable and canning industries in an effort to take advantage of those possibilities in a big way

What Take Livestock Industry Seriously

Or Canadian Farmers Will Lose Business, Says Cattle Man

Winnipeg, Man.—Canadian farmers must look to their livestock industry as a serious industry or they will have it taken away from them, declared Col. H. A. Mullins, former member of Parliament for Marquette and one of the best-known cattle men in the Province.

"Cattle has increased to such an extent in recent years that we find ourselves unable to cope with present facilities and consequently we must retain tract our whole railway system," said Dr. F. Sutherlf, Vice-People's Commissioner for Ways of Communication of the Soviet Republic, who is heading the committee in its investigation. We are particularly interested in the heavier track the stronger motive power and the yard facilities some of which are found in any European country."

Ramsay MacDonald Has Talk With Australia

Twelve Thousand Miles Bridged By Beam Wireless Service

London, England.—On April 30, in the cabinet room at No. 10 Downing Street the telephone rang promptly at 4.30 in the morning and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, coming some papers in his usual chair at the head of the table, lifted the receiver and said: "Hullo, is that you, Scullin?"

This was inaugurated the first direct beam wireless telephone service between England and Australia. The Labor Premier of Britain conversed with the Labor Premier of Australia, James Scullin, over a distance of 12,000 miles, and the chat went on for 15 minutes. The two premiers discussed Empire problems. The forthcoming cricket test matches between England and Australia on England, and when they were likely to come together.

Though oceans and continents lay between them, each could hear the other distinctly. Others in the cabinet room had the benefit of hearing the conversation through earphones. The whole conversation was sent through Premier Scullin's voice travelling through the air from the other side of the world, was only a trifle fainter to the listeners here than was Premier MacDonald's.

"I hope the day is not very far off when we shall have the physical distance between us by air passage too," Premier MacDonald said.

PRIME MINISTER PROPOSES NEW FISHERIES POST

Ottawa, Ont.— Prime Minister Mackenzie King has given notice of a motion providing a salary for a new Minister of Fisheries. Another motion standing in the name of the Prime Minister on the order paper declares that it is expedient that there shall be a new Department of Fisheries. The salary of the Minister of Fisheries is set at $10,000, which is identical with that of the other Cabinet ministers.

The impression prevailing in political circles is that creation of the new portfolio will give Prince Edward Island representation in the Cabinet. Since 1926, that province has been without ministerial representation, but it is recalled that at the time of the formation of his last cabinet, four years ago, the Prime Minister intimated that a minister from Prince Edward Island would be added. It is stated, however, that the government is considering the question whether to give the province representation through the new department or fisheries or through another department by the shuffling of portfolios.

Hon. J. E. Sinclair and R. J. Jameson, both Liberal members for the dual constituency of Queens, and A. E. MacLean, Liberal member for Prince Edward, are mentioned for Cabinet appointments

Another name prominently associated with the appointment is that of Dr. Cyrus MacMillan, a professor at McGill University and formerly of Prince Edward Island. Dr. MacMillan was a member of the Atlantic Fisheries Commission

Creation of a separate department of fisheries with a minister and a deputy presiding at its head was recommended by the Duncan Fisheries Commission, which investigated conditions in the Maritime Provinces back in 1925 and 1926. About a year ago, W. A. Found was appointed as Deputy Minister of Fisheries to carry on such duties under the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Hon. P. J. A Cardin. Under the proposed legislation, Mr. Cardin will devote his ministerial attention to fisheries.

Japan Chooses Vancouver

First Trade Commissioner Arrives To Open Office At Canadian Port

Vancouver, B.C.—Japan has appointed its first trade commissioner to Western Canada in the person of Mason Sumi, who has arrived in Vancouver to open an office here from which he will seek to stimulate Japanese trade with Western Canada and the Northwestern States.

"There are busy ports in the American part of the territory," Mr. Sumi said, "but the fact that the Japanese government has selected Vancouver as the site of the office indicates the importance that my country attaches to the growing trade with this port."

Japan now has diplomatic, consular and trade representation in Canada. The trade commissioner will work in co-operation with the consular service, Mr Sumi said.

The volume of trade between Canada and Japan has increased twenty-fold in the past 30 years, the new trade commissioner said

Last year Canada's imports were $13,000,000 and her exports to Japan were $47 million, making a total volume of trade of $60,000,000, or twice as much as in 1919

Mr. Harvey and many new factories came into production on the prairies last year, the value of products produced in 1929 totalled more than $340,000,000, and all provinces— Manitoba Saskatchewan and Alberta —shared in the development

Saskatchewan, famed as a wheat producing area, can now also lay claim as a manufacturing province of importance, said Mr Harvey Last year the manufacturing industries of the prairies distributed a pay-roll of more than $75,000,000, and the general public are rapidly coming to the realization that factories have A definite value to the community Industrial workers created a "home market"

DISCUSS BONDING OF COMMISSION GRAIN BUYERS

Ottawa.—Methods of protecting farmers from defalcations of commission grain merchants were discussed in the House of Commons Committee on Agriculture. It was pointed out that elevator operators were fully bonded to protect farmers who stored grain with them In the case of commission merchants protection to the same extent was not at present

The question was raised during a discussion of the new Grain Act by Hon H. H. Stevens (Vancouver Centre), who thought there should be some provision in the Act for the bonding of commission merchants

R. H Ramsay chairman of the board of Grain Commissioners thought commission men might be bonded in the future if they were found to put up higher bonds than now

Doubt as to whether Canadian farmers served any useful purpose was expressed by F. F. Gardiner (C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar). "Farmers were doing out and wonderful of the service rendered by grain companies through their elevators," he declared.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, said he was in complete accord with Mr Ramsay. The Dominion Government had no jurisdiction over the grain trade, but it was prepared to co-operate with the provinces in any way possible. Mr Motherwell said he was in favor of the bonding of commission men. The matter was being investigated by the legal department of the province, he added.

Business Men Approach Council

Although very little is known of the project at the present time, the town council has been approached by the solicitor of a company with regard to obtaining the gas franchise for the town of Vermilion. The council was given to understand that the company in question was formed entirely of men of the town and district and if the franchise is secured that it was the company's intention to have a geological survey made and that work would be rush in the most likely location for the obtaining of a supply of gas for lighting and heating purposes.

Clandonald Farmer Found Not Guilty Of Theft

John Soderstrom Acquitted of Serious Charge

John Soderstrom, a farmer residing at Clandonald, was found not guilty by His Honor Judge Taylor in the district court here on Tuesday evening of the charge of stealing a horse the property of Albert Blake. It appears Soderstrom took a bunch of horses with him to sell at St. Paul last winter and along with him was a neighbor who took two of his own horses. One of these two and which later was found to have been stolen, was sold on the way to St Paul, along with two of Soderstrom's horses. The sale was by the other party but was ratified in St. Paul by Soderstrom. A payment was made on account of this horse and Soderstrom, to protect himself, included this animal with his two horses in a lien note covering the balance of the purchase price. The note was deposited with the bank there as collateral. This was the aspect which appeared suspicious to the Crown, but the explanation given by Soderstrom was accepted by the Crown and a verdict given accordingly. W. H. Gibson, K. C. for the prosecution and J. W. G. Morrison, K. C. for the accused

Can "Good" Be Accomplished By "Force"?

Through the ages as man has struggled upward from his caveman state to his present-day civilization, he has progressed only a little. I require only a barbed plaster through the columns of any daily paper any day to prove that man is not yet fully civilized. As he current with him the brute instinct to try and accomplish by force rather than by persuasion. Instead of trying to win support to his views and convictions he has tried to force it. The more civilized, the better educated man becomes, the more does he rely upon appeals to reason instead of having recourse to force. None the less the state of the nation today, and our tendency to resort to the power of legislation and law to enforce opinions upon others, reveals how largely we still depend on force to govern our everyday affairs.

The question, therefore, naturally arises: Has any definite lasting good ever come to humanity through the coercive action of force? Could one find a single, unquestionable instance in the whole range of human history where compulsion has been the direct and sole agency in changing the mental attitude, the belief the convictions or the conscience-sense of any one normal intelligence? Without reserve one may venture to say "No" to both questions.

There is profound truth in Ruskin's conject: "He that compels against his will is of his own opinion still." One may be persuaded to change one's mind, to take a different viewpoint, to espouse another belief to modify or discard a long-held conviction by conscience a new direction, and through it all to act differently; the action being either good or bad according to the prevailing general opinion, but it is sincerely to be doubted that force no matter what its form or its avowed purpose, ever has or ever will bring about the only thing it should and must have in view, the real capacity to produce a new line of action. Without the voluntary conversion of the individual mind and heart, that is, of thought and conscience, there can be no reasonable expectancy of bring about, definitely, permanently and dominantly, a new condition, social, economic, political, ethical, or moral. All our social reformers, our political leaders, our legislators, would do well to ponder this thought and pay closer heed to the lessons of experience and history.

If we would study impartially the action of unleased force directed with the unmistakable purpose of producing mutual good, we may turn our eyes toward Russia today. True the conflicting reports coming out of the country advise us to draw conclusions with a certain reserve, yet there is enough of what appears to be authentic to warrant the present view that the Soviet Government of Russia is using compulsion in the fullest measure of the term to impose its minority organized will upon the unorganized great majority of that vast country.

The Communists may tell us, as well as some three-fourths of the people of Russia that persuasion, through "propaganda," in their chief agency for the building of a New Russia" but it is propaganda backed by armed force by secret police by studied cruelty and by unrelenting terrorism. Putting the most charitable construction upon the Soviet's methods for the complete communization of Russia they are trying to do what they consider to be good practically all-either by the exercise of force. A marvelously organized minority seeks to compel a helplessly disorganized majority to accept its views as to what is best and right for the political social economic and moral well-being of the whole.

And all history tells us that this cannot be done. Reform by force lasts just so long as the force which brought it about is strong enough to maintain it. Force not only invites opposition, but generates it. And soon or late, the opposing force becomes the more powerful, and we have another clash of forces, more disturbance, and another reaction or, perhaps some more reluctantly reformation. But we cannot say confidently that out of it all has come a single definite step of progress. Force is the antithesis of co-operation, and without the voluntary co-operation of all the interests involved there can be no genuine progress.

What is true of Russia just now, would be equally true of any other country in any state or community. No matter how desirable the proposed or instituted reform may be force, if applied to it, eventually will defeat it. Without the voluntary and earnest co-operation of a pronounced majority of all concerned even unquestionably good reforms will not last. And surely no intelligent person would be content with "forced good."

Canada Has Barred Importation Of Parrots

First Outbreak Of Parrot Fever Is Reported From British Columbia

Canada will declare immediately an absolute embargo on the importation and transportation of all birds of the parrot species as a result of representations from the British Columbia Department of Health, which is now engaged in systematic efforts to stamp out parrot fever.

Meanwhile, Dr. H. E. Young, provincial health officer, and his department, are engaged in a systematic campaign to confine the outbreak of parrot fever to a few cases around Vancouver.

They have been in telegraphic communication with United States authorities to secure the latest possible information on the subject.

"This is the first outbreak of this disease, so far as we know in the history of Canada," Dr. Young said.

"The health department here has been fortunate in having brought to Canada from the Orient in recent months, and is endeavoring to ascertain their present whereabouts so that they may be examined"

NEW APPOINTMENT

R. G. McNEILLIE

Prominent among the spring promotions of Canadian Pacific Railway officials was the appointment of R. G. McNeillie, as assistant passenger traffic manager of eastern lines, with headquarters at Montreal. Mr. McNeillie, who was general passenger agent, at Winnipeg, for eight years, left at the end of April for the east, his new appointment becoming effective May 1.

Mr. McNeillie entered the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1901, as a stenographer in the general passenger department, at Winnipeg, becoming chief clerk in 1906. In that year he became acting district passenger agent at Nelson, B.C., and district passenger agent at Calgary in 1910. He was promoted in 1913 to the position of assistant general passenger agent, western lines, with headquarters at Winnipeg, becoming general passenger agent in 1922.

Before leaving for the east, Montreal, Mr. McNeillie was remembered by the members of the passenger department by the presentation of the latest to Field, B.C., and at Minneapolis with a handsome liqueur set, with cut glass decanters and glasses, and a wardrobe suit case, the presentation made by C. E. McPherson, who is acting as general passenger agent.

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been overstimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Pleased With Tour

British Headquarters Enthusiastic Over Reception Accorded Them

The party of English headmasters, who have been touring Canada, returned to Toronto enthusiastic over the reception tendered them throughout Canada and confident that the tour would result in the right kind of English boy being sent to Canada.

Dr. Cyril Norwood, chairman of the party, said that after studying Canadian educational methods, they would advise "quality immigration."

"We shall not advise our boys to come to Canada unsupervised, without money, expecting to find posts waiting for them," said Dr. Norwood. "We shall look for boys in good secondary universities, and that after leaving them they must make opportunities for themselves." Dr. Norwood believes that members of the Nordic strain are easily assimilated into the country, but that the flow from central Europe should be stopped.

MacDonald's Message To McGill

Turns To Scriptures For Advice To University Students

Premier Ramsay MacDonald drew inspiration from the Scriptures when asked to pen a message to McGill students through the medium of the McGill Annual, which is dedicated to him.

"I write this looking over the rugged crags of Passmore Park, but with McGill in my mind." Premier MacDonald states in his message. "You ask me for a few words more for the Annual. What of those? 'Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with all thy might.'"

WIDER BRITISH PREFERENCE IS BEING SOUGHT

A sub-committee to the budget trade inquiry appointed from the Progressive group, moved by W. R. Fraser, Progressive, Last Mountain, Sask., it reads as follows:

That all words after "it is of the opinion that" in the amendment in the 10th line thereof be struck out and the following substituted therefor:

"The government having definitely adopted the principle of increased protection, modified only by certain exemptions of the British preference, it is to be regretted that more effective consideration has not been given to the position of agriculture and labor, that, on the contrary, the changes made in the iron and steel schedules will result in an increased cost in respect to all agricultural work and the machinery of production, and further, that the best interest to be promoted would be served by a more substantial increase in the British preference, particularly as affecting textiles and other articles of a similar character, together with a modification or abandonment of the regulations requiring a 50 per cent. Empire content which have largely nullified the effect of any preference given.

"That a much larger proportion of our revenues should be provided for through direct taxation, more especially through the Income Tax.

"We further wish to state our conviction that those and other changes in our fiscal policies are not of themselves a solution of our modern economic problems but that every encouragement should be given to the development of co-operative principles, together with the organization, distribution and the utilization and control of credit."

Mr. Fraser contended that the regulation which requires that there be 50 per cent. British material and workmanship in order to secure admission in entitled to the preferential tariff, was making it harder and harder for goods to come into Canada from Great Britain.

But Failed In Effort To Save Life Of Wounded Boy

Edmonton, Alberta. — An heroic 160-mile trip by plane from Grande Prairie to the bush-covered Sturgeon Lake area to save the life of a wounded boy, and return, failed to save the life of a 17-year-old boy who was accidentally shot, according to sensational reports just received in Edmonton. The name of the youth is at present unknown.

Flying Officer Spadhewe, of the forestry patrol at Grande Prairie, dared almost dangers in a desperate effort to reach the wounded youth, and after dodging and twisting between trees, finally landed his machine on a half dozen feet of ice on the boy's home. The lad was by sight over the intervening distance in the arms of a waiting friend. He died while the plane was speeding toward Grande Prairie

Expect Premier King Will Be Candidate

Prince Albert Liberal Association Working On That Assumption

Prince Albert.—From Dr. G. A. Robertson, president of the Prince Albert Federal Liberal Association, it was learned that the organization is working on the assumption that Premier Minister W. L. Mackenzie King will again run in this riding.

"The premier," Dr. Robertson stated, "had assured us that as long as we want him, he will be the Liberal candidate for this constituency. Practically all the plans are already forwarded resolutions or confidence in Mr. King to us. A convention will be held only as a matter of form but the date has not yet been decided upon."

Conservatives in the riding are holding a nominating convention here, June 6, and among the names mentioned as candidates are those of that of George Braden, well-known Southern Conservative; D. L. Barron, MacDonald, who opposed Premier King at a previous election is also mentioned.

Dr. Robertson, unofficial leader of the Labor element in Prince Albert, when asked recently if his forces contemplated taking an active part in the coming election, declared that such was not the present intention but that they were gathering their strength for the next provincial fight.

Many Are Seeking Broadcasting Licenses

Majority Not Likely To Be Considered Until Election Is Over

Ottawa.—More than 200 applications for broadcasting licenses have been submitted to the Department of Marine, which department has charge of radio services. The great majority of these will likely be held in abeyance until after the general elections, it was intimated by departmental officials. None of the more extensive applications will be considered but the others will have to wait.

One of the applications which may be granted very soon is one from the Canadian Pacific Railway for permission to erect two high power broadcasting stations, one in Montreal, one in Toronto and one in western Canada, at a point to be selected later.

The general impression on Parliament Hill is that the committee selected by the House of Commons to consider the recommendations of the royal commission that investigated broadcasting, will not proceed in view of the impending dissolution. Instead, it is believed that the first elections will give an opportunity to crystallize public opinion either for or against public ownership and that the meantime the report will be allowed to stand over.

Aviator Makes Heroic Flight

But Failed In Effort To Save Life Of Wounded Boy

Edmonton, Alberta. — An heroic 160-mile trip by plane from Grande Prairie to the bush-covered Sturgeon Lake area to save the life of a wounded boy, and return, failed to save the life of a 17-year-old boy who was accidentally shot, according to sensational reports just received in Edmonton. The name of the youth is at present unknown.

Flying Officer Spadhewe, of the forestry patrol at Grande Prairie, dared almost dangers in a desperate effort to reach the wounded youth, and after dodging and twisting between trees, finally landed his machine on a half dozen feet of ice on the boy's home. The lad was by sight over the intervening distance in the arms of a waiting friend. He died while the plane was speeding toward Grande Prairie

Elimination Of Wood Seeds Is Discussed

Proposition Made To Reduce Of Commission By U. G. Cattle

Ottawa, Ont.—Elimination of weed seeds from feed oats and barley was proposed before the agricultural committee of the House of Commons by G. G. Cattle (U.F.A., MacLeod). He wanted the establishment of feed grades of these grains free from weeds and believed weed seeds could be cleaned out of oats and barley.

The difference between the grades of feed oats and of seed oats in the matter of weeds, he said, if it were explained, is that feed oats might be frozen. Other members of the committee thought the proposition impracticable. The matter was left over for further consideration.

BRITAIN WOULD CONSIDER LAND SETTLEMENT AID

The Pas, Man.—The British Government is ready to consider any feasible project to promote land settlement in the Carrot River Valley, according to a letter received by the town officials from the secretary of state for dominion affairs.

The Carrot River Valley lies to the southwest of The Pas, and includes land in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

The letter from the overseas department points out, however, that assistance by a British grant would necessarily be subject to certain conditions, such as the Empire Settlement Act of 1922, and financial support from either the Federal or Provincial Governments or both. The letter points out that the British Government does not contemplate purchase or ownership of land in Canada for settlement purposes.

The communication from the British Government says in part that considerations by His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom of any scheme submitted by the Canadian Government will be carried over the Canadian National network through the Dominion Direct from His

Preference Is Re-Established

Canberra, Australia.—The Labor Government of Australia has, in the face of strong public opinion, modified one of its ordinances passed in favor of the trades union movement.

Prime Minister James Scullin announced the government was reverting to the former regulation which gave first preference to returned soldiers on government work contracts, and second preference to trades unionists.

The recently-announced decision of the government to abolish the preference to ex-soldiers unless they were also trades unionists, caused a storm of indignation, and veterans' organizations all over Australia were convening to organize a campaign to fight the government's action.

The trip is for establishing a northern air route on behalf of Canada with the United States and Canada in a commercial way.

Mr. King, who was here recently looking over the local possibilities in the event of such a trade route, said Saint John was an ideal eastern terminal for it would not matter definitely whether he would make Saint John or Moncton the starting point in the pioneer flight planned for during the month of November next or March, 1931. The direction of the flight and the 'hop' from here as well as the time of departure, will depend on the nature of the weather prevailing at the time.

MINISTER WARNS AGAINST LOWER GRAIN ACREAGE

Wheat producers of Canada have nothing to gain by cutting down production, Hon James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, told the House of Commons committee on agriculture The committee was considering the new Grain Act and the minister took advantage of the occasion to make a few comments on the grain situation

The Canadian problem he said was more economical and scientific production Recent experience, he said, had shown that high-priced wheat encouraged the use of substitutes In European countries Through the application of chemical treatment European millers were able to make a fairly good flour out of low grade wheat.

Canada, said the Minister, produced the best wheat in the world and by scientific methods could produce wheat more cheaply than any of her competitors In a high price field this country in a poor position but a declining price put it in a stronger position.

The object of the grain act was to regulate the weighing and handling of grain so that whatever the world price might be the Canadian producer would get the greatest possible return Mr Malcolm was optimistic about the future He said Western Canada faced the coming year with a confident attitude Effective help the Board of Grain Commissioners with the best grain act it could obtain and the best spirit of co-operation ever experienced

VERMILION, - ALBERTA
ESTABLISHED 1909.

C. S. F. CHAPMAN, Editor

Vermilion, Alta., May 15, 1930.

The Government of New Zealand has formally accepted the invitation to participate in the World's Grain Show at Regina in 1933. New Zealand is the first of the British Dominions to accept. An honey, wheat, oats, barley and other cereals are among the grain and seed produced in that country her growers should make a good showing in the competitive classes.

AN OMISSION.

The Standard regrets that in the account of the graduates from the University which appears on the front page of this issue, the name of Vernon Newhere was unintentionally omitted. Vernon is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Newhere, and while not taking any of his previous education here has made his home with his parents in town while teaching at neighbouring rural schools in between the Varsity courses. He received the degree of Bachelor of Science in Arts.

Vernon also occupied a very prominent position in Varsity musical circles.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM CHAUVIN and NEWBROOK

Mrs. MacKenzie Sr. left last week for Vancouver to visit her daughter, Mrs. F. Crome. She was accompanied as far as Edmonton by her son Frank.

The British America Oil Co., not to be outdone, are now busy erecting a warehouse in Helgsburg. What with two leading oil companies, four stores two blacksmith shops, pool room, cafe and hotel, Helgsburg has lots of business and lots of opposition to keep it popped up.

The new ferry house is also a big improvement.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

The attention of the Scouts, parents and any citizens interested in the Boy Scout movement, is drawn to the Scout Promise which is as follows:

"On my honor I promise that I will do my best

To do my duty to God and the King.

To help other people at all times,

To obey the Scout Law.

On Sunday last the Troop attended the United church when all of the members present enjoyed a very fine service.

Last Tuesday the regular meeting of the Troop was held at the Armories when 31 boys were on parade. The first part of the evening was spent in semaphore hunting and the prizes were finally located somewhere in the bush near the C.N.R. pumphouse.

There will be a hike on Sunday next. Meet at the post office at 1.30 p.m. Parents are advised that the Sunday hikes will in no way interfere with the Scouts attending church in the evening.

The furniture thing seen in the Scout Troop this week was Scout Brown hauling the potatoes in a limber to's Stew over the camp-fire in a dust storm.

TENNIS TOURNEY

There will be a local tennis tournament held on the town courts on May 24th. Draws will be posted on Craigs' window on Wed., May 21st. All paid up members will be drawn in this tournament unless the Secretary is advised by them before Tuesday, May 20th. All those who wish to play and have not paid their fees, see the Secretary before the draw.

Preston H. Sharp, Secretary.

The entertainment recently given by the primary scholars of the United church Sunday school was a very pleasing affair. Miss Chalk was in charge of the decorations and the church partour was very much like Fairyland. Mrs. A. Law hosted after the supper for the 60 little people. Report has it that not a sound was heard at the supper table, but that cannot be verified. Mrs. Whitbread presided at the organ in the entertainment which was well and accompanied the various numbers. Great credit is due Miss Craig who as superintendent did so much to make the evening a real success. In view of the time and pains devoted to the children by Miss Craig and her assistants it is a pity that more parents did not avail themselves of the opportunity of showing their appreciation.

Mr. Baker presided over the programme and this part of the evening's entertainment was thoroughly enjoyable, especially Geo. Law's old-time moving pictures. The programme was as follows:

Four hymns learned in School.
Motion Recitation — Little Folks.
Solo — Betty Markle.
Dialogue "The Fishers"—Four Boys.
Song "The Lilies" — Four Girls.
Memory Work — Josephine Henry.

Scotty Swanson pitched a ringer. The sports were in an uproar until Sam Dragasich brought Dave Kennedy around with a dash of cold water.

Does horse-shoe pitching attract a crowd? We'll say it does, as witness the spectators on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Will Be Held on the Fair Grounds This Year

An executive meeting was held last Monday evening to perfect plans for the holding of the Vermilion Sports Day on June 3rd. The sports this year will be held on the fair grounds instead of the east end grounds. Although the program for the day has not been outlined yet it was decided to do away with the Calithumpian parade. Football, baseball, basketball and horse shoe tournaments will be held, as well as a large program of athletic events. Watch for fuller particulars and large posters. A passenger aeroplane will be on the grounds also.

SUPPORTS HOME INDUSTRIES

Believing that patronizing home industries should begin at home, the management of the Reichtag restaurant has run white bread and oranges from its menu. Their place will be taken by rye bread and Germania grown apples.

Collection Contains Everything — Except Lots of Money

A silver collection is always an interesting study and the Band concert collection on Sunday evening was no exception. There is usually lots of everything contributed, but it doesn't run into very big money. For instance the collection taken at the Band concert on Sunday last amounted to 24.76 and contained 1 dollar bill, 1 fifty cent piece, 72 dimes an even hundred nickels, most of them of the large variety (apparently dad has run out of the amount being made up in 25 cent pieces.

No Good For Transportation

Proving Speed Of Racing Car Is Of No Importance

Kaye Don, Brit ish speed maniac, has failed in his effort to drive the famous silver bullet at a speed faster than Major Segrave's Daytona Beach record of 231 miles per hour. If he had succeeded in his attempt there would have been no occasion to cheer What possible good would it do science or the business of transportation to have anybody drive a motor vehicle 231 miles per hour or faster? An airplane could, possibly may do that fast some day. Air permits of high speed; but we shall never have vehicular routes capable of handling traffic at nearly four miles per minute.

The only use with which Kaye Don has been challenging the record is a fresh the nature and operation of automobiles and to demonstrate how superlatively any such speed is for transportation utility. The driver has to peer through a telescope sight to see four miles ahead the spot where he will be at the next minute in his headlong flight. If Kaye Don had succeeded it would have been an important as though he had climbed the tower of the Singer Building in New York barehooted or ridden over Niagara Falls in a baby carriage and no more important. — Brandon Sun.

Regrets Remove Of Hon. Vincent Massey

New York Times Pays Tribute To Canadian Minister In Washington

The New York Times pays a striking tribute to Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister in Washington, whose promotion as High Commissioner at London was announced recently. . .

The Times says:

"If Mr. Massey had not as Canada's first minister in Washington represented her with such distinguished success, he would doubtless not have been seen transferred to what a loyal Britisher must consider an even higher post. His going will be felt as a loss not only by Washington, where he and Mrs. Massey have been most popular, but also by the country at large, for no one among all the members of the diplomatic corps has been more sought and honored by cities, universities and learned societies as a speaker on high occasions.

"Mr. Massey . . . has shown practical sense in dealing with the complexities of border relations in commerce and politics. It has been somewhat of a cultivated Englishman that he is rather an Aristotelian or a Platonist. Mr. Massey is both, in the sense that he is an Aristotelian, as shown by his business and war record, and a Platonistic idealist, as evidenced by what he had done for art in varied forms."

Manitoba Man Wins Way To Prove Modern Prowess Of Stout Hardships

The stigma of weakness which has fallen on this generation is presumably to be lifted by Alma Joyal, of St. Boniface, Manitoba. He is going to take a bottle of water from the Atlantic Ocean near Halifax and empty it into the Pacific at Vancouver, making the journey afoot between these cities, to prove that men of today can stand any hardships their forefathers could bear, and perhaps also to show they never had to meet. He expects to make the trip in ten months.

Alma Joyal is the son of Jean Baptiste Joyal, son of a pioneer family, descendant of Mary Ann Gaboury, who was the first white woman to penetrate the west beyond the Great Lakes. Alma Joyal declared. The grandfather of the doughtiness hiker was Jean Baptiste LaSaudiere, a trapper on the Red River, who once walked from Pembina, on the site of Fort Douglas) to Montreal and back with papers from the settlers of the district to the Governor Selkirk. Payment was a gun, a hatchet and a blanket; and he had to avoid all the attempts of Cuthbert Grantham to intercept the papers he carried were detrimental to the interests of the North Western Fur Company in the days before the Hudson's Bay Company in the Red River Valley. They wished to prevent him from executing his errand, Joyal says.

"CHALLENGE" LESSON PIE

Here's another lemon pie, which is simply delicious, but necessitates unusual care and attention. It challenges your ability, so we call it "Challenge" Pie.

Beat yolks of 3 eggs very light. To this add juice of one lemon and rind of 2 lemons, 3 tablespoons hot water, ½ cup sugar and a large pinch of salt. Cook in double boiler until thick. Have whites of eggs stiffly beaten, add ½ cup of sugar to them and fold into cooked mixture. Fill pie shell that has been previously baked, place in oven and brown.

CREAM OF ASPARAGUS

Wash each stalk of asparagus carefully with a vegetable brush to remove all grit. Then cut in small pieces (using all but the very tough parts). Cook, covered, until the asparagus is tender, in enough water to cover. Add salt to taste just before the asparagus is done. Allow 2 cups cooked asparagus and cooking water to 2 cups medium cream sauce (2 cups milk, 4 tablespoons of flour, 4 tablespoons of butter). Season, and serve hot.

Note:—The less tender part may be cooked longer and put through a sieve. (If desired, the tops may be used for salad.)

Is Free Russia

Land, Livestock, and Implements Belong To the Community

Frequently one wonders why communists who enjoy all the privileges of liberty, stability, protection and progress in Canada do not go to Soviet Russia, which they claim to admire so much. An examination of the collective farming policy, printed by Pravda, official soviet publication, explains that the land, live stock and implements belong to the community, which means that so far as the individual is concerned they belong to nobody. The farm workers get from 65 kopecks (33½ cents) to 1 rouble 20 kopecks (60 cents) per day of ten hours. Out of this they must buy their food and clothing and pay their trade union dues.

The "Princess Elizabeth" is 261 feet long, has cost $1,250,000 to build. She has berths to accommodate five hundred passengers.

JESUS TEACHING IN THE TEMPLE

Golden Text: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And a second like unto it is this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."—Matthew 22. 37-39.

Lesson: Matthew 22.1 to 23.39.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 15.

Explanations and Comments

The Pharisees' Question. Great Truths, chapter 22.15-22.—Then after listening to Christ's parables which were pointed at them, came to them (Matthew 21.45), the Pharisees took counsel how they might entangle Him in His talk, hoping to lead Him on to say something which they could report as treason and thus secure from the Roman governor the death sentence for Him. They took counsel with the Herodians, whom they hated, but their common hatred of Jesus was stronger than their mutual hatred. The Herodians were the court party; a political party that came to flatter with the view to the favor of Herod the Great. Their desire was to have a Jewish kingdom established under the Herodian dynasty. The Pharisees were the strictest religious sect among the Jews, and were bitterly opposed to Roman rule. They were looking for a Messiah who would be their earthly king and free them from Roman domination.

Whatman and Herodians together came to Jesus and began their attack with a preamble which meant that the question they were about to propose was a dangerous one to answer, but they knew He was not afraid of consequences. The words were intended to conciliate Him and put Him off His guard, but it was nevertheless a fine tribute to Jesus from His enemies when they said that He was true, that He taught the truth, and was fearless in His preaching of the truth.

Since He was such an one as they said, they wanted His judgment on a matter of controversy. Was it permissible for a Jew to pay tribute to Caesar? If Jesus answered that it was lawful to give tribute, the people would turn against Him, and if He said it was not lawful, He could be charged with treason. Jesus saw through their purpose and exclaimed, "Why make ye a trial of Me, ye hypocrites?" Jesus could always see the insincerity of the would-be flatterer.

Then Jesus asked for a coin, the tribute money. They brought Him a denarius, a coin worth about eight pence half-penny, as the Bible marginalia tells us.

"Whose is this image and superscription?" Jesus asked. They must have answered, "Caesar's." Whereupon, therefore, unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's," returned Jesus. "And unto God the things that are God's," Jesus solemnly added.

When Florence Nightingale was asked the secret of her life, her reply was, "I have worked hard, very hard, and in all; and I have never refused anything to God."

Low Stunt Flying In California Ends Appalling Number Of Accidents

California boasts of having the first aerial traffic cop. His appointment became necessary because of a plague of low stunt flying, which is not only dangerous to the aviators but to houses and property, as well as causing untold loss to film companies. In the midst of his "stunting" the aviator will suddenly hear the blast of a siren, and see approaching a fast black-and-orange speedboat with the inscription: "The new "cop" will not only look after stunters; he will do all he can to help forced landings, which is becoming a serious matter in California. Other well-known public services will be performed by "taken the air," especially the fire brigade. APPRECIATED!

Here is a minister who appreciates the editor. At a recent convention he offered the following toast: "To save an editor from starvation take his paper and pay for it promptly. To save him from bankruptcy advertise in his paper liberally. To save him from despair, send him every item of news of which you can get hold. To save him from profanity write your correspondence plainly on one side of the sheet, and send it in as early as possible. To save him from mistakes bury him. Dead people are the only ones who never make mistakes."

Fiddle, name of a range in the foothills of the Rockies is taken from a Cree word signifying musical instrument, referring to a mountain where, when the wind strikes it from a certain direction, it sounds like a No. 4 fiddle string.

FORMER VERMILION RESIDENTS AWARDED DAMAGES

An award of $6300 damages was awarded Orson L. Archer and family by a jury in the civil division of the of the supreme court on Friday night against the North Western Utilities Ltd. The action was on account of injuries received by members of the family and damage to the family residence caused by gas escaping from the company's mains and seeping into the cellar of the house in Edmonton and exploding when a fire was being kindled in the furnace. The plaintiffs had sued for $10,500

The Archer family formerly lived just east of Vermilion on the Sanborn farm and had moved into the residence in Edmonton shortly before the accident occurred last fall.

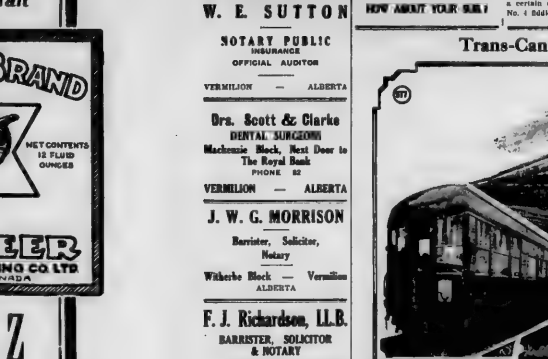
NEW ARMY TOUR SET

Trans-Canada Starts Season



The twelfth season of the Trans-Canada Limited, Canadian Pacific flyer de luxe across the Dominion will commence when the train leaves the Windsor station, Montreal, at 6.45 p.m. daylight time, Saturday, May 17 next. Canada's Permanent head boards divide each of the eight sections between Montreal and Vancouver in 20 hours, fifteen minutes and return in 20 hours, fifteen minutes. In the period of its running between these points the Trans-Canada Limited will make 138 trips up to September 27.

Eight million dollars has gone into the cost of equipment for the Trans-Canada and this service will absorb 12 trains crews and 24 engine crews.

The sleeping cars—of all steel—are finished in rich walnut, upholstered in a colorful flowered tapestry pattern, fitted with specially designed fixtures and carpeted and curtained in a deep shade of brown. Permanent head boards divide each of the eight sections from its neighbor giving increased privacy; and two compartments and a drawing room, finished in similar style, take up the balance of the sleeper. Apart from the usually roomy dressing rooms for men and women, The Trans-Canada has perfected in like manner and have forced ventilation whereby used air is sucked out of the car by powerful fans, ensuring a fresh atmosphere. Rear end equipment, as it is technically called, is featured by the unique solarium lounge car containing green tile bathrooms, spacious dressing rooms and a lounge compartment glazed with vita glass to admit the ultra violet and most beneficial sun rays.

Lay-out shows Trans-Canada leaving the Windsor Street station, Montreal, on its long journey; Solarium car, Lounge car and Ladies' shower.

Second Fortnightly Crop Report

Issued by the Department of Agriculture, Province of Alberta, May 10, 1930.

Reports from numerous correspondents throughout the province indicate that 95 per cent. of the wheat seeding is completed. Much of the wheat is above ground and while the growth is slow due to continued cool weather, germination is uniform and the crop is of excellent color.

From 25 to 40 per cent of oats and barley is already seeded and 70 per cent of sugar beets. The opinion generally expressed is that the wheat acreage is practically the same as that of last year while the area devoted to coarse grains shows an increase of from 10 to 15 per cent

Moisture is sufficient for immediate needs in all parts of the province Those areas, however, which suffered severely from drought in 1929 will require continued and abundant rain fall if good yields are to be obtained Weather during the past fortnight has been cool with frequent showers in which all parts of the province have shared

The season of 1929 did not induce satisfactory germination of wild oats and other weed seeds; consequently an unusually large number of weeds are growing this season. In some districts seeding has been delayed in order to destroy these weeds before the grain is sown

In the central and northern parts of the province pasture and hay is growing slowly and considerable silting of sweet clover is reported Alfalfa in the irrigated districts is making rapid progress. The condition of sugar in the range areas is reported to be satisfactory and live stock is in reason ably good condition

All correspondents report ample labor supply.

Child Reclaimed By Radio CHYC

"Oo-hoo, Reef" called a little boy's mother at five-thirty one evening on Maplewood Avenue in Outremont, Que., but Reef didn't answer. He was on his way to explore the world beyond the limits of his own domain. So intent was he, indeed, upon his investigations, that distance had no terrors for this young traveller. In the meantime, his parents were proceeding a frantic search for their four-year-old offspring. Friends, relatives and neighbours were all out to find and bring back little Reef. But without results. It could be found! Then someone suggested to the lad's parents, who were visiting in Montreal from New York on their way to Los Angeles, that they ask the local Radio station to broadcast a description of the child when last seen.

This was done by CHYC and the station of the Northern Electric Company during their evening programs and in less than an hour radio Reef — Model CH's home three miles distant that Reef was located well and safe. The Most Important Business On Earth

The following is a true story of a most successful business man. His line was electricity and he had placed his business on a highly prosperous plane His age was 42 years. Hence people said he was a spectacularly successful young man.

One day he entered the office of his general manager, and suddenly and unexpectedly collapsed

His doctor immediately pronounced it necessary for him to have a year's rest, for it was a clear case of nervous break-down. This man who was so mindful of the welfare of his workers, had failed to learn the truth that health, and not electrical accessories is the most important business on earth

When nature, after being tried to the limit, calls a halt, no matter how urgent the demands of business, one must obey

The simple laws of healthy living demand study from every thinking person.

Exercise Needed To Keep Healthy

Moderation Necessary As In All Things, However

There is a saying which everybody has heard, because it is as old as the hills, that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

Somebody has abbreviated this to "all work and no play makes Jack."

Both quotations have merit, but like most sayings of the kind, they are only partially true. A better rule to live for all of us to hear in mind is "be moderate in all things."

Being moderate applies particularly to the amount of exercise we should inject into our daily programme. It is a very serious matter and should be entered into with considerable thought. Too little exercise is conducive to a weakly constitution and too much exercise is apt to lead to serious consequences

The object we should try to achieve is find the health habits which are best suited to promoting good health and to stick to them.

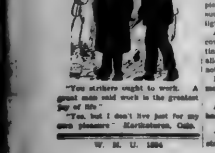
Now and then you may be induced by some energetic person to indulge in some form of sport or exercise which is altogether too strenuous for you. It is up to you to have a physician look you over before entering into anything which might be a dangerous result in physical impairment.

The importance of some form of exercise for everyone a muscle development, however, cannot be overemphasized. The muscles of the body are made up of many strands. Each of these strands are made up of very tiny fibres. The fibres are again divided up into separate parts or segments, every one of these segments has its own blood and nerve supply. This is a very fine and intricate system, but one we are absolutely dependent upon our muscles. Each muscle cord is attached to the bones, and if they weren't there, the whole framework would collapse and we wouldn't be able to stand up at all. the muscles are so constructed that they must be exercised often because the more work they do the stronger they become. As an example of how this acts, if a man were to tie his arm to his side and not use it for a long length of time he would find, when he released it, that he could not use it whether he wanted to or not. In other words, he would not have given his muscle system enough work, and as a result of this inactivity, the muscles forgot how to function. The best exercise one can get as a rule, is something one likes to do. Fortunate indeed is the man or woman who can play golf, or tennis or handle or play almost any kind of game and get real pleasure out of it But if we are not in a position to take part in this sort of recreation, we are by no means dependent up on them. "here are number of things we can do that are of a very simple nature, and yet very enjoyable, if we refer to them at the right spirit One of these things is walking

A great doctor once wrote that the best way to acquire a good complexion is to have a pot of garden peas miles from your house and then walk out there every day to eat if anybody had enough it

Walking is undoubtedly one of the best forms of exercise within the reach of any of us It is an excellent plan to set ourselves to walk a certain distance every day, and then to try to add to it by numerous little manoeuvres. In order to get the full benefit from it, we must carry ourselves properly Few people know how to walk They stroll And there as a vast difference between the two forms of ambulation

Here is the way to go about it Wear comfortable, loose clothing, and select a destination two miles away Allow yourself half an hour to do the stretch and measure your steps so that you will arrive there on the dot Keep the shoulders back head up chin tilted, and swing the arms just as they teach you in the army This is a regular pastime is a lot of fun, if it is a nice day, and it will go a long way towards putting roses in the cheeks of the walker



"You stithers ought to work. A great man said work is the greatest joy of life."

"Too, but I don't live just for my own pleasure."—Kartikeyan, Calcutta.

Cable Depreciates If Stored

Demand On Account Of Breakage Has Caused Shortage

A world shortage on suitable deep sea cable is apparent, following the undue demands attended by miles of cable destroyed by submarine earthquake of November 18, accord ing to C. Berner, cable engineer, in charge of the repair expedition aboard the "Dominia," world's largest cable laying ship, which recently returned to Halifax. The "Dominia" arrived from London after being more than two months at sea, and took aboard buoys and supplies before resuming her work

Such is the demand for suitable cable that the supply tanks at Gibraltar have been drained, and the cable previously stored there is being brought to Halifax by the Norwegian freighter. Ringen

Operating in conjunction with the "Lord Kelvin," the "Dominia," under charter to the Western Union, repaired in 1919 New York-Bay to Roberts cable damaged over a distance of about 175 miles.

Large stores of cable are not kept on hand because they depreciate faster than when in use. Mr Berner explained Mr Berner was in charge of the laying of the high speed cable from Bay Roberts to the Azores in 1923, which is the fastest deep sea cable in existence. capable of transmitting several thousand letters per minute specially designed, it is calculated that the cable must be 1-341 17 miles in length. The cable was laid at a depth of, even to the inch, which is stated to be one of the most remarkable achievements in the history of cables.

Absolutely no signs of foreign substance on the ocean's bottom, nor any chance of soundings were reported by Mr Berner

Equipment Is Adequate

Nature Gives Every Creature Means To Protect Itself

It is customary to note the different ways in which Nature equips her creatures in order that they may be able to live to a certain extent, to avoid death Any animal, even if it has never set eyes upon water before will instinctively start paddling from fishing tackle to phonograph records. How did it happen?

Dr. Legge Clendening, writing in the American Druggist, believes that the humble postage stamp is to blame.

The public had a way of wanting postage stamps at very odd hours; and it began to discover that the drug store was apt to be the only place open. The druggist was forced to carry stamps. Thus, the druggist and customer used to looking on the drug store as a convenient place for meetings and emergencies, the druggist gradually began to stock up with other things that people might want.

Out of it grew the drug store of today, an institution whose usefulness is unquestioned. In fact this writer believes that, if the year 1929 to have been dull and slow, in a report issued by the Canadian Bureau of Statistics.

Our Oriental Problem

What Can Be Done With Canadian Born Japs and Chinese

Our Oriental problem is primarily no longer one of exclusion on the frontier. It is becoming increasingly a problem of our own people, of Chinese and Japanese born in Canada, educated in Canadian public and high schools, and in everything but descent, more Canadian than Oriental. What are we going to do with these young people? There were practically five thousand of them in the high schools of British Columbia last year. There are probably as many this year, or more. In Richmond, 600 out of 1,500 pupils are Japanese, and in two or three of the Vancouver schools there is quite a sprinkling of Japanese and Chinese -- bright youngsters, eager, industrious, energetic.

It is suggested, from time to time by anti-Oriental organizations that the Orientals born in our schools be bought out and sent back to the country from which they came. This is physically impossible, also. But even if it were practicable, it would not solve the problem of the second and third generation Chinese and Japanese. These didn't come from anywhere abroad; they were born here. In our schools we have imposed Canadian ideals upon them. All their associations and ambitions are Canadian. Moreover they have no more relations with Japan or China than a second or third generation Canadian has with England or Scotland. To some extent, at least, they have adopted the Canadian standard of living. We have put these young people into our melting pot. We have done what we could to make them Canadian. It will be unfair to accept them as Canadians. What are we going to do about them? One of our biggest problems is growing and will want to know.

Placing the Blame

Modern Drug Store Evolved From Postage Stamp, Says Doctor

The drug store, as we know it, is a place where you could buy drugs and little else. Today it is a place where you can buy anything from fishing tackle to phonograph records. How did it happen?

Dr. Legge Clendening, writing in the American Druggist, believes that the humble postage stamp is to blame.

The public had a way of wanting postage stamps at very odd hours; and it began to discover that the drug store was apt to be the only place open. The druggist was forced to carry stamps. To Save Eyesight

Ten Classes For Children Already Established In Canada

Preventive work in matter of saving eyesight of Canada's people has recently taken another step forward. New Brunswick is now carrying on a survey of the eyesight conditions of the school children of that province preparatory to organizing, if need appears, sight saving classes in certain schools. Miss Mary McLellan, M.A. (Oxon), who has recently returned from a lecture tour in the Maritime provinces in connection with the preventive work of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, outlined the enthusiasm by which the work is being received by medical and educational authorities.

New Brunswick has the distinction of having monthly health examination of all school children, not only in the cities but throughout the province. Miss McLellan pointed out.

It is estimated that one in every 500 school children in Canada have defective sight, usually less than one-third normal. Already there are 10 sight saving classes in Canada, four of which are in Toronto, one in Vancouver, two in Winnipeg, one in London, one in Hamilton, and one in Halifax. The success of the Toronto classes has demonstrated that children who would otherwise have their confidence by inability to keep up with other pupils regain their morale, while their sight is not further impaired by unsuitable study.

Due To Advertising

Orange Growers' Consistent Campaign Has Proved Worth While

Nothing could be more gratifying to Canadians to be told so often, on good authority, that more oranges are eaten in Canada than ever before. When an explanation is asked for this state of affairs, it is said that it is largely due to the persistent campaign that has been carried on by the orange growers of California. The consumption of oranges in Canada for the annual report of E. G. Denell, the general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, that for spending $1,600,000 in the advertising and merchandising of Sunkist products last season, the exchange obtained $118,875,102 for a crop of oranges, lemons and grapefruit, so things that it would have brought disaster to the growers a few years ago. The demand was created by advertising, and the good salesmanship did the rest.—Brantford Expositor.

Would Label Butter

Regulations requiring packages containing butter to be marked with the name of the country in which it was produced have been being considered by the Dominion Government, Hon. Charles Stewart, acting minister of agriculture, so informed the House of Commons in reply to a question from H. E. Adshead (Labor, Calgary East.)

British Union Meet Tea

The British Empire Union takes accounts for the great bulk of the world's tea consumption; last year's figures show that, while Canada, from tax-drinking in the countries of production, Great Britain alone consumed 60 per cent of the world's tea supplies, and the British Empire as a whole 70 per cent.

Where the Blame Is Placed

Millions Have Disappeared From U.S. City Streets In Existence

The recent (United States) government figures showing a disappearance from farms of 714,000 horses and mules during the past year likens the Dominion's new carrying on a survey of the eyesight conditions of the school children of that province preparatory to organizing, if need appears, sight saving classes in certain schools. Miss Mary McLellan, M.A. (Oxon), who has recently returned from a lecture tour in the Maritime provinces in connection with the preventive work of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, outlined the enthusiasm by which the work is being received by medical and educational authorities.

New Art Of Diamond Cutting

Work Now Done Speeded Up By Ingenious Machinery

For centuries the art of the diamond cutter was considered a special talent which must be developed by years of training. Today, diamonds are cut with the aid of ingenious mechanism which has greatly speeded up the work, while producing the most brilliant gems in history. The machinery which is revolutionizing the ancient art is for the most part the creation of American ingenuity.

It no longer requires a diamond to cut a diamond. Formerly there was no way of dividing a diamond except by splitting it along the line of cleavage. Diamonds are now sawed into places at any desired angle. The hardest of stones are sawed by means of a very thin disk of phosphor-bronze, revolving at a very high speed. It takes a day to cut through a single carat. One worker directs a dozen such saws. It is very delicate work, for a stone may be shattered and ruined if the saw strikes a flaw in the gem. The danger is anticipated by examining intently by the humming note of the saw, which sounds a signal of danger when a flaw appears.

Diamonds are now reduced in size by turning them in a lathe like a wooden peg

Celebrating 100th Anniversary of Orangeism in Canada

The Orange Centenary will be celebrated in Vermilion on the 12th of July. Last year a similar celebration was held in Vermilion where the greatest gathering of Orangemen ever assembled in the province took part. Almost every Orange lodge in northern Alberta was well represented. Brass bands, drum and fife bands and buggyloo led a procession over a mile in length, to the exhibition grounds, where a grand field day was enjoyed by everyone. Through the influence of that celebration and the untiring efforts of Orangemen throughout the district the membership was more than doubled. New lodges have sprung up all over the district. This year the celebration will be bigger and better than ever and the question which is puzzling the minds of local officials is how to take care of the throngs of people who will attend. Prominent speakers will be present to address the gathering. Announcement will be made later giving their names. The sports and attractions will be even better than last year.

Orangemen everywhere are determined to make this the one hundredth anniversary of Orangeism in the Dominion of Canada. Last year about four thousand people gathered here to witness the 12th of July celebration and from the ever increasing enthusiasm being manifested it is certain that at least double that number will attend this year.

The Mohammedan Law

Egyptian Judge Rules Women Do Not Have to Be Educated

Girls having equal opportunity with their brothers for a public school and even a college education, should be thankful they live in a country of religious liberty, says a newspaper writer.

A mother in Cairo, Egypt, petitioned the court for an order compelling her husband to make financial provision for their daughter's education. The judge declined to issue the order on the grounds that Mohammedan law does not require a Moslem to educate the women of his family, and adds as his personal opinion that women should not be educated.

The Cairo judge, who places manual subjection, the most abject form of slavery, on a par basis, would find himself sitting on a bag of dynamite instead of a bench in lands of growing sex equality.

The ideal state is the one in which opportunity for public service would be limited only by the ability of the individual to perform such service.

Revealed By Admiralty

Englishwoman Gave Valuable Information to Department Of Enemy Ships

A woman who sat for four hours by her telephone transmitting to Admiral Hipper information which proved of great importance, in the Battle of the Falkland Islands, was revealed in London, England, recently, with her husband.

She is Mrs. Cranmer, formerly Miss E. E. Fulton, the daughter of an English professor, who settled in the Canada, while she about two hundred and fifty miles from the Island of South America.

Mr. Cranmer told a press representative the story of his wife's presence of mind and initiative which resulted in the sinking of three German ships, and earned for her a silver salver, which was presented by the Admiralty, and the Order of the British Empire.

"On December 8, 1914," Mr. Cranmer said, "my wife was at home, in her farmstead, at Fitzroy, with her three children, two maids, and a boy servant. Her maids reported to her that they had seen from a hill near by three German ships making for Fitzroy.

"Two of these were the Baden and Santa Isabel. The third vessel is believed to have been the Seidlitz — either a hospital ship or a transport.

"She immediately ordered the maids to saddle two horses, and to ride in relays to the top of the hill, and report to her every few minutes the ships' movements. Meanwhile, she telephoned to the authorities, at Stanley, and her reports were rushed in to Admiral Sturdee.

"She sat there for four hours, with her baby boy in her arms, while her messages directed the movements of "Bristol" and of the armed liner "Macedonia," which set out in pursuit of the Germans.

"The enemy tried to steam at full speed, for safety, but the information which reached Admiral Sturdee, minutes by minutes, enabled the British to follow them. In a few hours, the "Bristol" and the "Macedonia" had caught and sunk the ships.

Records In Building

Plans Are Frequently Changed After Construction Has Started

The race to see which country shall build the largest ocean liner suggests the competition in New York to erect the highest skyscraper. It is known that plans for some of the tall structures that are now changing the Manhattan skyline, were successively altered, even after construction had begun, in the light of news of competitors' intentions.

According to word from London, the White Star Line has adopted an entirely new set of designs for its giant "Oceanic," which is to be of 65,000 instead of 60,000 tons as originally planned. It will be the world's first 1,000-foot vessel. The "Majestic," now the largest, is 915 feet. The "Leviathan" is 907, but the "Leviathan" II. and III." to be built by the United States Lines, will be 965.

Proved Her Greatness

Late Empress Frederick Was Noted Woman In Good Causes

What remains unforgettable is that in her own person Emmeline Pankhurst bore the burden of a martyrdom that should be indelible to us today if we failed to realize that it happened to another world because she helped to make it so. Whether she addressed thousands from the platform or led twelve women into the horses of Parliament Square, whether she marched at the head of a procession five miles long, or fasted, single-handed in the dark solitude of her prison cell, she gave always that impression of greatness which is inseparable from possession of unshakable conviction and invincible courage, and which makes the martyr of all the ages.

Fine Powers Sue Reparations Plan

Commission Disappears and World Finds Out Its Action

The Young plan for payment of reparations, including Germany's obligations for damages caused during the world war from something like $27,000,000,000 to about $9,000,000, 000, has gone into effect.

A protocol registering the decision of The Hague conference, which adopted the plan January 2, was signed by the ambassadors of Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, after a tax served by the French Foreign Minister, Aristide Briand.

The first consequence of this act, which modifies for a second time the reparations machinery provided by the Versailles treaty, will be the disappearance of the reparations commission which, in co-operation with other bodies, has taken charge of payments under the Dawes plan.

The second will be the beginning of functioning by the bank for international settlement at Basel, Switzerland.

The third will be the issuance of $500,000,000 of reparations bonds, two-thirds of that going to creditor nations and the other third to Germany for internal requirements.

Two Tested Recipes For Salad Dressings

Now that salads are the order of the day, really good recipes for salad dressings will be welcomed. A salad is often made or marred by the piquancy of the dressing used, so that tested recipes are very desirable. Since some prefer an uncooked dressing and others a cooked dressing, we give two recipes, both of which we know will please.

BOILED DRESSING (Cooked)

Two eggs beaten until light; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon mustard; ¼ cup Eagle Brand Condensed Milk; ¼ cup vinegar. Beat the first 5 ingredients vigorously for a few minutes add the vinegar, stir well and set aside for a few hours to thicken. Excellent for fruit or vegetable salad. Will keep for weeks. For Russian dressing add Chili sauce to taste.

SALAD DRESSING (Cooked)

Half a tablespoon salt; 1 teaspoon mustard; 1 tablespoon flour; 1 tablespoon butter; ½ cup Eagle Brand Condensed Milk; ½ cup water; 1 egg; ¼ cup vinegar. Mix dry ingredients, add slightly beaten egg, butter, milk, water and vinegar. Cook until thickened. Strain and cool. Whipped Broden's St. Charles Evaporated Milk, if desired, may be added before serving if desired. Yield, 2 cupfuls.

The Parable Of the Wise and Foolish Virgins. 25:7-13.—The Kingdom of Heaven (Jesus likened to ten virgins who went forth with their lamps to meet the bridegroom. Five of them were wise (prudent), and carried oil in their oil vessels, but five were foolish (imprudent), and took no extra supply of oil.

While the bridegroom tarried they all slept. There is no hint or reproach in this statement; the bridegroom might tarry a long time. Midnight came, and the approach of the bridegroom was announced. All the virgins arose and trimmed their lamps preparatory to going forth to meet him. The foolish ones then found their lamps were going out, and begged the wise ones to share with them their oil. But the wise virgins refused lest there might not be enough for them all, and counseled them to go out and buy oil.

While the foolish virgins went forth to buy their oil the bridegroom came; those that were ready went in with him to the marriage feast; and the door was shut.

Still later the foolish virgins arrived and begged to have the door opened. "Verily, I say unto you, I know you not," was the only answer they received.

Watch, therefore, for ye know not the day nor the hour. The Christ was unprepared. "It is not enough to have a lively zeal for a while; we must have, in addition, a perseverance that never tires."—Calvin.

Production From Inland Fisheries In Manitoba Shows Great Gain

While agriculture, the basic industry of Manitoba, together with manufacturing, mining, and lumbering, has advanced substantially in the province in recent years, the production from the inland fisheries has probably shown the greatest gain. In the past five years the fisheries production has increased more than 100 per cent. In 1924 the market value of the fish caught in Lake Winnipeg, Manitoba, Manitobapoda and other lakes was $1,232,000, while last year it was $2,634,000. In 1929 the commercial fishermen of the province caught 33,000,000 pounds of fish, a record for Manitoba, with a marketed value of $2,634,000.

Sunday Receives $20,000 For Saving Life Of Prince At Belgrade

One of King's Alexander's gigantic guardsmen recently was given an indefinite leave of absence after receiving a reward of 180,000 dinars (nearly $30,000), for having quite inadvertently saved the life of the 3-year-old Prince Tomislav, the second son of the King.

The Prince was playing in the apartments of his mother, Queen Maria, on the second floor of the palace, at Belgrade, when suddenly he fell from a window. The sentry, who was passing at the moment, received the full weight of the child on his shoulders. The Prince clutched the sentry around the neck and slid to the ground unhurt, but the burly guardsman was knocked unconscious and crumpled to the ground.

R. B. Cunningham of the C.N.R. was instantly killed this Wednesday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock, when his auto skidded and turned over about a mile from town on the west road. A companion named McDonald was uninjured. Cunningham was pinned beneath the car and his head pierced by a steel projection, death being instantaneous.

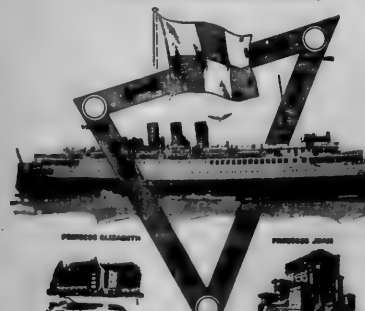
Look To Record Season



Prepared for the coming annual invasion by thousands of tourists from Canada and the United States, the British Columbia Coast Steamship service has added to its fleet two more vessels and on May 15th will increase the fleet's carrying capacity by a total of 3,000 passengers.

Addition of these new ships will relieve the strain of increasing summer travel between Vancouver and Victoria, and enable the company to release more ships for its Seattle-Victoria-Vancouver triangle run; its west coast of Vancouver Island service; its Gulf Island excursions; Powell River, Comox and Ocean Falls-Prince Rupert schedule, and its popular Alaska service through the scenic Inside Passage.

These twin-screw oil-burning ships which recently turned in spectacular performances in their trial runs, have a total of 818 beds in 420 staterooms and on day runs will increase the fleet's carrying capacity by a total of 3,000 passengers.

NEWS FROM DEWBERRY

Spring time is a busy time. Its motto is "Do up and doing" is universally and cheerfully complied with. It sets the good example itself. Here it pins a beautiful bouquet of cruciums or buttercups on the breast of dear old Mother Earth; there it strips the pussy-willows of their winter mourning to the delight of all who are fond of them; and round the trees it entwists the banners on the treetops, commands the grass to grow and the grain to sprout, and whispers sweet promises of crisp, juicy vegetables to the gardener who straightway gathers together many spades and forks and hoes and polishes them with feverish haste in his garden patch.

And what wonderful little farms it spins to the little birds, and how hard they work to fulfil the sweet vision of a nest-full of little ones by and by. It even coaxes the great sun itself to work longer hours and give more and more of its golden elixir to the early sprigs of the earth. Spring is a great taskmaster; it is also a generous patron of all sorts of outdoor games, and inspires the whole world with the desire to participate in one or other of the many different varieties of sports from golf to marbles.

All of which brings us to the twelfth game of baseball, which next weeks ago Bob Braithwaite, manager of the Dewberry baseball club, had a dream: A beautiful young lady dressed in long flowing robes of light green gauze and wearing a crown of pussy-willows appeared to him and said: "Bob Braithwaite, my son, arise and go forth to victory." Bob lost no time in obeying the dream damsel (probably the Spirit of Spring). He arranged a match between Marwayne and Dewberry, and came enough the latter won by 12 to 2. That was on Wednesday, 14th. On Friday, 16th the Marwayne boys played the return match and Dewberry won by 6 to 4. There must be something in dreams after all.

Dewberry will play Elk Point here on the 31st and will play at Kitscoty on the 24th.

Miss Janet Cuthbertson, student at the Clandonald high school, and who spends her week-ends here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas Cuthbertson, is the star tennis player of Dewberry. Judging from present indications Miss Janet will be heard of in the realm of lawn tennis before long.

Gus Gardner, Dewberry's champion fisherman, travelled north last week on a fishing trip and returned a few days ago with a fine assortment of finny monsters.

Rev. Mr. Hutchins of the Union church here, has taken up his headquarters in the beautiful and progressive town of Marwayne, but will conduct Sunday services here as usual.

It is rumored that Mr. Worsley, station agent here, is about to be transferred to Vancouver where his wife and family are domiciled since he opened the new station in Dewberry last fall.

His numerous friends in and around Dewberry are glad to see Jimmy Bota home again and recovering rapidly from an operation for appendicitis, performed by Dr. Miller at Elk Point hospital.

Bob Braithwaite has disposed of his interest for the season in his well known race horse, Black Raven, to George Armstrong who will, it is predicted, win many prizes at the race meetings in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Miss Shaw and Mr. Hochbert of the Vermilion Agricultural College visited several schools in this district last week and gave very interesting and instructive addresses to the pupils in connection with the forthcoming school fair to be held at Dewberry.

Preparations are under way for the annual Stampede at Lea Park which will take place next month. A beautiful and romantically situated race course a well worth a visit at any time. Imagine a natural amphitheatre surrounded by green hills of the most fantastic forms, with the Vermilion river for its eastern boundary and the broad Saskatchewan on the north still the heavenly calm and restfulness of the sweet secluded spot!

Sports' Day On June 3rd.

Big Day Planned

The annual Vermilion Sports Day will be held on Tuesday, June 3rd, and judging from the schedule of competitions, etc., action all day long will be the key-note. The sports this year will be held in the Vermilion agricultural Society's grounds instead of the east end grounds as last year. The exhibition parade in the morning has been done away with this time, but prizes will be given for various classes on the sports grounds. A full list of sports appears below.

The Vermilion Citizens' Band will be in attendance all day and a passenger aeroplane for any who are air-minded will be on the grounds.

BASEBALL TOURNEY

A $150.00 baseball tourney will be the chief attraction as usual, the money divided into $100 and $50 prizes with an entry fee of $2.00 per team. Three different divisions are made in the Junior ball, 16 and under, 15 and under and a soft ball competition for the youngsters 12 and under. Each of these classes also has its own prize list of generous amounts.

GIRLS' SOFT BALL

An addition to the usual sports this year will be an open soft ball tourney for girls, with $15.00 in prizes.

BASKETBALL

The basketball, which is always growing in popularity, will probably attract many competing teams. A silver challenge cup as well as the $20.00 first prize goes to the winning team; second prize is $10.00. A junior basketball tourney, 15 years and under, is also on the card, with prizes of $10.00 and $5.00. An age limit of 20 years is in force in the first competition.

FOOTBALL

While it is not likely that a local football team will take part in the tourney this year, two or three outside teams usually make the trip to Vermilion to compete for $25.00 first prize which is offered. Lovers of this sport will probably see some more good matches this year.

HORSE SHOE TOURNEY

Barnyard pole will share a large part in the day's attractions, with prizes of $15 and $10. It always attracts the crowds. Entries for this are to be in by 2 p.m. on sports day.

ATHLETIC EVENTS

A long list of athletic events is due to start at 1 p.m. Seven events for girls of different ages and an even dozen boys' jumps and races, with eight open events makes this the biggest event of its kind in Northern Alberta.

MORRISON ROAD RACE

The Morrison road race will be a special attraction, as many entrants are training this year than ever before. McCourt of Kitscoty is the present holder of the cup but will have a stiff race to hold it.

DANCE AND SPECIAL SHOW

A dance in the evening at the Armories with admission $1.50 per couple, and "Young Eagles," an all-talking picture at the Columbia Theatre, finish off the big day.

Admission to the grounds will be adults 50c, children 11 and over 25c, cars 25c, and children under 14 free.

In this issue of the Standard is published an announcement on the matter by Sir Henry Thornton, to which we direct the particular attention of our readers.

The executive committee: D. B Wiseman, Manville; Mrs. W. J. Stewart, Minburn; E. A. Mercer, Manville; R. S. Tod, Manville; A. Saunders, Vermilion. Other members will be added at a later date.

Local Veterans Plan Memorial

Ever since the formation of the Vermilion branch of the Great War Veterans' Association (now the Canadian Legion, Post 11) it has been the ambition of the organization to have a monument erected in the town as a permanent memorial of the part taken in the world war by the men of Vermilion and District.

With this object in view, a special Memorial Fund was started by the veterans several years ago in the hope that at some time it would expand into a sum sufficient to make the project an accomplished fact.

For a number of reasons this fund has late dormant for a long time; and at the last general meeting of the Canadian Legion it was decided that an effort should be made to raise the balance necessary to erect a fitting memorial in the near future.

A fine stone monument of the "Lighthouse" type has been selected by the Memorial Committee from a number of plan submitted to them, and it is anticipated that permission will be granted to erect it on a suitable site in the Town Park.

The approximate cost of the memorial, including labor, is estimated at $750.00, and of this amount, the Canadian Legion has already the sum of $450.00 in the Memorial Fund, and that a balance of $300.00 is required to carry the project through to completion.

In spite of the hard times, the Veterans' organization is hopeful of raising the necessary money in a short time, and is making an appeal for subscriptions of any amount, all of which will be acknowledged in the columns of the Vermilion Standard.

The Memorial Fund Committee is composed of the following members of the Canadian Legion, Post 11, who will be glad to receive your subscription:

S. G. Bruce, Chairman;
F. G. Harrington;
H. Reid;

Plan To Assist In Canadianizing European Residents

Intention To Carry Out A Series Of Competitions

MONTREAL, May 21.—Plans which seek to provide a substantial contribution to the encouragement of community progress and development and the attainment of the fullest possible measure of Canadian citizenship by those rural communities in Western Canada which are of European origin, having been developed by the Canadian National Railways according to an announcement just made by Sir Henry Thornton from the head offices of the railway company here.

These plans initiated and developed by Dr. W. J. Black, Director of the Department of Agriculture and Colonization of the National System, involve the carrying out of a series of competitions among such communities in the three provinces, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, to be held annually for a period of five years, for which one set of three prizes will be awarded in each province each year. These prizes will be substantial, the first being $1000, the second $500, and the third $250, and they will be awarded on the understanding that the money be utilized in community work of some progressive nature. It is planned to have the competitions commence this year.

The Department of Agriculture and Colonization of the National Railways will assume the responsibility of conducting the competitions, but hearty co-operation and support in the carrying out of the entire scheme has been offered by various departments of the provincial governments which have chiefly to do with matters of rural community progress and welfare. Leading men and women in western life also intimated that the project has their support and approval. For the judging of the competitions in each province, a committee of three outstanding citizens will be selected

It is proposed to confine the competitions to rural municipalities as groups of school districts within municipalities in which the population is made up of continental Europeans origin, first or second generation. It is recognized that the interval which these people take in co-operating to make effective the policies of such departments of governments as have to do with agriculture, education and public health, may be regarded as an index of the people to the advantages of what the Dominion provides or wards influencing their status as good citizens. It has, therefore, been decided that emphasis shall be placed upon the things which these departments regard as of greatest importance Consideration will be given to such matters as percentage of school attendance, efficiency of the school, percentage of young people attending secondary schools, colleges or universities, evidence of interest in matters relating to public health and social welfare, percentage of membership in farmer's organizations, such as the co-operative marketing pools, agricultural societies, women's institutes etc., and evidence of general progress towards improvement of agricultural methods, throughout the particular community or area involved Special consideration also will be given to evidence of community interest in music, arts and handicrafts. In respect to all this, the competitions will take into consideration the full calendar year and awards will be made at the end of each year. In discussing the project, Dr. Black said, "It is recognized that the people in a great many of the communities of European origin in the prairie provinces of Canada have been showing an exceedingly fine interest in making full use of the facilities and influence which our Canadian institutions provide in agriculture, education and otherwise. It is the desire of the railway company in undertaking to direct these competitions for a period of five years to give encouragement to such communities as are showing a determination to make use of and emphasize to the full best trait in them that our country provides in the development of citizenship."

French River, Home of Wiley "Muskie," Will Soon Echo Cries of Elated Anglers as They Battle Fresh Water Tiger

"Now is the time for all good fishermen to prepare for that summer trip" is an appropriate slogan for disciples of Izaak Walton these balmy spring days. A successful fishing trip depends largely upon the careful selection of location, tackle and even accessories, for many a party has been ruined by the last minute introduction of a "wet blanket" to an otherwise congenial collection of sportsmen.

One of the most interesting fishing streams in North America is the French River, Ontario, 21½ miles north of Toronto on the Canadian Pacific Railway. This lordly river is celebrated as the habitat of the fighting muscallunge, one of the gamest fish known, huge Great Northern pike, pickerel, an abundance of small-mouth and large-mouth black bass and other finny prizes. To accommodate sportsmen and their families, a fine bungalow camp—a collection of individual cabins centering around a main clubhouse—has been erected on a cliff overlooking the river Here the fisherman and his family can "rough it in comfort," far from the cares and annoyances of a week-a-day world.

That big "muskies" are plentiful at French River is proven by the fact that one recent summer a monster muskie weighing 55 pounds was taken in the North Channel at the mouth of the Wanapitei River. Also, not long ago a party of Ohio sportsmen caught, besides their daily limit of bass, pike and pickerel, no less than seventeen "muskies" ranging from 10 to 20½ lbs. In 1926 a "muskie" of 25 pounds weight, 50 inches long and 21 inches in girth was taken in the main channel of the French river, one mile from the bungalow camp.

The French River Bungalow Camp will open June 15 and remain open until Sept. 15. Jack Strathdee, its genial manager, is an experienced outdoorsman whose chief delight is coaching the uninitiated in the art of luring the fish French River also has a fine 9-hole golf course so that devotees of the royal and ancient game who are also fond of fishing need not entirely forego the former sport in favor of the latter.

China Developing Resources

Will Be Needing Some More Rubber Canada, Says Dr. Hsieh

"The new China is calling her sons home and within 25 years there will not be one Chinese left in Canada," declared Dr Tewfi Hsieh, in Windsor, Ont. Dr Hsieh is a graduate of Cambridge and for years was the only practicing Chinese lawyer in England He was at one time the Chinese consul-general to Australia later a delegate to the opium conference in Geneva, and now is acting manager of the Chinese Trade Bureau in Boston, represents the Wu-Bao-yuen Institute of Politics, and is a representative of the National Chung Hwa News Association of Shanghai. Dr Hsieh traced the history of China as a republic to-day of the strides made since she had been liberated from the yoke of the Manchus "The Chinese in Canada," he said, "have been looked upon with disfavor They have been accused of living on a pittance and sending all their money to China. It must be remembered that, in order to enter Canada before the Exclusion Act, a Chinese had to have $500 He also had to pledge $2,000 to the Manchus before he could leave China. Thus he was $2 500 in debt when he landed here, and there was also probably a family to keep at home. In view of where Chinese have their families here, and have had no debts to pay in China, they have been known for their liberality

"China has awakened and resources are now being developed We need leadership most, and that is why we are calling our sons home. Do not look down on the Chinese laundryman and restaurant keeper They are not that by choice In most cases they are political refugees, the highest type of Chinese and it is those who will be the leaders in the new China. Canada has taught them how to make a living They will go back to China and teach the Chinese how to live "

Mining Developments

Railroad-line Will Receive Great Stimulus, Says Hon. D. G. McKenzie.

The Honourable D. G. McKenzie, Minister of Mines, speaking at the recent annual meeting of the Winnipeg Board of Trade Mining Bureau, stated that Manitoba industries will receive tremendous stimulus from mining developments. In 1929 alone with development just getting under way, more than $12 000,000 had been expended in the province for supplies and wages, he said. At Cyprumville, Manitoba, approximately 136,000 000 tons of gypsum were exposed, and deposits of coal in the Turtle Mountain district were estimated at 100,000 000 tons The settlement along of the province was meeting the requirements of the market extending from Dryden to Moose Jaw and Letthbrown, and in 1926 production reached 282 250 barrels, valued at $1,693,084.

Wonderful Museum Built By Ringling

King Of Tented World Finds Outlet For Artistic Ideas

Circus profits have helped to build one of the world's finest art museums in Sarasota, Florida, winter home of John Ringling, king of the tented world, and connoisseur of art. It is to be opened to the public next winter

While Rome roar at the winter quarters of the circus in one section of Sarasota Bay, over the way along the shores of Sarasota Bay, a majestic building presents the circus man's other side. The building and its art treasures - estimated to have cost $?,000,000 from the nucleus of what is by become the United States greatest art center

Only art critics and distinguished visitors from America and Europe have been admitted to the John and Mabel Ringling art museum, so far. Ringling has refused to allow general inspection of the treasure house until it is complete in every one of its features he finds necessary to complete what side of his nature, which is art.

Near the museum, the circus magnate plans a great art school where students will be only a few hundred yards from works of the masters. Winter retreat taken its name from Mr Ringling and his late wife, whose death intensified his determination to establish what, he has told intimate friends, will become the art center of the United States

The museum is of striking beauty, a reproduction of the Doge's palace The entrance is a great archway Windows extend 400 feet on either side Eighty-eight sculptures adorn the space between the rim of the building and the patio Here are sunken gardens, statues, fountains and fine Carribbean palms. Columns of the patio are of the twelfth and fifteenth century brought from Italy. Exact reproductions of Father Tiber and Mother Nile from the Vatican frank the Angelo statue and close the cloister from the southern end

Beneath the dome of this quadrangled museum, there is being built a crypt in which will be laid the bodies of Mr Ringling — Mabel Ringling who has preceded her husband in death, and the one circus wagon between whose shrine is beauty—John Ringling

Forecast Crops By Sun Spots

News Scotia Professor Believes Old Astronomers Used This Method

Was Joseph, in his prophecy of the seven fat years, and the seven lean ones a case A-1 prophet, or was he merely in possession of astronomical information which, wonderful as it may seem, told him that a seven year period of good crops, to be followed by the same period of lean ones, was at hand? Such is the question raised by Professor Richard Hamer, Dean of Physics, at Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S. Professor Hamer states that it is not at all impossible that at the time of Joseph, students of astronomy, the oldest of sciences, might have been sufficiently advanced to know of the apparent effect of sun spots on the crops, and to prophesy their recurrence.

During the past few years, Prof Hamer has made a study of sunspots, and of the apple crops in the world-famous Annapolis Valley, during the years when the spots were plentiful, and when they were few His study has led him to believe that when the spots are at their maximum in number, there is a large crop of only fair quality. On the other hand, when the spots are at their minimum, the crop, while small, is of excellent quality, and a good return to the farmer is secured.

For the furtherance of such research, he states, it may be possible to forecast with reasonable certainty, the quality and size of the crop in any given year, thus enabling the farmer to devote his time to the activities which will bring him the greatest return. For example, during a season in which the crop will probably be of poor quality, the farmer would devote his time more to those crops than to his apples.

Sun-spots, which are huge tongues of flaming flames, extending these sands of miles from the surface of the sun, seem to have an appreciable effect upon the weather, the magnetic and the ultra-violet spectrum, according to Prof. Hamer, and these conditions, of course, greatly affect the crops.

Beef Grading Policy Expanding

Consumers Appreciate Knowing Quality Of Meat They Purchase

Six months in operation finds the Beef Grading Policy of the Dominion Department of Agriculture expanding rapidly from coast to coast. Not only are all the larger packing houses in "branding" beef, but consumers generally are beginning to appreciate the advantage of buying "Red" and "Blue" Brand beef because of the excellence of the specifications and grades assured by the government brand. Every important cut on the beef carcass is stamped to meet. Not only is customer can tell at a glance that the quality ordered has been delivered. From the wholesaler, the practice popular where beef counts. All the better class shops now carry it, and the others are now installing conservatory demand to stock it.

First Electric Telegraph

Was Invented By Sir Francis Ronalds In 1816

Who was the inventor of the electric telegraph? Most people would hesitate over the answer, and if you asked further when it was invented, they might be reduced to mere guessing. Recently, however, a portion of a copper cable, used in the earliest experiments in telegraphy, and presented to the Science Museum at South Kensington. It had been buried in the ground for well over 100 years. It was in 1816 that the electric telegraph was invented, and the inventor was a famous meteorologist, Sir Francis Ronalds. He offered the invention to the Admiralty, but their reply was that "telegraphs of any kind are now totally unnecessary, and that no other than the one now in use will be adopted." The telegraph "now in use" was a semaphore telegraph. Ronalds' invention was of real practical use, though it took rather a long time to transmit message. This would, doubtless, have been remedied had he continued to work at the idea, but the Admiralty's reply discouraged him, and he turned his attention to other subjects.

Greenhouse Heated By Natural Hot Springs

Fresh Vegetables Available In May Near Nome, Alaska

Fresh spring vegetables, a rare event until the first boat arrives late in June, says an item from Nome, Alaska, will be the novelty offered there in May from a greenhouse heated by natural hot springs right under the Arctic Circle. Baker Hot Springs, seventy-five miles north of Nome, consists of seven bubblers from the earth at the foot of Bowlders Mountain fifty miles above sea level. Several boil out at a temperature of 160 degrees Fahrenheit without pressure. Water from the hot runs through a 250-acre tract suitable for farming, of which about fifty acres were planted last year to root crops and hay. G. D. Schofield, lessee, last fall erected a greenhouse over each spring, and planted lettuce, cucumbers, onions, radishes, lettuce and tomatoes. On all sides of the hot springs the sub-zero ice to an unknown depth.

Unavoidably Detained

Woman Had Good Excuse For Selling Old Magazines

There is also alleged small mission in the wilds of Illinois whose welfare workers suffer to the stage of martyrdom to help further the worthy causes.

Just recently an elderly woman visited a local welfare worker, also selling a monthly magazine for 15 cents just "to help the girls and boys of the mission." She found many sympathizers. When she left the bank one of the purchasers glanced at the cover—It was an August, 1929, issue.

Overtaking the woman he asked for an explanation. Her explanation was unhesitated as she looked her accuser right in the eye "I've been detained by snow and rain." Then she plodded on her way.

Registered Seed Not Demanded

Registered seed is not demanded of members of Associations, says World Grain Exhibition and Conference, as there are many countries which do not register seed. Pedigree farmers are also some varieties, such as Reward wheat and Gopher oats that are not eligible for registration in Canada, it is said, though there are expected to be numerous exhibits of these two varieties of grain.

"Way back yonder the cry was the full dinner pail. Now, everybody is happy if the gas tank is full.

Construction Is Simple

Snow Knife Cuts Cold Blocks Out In Building Igloo

Along the ice-bound northern shore of Canada, live a race of men—the Eskimos—who have achieved a simplicity in architecture that rests with the most radical in history. Dotted here and there within the Arctic circle, are snow-houses, called igloos, whose first designer must have been a man of rare genius.

Architecturally, the Eskimos can point only to the igloo as an achievement, for virtually no other building is used by the dark-haired, dark-skinned wanderers of the north. Part of the year is passed in the tupek, or sealskin tent, but this latter is abandoned as soon as frost sets in, and have rendered the snow hard enough to be cut into building blocks.

But the igloo, hemispherical little snow hut, is an oddity that borders on the marvelous. It is probably the most sturdy structure—unless, perhaps is the tupek—that is constructed with a single tool from material available anywhere in the Arctic. The finished product is the igloo, a snow-knife, about 18 inches long, and the material used is ordinary, everyday northland snow.

Nomad nature of the Eskimo, no doubt, occasioned the simplicity of construction of the tiny little dwelling places. Just two men are needed to build an igloo. From firm snow, wind-swept and frost-hardened, the builders are sliced with the snow-knife. The blocks measure some 2½ feet by 18 inches, and are 10 inches thick.

Foundation-laying for an igloo comprises laying a series of blocks, roughly, seventy-five inches in a 12 or 15-foot circle. By skilful use of the snow-knife, the blocks are fitted together, and the first tier of the constructors takes his place within the circle while his mate bears new blocks from the pile, prepared nearby.

A second tier of blocks is placed, with each slightly upon the foundation row, sloping somewhat more inward than the first. Just as carefully is a third tier is laid, increasingly greater inward inclination; row after row is added until the igloo's roof arches above the head-and-toe builder's head. Finally, only a small aperture at the top remains; into this set the finishing keystone block, cut wedge-shaped and edged gently into position.

Before the latter stages of the building have been finished, however, it is necessary for a hole to be cut in the side wall, near the base. Through this aperture are slid the blocks which make up the upper floor of the igloo, for all this stage the structure is too high for the worker on the outside to hand the snow-blocks comfortably to his companion. A finished igloo is from 8 to 10 feet high.

Inside the Eskimo residence, a snow-block floor of about 2½ feet in thickness is laid. It covers the entire floor with the exception of that portion adjacent to the aperture in the side wall, which is shaped in a raised platform about 6 feet high and two feet wide. A porch is constructed to shelter the doorway from the wind, and an 18-inch-square window of sliced-down ice, is set in the wall.

With this, the architecture of the igloo is completed—and Mrs. Eskimo sets about furnishing the new home. Over the platform willow mats are laid, and places on each side as a bedding layer of deerskin. It is the usual thing for the family who mounts on the dome of the igloo and plugs with small wedges of snow, the interstices between the blocks. When whale-oil lamps are flickering away, and a square of snow is pulled up in the doorway, an igloo is a cosy spot even if winds are high and temperatures low.

Models of post-war craft are shown and a special section is devoted to the construction of helicopters.

Profit In Turkeys If Care Is Taken

Counsel, Be Reasonably, Based In Clean Conformant Or With Other Fowl

Turkey feeding is not the difficult undertaking that is generally supposed, when the breeding stock and poults are given the simple essentials to success in turkey breeding are: Clean soil, mature stock for breeding, good feeds properly fed to both mature and young stock, free range and above all the keeping of the breed limit away from other barnyard fowls, writes A. G. Taylor, of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Soil that is contaminated with the droppings of fowls of any kind is not desirable soil on which to rear turkeys. If it is impossible to have soil which has not previously been used for poultry keeping make sure that the land has been thoroughly and thoroughly cultivated. A desirable soil for turkey raising is one that is light and porous in texture —sand or gravel being desirable. Any soil which is heavy clay soils should be avoided, especially for the raising of poultus.

Breeding stock should be well matured, especially the females. Good yearling birds are preferable to any older age. Well developed cockerels may be used to advantage, but should be bred on mature females. Inbreeding males which are overgrown and also the use of females which are over standard weight, as they frequently break many of the eggs at hatching time.

Feeds for turkeys should be made of sound grains, and in no case should mouldy grains be used or grain that has become mouldy or heated in any way. Avoid overfeeding, as much in turkey raising is caused by digestive disorders. Suitable grains are oats, cracked corn, wheat, barley or buckwheat. Variety is recommended. Mashes of the above grains can be made with finely ground feeds of poultry hoppers, so that the birds can help themselves. Feed the grains and mashes from hoppers or troughs and avoid allowing the turkeys to eat their feed from the ground, as this is a frequent source of contamination. Poults should be fed regularly and in this way avoid the possibility of the birds over-feeding. Good mashes, finely ground, fed in the dry state are recommended in a commercial way. The feeding of finely chopped hard boiled eggs and stale bread crumbs for the first few days is highly recommended.

Young turkeys may be hatched naturally or in incubators, and brooding may be carried on in either the natural or the artificial method.

Protection should be afforded the young birds until they are at least two weeks old, after which time they may be allowed more freedom.

The turkey is strictly grazing, a farmer's fowl, and cannot be successfully reared in close confinement. Open-front colony houses, or roosting shelters, are ideal, and should be moved frequently to new portion. A finished igloo is from 8 to 10 feet high.

It covers the entire floor with the exception of that portion adjacent to the aperture in the side wall, which is shaped in a raised platform about 6 feet high and two feet wide. CHAPTER XIII.—Continued

"Oh, Grandma! You might have made him angry."

"Not Cam Garfield. He likes to make believe he's a woman, but he's real good-natured underneath. He laughed. I guess he forgot he was a lawyer with an important case. And then I got right down where you are, child, and said: "It's you who ought to be spanked, Cam Garfield, for your theory of my client ten dollars for a string o' beads that's worth about ten cents!"

"Ten dollars!" gasped Charmian. "What an idea! But you did charge too much, Grandma, and—"

"I never heard there was a law to keep a body from getting as much as he could in a trade," interrupted the old lady. "I said so, and Cam said he had to admit that the law was on my side—unfortunately. And I told him, too, that if Edgar Purdy said he paid ten dollars for those beads, why he was a fool to buy of all his other sins. I was real indignant."

Troubled though she was, Charmian couldn't suppress a laugh at the picture Grandma's words brought up.

"I guess he was, dear. I kind of ruled," went on the old lady, "because no said, 'Don't you worry, Grandma. I won't let you get into any trouble if I have to commit perjury myself to prevent it; but I don't believe you pay for those darn beads?'"

"D'd you tell him?" asked Charmian anxiously.

"I did; but not till I'd asked if he was making a social call or one in his interest of his client. He grinned and said, 'You ought to have been a lawyer yourself, Grandma Davis; but I'm just dropping in to pass the time o' day with an old friend.' So I told him the whole story, Charmian. Honestly, child, I thought he'd have hysterics. There wasn't a shred of disguised humor left in him when I got through."

"But what's he going to do?"

"It don't make a mite o' difference to me what he does, so long as we're not dragged in; and we won't be, or I don't know Cam. He looked terribly, that he thought when the deacon cooled off a little, and he pointed out the big expense of a law suit, that it would all be settled out of court Just now Edgar's conscience through. He says Luella's the best housekeeper he ever proposed to, refused him, and claims that she led him on something scandalous.

"Well, dearie, maybe you'd better get up and get dressed. It's a real exciting morning and I feel all gone, that I would ask for a bite to eat. Then you'll enjoy your ride." And did you get my catalogue from Emmy?"

"Oh, dear!" cried Charmian, "I left it in the car."

"It's no great matter," responded Grandma comfortably. "If Jimmy finds it he'll bring it 'round to-night. Like as not he'll be glad of an excuse to come. Did Emmy say what was ordering?"

"A hat," smiled Charmian. She's not going to be outdone by Clara Darling."

"De tell!" ejaculated Grandma. "Did she show you the picture, Charmian? There were some awful pretty hats on page fifteen. What color will it be? Green doesn't go well with most of Emmy's things."

Charmian laughed.

"It's possible, you know, to buy more than one color, even by mail. I didn't see the picture, Grandma. It was Jim who went in, and Emmy asked his advice about it."

"Then he can show me which one sternly. "I've got a notion that Jim is sick and tired of hearing about that hat. Let him alone. He's got a right to admire a green hat if he wants to. The truth is, I liked it myself"

"You did!" gasped Grandma, astonished; while Jimmy laughed, the first real laugh of the day—"or think I'm a fool. For a moment his eyes met Charmian's merrily, and Patrick, that unlicensed to the brook, and he said dubiously:

"It must be this one. I remember it kind of hung down one side, and had a red rose on the other."

"Sound like it," Jimmy sonny. I haven't got my glasses."

Jim obeyed, reading with wonderful accuracy, and drawing with soft, girlish lines that you will simply adore. The brim is of two colors of dainty lace-patterned straw. Colors: black with a red rose; mandarin with sand; goshdin blue with crash apple. Price only one-fifty-nine. Shipping weight two pounds. That sounds pretty swell, Grandma, don't it?" Jimmy was hovering between the black with the red rose, and the blue with the crab apples or carrots. A good choice above toward the blue, and ran, or she'd still be asking my assistance. Now I must ship it. George K. will think I've absconded with his interest money."

Again his eyes sought Charmian's, but she was intent on her task, her face hardened, and she turned away. A moment later the whir of an engine told that Jimmy had gone, and Grandma said, lifting her eyes from the gayly colored page: "Seems as if he had more than a little wide in the brim for Emmy; but you never can tell about a hat until you try it on. I think she's running a terrible risk, though they do say, 'money refunded if not satisfactory.' Still, they might make a fuss if she sent it back. Business men are hard-hearted to deal with—that is, some of 'em are. Some are always and there were exceptions."

"I'd like to find one, then," said Charmian, with a little sniff, absorbed in Emmy's purchase, disliking the sudden bitterness in the girl's voice.

CHAPTER XIV

It was with a very genuine glow of pleasure that Charmian learned that the school board had given her "District Four." Some years had passed since she graduated from the State Normal School—years when it seemed best for her to stay with Grandma Davis. She became increasingly difficult to meet sagacious and keep the old house in repair, the girl realized full well. Something must be done, and to get the school only a mile from her own door was a vast relief.

CRYING BABIES ARE SICKLY BABIES

The well child does not cry. It is only the sickly baby that frets. The well child is laughing and happy. Fretting is baby's way of telling his mother or nurse that he is not well. Cross babies are sickly babies. Constipation, breath sour, tongue coated, appetite poor, sleep disturbed—these are symptoms of that most troublesome of baby ills—constipation. Don't dose baby with harsh purgatives that only weaken the digestive organs. Instead, give baby Fletcher's Castoria. Castoria is a vegetable preparation that acts gently but surely. It relieves constipation without griping. It sweetens the stomach and regulates the bowels. It promotes healthful sleep. Thousands of mothers have found Castoria the ideal remedy for children's ailments. They are a mild but thorough laxative and tonic. They brighten the eyes, clear the complexion, sweeten the breath, and make baby happy. They are sold by druggists everywhere, or by mail at 35 cents a bottle from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

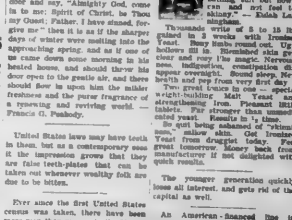
The upsets of Children



All children are subject to little upsets. They come at unexpected times. They seem to be as serious in the mind of night. But there's one form of comfort on which a mother can always rely; good old Castoria. This pure vegetable preparation can't harm the tiniest infant. Yet mild as it is, it soothes a restless, fretful baby like nothing else Its quick relief soon sees the youngster comfortable once more, back to sleep. Even an attack of colic, or diarrhea, yields to the soothing influence of Castoria.

Keep Castoria in mind, and keep a bottle in the house—always. Give a few drops to any child whose tongue is coated, or whose breath is bad. Continue with Castoria until the child is grown! Every drugstore has Castoria; the genuine has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

FLAT TIRES

As our party skimmed past in a Flying Cloud, we felt sorry for the man by the side of the road with the flat tire, who was losing so much time and temper. Further on we passed another signal of distress, whose machine was running with missing cylinders.

We felt glad that our auto was filled with the capacity for work, that our brakes were holding, and that there were no worn-out parts liable to play out through sheer exhaustion. The engine was purring happily, for it had been fuelled up with the best there was. Taking all things into consideration, it looked as if we were enjoying life to the full that fine spring day when all above was blue and gold and all around was green and fragrant.

It was the doctor at the wheel who looked serious for a moment as we drove past a large plantation where there were many lovely trees and children playing in the shade. He bade us look at them carefully, and we did so, as we flew past and waved to them. Each little child had some physical defect, some being so crippled that they were in plaster shoes and iron supports.

"There's a wonderful Repair Shop," said the doctor. "Making over boys and girls who look ready for the scrap heap, into healthy, happy children. There's nothing in all Canada that deserves more appreciation and support than looking after the human engine along the road of life.

"We medical men think it a privilege to help along these little ones, and fill them up with health and strength, for without it, life's journey is but a series of fat tires and missing cylinders." We observed that our driver wore in his button-hole the emblem of the Red Cross, the society that stands for the prevention of disease and mitigation of suffering.

Snow Storm Wednesday Morning

Last week swimming in the "ole sand pit" was quite general and indeed this form of sport was indulged in by a goodly number of boys after school on Tuesday. But not so on Wednesday! A misplaced snow storm commenced at 7 a.m. that day and continued until night, rendering swimming and other out door sports rather out of place.

A Delightful Banquet

On Friday evening last week there was a Mother and Daughter banquet in the United Church for the Senior and intermediate girls' classes of the Sunday School. Covers were laid for 107 and when all sat down there were no empty chairs. It goes without saying that the excellent spread was greatly enjoyed but not less enjoyable were the speeches and entertainment staging led by Mrs. Hill. Mrs. MacKenzie proved herself a very capable toastmaster. The toast to the King (now) was proposed by Lucille Irwin and responded to by Mrs. Cash and Mrs. Roebuck of Islay, after which Miss Myrtle MacDonald sang very sweetly "Mother Machree." The toast to the Church was proposed by Agnes Forbes and responded to by Rev. H. A. Boyd. The toast to the Sunday School was proposed by Jessie Law and responded to by the Superintendent Mr. Hall. Mrs. Whitby gave a short talk to the girls and had a vote of thanks to the W. A. and waiters for making this banquet possible. The waiters, who were the men teachers and officers of the B.S., were all that could be desired and their last stunt, viz: washing up everything in sight, was particularly appreciated by the mothers and daughters.

Just before leaving the table there was a very pretty candle lighting ceremony. A large white candle representing Love was lit by the Pastor and all the mothers lit their candles from the Candle of Love and the daughters lit their candles from their mothers', while all joined in singing "Wonderful Love". The tables were cleared away and the program for the remainder of the evening was in charge of Miss Kathleen Craig who certainly deserves credit for the capable way in which it was handled. Mothers who hadn't played games for 20 years were skipping about as gracefully as their 16 year-old daughters. The evening closed by singing taps.

High School Notes

The Islay soft ball team came up last Thursday and were defeated by the High School team 25-7. This was like visiting the seaside years ago they were slightly nervous. The umpire was Rev. Mr. Thompson of Islay. The return game is to be played in the near future and also Manneville is to come here as soon as the weather permits.

The boys' team went to Lloydminster on Saturday, May 17 to play the return game. The wind helped to right all errors, we hear, and they came home triumphant with a score of 13-9. They hope to attend the Kitscoty sports on the 24th and we wish them all success.

Roberta Wilson is doing very well and appreciates visitors. She hopes to be out and going soon.

Wilfred Fraser is doing as well as can be expected, we hear. Keep it up, Fra', and the best of luck.

The girls' soft ball league is progressing famously. Present score shows Lila Bourne's team in the lead, having never been defeated.

The boys' league teams are still "practising" we hear.

The students of Grade X are working hard at the play which they are preparing for the closing exercises. They hope to give "As You Like It" as it was given in Shakespeare's day. The High School assembly hall will be transformed in imagination into the Globe Theatre and the stage will resemble as nearly as possible that of London's most famous play-house. Oh! there will be one drawback, however, from the Shakespearian method of presentation, the women's parts will not be taken by boys.

We see two large hats, with a girl attached to each, coming to school every morning. Remarkable the idea a straw hat will get, isn't it.

Young Conservative Club Organized

H. W. Ganton Elected President

A Junior Conservative club was organized here on Tuesday, at a well attended meeting. Quite a number interested in that party and held in the Presbyterian hall. The chair was taken by E. M. Stewart, who explained the purpose of the gathering and from a brief discussion following, it was decided to proceed with the organization with the following officers were elected: Hon. President, Major Fallow; President, Howard Ganton; Vice-President, Miss Isabella Cook; secretary-treasurer, Miss Phyllis Lipsett; executive committee, Miss Ida Mackay, Mrs. Johnson, and Messrs. Stewart and McIlwaith.

Short addresses were given by J. W. G. Morrison, who urged the study by the organization of the political history of our country the part taken in it by appointed governors, the success of the last administration, the policies of the major political parties upon the growth and development of the country; and by Major Fallow, who stressed the need of men and women to take their part in the deliberations of the boundless resources of the country in the past he believed the country had been benefited politicians rather than statesmen with the foresight to appreciate its wealth, needs and possibilities and its resources for the benefit of our own people.

The ambition of the new organization will be directed on sound educational and political channels, membership enrolled at once and not immediately the new set being formed. The two teams captained by Mr. Kathleen Craig and Arthur Cooper will compete for a dinner to be supplied by the losers.

The Farm For The Farm Boy?

Every once in a while some pulliman car philosopher comes along with a few suggestions on how to remedy the evils with which agriculture is supposed to be afflicted and frequently winds up with a peroration containing some grandiose advice to "keep the boy on the farm."

All of which might be all right if the itinerant union were fully acquainted with the conditions of the country which he calmly surveys from the window of the luxurious chair of the limited train on its way to the next lawful and treats of the trend of the times about which he may, or may not have anything. If, however, he were so well posted he would probably tell the newspaper reporters that he has "nothing to say on the subject today."

Now this question of "keeping the boy on the farm" is not a new one, and it has a good many angles to it, some of which are well worthy of a little reflection by the individual before he decides whether the boy should be kept on the farm, and if so how to go about it.

The first question that naturally arises is: "Should the boy be kept on the farm?"

This query opens a great realm of speculative thought and examination long before the apparent answer. "How is it to be done?" can be satisfactorily dealt with.

It can be said at the outset, without fear of contradiction, that not all boys are fitted for life on the farm, physically or temperamentally, despite the fact that the farm affords an outlet for the expenditure of a wide range of talents. To try and bind such youths down to a life with the soil is akin to shipping a consignment of flannel vests and fur coats to the niggers of Equatorial Africa and about as useful.

And what about agriculture itself? Does agriculture need, and can it offer suitable rewards and satisfaction to, all the boys who are born on the farms of Western Canada?

This is indeed a question which has an important bearing on the problem of taking care of the future of the rural youth. Fifty years ago a single farmer could only raise enough produce to feed a handful of people. Today with the use of highly mechanized and highly powered implements, one farmer can feed a host, and the trend in the direction of increasing the productive power of the individual in the realm of agriculture is neither receding a bit nor a twitch in the other direction.

If science combined with improved business management, is going to continue to widen the scope of the individual engaged in agricultural production, the time may come when a very considerable proportion of the lads reared on the land will have to look elsewhere for a vocation.

Then, even more than today the question of determining the fitness, or unfitness of the rural boy for farming forth the trusts of the earth, will become a greater importance. As has happened to other industries in the face of time and change those best adapted by nature and preparation to agriculture will be those who will stay with the industry, and they only. The others will find other fields more suited to their talents and inclinations.

If the foregoing diagnosis of the trend of the times is correct, it is very fortunate that the Western Canadian provinces have within their borders an infinite variety of resources awaiting the application of the brilliant and courage bred in our youths for their recovery and conversion to the services of mankind.

It is also fortunate that coincident with this tendency to reduce the man power on the farm a marked development is taking place in industrial life in the west which should, along with the development of the resources already referred to, will afford an ever widening outlet for the energies of young manhood.

Progress has always been marked by revolutionary changes of this kind usually there being discomfort to some, but this is inevitable. It is useless to try to stem the forward march. The wise attitude is to try and discern what permanent day trends may bring in the future and take advantage of the opportunities they may afford.

These are questions which, no doubt, are receiving serious consideration by those responsible for the conduct of education in rural districts. Whether education is not content with taking things as they are for granted, but is looking to the future and training adjustments which the necessity of tomorrow may dictate.

Soviet Government Interested In Dr. Barnes' Ice Destruction

Dr Howard T Barnes is planning to go to Russia, for a two years' stay if satisfactory arrangements can be made to take care of his Canadian interests, he announced. A commission has been appointed by the Soviet Government for the study of Dr Barnes' method of ice destruction and his personal supervision by the engineers in charge has been requested.

As Dr. Barnes now occupies only an honorary professorship at McGill University, Montreal, there will be no difficulty in that quarter, but he has a research institute of ice engineering in Montreal, and the appointment of a principal to replace him there is a duty that must precede his departure

A diamond, a lead pencil, and a piece of coal are made of the same stuff. These three things are really carbon in different forms, and are just so much one as ice, liquid water, and water vapor. Steps Planned For The Year

One Man Plans To Walk Across English Channel

It looks as if 1930 is going to distinguish itself as a year of amazing stunts.

Herewith are just a few of the things that careful men and women are planning to do during the summer.

Fly an ingenious glider across the Irish Sea from Holyhead to Dublin.

Walk across the English Channel on water boots.

Cross Niagara in a miniature submarine.

Walk blindfold around the top of one of the tallest buildings in Paris.

A young airman, Mr. Alec B. Trafford, of Birmingham, is to attempt the dangerous feat of flying a glider across the Irish Sea. He has already had considerable experience in gliderflying in Germany, and is now at work on the machine with which he intends to make his big attempt.

The man who is hoping to cross the channel on water boots is Mr. J. Hazzard, who has invented an ingenious device consisting of a pair of canary shoes attached to the legs of two airtight bags, which he inflates with a bicycle pump. To help him in his 21-mile stride across the water, he will use a pole attached to another inflated bag. He will obtain refreshment from a floating refreshment counter, to be established somewhere near mid-channel.—From Pearson's weekly

A Blind Soldier-Lawyer

South African War Veteran Practises Profession In Ontario

Those who know him well never think of Colonel Lorne W. Bailey, blind South Africa War veteran as sightless. Colonel Malloy, long known in the Hill and Canadian peoples as Trooper Malloy, is an active law practitioner at Iroquois, Ontario.

His pleadings take place largely in Cornwall, and one recalls that the great soldier-lawyer was the defending lawyer in a murder trial there.

When Colonel Malloy came back from the front he took up law studies, General Sam Hughes, then Canadian minister of militia, found him a post in the Royal Military College where he remained several years. He was used as a recruiting officer throughout Canada during the Great War.

Then he decided to study law, on the advice of his friend, the late Sir Sandford Fleming, K.C., of Toronto. The colonel read his law course in one year, which usually takes three years, and the Ontario Law Society called the distinguished soldier and scholar to the bar. A dental practice in Iroquois, which he knew from youth, and bought a fine old stone residence and garden on the banks of the St. Lawrence River at that place, changes in which he directed himself.

Peace Pact At Rocky

Washington Public School Children Subscribe Toward Its Establishment

Thirty thousand school children in the state of Washington, have subscribed ten cents each, while their teachers have given twenty-five cents each, toward the purchase of 25 acres of land on the United States side of the border for the establishment of an international park at Blaine, on the International Boundary. The Trades and Labor Council at Vancouver were told by a visiting delegation from Bellingham, Washington, of the donations. It would be the first international park in the world, the delegates said, urging that an equal amount of land be provided on the Canadian side.

"If the same interest is taken on the Canadian side as on the United States side," it was stated, "the project will be a great success."

It was suggested that an annual celebration might be held by both countries at the park on the second of July each year.

BUDGET ADOPTED BY MAJORITY OF TWENTY-EIGHT

Ottawa, Ont.—The final budget of the 16th Parliament of Canada passed the House of Commons by a majority of 28 votes. Two members of the Conservative Party and one member of the U.F.A. group voted with the government.

Supporters of the government lined up solidly behind the fiscal proposals brought down by Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, May 1st.

The vote stood:

For the budget, 114.

Against the budget, 86.

Opposed to the budget were the members of the Conservative party with the exception of Finlay MacDonald, member for Cape Breton, South, and T. E. Simpson, member for West Algoma. Both of these Conservatives represent constituencies in which the iron and steel industry is prominent. They had previously announced that they favored those provisions of the budget which they considered advantageous to the iron and steel industry. Being seized, however, by the last vote, Hon. H. Jelliff, U.F.A. member for Lethbridge, Alberta, supported the budget.

Crowded galleries looked down on the stirring scenes which marked the final day of budget debate. Shortly after six o'clock the house had defeated the main opposition motion, amendment to the budget which were offered by the Progressive group and the Conservative opposition respectively.

The sub amendment, sponsored by W. R. Motherwell, Liberal, Lac Last Mountain, Sask., was snowed under by a vote of 177 to 19. Its entire support came from the opposition, U.F.A., and Labor groups in the house.

Aviation Valuable To Canada

More Development Is Urged By Dr. W. B. Hoyle

Saskatoon. — That Canada will gain much more by the development of the aeroplane and radio than any other country in the world, was the statement issued by Dr. R. W. Boyle, principal of the physical science division of the new national research laboratories at Ottawa.

He emphasized the value of the aeroplane and radio in bringing together scientific parts of our country which with its wide stretches of unoccupied territory would remain isolated and unreasonably sub-fatty. It had been the government's desire to grant the provinces as wide power as possible and he was impressed with the spirit that animated the proceedings leading to the agreements.

Hon. W. B. Willoughby, Conservative leader, said the natural resources deal was the most important in the west for years, but he believed it had been settled satisfactorily. He referred to the fact that Alberta and Saskatchewan had been given the right to appeal to the courts on constitutional questions. The Manitoba Act, he pointed out, had been passed on by the Privy Council, but neither of the others had been interpreted judicially.

Hon. A. B. Gillis reviewed the past history of the natural resources question in the west. Withholding of the resources under the 1905 Incorporation had been disastrous to the province's finances, and the present settlement was a complete justification of the stand taken by Sir Frederick Haultain when premier of the Northwest Territories. The provinces, he said, had been forced into direct taxation, as Saskatchewan alone now has a debt of $70,000,000. If the resources had been turned over to the provinces in 1905 the sale of land would have offset the present debt.

Workers' Bill For Debate

Has Been Referred To House Of Commons

Ottawa, Ont.—A measure respecting employment of Canadian workmen on Dominion Government contracts was referred in the House of Commons to the committee on industrial and international relations.

The sponsor of the bill, Dr. J. J. Gillis, (Queens, N.S. Asst.), informed the House that the measure was of serious interest to labor, especially to the City of Montreal. In brief the purpose of the bill, he proceeded, was to provide that there should be no age limit in regard to Canadian workmen seeking employment on government contracts.

Starting from Edmonton, the party motored to Jasper, a route carrying them through parts of the United States then crossing again.

Would Use Old Law

Paris, France—With a view to making France unhealthy for loafers and petty criminals, a bill has been introduced in the chamber which invokes a law of 1885 to the extent of imposing the choice between expulsion and permanent confinement at hard labor for any person who, having already spent at least six months in prison, shall have been convicted a second time.

Delegation From Palestine Told Proposals Were Unacceptable

London, England. — The British colonial office issued a statement declaring that the demands of the Palestine Arab delegation, which has been in London discussing the future of their fellow-countrymen under constitutional changes were "wholly unacceptable."

At the same time the Arab delegation, which recently declared it had reached a deadlock in the negotiations, announced it would leave for Palestine on May 23.

The colonial office statement and the government had taken note of the Arab demands but had told the delegation its proposals could not be accepted "since they render it impossible for His Majesty's government to carry out their obligations under the mandate."

Britain Has Refused Demands Of Arabs

RECONSTRUCTION OF C.N.R. WILL BE POSTPONED

Ottawa, Ont.—Without a division and with very little debate the Senate gave three readings each to the bills restoring the natural resources of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta to those provinces. They previously had been passed through the House of Commons as government measures.

Hon. N. A. Belcourt, acting government leader, in supporting the bills, said the provinces had been dealt with generously and fairly. It had been the government's desire to grant the provinces as wide power as possible and he was impressed with the spirit that animated the proceedings leading to the agreements.

Hon. W. B. Willoughby, Conservative leader, said the natural resources deal was the most important in the west for years, but he believed it had been settled satisfactorily. He referred to the fact that Alberta and Saskatchewan had been given the right to appeal to the courts on constitutional questions. The Manitoba Act, he pointed out, had been passed on by the Privy Council, but neither of the others had been interpreted judicially.

Chinese Stage Battle

Winnipeg In Scene Of Riot Between Tongmen Factions

Winnipeg, Man.—Axes and baseball bats were wielded in Winnipeg's Chinatown as two Oriental factions clashed in riotous street warfare. Three Chinese were so seriously injured that they were taken to hospital, while numerous others were being attended at their homes. Seven Orientals are under arrest.

Rioting broke out shortly after midnight with two score members of opposing political factions milling in the fray which began when two Orientals engaged in combat. From stores and residences in the surrounding area, with a block or two of the city hall, poured Chinese armed with axes, sticks and baseball bats. Several were knocked unconscious in the mêlée.

Police arrived while the riot was in full swing and the battlers dispersed within a few moments, leaving injured men on the road and in the gutter. Fleeing combatants were arrested and the more grievously hurt were hurried to hospital Condition of the three wounded men is reported as showing improvement.

The government and the two railways will share the cost of the work jointly as before

"Sending the first note of protest from any British country, Rear Admiral Sir Henry P. Lowe, long an outstanding figure among navy men, told the Senate foreign relations committee that he not only disagreed with many of the decisions of the London conference, but thought a different settlement would have been entirely possible

At the same time Admiral William V. BRITISH PREMIER SATISFIED WITH NAVAL TREATY

London, England.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald told the House of Commons the primary reason for the London naval conference which, he declared, was the United States' program of naval construction.

We were perfectly agreeable that the United States should build to parity," said Mr. MacDonald, "but what had not been settled was what was the program of parity?"

Many thought it was unnecessary to pursue the Washington agreement further," continued the prime minister, "and they said: Why should we worry about the force America is putting upon the waters? While this view was most attractive it was very unsound

"The whole world occupied to America the same happy relations that we did, and do, it would be a fine thing, but unfortunately that was not the case. Whether we took note of what America was doing or not, other nations did, and with the building of these other nations we were concerned

"Consequently we were forced to the conclusion that the foundation of peace unity was an international agreement between America and ourselves such as we were able to effect at the London conference. That kind of work has been done

The particular effects would have been much greater if the London conference had not been forced to consider also a three-power conference which would have been a further step towards peace and unity between the United States, Japan, ourselves

"That kind of work did not obtain security in an agreement between the three powers only

"The Kellogg Pact and the Pacific Great Eastern Railway survey of last summer, will handle the Peace River block investigation also.

The government and the two railways will share the cost of the work jointly as before

"Sending the first note of protest from any British country, Rear Admiral Sir Henry P. Lowe, long an outstanding figure among navy men, told the Senate foreign relations committee that he not only disagreed with many of the decisions of the London conference, but thought a different settlement would have been entirely possible

SENATE AGREES ON RESOURCES BILLS FOR WEST

Ottawa Ont It is not the intention of the government to proceed with the financial reconstruction of the Canadian National Railways this session, Hon. C. A. Dunning, minister of railways and canals, told the parliamentary committee which is studying the railway situation. The government has proposed to undertake a full study with the actual financial position of the railways, and the question of reducing their fixed charges, before proceeding with the appointment of a royal commission, but considerable opposition has developed to this proposal.

I frankly admit," Mr. Dunning continued, "that the position of the railways is not what we would like it to be, but I am not willing to deal with the question of reconstruction of the railways until we have had an opportunity of studying the whole situation."

Mr. Dunning said he had not yet had an opportunity of studying the recommendations which were made by Mr. Beatty, president of the C.P.R. and Sir Henry Thornton, president of the C.N.R. had submitted their recommendations to the government.

The proposed financial reconstruction of the railways would involve the issue of new securities and in that connection Premier Mackenzie King had stated that no action would be taken without the consent of the provinces concerned with the interest charges which would be involved.

Mr. Dunning said he could not say when the commission would be appointed.

A large audience turned out Monday night to hear Premier Brownlee and Hon. R. G. Reid address a public meeting in the armories in connection with the present provincial campaign. The gathering was made up of all political persuasions and the speakers from the closest attention. It was a most successful meeting, seating capacity being at a premium. S. E. Barwick presided and a short opening address was delivered by Mayor Fallow, who congratulated the government in having been successful in finally settling the issue of the return to Alberta of its natural resources. At intervals between the addresses solos were rendered by T. Waite and A. M. West. J. W. E. Markle presiding at the piano.

The Hon. R. G. Reid spoke briefly stating that he again appeared before them as the U.F.A. candidate. It was nearly nine years since he was first called upon to take an active part in the councils of the party; during that time he had learned much, but still had very much more to learn. Mr. Reid devoted a few minutes to dealing with the financial record of the government. It had taken several years of hard work to ease the province of the terrible load of debt under which it was suffering when the present government had assumed the reins of office, but now it could be safely said that the province was back into a position of financial stability as shown by the government's balanced budgets. After the financial house had been put in order they had found it possible to meet the demands for public expenditure to a considerable extent. At no time in nine years had the opposition asked that expenditures be decreased, they had taken exactly the opposite attitude and asked on many occasions for increased expenditure. In regard to the public debt many couldn't be upset without taking it out of the pockets of the people by taxes or by borrowing it on capital account and repay over a period of years. If we have the assets for the expenditures, for the good of the province as a whole there was no room for criticism. Continuing, he said the government asked for support on the strength of their record and he was confident the people were able to size things up for themselves.

Ex-Alderman East of the Edmonton labor party, who was present, on being called up, stated his pleasure in being in attendance at such a representative gathering. The labor party, he stated, was one of co-operation and much more advanced thinking than other parties, social legislation being the main plank of its policy. They had found it possible in a large measure to support the government. Referring to Mr. Reid, who was their candidate, he said that his constant and faithful service had met with appreciation by the people he represented and he urged the electors not to let the herring be drawn across the trail but to slaughter the old line parties once again.

Premier Brownlee expressed his very great pleasure to visit the people of Vermilion and his appreciation of the co-operation received from the mayor of the town, his council and the citizens in carrying on the work of the agricultural school at this point as well as the kindly feeling and sympathetic consideration from the people of the town and the farmers of the surrounding district. Coming directly to the hall from a banquet tendered to Mr. Reid and himself by the Vermilion Chamber of Commerce, he wished to say how much the honor was valued

The premier paid a tribute to the great aid Mr. Reid had been to him when called upon five years ago to assume the premiership, he had found he was possessed of a vast fund of information on agricultural and other matters which had been of most great aid to him. The latter said Mr. Reid was Scotch, his other ministers were also Scotch while he was Irish he was consequently in the midst of being surrounded by Scots. A Hobby Essential To Life

Every person, old or young should have a hobby.

And why a hobby? Because a hobby means an interest beyond the mere task of making a living and because an interest is necessary to the enjoyment of life.

Life without interest would be a dull prosaic affair. Yet there are some people who keep their noses to the grindstone day after day, year in and year out in a dull routine to provide the wherewithal to feed, clothe and shelter themselves and their dependents with not a let-up from daylight to dark. They never look at a thing or see interest which will serve to brighten their days and bring joy into their lives.

There are, of course some men who are fortunate enough to have found in their vocation that keen zest which an outside interest gives to others, but it has been found by experience that even such happily circumstanced individuals can and do pursue their work with better results and with greater contentment and less wear and tear when, to their work, they ADD AN INTEREST.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" has been quoted so often that it has become platitudinous. Yet it is just as true today as when it was first uttered.

When the child puts his books away and closes his school desk for the day, he proceeds to enjoy himself with games and recreation in some form or another and in this manner revitalize himself for another day at scholastic tasks. Educationists have discovered that the child who plays in season brings to his school work an enjoyment which enables him in the long run to outstrip the pale faced bookworm. He has a balanced and therefore a happy existence and this reflects favorably upon his studies.

And so with the adult. But in place of living kites or indulging in bolshevistic play, the grown up carries his enthusiasm into the field of some sedate, but just as stimulating amusement. It matters little whether it be collecting postage stamps, indulging in politics playing sane and hammer or exercising in some form or academic study, so long as it is something which arouses the interest of the participant and whets his appetite for more; and so long as it is something different from the daily task.

It is this creation of interest which acts as a stimulus to the mind or a recuperative power to the physical being. It is at the same time restful and invigorating. This is why the individual with a second string to his bow even if it be only used for recreational purposes, is more likely to make a success of his than one without it. He is able to turn again to the serious work of making a living with the hope and joy which comes with a buoyant spirit, a rested body and a clear, refreshed mentality.

It is impossible to pursue a hobby without securing these results, provided it is kept within reasonable bounds for recreation broadens the mind and interest means life. Interest wit, existence is life. Life without interest is mere existence.

The time to develop interest is in youth. It is too late to wait until the pains and penalties of advancing years are taking their toll and forcing retirement from active work. The individual who waits until he is obliged to slacken the traces on which he has been pulling heartily for decades before looking around for an interest will find he faces an old age of misery for he has developed nothing to which he can turn to make his declining years worth living.

The youth, the middle aged, the old, of both sexes should have a hobby and should develop a hobby in comparatively early life

Prevention Better Than Cure

Annual Examination By Doctor Would Ensure Good Health

The annual conference of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council, at Toronto, made one sound recommendation to the public. That was to have an annual examination by a doctor.

It is a trite saying that prevention is better than cure. A person feels well, or rather if a person does not feel ill, or is not bothered by a pain of any kind, the assumption is that the organs of the body are functioning normally, but the fact that so many people are taken ill suddenly, proves the fallacy of that belief.

Health should not be taken for granted, simply because one is apparently well. It should be proved by test, and if there is a condition that betokens a weakness in the inner machinery of the body in the near future, the doctor can repair the damage, or stave off the evil day, before it has gone too far.

Many a man or woman has got a nasty jar on visiting a doctor about some minor trouble and being told that something serious is developing or has developed. The average being does not like visiting his doctor, and unduly leaves it until circumstances compel examination, but an enormous amount of sickness, an enormous number of operations, would be avoided if the habit of having an annual examination were universal.

Lots of people are more careful about the interior works of their automobiles than they are about the interior works of their own bodies

The answer to the question, "What's in a name?" seems to be clearly defined as the result of a questionnaire recently sent out by a firm of book publishers in an endeavor to ascertain what sells books.

The 10 000 replies received by this show that only 190 purchased the books because of their titles More than 8,450 sales were attributed to reviews, 2,640 to advertisements and so on through the recommendation of a friend, reputation of the author, bookstore display, interest in subject, gift, lecture or sermon, with the title at the bottom of the list.

When Grain Kings Meet

Valuable Information Will Be Exchanged At World's Exhibition

In midsummer of 1923, the city of Regina will become the clearing-house for world thought and knowledge on every important branch of field-crop production and marketing. Agrarian experts from all around the globe will gather at the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held at the Saskatchewan capital in late July and early August.

While some $200,000 has been offered in more than 1,200 prize awards for cereal, grass, clover and vegetable-seed exhibits, separate sessions of the grain conference in connection with the exhibition are expected to be a most important portion of the program. Papers are to be read on agronomy, economics, including marketing, milling and baking, agricultural machinery, insect pests and friends, and plant genetics.

English and French, it has been decided, will be official languages. Provision will be made for interpreters. It is contemplated that brief resumes of all papers—those whose scope length is limited to 2,000 words will be printed in the two official languages and distributed to delegates before commencement of sessions. The meetings will be held during the mornings of the two-week conference

P-ability of a short series of purely scientific conferences is envisaged by the executive of the Regina gathering; if such a series is found to be necessary, the meetings will be arranged so that they will not conflict with regular conference sessions.

An Accidental Discovery

Scientific Flat Fish Scales Can Be Used As Fabric Coating

For hundreds of years Eve, has taken her clothes from the wool of sheep and the skins of animals, but now she has gone one better—she is to wear the scales of fish.

Soon the smartest Eves will shimmer like mermaids. A firm at Berlin has at last patented a process by which fish scales can be used as a coating for various fabrics. Among many advantages is that the new material has a remarkable power of keeping out heat.

It is intended, also, to use a coating of artificial pearl on this oilskin coats. These latest rain-proof garments will be light and completely waterproof, and when wet they will have a beautiful pearly glitter.

The discovery that fish scales could be used for this novel purpose was more or less accidental. Scientists were endeavoring to improve the process by which artificial pearls are made when they stumbled across the new idea.

After several attempts they found a method of washing, drying and grinding fish scales which produced a fine crystalline powder. This is mixed with a solution of artificial silk in collodion, and is to be painted thinly over the oil skin.

HON. R. G. REID IS NOMINATED FOR VERMILION

Provincial Treasurer Again Chosen by U.F.A. to Contest Seat

Hon R. G. Reid, provincial treasurer and minister of municipal affairs, on Monday was unanimously selected by his supporters to again contest the Vermilion constituency as the standard bearer of the United Farmers of Alberta, at a nominating convention held at Manville.

His was the only name submitted to the convention.

At the same meeting, officers were selected to carry on the affairs of the Vermilion constituency association, as follows: President, J. T. McDuffee; first vice-president, M. Sherman; second vice-president, Mrs Walker; secretary-treasurer, B. Hamlet.

The executive returned is as follows: J. L. Lawrence, H. Stearns, J. Duffy, W. Parsons, M. Berkey, M. Mortimer.

Premier Speaks

Premier J. E. Brownlee was the main speaker at the meeting and as his main subject chose a review of the province's affairs since 1921, the year in which the government of the day took office. He showed that administrative costs had been reduced since 1921 and that the increased expenditures had been occasioned by the ever growing demands for public services. Among these he mentioned the old age pensions, inaugurated a year ago which added some $250,000 a year to provincial expenditures, while the rural demands for better services, such as public health, highways, bridges and other matters, had contributed to the expenditures.

Supporters of Hon R G Reid are confident that he will be returned. He was first elected to the legislature at the general election of 1921 and upon the formation of the three-field ministry in that year he was appointed minister of municipal affairs and minister of health. He was re-elected by acclamation after accepting office, on December 8, 1921. On November 5, 1925, he was sported provincial treasurer, and on November 23, 1925, appointed minister of municipal affairs.

At the 1926 elections he was returned with 1,391 votes as against 582 polled by W. J. Marsh, Conservative, and 492 by A. W. Ebbett, Liberal.

"The Beacon Silpe," a three-act play, will be presented in Moore's hall, Islay, on Friday evening, June 6th under the auspices of the Islay United church W.A. This play has been put on very successfully at several other places and many people say that they intend to see it again in Islay. NEWS FROM ISLAY

Miss Dorothy Stone is to be congratulated as she was successful in passing all of her subjects at the University.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Orr from Rossland stopped over in Islay for a short time on their motor trip to Cold Lake. Mrs. H. Herrie who was visiting her father, Mr. Gupill here, has now returned to her home in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Lane and family motored to Alix on Friday to visit relatives there. They returned home on Sunday and ran into heavy rains at places en route, making stretches of road very slippery and muddy.

The Rev. L. Thompson and Mr. T. Bothwell are attending the conference of the United church which is being held in Edmonton this week.

Quite a number of Islayites attended the Kitscoty sports on the 24th. A baseball and a basketball team also participated, the girls getting second in the basketball tourney. Mr. Enns also entered in the men's tennis singles and Mrs. J. Givens the ladies' singles. Mr. Enns and Mr. Miller are also in the finals of the men's doubles which have yet to be played.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardy and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Whitehouse and Lila Doyle from Edmonton spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. Putvin.

Don't forget the play "The Deacon Hiips" which is coming to Islay on Friday evening, June 6th. Look for a synopsis elsewhere in this issue.

A. P. P. GET ISLAY BURGLARS

Two men have been apprehended by the A.P.P. and were held in Edmonton on a series of burglary charges one of whom was the breaking into the store of Bill Barnes here some time ago. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes motored to Edmonton last week to identify and claim some of the stolen goods, but so far only $5.00 worth of the Islay stock have been obtained. At a preliminary trial the men pleaded not guilty but at a subsequent trial changed their plea to "guilty of robbing the Islay store" before Police Magistrate McLeod in the Edmonton city police court on Tuesday. They were each given two years in the penitentiary. The men's names were Stephen Spokes and Martin Heide. A third man called Paddy Sullivan, alias "Lefty Patterson" was also mentioned in connection with the case.

High School Notes

The local ball team, consisting for the most part of High School boys, returned from the Kitscoty sports in triumph. They succeeded in securing second prize, winning three out of four games. First, they defeated the Marwayne team, then Fenham, then Jumbo Hill, but went down by two runs in the game against Paradise Valley. We were still more convinced that Art Wiebe is a fine pitcher when we saw him pitch to the Marwayne nine. The four games presented an opportunity of wearing one's vocal chords out. The editor still has three miles of Kitscoty real estate in her throat.

Lila Browne and Corinne Ollis played on the Islay basketball team and assisted them to win second place.

The one sorrowful feature of last week's sports was the defeat the soft ball team suffered at the hands of the Manville girls. It was a better game than the one at Manville, however, and Manville is given fair warning to beware the Vermilion sports day. The score was 10-7 and the umpire was Mr. Munce.

A very amusing game between the soft ball girls and their fathers or foster-fathers was played on Tuesday evening. The gentlemen were evidently of the opinion that they were going to have some fun "cleaning up" on the girls. They had the fun but, after playing off a tie, the girls cleaned up on them. We sympathized with Mr. Wiebe when he wandered off the base-line and his three-base-hit became an out. And with him again when our short-stop tried pugilistic methods of getting a run—and got it—to Mr. Wiebe's pain. Mr. Topper is a wonderful shortstop, truly! The score was 16-5 in favor of the girls and the umpire was Mr. Addison, who steadfastly kept to his decision in spite of opposition from the defeated team.

Several of the students are taking part in the sports on June 3rd in baseball, softball and the races.

The cast for "As We Like It" is practising diligently and the play will undoubtedly be a fine one.

Someone in a reminiscent mood remarked the other day that in about three weeks she would be writing History 4 or Trig. Such a delightful thought!

The high school nor' ball league records show that Lila Browne's team has won the most games.

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

Through the kindness of Mrs. El lott and the teachers of sewing and cooking at the Agricultural College a class has been arranged for Guides working on the needlework and cook badge. The dates are set for the classes on July 28, 29 and 30. Would the Guides who know they will be in camp at that time and are sure they may take the classes, please give their names into Mrs. White not later than June 10th, so that definite arrangements can be made.

WOLF CUB NOTES

Fifty-two Cubs and Tenderpads went on a Treasure Hunt last Tuesday. Every pated had a treasure to find so the woods were full of Cubs. We certainly hope that there will be more treasure hunts and in the meantime every Cub will try and learn his compass.

Archie McComas and Ian Dunaway received their First Star. We have a number of our Tenderpads and if they work hard it will not be long before they receive their stars too.

Will every Cub try and wear as many of the uniform as he owns and meet at Akin's house on Monday at 7:00 p.m. sharp.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

The Scouts are reminded of the first Scout Law as follows:

"A SCOUT'S HONOUR IS TO BE TRUSTED."

The Troop held their regular evening last Tuesday evening in the K. S. meeting. This meeting was in the form of an entertainment, when the local company of Girl Guides were guests of honour. A pleasant evening was spent in games, etc., and a splendid lunch was served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Boy Scout Troop. Commander Whitby expressed the appreciation of the Guides on the evening's entertainment, and Scoutmaster Tait spoke on behalf of the Troop when he said "We are delighted to have the Guides this evening." Three hearty cheers were given by the Guides and the Scouts to the ladies who were responsible for providing the refresh ments.

The Scouts are reminded of the Parade on June 3rd when prizes are offered for the best Patrol. Give your uniforms the once-over, boys, so that a smart turnout will be the result on Tuesday's part.

The funniest thing seen in the Scout Troop this week was the Girl Guides putting it over on the Scouts when grabbing the glove at the Armories last Tuesday.

NO PLACE FOR A LADY

At a small country station a freight train pulled in and side-tracked for a passenger train. The freight started in do its switching on a placid, well-dressed woman who had alighted from the passenger train was waiting near it. Just then one of the freight brakemen called to another:

"Jamp on her when she comes by. Bill Run her down by the elevator, cut her in two and bring the best end up by the depot!"

The lady picked up her grips and ran for the station, shrieking at every step.—Tiling News.

VALUABLE THOROUGHBRED HORSE COMES TO VERMILION

On Wednesday of last week arrived in Vermilion the well known Thoroughbred Mare. He is a bay stallion of [illegible] standing seven hands high and weighing 1250 pounds. He stands 15½ hands and upwards. He is a son of Ayrshire and also an [illegible] Carloads of these horses have arrived in Calgary, by a thoroughbred out of a Clyde mare, reached the very high figure of $1000. Naturally he was something out of the ordinary but the average farmer can supplement his income materially if he has the right type of mare by raising one or two of these horses. However, raising them in the old fashioned way, letting them run out and rustle until 4 years old and then breaking them in the rough broncho way will not produce the kind this maker wants. They must have a little extra attention and care, and while these are bound to be some misfits, still the returns are generally worth the extra trouble.

WHITEWASH CAN BE MADE WATER-PROOF

To make a whitewash that will stick, mix one part of Portland cement with enough lime to form eight gallons of whitewash. The cement makes the mixture stick and is indifferent to the weather.

Record Day Expected

Vermilion's gala day, Tuesday June 3rd, is fast approaching, but the energetic committee have all their plans safely made, everything is in the hands of capable committees, and all that is necessary to insure a record day is "Jupiter Pluvius" to restrain his rain-making activities. Many entries for the various competitions are already in and many more can be expected. From present indications athletic teams all the way from Wainwright to St. Paul, and from Lloydminster to Vegreville will compete in this mammoth sports event — and where the teams go the crowds will follow. The sports this year will be in the Agricultural park grounds. Added attractions will be the passenger aeroplane on the grounds and the attendance of the Vermilion Citizens' Band.

Broadcasting the R-100

When the R-100, Great Britain's huge new dirigible, arrives in the Dominion shortly, there will be no excuse for any Canadian being ignorant of her visit. The news will be broadcast throughout Canada by the Trans-Canada Broadcasting Company from coast to coast over the radio programme transmission system of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's Telegraphs.

The arrangements will include a twenty-four hour service on the day of arrival and will be put out through stations in Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, London, Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Red Deer, Calgary, Vancouver, Fleming and Yorkton, Sask. Messages from the airship will be broadcast as she approaches the 75-mile radius and will include a description of the mooring one of the most interesting and exciting moments in the whole programme. This will be broadcast by T. D'Arcy Finn, managing editor of the "Ottawa Citizen" as chief announcer. The broadcast of the arrival will be supplemented during the two succeeding days by bulletin services and descriptions of special events. Lay-out shows the R-100 in flight, the kitchen of the Air liner, and the St. Hubert mooring mast.

Plan Your Town—Save Your Money

Avoid Slums—Little Boy, "Had No Water" in His Home

The other day the writer heard a conversation between two men on the street. One said: "What's all this I hear nowadays about 'town-planning'? What is town-planning? Another fad to waste people's money?"

"No," said the other man, "it's just another plan to save people's lives and health and money besides."

He was right. Town-planning, done properly and early enough in the life of a growing town or city, does all those things. Perhaps the earliest illustration we have in history of town-planning is, however a little unfortunate. When the great city of Rome was expanding in the centuries following the formation of the Roman Empire, the highly civilized Romans were so anxious to replace the old buildings and crooked, narrow streets that they put on a sort of private agitation with the result that, in the time of Nero, the older parts of the city were fired, and Rome burned.

Whether or not that be true, no one today advocates such drastic methods for paving the way for town planning. It is today based upon co-operation between land-owners and municipal authorities, for the mutual good of the public, so that the city or town may be built to facilitate proper sanitation convenience and healthy and pleasant living arrangements.

Consider the important question of sanitation. If a city grows haphazard, as most cities have done in the past without the benefits of a fair plan-me eye to the future, that city's cleaning bills may be unnecessarily high. Expensive sewers may have to be re-appropriated in order to lay sewers and water mains, or to put in pumping stations or filters. Town planning looks ahead and "prevents" this unnecessary expense

Those of us who live in Toronto know a city's traffic situation which might have been averted by town-planning. Yonge Street, Toronto's main street, is too narrow to accommodate its traffic Toronto is even now considering plans to re-model its down-town area. In other words, to do town-planning which will cost millions of dollars that might have been saved had the civic fathers of years ago been able to foresee something of the city's growth and the complexity of twentieth-century civilization.

But from the standpoint of health, one of the most important considerations of town-planning is playground space—parks as a rule. In Canada the growth of a city is usually in fact one might say along the industrial growth. The growth of the Ontario city of Oshawa is an example. A number of industries for reasons of convenience or costs suddenly decide to take up their position on one point. The area they favored is apt to grow with great rapidity, and unless the public men are statesmen who think in decades—even in generations instead of just terms of office, the growth of the new industrial centre from a village to a town or a city is apt to be haphazard.

Those a city chokes by its own growth, and by the very life that makes it great, its desirability as a place in which to live, and its value as a commercial centre is unsound.

Proper planning of parks is a tremendous factor in the solution of this problem. For when a growing city takes trouble to lay out a system of parks, it will, chances are, give heed to the streets in proximity to those parks. And insofar as the health of the city is concerned, parks are vitally important.

It must be borne in mind at all times, that many people who will benefit most from the establishment of parks to a city, will not take advantage of them unless they are made as easy as possible to reach. That is why you notice in most well-planned cities, that the parks are arranged so as to be on two sides of a road so that just as many people as possible can take advantage of their beauties

Sanitary Between Indians and Chinese

Both Have Great Reverence For Their Women and Ancestors

If streets are planned so that the outside edge of the city are not too hard to reach, the result in a great many cities has been artistic suburban sections where rents are cheap and working people can live in happiness and health. In this case, traffic conditions permit them to cover more distance in a shorter space of time in getting back and forth to their work. This would be possible if the conditions had not been studied in advance instead of letting them take their own natural course.

The habits of the citizens the nature of the soil, the levels of the land and a hundred matters come into the scheme of things in town-planning, but they are mostly problems for the engineers and the technical man. Nevertheless, they are of extreme importance and difficult to handle if there is not complete harmony in making the arrangements between the owners of the land and the people who are doing the planning.

Some cities have found themselves in a position where they could secure every house must have a plot of land of decent size around it. Here is an enviable state of things and one which a municipality should seek.

When one starts to grow a garden, we carefully lay it out so that all the plants will have breathing space no matter how thick the growth may become. If the plants become too thick in one place, we do what we call thinning out.

It is rather difficult to "thin out" a city, but we must do all we can in thinking in town-planning in advance.

It is however, only in recent years that town-planning has become a very active feature of our municipal life. Many cities and towns are appointing commissioners to guide the destinies of their municipalities. They work on the principle that the town will grow just as much as the twig is bent. The future development of these far-seeing cities is certain will not be by accident. It will be the result of thoughtful arrangement with the health and comfort of the majority constantly in view.

People Expect Courtesy

Firms Whose Employees Are Polite Do Better Business

The public in some may not be conspicuously polite, but it desires respectful consideration from the employees of the concerns with which it may be doing business. It expects courteous and correct answers to its questions no matter how foolish and unnecessary they may seem to others; and if they seem to be unreasonable with what to the initiated may seem simple procedure, they do not wish to be treated as a bunch of "boobs." The public takes the same respect rather seriously and if shown disrespect is likely to transfer its business to other concerns where it can get courtesy with its bonds or its bond without extra cost. Many employers of labor recognize this fact and insist that their employees always be courteous no matter what the provocation.

This requires training and discipline. A youth cannot become courteous overnight. Courtesy must always be put on like a garment. It must be intend it it is to stand the hard wear of life. More attention, we think, might be paid by the home and the school in instilling and developing the spirit of courtesy which is "next" young. No young man, no matter how well educated he may be, is fitted to assume public duties unless he is always able to manifest courtesy toward others. The age of chivalry may be dead, as Burke said many years ago. But the age of courtesy will never die. Wise are the people who realize the great practicabilities of courtesy, and how essential it is to success. It should not be forgotten that while it will bring financial reward it insures something more to be desired than even this: the esteem of one's fellow men

Grows Millions Of Radishes

Texas Man Raises More Than Anyone In World

Upon the 1,400-acre farm of E. C. Caldwell, near Odem, Texas, laborers are employed gathering radishes and beets for shipment to the markets of the north and east. Caldwell has 700 acres planted in radishes, and has already shipped 600 carloads, and still has approximately 200 carloads to gather before the season is closed. Each car contains approximately 1,000 bushes of radishes and the total number of bunches shipped by the end of the season will be around 65,000,000. Mr. Caldwell is said to be the largest radish grower in the world.

Ocean Safer Than Lakes

Captain Would Rather Navigate Sixty Miles Out

On the Great Lakes sailors class as men who follow a seasonal occupation. That may sound to salt-water people like an opening for jests. Seasonably looks a bit like farming when men remain in port ashore during the four or five coldest and stormiest months of the year. Poets and story writers, at least, appear never to have found much appeal in the lives of the summer-time sailors of the inland seas. Literature which would produce thrills must have its heroes face fearful things in winter. To be steadied by the blast between May and November give more the impression of an unlucky accident than an adventure.

Any who are inclined to that hasty view, however, should form a chummy acquaintance with some old lake man and hear his opinion of the comparative ease of salt-water navigation, where there are thousands of miles of seaway in which to keep a ship afloat. Why should a vessel have to be in danger of running aground? Here on these inland seas a ship never can get more than about fifty miles from land. Her position fixed on salt water makes the mariner fuel and fee catches him on the Lakes with no one to help. An hour or two of heedless driving before the wind would bring him on the rocks or shoals of some dangerous lee shore which the nearest land is five miles under the best isn't much to worry about. Here's the reckon. It is when the land lies all around him that the navigator must keep awake. That condition prevails all the time and everywhere on the Great Lakes. The lake captain must know not only where he is by degrees, he must be not only a seaman, but a pilot, with the entire 1,000 miles and more between Buffalo and Duluth charted in his head.

Experience has taught that the poultry house should face the south or south-east. This is important as it admits the maximum of sunshine which is the cheapest disinfectant. If, however, it is not convenient to build a permanent house with its face to the south, the Dominion Poultry Husbandman, in his new bulletin No. 122, of the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, states that good results have been obtained by putting a row of windows along the back of the house under the drop-board. When this is done it is of great importance to have the windows tight so that no draught will strike the hens.

Another suggestion contained in the bulletin is that where permanent poultry houses are being constructed that they be planned so that they may be enlarged or added to as poultry operations grow.

The Maple Sugar Industry

People Of Canada Can Consume All That Is Produced

That Toronto newspaper which says that the maple syrup and sugar industry of Canada faces ruin because under the new United States tariff the duty on these products is to be higher bids fair to drive the comic journals out of existence. Amount of maple sugar and syrup made in Canada in these latter days is small and is growing smaller, not because of hostile tariffs, but for the reason that maple groves are becoming fewer in number and reduced in size, through the drop of maple syrup or an ounce of maple sugar leave Canada, the people of the Dominion can easily consume all of it. There are whatsoever articles of which the people of this country would do well to use more. People of the producer overseas would be glad to have available to them all of these products they want.

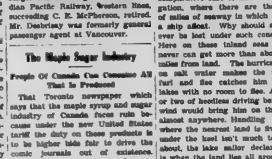
"Polly" on the Air



John Guy's second comic opera, "Polly," which forms a sequel to "The Beggar's Opera," following the rascally Captain MacHeath from a London goal to scenes of new adventure in the West Indies, and introducing the celebrated Polly Peachum, was presented for the first time on the air on Sunday, May 13, from 8.15 to 9.45 p.m., eastern daylight saving time, in the Canadian Pacific Railway's programme of music from station WJZ and twelve associated stations of the National Broadcasting Company.

The following well-known Canadian artists took part in the production: Jeanne Dusseau, soprano, as "Polly"; Allan Burt, late of the American Opera Company, as "Captain MacHeath" masquerading as "Morgan," assistant; Beatrice Morson, contralto, as "Mrs. Trapet"; John Detweiler, baritone, as "Lieutenant Vanderbelt"; and Alfred Heather, tenor, as "Mr. Dapper."

Obligations Of Industry

Employers Should Consider Welfare Of Those Who Make Success Possible

Industrialists who consider only profit and loss sheets and do not consider the welfare of the employees who contribute so much to the profits are, in the opinion of Mr. Denton Massey, morally no further advanced in their civilization than the cave-man in his. Mr. Massey was speaking at a meeting of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association.

Industry has made a great deal of progress in that direction during the present century, although the employer has come more from without than from within. Legislation has compelled the use of safety devices and the taking of many other precautions to prevent accidents, and if there seem to be more accidents than there used to be, that is no doubt due to the fact that there is so much more machinery in operation.

Employers cannot regard callously the maiming of men and women who may only be cogs in a great industrial machine. To lose a hand or arm, or even a finger, to lose an eye, or to be crushed bodily, cannot help but be a terrible blow to the victim. It is a deplorable misfortune. Anyone who has had an injured arm and been unable to use it for some days will fully realize that.

There is another form in which employers owe obligations to their workers. That is to ensure practical security of tenure to the efficient hands so far as their jobs are concerned. Men may be buying their homes, and if they lose their employment they may lose what they have. There is no more damaging blight on a man's efficiency than the spectre of unemployment. Men must should have a strong moral reason, as well as an economic one, before he decides to turn a man out of his job.

Pure Seed Important

Soil Conditions Should Also Be Considered When Selecting Variety

With the wide range of climatic and soil conditions which obtain throughout Canada, purity of variety is one of outstanding importance. A variety which gives good results in the southern and eastern sections of the Dominion may be entirely unsuited to the more rigorous conditions of the heavier soils and harsher climatic conditions of the north or west. There is also a marked difference in the size, color and quality of different varieties of the same seed, and with grain it is particularly important that the seed sown should be pure as to variety.

The Dominion Seed Branch are extending the work of purity of variety tests this year. Inspectors of the branch have already obtained samples of the seed of cereals, flax, field peas, and beans, from seedsmen throughout Canada. The cereal division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, at the Dominion experimental farm, will test these samples for purity of variety and the results of these tests will be made known to the department to the trade and to Canadian farmers.

In Commercial Class

Saskatchewan lignite was placed definitely in the commercial coal class for the first test to illustrate the utility of the coal were made in Regina, says the Canadian Press. The tests were conducted under the direction of Hon. J. A. Merkley, Provincial Minister of Railways, Labor and Industries. The development of a great coal industry in the southern part of the province is predicted, as well, from the engineers' findings.

Famous Cattle For Canada

A despatch from the Isle of Jersey states the cattle industry of the island has received a severe shock in the announcement that John Perree, Jersey's foremost breeder, has sold his herd consisting of about 100 head of prime cattle to Messrs. H. H. Bull and Son, of Brampton, Ontario. The Jersey breeders regard it as something of a calamity that the herd should be allowed to leave the island.

DISCUSSION ON INSURANCE FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

Ottawa, Ont.—A scheme of unemployment insurance for Canada must of necessity be supported by the government subsidies, said Prof. Gilbert E. Jackson, of the university of Toronto, addressing the Canadian Political Science Association in annual session here.

Even in England, Prof. Jackson said, where labor statistics dating back 60 years were available, it had been impossible to support the scheme by state assistance. It would be almost impossible to carry on unemployment insurance by workers' contributions alone in Canada, where the expectation of employment in future seasons could not be as well charted as in England, even.

The unemployment situation was more cruel in Canada than in any other country because of wide fluctuations, not only in seasonal employment, but in the demand for labor as between the various provinces.

Questions which, he contended, must be carefully considered before putting such insurance into effect were whether there was in Canada a sufficient body of public opinion in favor of it, and whether there was danger that the energy of the Canadian workmen would be sapped by the system.

Benefits of the scheme would be largely dependent on an associated scheme of labor exchanges, and a greatly extended employment placement service.

No Duty On Foreign Wheat

British Government Is Opposed To Tax Says Minister

London, England.—Question of preference for the Canadian wheat-grower in the British market over foreign wheat came up in the House of Commons. Rt. Hon. William Graham, president of the Board of Trade, in reply to the suggestion, said the government did not intend to impose any duties on foreign wheat, as that had opposition, and granting Canada preference did not arise.

The answer brought a spirited query from the Conservative benches. "Do we understand the government's reply to the Canadian tariff concessions is that we can only treat them the same as we treat foreign governments?" Mr. Graham was asked.

"Not necessarily," the cabinet minister replied, "but we cannot speak of a tax on all imported wheat. The government is opposed to this."

Toronto Man Killed When Parachute Fails

Was Making First Attempt To Jump From Airplane

Toronto, Ont.—Attempting his first parachute jump from an aeroplane, Kenneth Burgess, Toronto, was killed when the parachute failed to open. The aeroplane was at an altitude of 1,000 feet when Burgess jumped. The unopened parachute caught on a tangle of telephone wires, hurling him into the ditch. He was alive when picked up and a doctor was summoned, but he died a few minutes later.

The aeroplane was a Colonial Airways machine, which left the company's field near Leaside Street in North York Township.

Burgess is survived by his widow and two children.

Ask Amendment Of Criminal Code

Chemists Protest Sale Of Certain Medicines For Their Production

Toronto, Ont.—A despatch from Ottawa to the Toronto Star, says that in a bill introduced by the government to amend the criminal code, a change has been made at the request of Christian Scientists, in three sections, which deal with the obligations of heads of families, people in charge of the sick, and masters and mistresses of servants and apprentices under sixteen. It is explained the purpose of the section is to permit Christian Scientists to practice their beliefs without fear of prosecution.

The new sub-section which is suggested for the criminal code in this regard is as follows:

"Any obligation which may be involved in this or the two preceding sections to supply medical or surgical aid shall not be imposed on the exercise of life,' shall not apply to, or affect persons using or depending on prayer or spiritual healing for the treatment of human ailments as an enjoyment or exercise of religious freedom."

Suggest Advisory Board

Canadian Wheat Body To Solve Problem Of Immigration

Ottawa, Ont.—Establishment of a permanent advisory commission on immigration, to include similar to the tariff board, was one of the many suggestions dealing with the immigration problem made at the annual meeting of the Canadian Political Science Association here. The suggestion was made in a paper by Prof. W. B. Hurd, of Brandon, Man.

In his opinion the regulation of immigration should be based on scientific economists and sociologists, rather than politicians. A commission of this kind would recommend the nation of employment and social conditions throughout Canada and could give information to the governments on the number and type of immigrants which could profitably be admitted. Co-operation between the various immigrants for any district would have to make application before they were considered, and the decisions of an economic rather than a sentimental character.

The railway will be in operation one year hence, and Mr. Crerar said that he proposed to take immediate steps to discover what the legal position is. He will communicate with the railway commission and find out exactly if Crow's Nest Pass rates automatically apply to the new railway. If not, he will initiate measures to bring the Bay route under the Crow's Nest agreement.

The Quebec Seminary team won the senior cadet shield with a shooting average of 98.30.

Naval Agreement Is Attacked By Admirals

Place Their Navy In Inferior Position Say U.S. Officers

Washington, D.C.—Two more admirals told senate committees that the London naval treaty would leave the United States in a position of inferiority.

Rear Admiral J. V. Chase, of the General Board, said the pact did not represent parity with Great Britain, and had many other flaws from the viewpoint of a navy man.

Although he was an adviser at the London conference, Rear Admiral J. R. P. Pringle said, he was unsatisfied but once by the United States delegation. He advised the delegates against their agreement they finally accepted.

HOUSE UNITED IN ENDORSING PENSIONS BILL

Ottawa, Ont.—The government and the opposition united in expressing appreciation for the work of the parliamentary committee on pensions, when the bill to amend the pensions act was given its second reading in the commons in committee. The bill is to give legislative effect to the recommendation of the pensions committee decided upon after a lengthy enquiry into the claims of organizations of ex-service men for more generous treatment. The bill passed the committee stage quickly, and was then given third reading. It now goes to the senate.

When he arose to explain the bill Hon. Dr. J. H. King, Minister of Pensions and National Health, praised the work of the committee. He said the committee would be returned men, but all the people of Canada, he pleased with the work which had been accomplished and highly appreciative of the unliring efforts of the members of the committee. The report of the committee had been unanimous.

The bill revises the machinery for dealing with appeals and increases the pensions board. It provides a veterans' bureau to prepare the cases for the boards. An important change gives a veteran the advantage when there is a reasonable doubt as to whether his incapacity was due to war service.

Congratulating the committee on the patient and painstaking care and knowledge brought to this important question, Hon. R. B. Bennett said its members were entitled to the thanks of the nation. The committee was composed of men with first hand experience of military conditions, especially praised the chairman, C. G. Power (Liberal, Quebec South).

No difference of opinion existed among Canadian people, the Conservative leader declared, as to the necessity of providing a reasonable measure of generous compensation to all those who had risked their lives for this country. It assured the returned man the country was behind him, said Mr. Bennett.

There was no political partisan in the bill or in the methods by which the committee had worked

People Interested In Veterans' Allowance Act Says Major-General MacDonnell

Ottawa, Ont.—Criticism of the plan to appoint the commissioner to administer the War Veterans' Allowance Act wholly of returned men was made by Major-General A. H. MacDonnell, a member of the Senate committee investigating the bill. Dr. J. A. Amyot, deputy minister of the Department of Pensions, informed the committee it was the intention to appoint veterans to the commission.

General MacDonnell did not contend that returned men could not fill the offices, but he believed the general public should be represented as well County judges could be utilized, he suggested, and they would bring to the committee experience that the majority of returned soldiers lacked.

Change Will Assist Trade

Canadian Tariff Gives Many Advantages To British Manufacturer

London, England. — Hon. W. S. Fielding, parliamentary secretary to the Board of Trade, said in the House of Commons, the changes in the Canadian tariff would affect very few operations in a great many sections of the export trade of Britain. Every effort was being made to assist manufacturers and traders to take advantage of their new opportunities, he said. While the department of overseas trade believed no practical purpose could be served by such a reference it would be glad to adopt the proposals of particular groups if they felt that consultation would be useful, he concluded.

Considering Reverse "Rhodes Scholarships"

Would Permit English Boys To Attend Canadian Universities

Toronto, Ont. — Sir Robert Falconer, president of the University of Toronto announces the establishment of a reverse "Rhodes Scholarship" is being considered by a committee of educationists to permit English boys to attend Canadian universities.

Dr. Cyril Norwood, chairman of the party of English schoolmasters which recently visited Canada, strongly advocated such an exchange of students, stressing his wish to see English boys spend a year in economics and science. In praising the idea, Chancellor H. P. Whidden, of McMaster University, said, "I consider the point by Dr. Norwood, that Canada offers opportunities in the scientific and economic fields is well taken. One would hardly expect English students to study classics here when such excellent facilities are offered at Oxford."

Gen. C. H. Mitchell, dean of the faculty of applied science of the University of Toronto, termed the scheme of "Reverse Scholarships" practical and feasible

BILL ON LIQUOR CLEARANCES TO STATES PASSED

Ottawa, Ont.—Without a recorded vote, the senate gave third reading to the government bill prohibiting the clearance of liquor to the United States. An amendment, moved by Hon. Rufus Pope, to the effect that the bill should not come into effect until proclaimed by the governor-in-council, was voted down by a majority of 22 to 14. The vote was registered for 10 against 39

Although several senators spoke against the bill, there was no registered vote on the main motion. THIRD FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

May 22nd, 1930.

During the first week of the past fortnight the weather was generally clear with slightly higher temperatures prevailing. Local rains occurred in the Southern and Eastern parts of the province. High winds were of frequent occurrence and some damage resulted due to soil drifting.

On May 20th a heavy wind swept over the central portion of the Province particularly from Olds to Lacombe and eastward, doing damage to crops sown on summerfallow. In the Edmonton district the wind was followed by rain and snow, the greatest snow being reported from the area lying north of Edmonton, though not extending to the Peace River district. A large area to the south and east of this city received a supply of much needed moisture. At present all parts of the province report sufficient moisture for immediate needs. Frost has done considerable damage to trees, shrubs and early garden plants but only slight damage to field crops.

All wheat is seeded and 75 p. c. above ground. Oat seeding is complete with the exception of oats for green feed, and barley is 75 p.c. sown. Growth is slow but the grain is of good color and establishing a good root system. The crop has gone in early and having sufficient moisture for germination is away to a good start.

All spring rye and 90 p.c. of sugar beets is seeded. There is a slight increase in the area devoted to sugar beets.

Weeds are unusually bad in early sown fields. Flight damage is reported due to wire worms and cut worms.

Correspondents generally agree that an increased acreage has been sown of sweet clover, alfalfa and grasses. Hay and pasture crops are making excellent growth and livestock is progressing favorably.

Conservative forces in Regina Tuesday night voiced their support for F. W. Turnbull, K.C., to oppose Hon. Charles Dunning in this year's federal election.

HAMILTON MACKENZIE LEITCH

One of the largest funerals in the history of Manaville took place on Tuesday, May 20th, when Hamilton Mackenzie Leitch was buried from the United Church. The deceased was born on June 11th, 1908 at Clair, Saskatchewan, but the following year moved to Islay, Alberta, where Mr. Leitch went into the hardware business and where they stayed until 1921, in which year they took over the hardware business in Manaville and moved to that town.

"Mac" was a leader in all the activities of the young people, and his interest and support was eagerly solicited by all who knew him. In business he was courteous and obliging, and in social life he was always considerate of others so that his loss is felt very deeply.

He was taken sick some time ago, and in the hope that something might be done for him, he was sent to the provincial Sanatorium, at Calgary, where he remained for seven months. Returning home in March of this year his cheerfulness caused his friends to hope for his recovery, but in spite of all that could be done he passed away very quietly on Sunday, May 18th, leaving to mourn his passing a mother, father and brother, to whom our heartfelt sympathies go out.

The funeral service was held in the United church, Manaville, and the interment took place in the Manaville Cemetery Rev. Thos Hart officiated. DON'T STOP MY PAPER

Don't stop my paper printer
Don't strike my name off yet,
You know the times are stringent
And the dollars hard to get.
But I'll work a little harder,
That's what I mean to do.
And get the dimes together
And send them off to you
I can't afford to drop it,
I find it would not pay
To do without your paper,
However others may.
I would not ask my neighbors
To give me theirs on loan;
They don't just say, but mean it.
"Why don't you buy your own?"
You can't tell how I miss it,
If it by any fate,
Should happen not to reach us
Or come a little late
Then all is in a hubbub
And things all go awry,
We cannot do without it,—
You know the reason why.
The young folks want the stories
And I an sayings, too,
At flow to please it grow
And then to read it through.
I cannot do without it,
It is to me to try,
For other people take it,
And, printer, so must I.

Frigidaire Breaks Record

All shipment records of Frigidaire Corporation were broken on April 30 when 214 carloads of electric refrigerators left the plants. The best previous day's record was for May 31, 1929, when 121 carloads were shipped.

The new all-time record was established in less than two weeks after the company began a million dollar newspaper advertising campaign to supplement its spring field activity, according to E. C. Biechler, president and general manager. The increased advertising expenditure was predicated upon a record breaking first quarter, a 100 per cent. increase in showroom visitors, and a newspaper survey which showed an overwhelming preference on the part of the public for Frigidaire, it was stated.

"Three days before the campaign started, every available member of the factory sales organization was sent into the field, to assist in more than 100 district meetings which were held to acquaint dealers and salesmen with details of the campaign and instruct them in the best ways to capitalize upon the advertising," Mr. Biechler said. "We gave them all the ammunitions and told them to use them in sales demonstrations."

The first newspaper advertising featured the fact that there are now three times as many Frigidaires in use as any other make of electric refrigerator and more than all others combined. One advertisement was devoted to ability of the product to function perfectly in intense heat.

Thousands of dealers tied in with the advertising campaign by one of a special display window, showing a household model, which although suspected to burning heat still maintained refrigeration temperatures and produced a continuous supply of ice cubes. Thermometers and glass containers with contents boiling gave ocular proof of the heat and the sturdy insulation which so successfully withstood it.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Neale and family from Kinsella were visitors in town on Sunday.

No widespread or general depression exists in Canada, though several factors, notably the failure to market our grain and the loss in buying power resulting therefrom, have contributed to a slowing-up of traffic, declared E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, addressing the shareholders of the company at the 49th annual meeting held early in May. He added that there was nothing of a fundamental character which should prevent the return of normal business conditions within the next few months Mr Beatty said. "We have all been hopeful that the first and perhaps most essential change both before and since its psychological as well as its commercial effect, namely the free movement of grain out of the country, would be in evidence during this or next month."

At the annual meeting of the Canadian Pacific Railway company held early this month dividend of 2½ percent. on common stock for quarter ending March 31 last, was declared from railway revenues and special income, payable June 30 next to shareholders of record May 29. MOTHER SHIPTON'S PROPHECY

First published in 1448; republished in 1641. It will be noticed that except for the last two lines, her prophecy has been fulfilled to the letter and the last remains to be seen.

Carriages without horses shall go,
And accidents fill the world with woe.
Around the world thoughts shall fly
In the twinkling of an eye.
Lands yet shall wonders do.
Now strange, yet shall be true
The world upside down shall be
And gold be found at root of tree
Through hills men shall ride
And no horse or ass be at his side.
Under water men shall walk,
Shall ride, shall sleep, shall talk.
In white, in black, in green.
In the air men shall be seen.
Iron in water shall float
As easy as a wooden boat.
Gold shall be found
In a land that's now known
Fire and water shall wonders do
England shall at last admit a Jew
The world shall get rich and dirty
And come to an end in Nineteen Thirty.

There are more people in the world now than ever before in the history of mankind, figures compiled by the International Statistical Institute show. The total was given as an excess of 2,000,000,000.

Uniform Codes For Pilots

Necessary For Aviators Flying Over Border Between Canada and United States

Aviators flying over the Canadian border from either side, will be assured of uniform signal codes, in the near future

Officials of both countries conferred at Washington, recently, for the purpose of providing the basis for a working agreement under which aircraft crossing the border will be assured that the same system of communication of direction-aids prevails on one side as on the other. What is being sought, it is explained, may be considered a uniform code of traffic rules for the air, such as is being worked out for automobiles

The airways of the United States and Canada are rapidly being linked up and there is already considerable routine flying from the United States into Canada and return. In order to secure a maximum of safety in these flights, it is essential that the system of communication and radio aids to air navigation used on the Canadian airways be co-ordinated with that used on the United States routes that lead across the border

How They Run It

Two elderly ladies arrived in the New York Grand Central Terminal the other evening and were caught sight of the airplane Bremen up on the balcony This was apparently their first view of an airplane at close range They studied it for a while in awed silence, then one of them spoke, in the accents of discovery "It's built on the plan of a bird," she said

Fond Father "The man who marries my daughter, sir, wins a prize." Guest: "My word, that is a novel idea! Is it a motor prize or just a silver cup?"

New Use For Wheat

Light Crop Can Be Made Profitable By Feeding To Poultry

With the present uncertainty which prevails in the wheat market the Dominion Department of Agriculture finds that farmers are paying more attention to the marketing of grain crops through live stock. Some important and interesting results have come to light, and not the least interesting is the experience of an Alberta farmer who had a light crop which he could not sell at the elevator. He had a flock of poultry and started feeding the wheat to them and marketing it in the form of eggs through the local egg pool. When the winter was over he figured up his costs and found that he had sold the wheat thus fed at an average price of $5 per bushel. Another western farmer with a modest flock of 150 birds kept his family throughout the winter on the income from the eggs, and he states that his gross income for the winter from the flock averaged $200 per month.

Plan To Encourage Community Progress

Canadian National Railway Will Give Prizes For Competition

Plans which seek to provide a substantial contribution to the encouragement of community progress and development, and the attainment of the fullest possible measure of Canadian citizenship by those rural communities in Western Canada which are of European origin, have been developed by the Canadian railways according to an announcement just made by Sir Henry Thornton from the head offices of the railway company at Montreal.

These plans initiated and developed by Dr. W. J. Black, director of the Department of Agriculture and Colonization, of the National System, involve the carrying out of a series of competitions among such communities of European origin, have been developed by the Canadian railways according to an announcement just made by Sir Henry Thornton from the head offices of the railway company at Montreal.

The Departments of Agriculture and Colonization of the National Railways, will assume the responsibility of conducting the competitions, but hearty co-operation and support in the carrying out of the entire scheme has been offered by various departments of the provincial governments which have chiefly to do with matters of rural community progress and welfare. Local boards of management in every title also intimated that the project has their support and approval in the carrying out of the competitions in each province. A committee of three outstanding citizens will be selected

It is proposed to confine the competitions to rural municipalities, or groups of school districts within municipalities, and the first competition is made up of people of continental European origin, first or second generation, who have planted that the interest which these people take in co-operating to make effective the policies of such departments of government as have to do with agriculture, education and public health, may be regarded as an index of the people i the advantages of what the Dominion provides towards influencing their status and citizenship. It has, therefore, been decided that emphasis shall be placed upon the things which these departments regard as of greatest importance. Consideration will be given to such matters as the number

In copy omitted from last week's Standard was a new item in connection with the return of Mr and Mrs. G. W. Whitnell from Rose Lake, Florida to take up residence in their home here for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Whitnell motored from Stuart to Chicago, covering a distance of around 2500 miles, all of which was made over paved highway with the exception of a short stretch of 21 miles. They had a most enjoyable sight seeing tour. Speaking of gravelled roads Mr. Whitnell considered that too coarse a gravel is being used on our Alberta highways, our clay being too hard and dry to enable the stones to bed properly. It is his opinion good results can only be had from using a fine stone or gravel. While speaking about roads, it might be opportune to mention that some surfacing is needed on the ravine fill in the west end of town, this being the only road now available for residents in that area.

THE LAST MONTH OF SCHOOL

The following valuable hints for mothers should be made note of at this pressure of examination time draws near. Failure to pass exams is often the result of poor health, a run down mind on a depleted body. Do not let the boys and girls burn the candle at both ends or a nervous breakdown will be the result.

How to Pass Exams.

Keep the child's energy up to par by special attention to his diet. Begin each day with a substantial breakfast of fruit, cereal, milk or cocoa, and toast, plus the occasional egg.

Rest periods are important and at real value after the noon lunch and before the evening meal. A happy unworried mental attitude is essential when settling down to homework. Cultivate confidence in the child's mind and courage to tackle his problems.

A quiet place to study and a peaceful sympathetic atmosphere at home will give the best environment. See that supper is a good meal of meats frying and lasting quality. Lastly sleep long, with the windows open, going early to bed every night for the month of June.

In short, see that your child follows the teaching of the Junior Red Cross Health Rules if you would have him up to the mark.

Sports' Day Big Success

Had Ideal Weather

The V.A.A.A. must be composed of very good men as they were blessed with what is considered as the finest day so far this year for the sports on June 3rd. Bright sunshine with a cool fresh air made conditions just right for a big array of athletic events which were participated in by a large number of entries. Approximately 1000 people were on the grounds and admittance was also paid for 191 cars. Proceeds from the dance alone amounted to $200.00 at a dollar per couple. The athletic events were entered into more heartily than ever this year and brought out several outstanding athletes—Carman Long of Vermilion and Fairey and Coles of Lloydminster being prominent in these.

Viking Takes Baseball Tourney

Seven teams competed for the $100 first prize in the ball tourney, with Viking taking the honors from the Vermilion high school boys in the final game in the evening. Lack of pitchers told heavily on the high school boys in the final game. Art Wiebe starting his second game in succession only lasted one inning too much for him against a team of seasoned players like the Viking nine. Vermilion had previously defeated Peshaw and Viking had taken the strong Clandonald nine into camp in what was probably the best game of the day. The entries were Viking, V.H. S., Clandonald, Peshaw, Elk Point, Innisfree, and Kitscoty.

Football Monty Goes to Lloyd.

Lloydminster walked away with a large number of prizes yesterday, among them being first in the football tourney, proving themselves the best out of the four teams entered. Vermilion returned Claymore, and Clandonald fell to Lloydminster in the first round, bringing Lloyd and Vermilion together in the final. The game was evenly contested throughout, but one earned and one lucky goal paved the way for a 2-0 win for the Border boys.

Interesting Horse-shoe Battles

Nazarchuk and Leveille bested in John Slavik and Hoskins of Viking in the final of the horse-shoe tourney in the first competition, while K. B. and John McKenzie were first, and Bill and Manson Barr second in the second tournament.

Morrison Reed Race

The three-mile road race was one of the best yet run, six starting and three finishing, with Roy Hewlett of Lloydminster first, McCourt of Kitscoty, last year's winner, was second, and Hryniuk of Mannville third. The time was 20 minutes.

Basketball

The Minburn girls again carried off the Challenge cup and first prize in the 20 years and under basketball. The 15 years and under class was not

Exams And Voting Clash In Schools

Remedy Arrived At

The recent uncertainty due to election day being set right in the midst of examinations has at last been set at rest by the department of education, who have sent out letters stating that in schools where polling would interfere with the writing of exams, the examinations should be written in a private residence. It probably leaves the arranging for the private residence to the school board. Election day for those not writing departmental exams in the rural schools is a holiday. Although many things probably combine to finally set the date for an election it seems as if sometime was surely overlooked when the government would choose a day in the whole year out of the two weeks set aside for the departmental examinations. The majority of rural schools are used as polling places and changing the children even for one or two examinations into a strange atmosphere — most likely poor light and poor accommodation — is likely to prove disastrous to many a candidate's chances.

Advice For Farm Boys

The difficulty in securing work in the towns and cities abroad, will have a tendency to make young men more contented on the farm and give them a desire to make improvements there that might ultimately put them on the road to better things. Put on farming is at the present moment it is no better than the trade in the towns and cities.

Ireland Only Country Without War Memorial

Money Subscribed But Political Feeling Has Barred Erection

Of all the countries that took part in the Great War, Ireland is the only one still without a National Memorial to her dead. The money, some £50,000 has long since been subscribed, but political rancour has all along thwarted the objects of the subscribers. It is felt by a great body of Irishmen abroad as well as at home, that a National tribute to the 60,000 Irish soldiers who fell in the War should occupy one of Dublin's best central positions. Political feeling however, has rendered this impossible, and all the assistance that the Free State Government have given in the matter has been to offer a site beside a little-used roadway some miles beyond the city boundary. This proposal the Memorial Committee naturally rejected, but it is quite possible that, if no an alternative to a central city site a prominent place in Phoenix Park cannot be obtained. Bethat may be asked to find a position worthy of the Memorial.

New Home For Airplanes

May Solve Problem Of Ocean Flying Says German Authority

A tiny motor about as big a beer bottle, with characteristics of both a blast furnace and a refrigerator, may solve ocean flying, believes Dr. Paul Heylandt, liquid gas authority, will lead to development of a special type of rocket-propelled "plane which will shoot up 60,000 feet and travel at 650 miles an hour.

The motor, an elongated, pistol-shaped drum of hardest steel, is a one - cylinder, valveless contraption devoid of pistons or other movable parts, into the front end liquid oxygen is sprayed, while into the further end, near the exhaust, liquid fuel, such as wood alcohol, benzine, gasoline, or even fuel oil is injected.

At the entrance points of both components into the motor there are spraying attachments which diffuse the liquids over the entire hollow interior. The liquid fuel is ignited as it comes in contact with the liquid oxygen. The result is an enormously steady combustion which produces a recoil of 220 horse-power with a motor of only 1 pounds. Another German automobile motors produce only about half a horse-power of propulsive energy per pound.

As the two components explode, they chit a steady stream of smokeless, noiseless fire about a hollow jet. The fuel is ignited at it comes in contact with the liquid oxygen. High School Notes

The soft-ball girls succeeded in winning first prize at the June 3rd sports. They defeated the public school team in the morning and the Manawille team in the afternoon, 24 to 17. The latter was a very good game, Vermilion coming up wonderfully in the last two innings. Our reputation is won again — till next fall. These games conclude the soft-ball schedule and unfortunately the team will suffer the loss of several of their players. But we hope others may be found and Vermilion soft-ball flourish in the future!

The boys baseball team showed up very well, winning second prize. They defeated Fenham first, 7-5, but were defeated by the Viking team 11-5. This team has also done very well this spring and summer and we hope their success will continue.

The Junior Boys were defeated in a very close game with Kitscoty, 4-3. The 15 years and under team succeeded in winning the tournament, playing three games.

The girls basketball team was defeated by Mannville. They did very well, however, not having had any practise this season.

The closing exercises are to be held on Monday, June 16. The play "As You Like It" is to be produced then and promises to be very good. Notices are being put out this week.

Carman Long got first in the 100 yards dash open and second in the 220 open. Matt Brimacombe first in high jump. J. White first and Laird Kearns second in the 100 yards dash, and J. White and L. Kearns first in the three-legged race. So the school was fairly well represented in the prize money collecting.

Not many of the Islay people attended the Vermilion races on June 3rd, as it was not a public holiday. A few cars went up to the dance in the evening and report a good time in spite of the tremendous crowd present.

The local Nighthawks orchestra are playing at Marwayne this Friday.

Although a little late for this year the following thought might be acted upon at the next annual meeting of the V.A.A.A. It is briefly this: That the Association hold their annual sports on the Wednesday of the week in which June 3rd falls—that is, the first Wednesday in June. June 3rd, as everyone knows, is not a public holiday, consequently many people in smaller towns who would attend cannot do so on account of their business. The Wednesday half-holiday is now observed generally throughout Canada, and a big increase in attendance would be looked for if our sports were held on a day when all businesses close up. Next year June 3rd falls naturally on a Wednesday, and if the attendance shows a decided increase—given favorable weather—then no hesitation should be shown in changing the sports day as suggested.

SHORT COURSE FOR FARM WOMEN AT VERMILION SCHOOL

Is the First of Its Kind

A Farm Women's Week to take place in July at the Dominion and Vermilion Schools of Agriculture has just been announced by the Alberta Women's Bureau, department of agriculture.

This course which will last for four days will be of special interest to farm women and will include lectures and demonstrations in such subjects as cleaning, cooking, home nursing, gardening and other topics relating to the country home.

In addition to the information to be obtained, it is the object of the department to supply a holiday and rest to women who do not have an opportunity to get away from home for other holidays and breaks in the regular routine of life. The lectures will very largely take the form of informal talks and every delegate is asked to come prepared to discuss her problems with the staff and instructors. A big entertaining will be very interesting.

July 7 to 10 have been selected for the course at Vermilion and July 14 to 17 for the course at Olds

During the hot weather, in the month of July, many farm women especially the mothers or small children, feel the need of a change and a real before commencing the extra work which harvesting and threshing bring. At this time of the year the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. — Agriculture are usually at their best. The accommodation and comforts provided by the demonstrators will be ideal for such a holiday and rest.

In cases where it is necessary for mothers to bring small children provision for care of these under five years of age will be made free of charge.

The department is co-operating with women's organizations throughout the province in selection and appointing delegates to attend the course.—Edmonton Journal

AMONG THE HORSE-SHOES

The Vermilion Horse-shoe club were out with their forces at the sports grounds. The club carried away the bulk of the prize money

Dan Leveille and John Nazarchuk got second money in the first competition and E. B. and John McKemmie got first in the second competition. Bill and Manson Barr got second.

That horse-shoe pitching is coming ahead strong all over the country was proved on Tuesday afternoon. The class of play is far ahead of anything seen here since the competitions have been started

"RINGERS"

Those two stalwarts, Dave Kennedy and Sam Pozanchuk, are very disappointing from the club point of view. Too much practise, says Dave.

The second competition at the sports ended up in a fault) snickering between the McKenzies and the Harris

Joe and Slezbuck looked like the goods for a shut while, and then they fell down Five ringers is plenty in one day, says Joe.

Everybody got lined up for next week's competition. See your captain and get a good drilling before the day.

Scotty Shannon was referee at the horse-shoe sports day. He watched the different ways of the pitchers and he is quite sure that he can beat both Sammy and Dave with one of the ways he has adopted.

Sam Drazenuik and Dave Kennedy are going to quit horse-shoes. They needed one point to win the tourna ment but couldn't make it

Keeping Pace With Progress

Are we keeping pace with progress?

Progress is an unruly thing. It may be soon, but so often is not perceived. Like a river in a treeless prairie land, it creeps upon one unawares and, without any subject to imagination that some profound changes has taken place and has occurred. We have not been aware of the fact to now if its organic inadequacies—because its movement is so slow and unconscious, gradual. We have seen it unconsciously but it has been a part of our everyday life.

We begin to recognize progress when we approach the thing that we call progress from a distance. Progress is a word of extraordinary change in size and form but it is not a word which is the grand result of never ever never failures.

The other day I received some progress in retrospect. Look back a few years only a second or so, and the remarkable progress which civilization is making in the course of a brief span suddenly becomes apparent with startling clearness. It is the result of a revolutionary and far reaching change in our habits, our thinking, our living on all the time.

Turn your thoughts back a few years, and immediately the truth of the statement is made clear. Look at the pictures of yourself and others of a decade or less in shape of footwear in fashion of hair dressing in a few years. It appears incredible that one really looked like that 20, 15 or even ten years ago.

But progress is not confined to dress alone. It invades every department of human experience. In the whole realm of human activity it affects mental and even spiritual areas, a stretch of the imagination is not necessary.

Think back a few years and contrast the means of transportation of that time with the present. Contrast the antiquated limousine of a few years ago with the automatic and the coupe of the present time. Appraise the difference between the paved passing road of yesterday with the broad gravelled highway along which we travel now.

Take the matter of medical research, along with which we come in contact, something we can always depend on. It has been subject to just as much remarkable advance as any other line in which specific reference has been made. Not a day passes but we note radical changes in what we wear and how we travel in a few short years—but it has wrought a similar transformation in what we eat and drink, in our amusements, in our work, in our social life, in our worship and even in what we think.

In no sphere of activity, however, has the evolution been more marked in recent years as in the field of daily work, in the realm of business, in city and country. In methods of production, in modes of distribution, in processes of marketing changes have revolutionized and are continuing to revolutionize the daily life of the individual. These changes are so pronounced and so rapid that they are apparent even to the most careless onlooker.

A writer in a popular magazine recently pointed out that such swift changes are being made in the conduct of business and commerce that bands of business men are finding it increasingly difficult to secure young men competent to engage in commercial life—men of the type which especially have their heritage. The aim of daily application of new scientific discoveries in the field of business results in the college student being out of date because the course though designed for the particular vocation he intends to follow has not kept pace with the changes taking place in the practical arena.

This revolutionary process is going on in the whole industrial field, agriculture included but as we stated at the outset it is not always so easy to perceive it the more it is customary and its proximity.

For this reason it is perhaps a wise thing, nay, a necessary thing to sometimes pause and look back a little, make a few comparisons with the past and in the light of these contrasts a clearer perspective may be gained of what is happening to us day by day and perhaps even an inkling may be received of what may be expected in future.

Only by doing this can we secure the necessary vision to enable us to keep pace with progress.

Berlin Courts Fined Man For Flight-ing Noise With Noise

For trying to conquer the noise produced by his neighbor on the floor above by a still more deafening noise Walter Hoeper, a lodger in an apartment house of a Berlin suburb was arraigned in court.

He stretched a violin string across two chairs immediately beneath the ceiling and he belabored it several hours daily with a bow while standing on a stepladder. He then screwed several hooks into the ceiling from which to suspend various dinners in the immediate portion.

The court sentenced the ingenious man to produce to a fine of 300 marks—and that of the repair of the damaged apartment.

Why Anglo-Egyptian Negotiations Failed

Britain Could Not Meet Demand For Immigration Into Sudan

A white paper published disclosed that the breakdown in Anglo-Egyptian negotiations which terminated in London, May 8, was due to the impossibility of finding any formula which would satisfy the Egyptian demand for unrestricted immigration of Egyptian nationals into the Sudan.

The document shows that little difficulty was experienced in negotiations on most points, although there were long discussions regarding the defence of the Suez Canal.

At first Great Britain demanded that the British troops should all be concentrated on the east bank of the canal. They subsequently agreed to the British stipulation for troops to the west of the canal but no agreement could be reached on the Sudan question.

Aerial Photographic Expert "Shoots" Mount Rainier 176 Miles Away

Capt. A. W. Stevens, aerial photographic expert, has broken his own record for long-distance aerial photography, "shooting" Mt. Rainier from a distance of 176 miles.

The feat adds almost 50 miles to the record established by Captain Stevens last year, when his camera registered objects 227 miles distant. The new photograph was made while in flight 20 000 feet above Crater Lake, in Oregon, and gives a clear picture of various mountain ranges stretching northward to the lofty peak of Mt. Rainier, 14,000 feet above the sea.

When the picture was taken the thermometer on the plane, which was piloted by Lieut. Leon Cuddeback, stood at 20 below zero. A liquid oxygen supply was carried.

"Shooting at Mt. Rainier from a distance greater than that between New York City and Washington is like shooting at the moon and means the difference that you can see the moon," says Captain Stevens. "The principal task is to aim the camera in the general direction you believe your objective to be, snap the trigger and hope for luck."

Investments Along the National Show Increase

Over Seventy-Four Million Involved In Manufacturing Industrial Plants

New industrial plants established along the lines of the Canadian National Railways, in 1929, involved a total capital investment by the industries of $74,106,10, according to the annual report of William Phillips, manager of the Industrial Department of the system. This was an increase of $686,300 over the previous year, when the expenditure was $73,-419,800. Additions to plants already existing represent an investment of $33,381,000, an increase of $8,792,200 over 1928. On the Grand Trunk Western lines of the system, the capital investment by industry for new plants and branches totalled $11,739,-800. While this was a decrease of $7,000,000, there was an increase of $2,327,000 in additions to plants, the total being $11,563,000.

Canadian development from Atlantic to Pacific, Mr. Phillips indicates, was in many fields, involving such industries as: newsprint, cold storage, warehousing, grain elevators, pulp mills, canning plants, foundries, distilleries, automobile plants, lumbering and mining industries. Among the outstanding developments in Western Canada were in mining in Manitoba, and in coal and forest plants in British Columbia. The Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company, and the Sherritt-Gordon Mines, Ltd., at Flin Flon, and Sherridon, expended $10,000,000, while two cold storage plants, costing more than $2,000,000, were established at New Westminster and Victoria, B.C. New elevators in the west represented a total expenditure of $1,345,800 and new oil warehouses, $492,000.

Lesson Never Learned

Revolvers Taken From Chauffeur In Spite Of Daily Accidents

Does it pay to drive recklessly on the highway? The answer is simple. Nevertheless we need to be impressed now and again with the foolhardiness of throwing caution to the winds and of performing dangerous tactics such as cutting in on the car ahead, ignoring danger signals and so on.

Some time ago a lady motorist driving on the Hamilton-St. Catharines highway in Ontario, escaped one of those rash acts. She cut in on another car and caused a heap of trouble. Ask a revolver for poor judgment or whatever it was, three cars were damaged, four people injured and three lawsuits followed, culminating in a judgment of $4,650 to be paid to seven persons in adjustments.

What a risk and penalty to pay for gaining a few car lengths! Was her time as precious as all that?

BRITISH FIRMS PLAN TO MAKE CARS IN CANADA

London, England. British automobile manufacturers are preparing to invade the Canadian market. They propose the establishment of assembling and manufacturing plants backed by extensive salesmanship, it was learned at the Chambers of Commerce Congress.

Canadian delegates submitted three principal points:

(1) That British should imitate the example of the United States by providing, as far as possible, for manufacturing plants in Canada and that the most effective way of meeting foreign competition in Canada was to take their courage in their hands and put up manufacturing plants in Canada.

(2) The necessity of having in Canada centres for assembling where organizations could be developed for the provision of spare parts.

(3) The necessity of energetic salesmanship. Reporting to Congress, F. J. Hannon, the chairman of Bilateral discussions, said he had received from British motor manufacturers a letter in which they said they were prepared by co-ordination and co-operation to produce a really concentrated attack upon Canada through a highly organized method of advertisement and publicity.

They were also preparing to furnish service and spare parts for their motors so that the Canadian owner would have no more trouble with his British car, than with his American product.

Over Seven Million Paid In Pensions

Dominion Government Contributed Nearly Four Million To Pensions

Ottawa, Ont.—The Dominion Government has contributed a total of $3,771,549.68 to the province in aid of old age pensions, up to the end of the last fiscal year, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons. The disbursements to the 42 853 pensioners throughout Canada amounted to $7,542,579.92.

The province is the distribution by provinces: Alberta, 2,017 pensioners, $367,420.04 total paid; British Columbia, 3,000 pensioners, $2,019,874.20 total paid; Manitoba, 3,104 pensioners, $1,949,299.67 total paid; Ontario, 20,-276 pensioners, $2,225,698.32 total paid; Saskatchewan, 4,483 pensioners, $1,130,942.82 total paid; North-West Territories, 4 pensioners, $567 total paid.

"The apparent disproportion as between pensioners and total payments is due to the shorter period in which the act has been operating in the Province of Quebec, which province was the first to adopt the act, Ontario the last. Consequently the disbursements in British Columbia have been in progress for a much longer time than to Ontario.

Drenching Rain Wednesday A.M.

1½ Inches of Rain Brightens Prospects Generally

The old hackneyed phrase "a million dollar rain" is quite insufficient to describe the deluge with which the country was treated Wednesday morning. Starting in earnest about 9 a.m., although there had been some light showers before that, the rain fell steadily in a regular downpour until 7 a.m. one and a quarter inches had fallen, according to Vermilion Agricultural College measurement, and it was judged that fully a quarter of an inch more fell after that before it let up for the morning. Needless to say crops will benefit mightily, while gardens, trees, etc. have already begun to show the good effects of the heavy rain.

With an overclouded sky and high wind rain has fallen on and off all of today (Thursday).

Heavy Rains Make Roads Impassable

A very entertaining being in readiness for the holding of the largest convention in the interests of the Conservative in the history of this constituency and what would probably have been one of the most largely attended in the province, the convention had to be postponed on account of the deluge Wednesday morning which made the roads practically impassable and which would have greatly reduced the attendance. Officers of the association have been busy on the street early on Wednesday and the convention was postponed until Wednesday, June 25th which is a week later on the same place, the Elite Theatre, Wainwright

The Canadian Pacific Bubble

The following extract from an editorial in "London Truth," published, September 1, 1841, 40 years ago is amusing:

The Canadian Pacific Railroad Company has actually had the audacity to launch its bonds. A group of Montreal and New York bankers have undertaken to float ten million dollars worth of the company's land grant bonds, and the Times of Montreal with its usual cringing has taken one-fourth of the entire loan. This announcement looks as if the Canadians were going to raise the necessary capital on the other side of the water, but I have a shrewd suspicion that they have no intention of doing anything of the kind. The New Yorkers are keen enough gamblers, and reckless enough at times I admit, and yet it is impossible to believe that they are such fools as to put their money into this mad project. It would be soon credit them with a willingness to subscribe hard cash in support of a scheme for the utilization of icebergs. The Canada Pacific Railway will ruin. If it is ever finished through a country that is practically seven or eight months in the year, and will connect with the western part of the Dominion a province which embraces about as forbidding a country as any on the face of the earth. British Columbia, they say, has forced on the Executive of this part of the contract under which they become incorporated with the Dominion, and believe that prosperity will come to them when the line is made. This is a delusion in their part. British Columbia is a barren, cold, mountain country that is not worth keeping. It would never have been inhabited at all unless by rangers of the Hudson Bay Company, which had the "gold fever" and taken a party of mining adventurers there and ever since that fever died down the place has been given up to the Indians. Fifty railroads would not galvanize it into prosperity.

Nevertheless the Canadian Government fairly launched into this project and I have no doubt the English public will soon be asked to further it with their cash. The parade of selling bonds in New York and Montreal is the new way of raising money. The "Syndicate" bankers and loan contractors have adopted in order that it may seem that they have faith in the enterprise they foster. Ten millions of dollars of real, or rather cash could be found in all of Canada for this or any other work of utility at a pinch, but the Canadians are not quite such fools as to part with one dollar of their own if they can borrow their neighbors'. The Canadians spend money and we provide it. This has been the arrangement hitherto, and it has worked out splendidly for the Canadians—too well for them to try any other scheme with the Canadian Pacific Railway. They must know it cannot likely to pay a single red cent of interest—the names that may be made in N. A. forest of mine and lumber will be known to but few. I admit that he did not better the much boasted Manitoba settlement would have cost many years. The people who have gone there cannot stand the cold keen of the winters. Men and cattle have to double in number before they would rather startle the intending settler if he knew, and those who are not killed outright are either frozen or ruined. The cattle of the early settlements fell people with malaria, or drive them mad with plagues of insects. And to keep themselves alive during the long winter they have to imitate the habits of the Esquimaux. Those who want to know what it is like should read the not very dry pages of Colonel Butler. His "Great Lone Land is the land of which the Canadian Pacific Railway has yet five and twenty million acres to sell and it is through a desolate region of this kind that the new railway is to run.

As the bonds "secured" on this land or others guaranteed by the Dominion Government are sure to be offered in this market by the "Bankers" and others forming the syndicate, I think a word or two on Canadian finances in general would be in season.

Canada is one of the most over-rated colonies we have, but it is heartily "loyal" and makes the heredity pay. Its astute inhabitants know well how to work on John Bull's susceptibilities, and I have seen nothing finer in the way of advertisement than poor Lord Lorne's "Tour" now in progress. He has gone to the North but not at the right time and the gushing accounts we are receiving from the "loyals" who are accompanying him are admirably adapted to create a belief that the true land of promise is to be found there at last. Will such be the case? Will not the hardships of a good crop and a good market here, do that it did a little better but generally it has hard work to make ends meet, and often could not. Nearly every year it comes for a new loan or two, and once it is fairly committed to making this new railway I see nothing before it but bankruptcy. While the money is being spent all will go well enough perhaps but in the end the Dominion will have to face its liquidation. It cannot see that its stocks stand where they do as things are but if people took the trouble to look beneath the surface people would be very different. One of these days when the load gets too heavy Ontario is pretty certain to go over to the States and with it the other Canada will have to follow suit. When the day comes the Dominion will disappear. With the contingency ahead and with the prospect of no more fifty million pounds or so to be added to the debt, can it be said that "Canadian Unincumbered Pour Per Cent" are worth their present price? The Dominion is in short a "fraud" all through and is destined to burst up like any other fraud Then, and not I suppose till then, the British taxpayer will ask why we guaranteed so much of this short government debt.

PHILLIPS

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the safest, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 58 years the standard with physicians. Once appealed in water Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acidity, and at once. The sour food particles, which hurtle sometimes full three-fourths of the stomach, are changed to a harmless, tasteless salt.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, now prized by physicians since many times its volume in excess for 58 years in correcting excess stomach acidity, and at once. The word "genuine" is on the package.

While the United States, on May 30, Memorial Day, remembered its soldier dead with pilgrimages to cemeteries throughout the country, the British and Canadian soldiers who lie in Arlington Memorial cemetery, at Washington, were not forgotten.

Keith F. Crowder, from the Legation, was escorted by Sergeant Lamont, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

AGONY OF NEURITIS

A Story Of Intense Suffering and Relief

"Do I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills? Yes," "You may believe I do," says Mr. John H. Jamieson, of Wallaceburg, Ont.

"For five years I suffered day and night from neuritis. The pains were terrible, lost control of my arm and shoulder and my hand became shrivelled Nothing helped me till I got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Even then the improvement was slow and I took them for about a year before I was on the way to recovery. After that I was entirely free from pain, my hand gradually filled out; the pain left me and I could sleep in peace and rest. Once again I have not had a twinge of the trouble since.

Sufferers from neuritis, neuralgia, or rheumatism should try this common-sense method of banishing their trouble by enriching the blood and strengthening the nerves with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Helping the Empire

What "Old Country" Housewives May Learn From Canadian Producer

"Wise shopkeepers stock Canadian produce in preference to all," is the maxim underlying the Empire Marketing Board's latest Canadian poster. It shows a housewife comparing on the Board's special frames in London and nearby five hundred cities and towns in the Dominion.

The set consists of five posters. A Canadian apple orchard in flower is the setting for Canada contrasting with a United Kingdom shipyard, are the subjects of the first and fifth. In the centre are maps of the United Kingdom and Canada drawn to scale. To right and left are smaller posters showing how the Canadian supply being unloaded at the docks and a customer inspecting a display of Canadian food products at a grocer's shop.

The posters point out how bigger markets for Canadian products will result in bigger orders for Home factories. "Every time you buy Canadian goods you help the Empire to buy the goods you make at home" is the message of the whole set

Would Limit Sale Of Poisons

To minimize the number of deaths by poisoning the British Government proposes to further regulate the sale of which will permit only a limited number of chemists to vend poison These agents will be instructed not only to ascertain the name and address of the purchaser, but also to verify it before completing the transactions.

Pleased With Extension

Edmonton Coal Men Delighted With Decision On Special Rates

Coal men at Edmonton are delighted with the announcement that the Federal Government has granted an extension of the present special freight rates on coal shipments from Alberta to Ontario. Official word of the extension was given in a telegram received by Howard Stutchbury, Alberta Trade Commissioner, from J. Gerlach, M.P., who has been working on the matter.

Under the three-year period for the special rates, the rate would have ended this year as it had been in effect from December 15 to July 15 since 1928. The extension was granted means that shippers will be assured of the special rates being in effect from December 15 to May 15 of 1931.

Mr Stutchbury pointed out that the provincial government, the Canadian Fuel Association and other bodies have been pressing for the extension and the Premier's view is felt that this should be granted on thus giving adequate time for the coal industry to put a three-year period to be thoroughly studied.

Air Travellers Insured

Now Line Opened Up By Popularity Of Airship

The increase in the popularity of airship travel has opened up a new line of insurance. Several passengers on the Graf Zeppelin's present flight to South America have taken out policies for the round trip on the travel ticket system.

A passenger on the R-100 has been insured for the duration of the two trips across the Atlantic. His premium is two pounds. As the westward and the eastward trips combined are not expected to consume more than six days' time, this rate is equivalent to a premium of about 139 per cent. of the policy segment on the basis of a year.

Edison's New Flying Operating Theatre

Monster Just Completed Is Equipped Up-To-Date

For use in the outpost of the British Empire, a remarkable new flying operating theatre has just been completed. In order that a patient may be fitted gently, the sides of the cabin are hinged, so that they fall completely open. There are racks for surgical appliances of all sorts, and room for two attendant nurses as well as a doctor. The fuselage is specially sprung in order that taking off and landing shall not unduly disturb the patient. An ice chest, fresh-water tanks, and a small electric stove for heating water form part of the equipment. The machine is fitted with two Napier Lion engines, giving a total of nearly 1,500 h.p., and the aerial operating room can be maintained in the air with only one engine working with very little reduction of speed. Operations would be carried out in mid-air only in the most urgent cases; but there have been instances where the lives of settlers, soldiers, and sailors in remote outposts could have been saved if an immediate operation, followed by skilled nursing, could have been given. The new aeroplane will meet this need.

A Growing Industry

Demand For Bulbs Grown On Vancouver Island Exceeds Supply

"Bulb growing on Vancouver Island is still an infant industry," said Mr. T. B. Dumpster, who is probably the largest grower of bulbs in British Columbia, as well as the pioneer grower of bulbs on the Island for export, having been established for twenty-one years. The possibilities for the growth of this industry are enormous. We could do a greater volume of business than we are doing at present if we could supply the demand, and occasionally find ourselves in the position where we must buy bulbs for our own use."

IMMIGRATION TO BE CONTROLLED BY PROVINCES

Regina.—Commenting on despatches from Edmonton and Winnipeg, Premier J. T. M. Anderson said that Saskatchewan had secured an understanding with Ottawa that the province would be able to control to a large degree the character and number of immigrants. While no agreement has yet been signed, the province has an understanding similar to that now existing in the other prairie administrations.

Edmonton.—All immigrants coming into Alberta from now on are to be voluntary, coming on their own responsibility, and prepared to take care of themselves, by agreement with the Dominion Government, says Acting-Premier Hon. George Hoadley. The right to determine the volume and character of future immigration into Alberta, and the general policy governing the Department of Immigration and Colonization, is also contained in this arrangement dating from June 1, and no further movements are to be allowed without the written consent and approval of the provincial governments. The agreements with the transportation companies under which immigrant parties have heretofore been brought over, expired at the end of May and will not be renewed.

It is expected that the inter-provincial conference between the three prairie provinces, which is to be held in Winnipeg and which is to deal particularly with immigration and unemployment will materialize shortly after the Alberta elections. The entire question of immigration and unemployment will therefore then be taken up.

Winnipeg, Man.—Manitoba is in control of volume and character of immigrants to the province, Hon. R. A. Hoey, acting premier of Manitoba stated, in a telegram which has been communicated with the Dominion Government. Mr Hoey referred to a statement by the Immigration by Hon. G. Hoadley, acting premier of Alberta, who said that Alberta had completed an agreement with the Dominion authorities.

The Dominion Government's proposal for building immigrants was submitted tentatively to the Manitoba Government. It was decided however, that the matter be considered at a province-Dominion conference. In the meantime the question was also referred to the Canadian Government, saying that it will be impossible to fix rates until navigation is open and the effect of lower rates is known. Hearn also referred to the matter of immigrants from one province to another

Health Insurance System Advocated

Would Curtail Pensioners' Loss Caused By Sickness Is Belief

Toronto, Ont.—A state health insurance system as a means of curtailing a large percentage of the $300,000,000 loss of productive capacity in Canada annually from preventable illness was strongly recommended for support by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in the report of the industrial relations committee here at the 30th annual meeting of the association.

The report cited findings of a special commission appointed by the British Columbia Government in support of the recommendation and stated experience in England, Germany and the United States shows that sickness causes more lost time than all other causes put together.

The industrial relations committee expressed a willingness to co-operate with the government in the movement for a thirteen month calendar.

New Senators Appointed

Five Vacancies In Province Of Quebec Are Filled

Ottawa.—Appointment of five new senators from the province of Quebec was announced following a lengthy meeting of cabinet.

Those appointed to the senate are: Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who was also a member of the House of Commons; E. W. Tobin, late Federal member for Richmond-Wolfe; J. E. Prevost, late member for Terrebonne; George Parent, late member for Quebec West and L. A. Wilson, former member for Candrenil-Soulanges.

In making the announcement, Prime Minister MacKenzie King explained that the fifth Quebec vacancy in the senate arose through the resignation of Senator Louis Lemieux, of Kenebec. It is understood that ill-health is the cause of the resignation of Senator Lavergne.

Mr. King also stated that it had been the rule in the past not to appoint Conservatives to vacancies in the senate. There had been some exceptions but the general rule had been followed. He added, however, that it is planned why all those appointed at the present time were former members of parliament who had held seats up to the date of dissolution.

FOREST FIRES DESTROY SCORES OF FARM HOUSES

Port Arthur, Ont.—Fourteen-year-old boys, grim-faced, weary from loss of sleep, fought like men and did men's work in Hook Lockett's volunteer defence against forest fire invasion, V. H. "Bill" Hicks, Ontario air force pilot who arrived here, told forestry officials and newspapermen who met him Sioux Lookout in out of danger, Hicks said, and the few fires that remain in that district are under control.

More than twenty-five families approximately 75 persons in all, were temporarily homeless, driven from their homesteads by the relentless onrush of devastating forest fires of timber land in north-western Ontario for the past six weeks.

While a large force of forest rangers and volunteers were herded into battling against the conflagrations, word was received of the first fire fatality.

Reported by Paul Garten, former German war ace, who had been employed as pilot by the Western Canada Airways, was reported to have the waters of Lake Seegrungen near Allan-water, Ont. It is believed that Garten's machine crashed in the lake, June 2. Needs Canada's Co-Operation

Without Her Help Britain Cannot Develop Atlantic Airways

London, England.—The air lines of the British Empire are expanding rapidly and rank second only, in mileage, to those of the United States, declared the Rt. Hon Lord Thomson, secretary of state for air, in the House of Lords, during a broad and inspiring review of the Empire's accomplishments in the world of flying

Lord Thomson predicted an era of great aerial expansion within the Empire in the next year or so. He stated there were now about 22,350 miles of regular air routes He hoped the end of 1931 would see an extension of the Indian route towards Australia, but the date for the completion of this plan he said, depended largely with the government of Australia.

The Cape to Cairo route should be completed as far as the great lakes of Central Africa by the end of this year, and he felt confident by the spring of 1931.

Lord Thomson praised the opening up of what was called the Atlantic airways in the western Atlantic. By a development [illegible] would only be carried through with the co-operation of the Canadian government and the most sympathetic response was coming from Canada. A great deal of work had been done by the committee of imperial [illegible] last July, said the secretary of state for air They had reported favorably on the Atlantic airways scheme and he was fully confident now that we should be able to [illegible] something along this line"

Strike Natural Gas Well

In Search For Water Near Hudson Bay Junction

Hudson Bay Junction Sask. — There was struck at 1,000 feet a flow of gas, when prospectors and citizens left for the scene of a blazing well, 20 i les south of Hudson Bay Junction.

While a C.N.R. well digging outfit sought water at a depth of 500 feet, they struck a gas sensation and set a match to it. It lighted at once and a well has since been drilled to a depth of 1,000 feet. There are indications of oil at some points in this field and drilling has been going on for the last few years but this is the first indication towards a natural gas well. It is reported that if the well proves good a great supply of gas would be released.

"OLE SWIMMING HOLE" IS FENCED OFF

A considerable amount of chagrin is being felt by townspeople as the result of the fencing off of the road leading to the muskpit swimming hole which has been the mecca for Vermilion's youth, and adults too, since time immemorable as far as the town is concerned. While the fence does not stop pedestrians from going to the bathing spot it does prevent cars from approaching closer than a few yards west of the bridge, which is some three-quarters of a mile from the swimming hole. Hot business men who were wont to run down in their cars for a hasty dip at noon find that they are denied this pleasure as spare time is limited. It is a pity that some arrangement cannot be arrived at by the town officials with the owner or lessee of the land, as certain public-spirited citizens have gone to some trouble and expense to grade a passable road to the pool and also to erect bathing houses there. A gate wide enough for pedestrians and also wide enough for any animal has been left in the fence; just why it wasn't made some three feet or so wider to admit cars is a mystery to most people. The Standard, while not knowing who is in charge of the land, understands that it is being used as a sheep pasture, thus the fence. Apart from anything else it seems a simple matter to arrange for a gate to be put into the fence to allow for the passage of cars. It is not likely that perverseness or meanness of spirit is the cause of not having a roadway.

PLAY VERY SUCCESSFUL

"The Deacon Sings" presented here by the Dewberry Ladies' Aid under the auspices of the local Women's Auxiliary drew a crowded house in spite of numerous other attractions throughout the district. The play was a three-act comedy and drew much laughter and rounds of applause from the audience which reflected much credit on the way the actors carried out their parts and also upon the choice of the play. The local ladies aid served tea to the visiting dramatists after the concert.

Lake Lenrier is again proving the popular holiday resort, many cars making the trip on Sundays and now on Wednesday afternoons.

The Islay district was favored with a torrential rainfall Tuesday night, judged to be the heaviest here for the past three years. An inch and a half fell between 12 p.m. Tuesday and 9 a.m. Wednesday in Vermilion, and the same amount is thought to have fallen here.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Robertson and family on the death of Mr. Robertson, which occurred early this week. The funeral is being held this Thursday.

A congregational meeting of the Islay United Church was held on Tuesday evening to decide whether or not to call a minister immediately. After considerable discussion the question was left open and will be decided on Sunday night. Rev. H. A. Boyd of Vermilion and Mr. Wilson, superintendent of Missions, were present at the meeting.

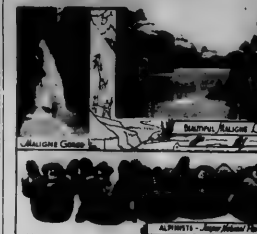
CENTRE FOR ALPINE CLIMBING



Into a country where there are many important peaks still uncon quered and even unnamed, will come Alpinists from all over the world for the 1930 annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada, July 26th to August 16th, in Jasper National Park. Alpine members of the medical profession of England, will be among those at this year's camp.

In this vast mountain kingdom climbers will try their skill in the Maligne Lake region, where such peaks as Mt. Sampson, Mt. Charlton, Mt. Unwin, Mt. Warren, Mt. Mary Vaux, Mt. Maligne, and Mt. Brazeau—ranging from ten to eleven thousand feet in height, offer most interesting climbing problems.

It is perhaps the splendid profitability, the number of effects that distinguishes this region from all others. In the Rockies the feiln of conspicuous, where beauty is conserved, is always obvious. There are a score of lakes, each different, which, once seen, hold their place in the heart forever. Yet this stands out among them all. Where many of the others are charming in music, Maligne is the grand organ. The composition forms one picture but into it has gone enough beauty to make a dozen regions famous.

The Maligne Valley is one of the most interesting in Jasper National Park, not only on account of its remarkable canyon, but because of the two beautiful lakes—Medicine and Maligne.

The famous canyon of the Maligne River is an interesting example of what nature can do in the way of natural carving with unlimited means of working and with rushing water as her tool. Its great depth, its narrowness in places it is scarcely more than a slit between dark walls of rock and the great size of the spot being worn by the water in the course of ages, all make it of extreme interest to the geologist and nature lover and Alpinist.

One of the very interesting points of this canyon is the re-appearance at many places throughout its length of subterranean streams. It is believed that these streams are the same as the submerged waters of Medicine Lake. Their combined waters so increase the flow of the river that by the time it reaches the mouth of the canyon its volume is about four times greater than above the gorge.

NEWS FROM ISLAY

Mr. Darmgh was a visitor in the Islay district last week, motoring from Edmonton Thursday and returning Saturday.

Dewberry and Islay played a 9-3 tie in the baseball game last week. As the score indicates it was a good tight game and neither team was making any errors.

NEWS FROM DEWBERRY

Last week-end three of Dewberry's enterprising citizens: J. S. McKay, Frank Allen and Vic Demaine, made an extensive tour of the country north of the Saskatchewan from Hetuebury to Vilna in search of a large tract suitable for a cattle ranch. Several sites were surveyed but it is rumored that the sparsely populated territory north of Mooswa may be the chosen land.

The Dewberry Junior baseball team played a pretty game against Vermilion high school on the grounds of the latter on June 3rd and needed only 7 men run to equal their cheap opponents. The Senior team played a good game against Islay on Friday, the score being three runs each. Islay men are good sports and play a gentlemanly game.

All roads lead to lakes Laurier and Whitney via Helenburg these beautiful June evenings. On Sunday last two motor boats of the hydroplane type gave exhibitions of speed and turning that astonished hundreds of visitors at Laurier Lake. Three aquatic sorcbats were imported from the U.S.A. and are on their way to Islay Lake. It is rumored that H. E. Leavitt, general merchant of Dewberry, has filled an order for one of these lively little water bugs.

At a special meeting of the ratepayers of Dewberry Village S.D. on Thursday night it was unanimously decided to build a two-room school this summer. Notices of application for debentures signed by Wm. H. Andersons are posted and the municipal secretary, Jas. Cuthbertson, is busy putting the preliminaries into marching line.

Amongst Dewberry's visitors to the Lakes last Sunday were: H.R. Leavitt and party, J. S. McKay and party, A. Evers, Jas. Cuthbertson, J. Tierney, Doug Machon, Fred Rhodes, Vic Demaille, Louis Garnier, Archie McGillaway, Jas. Armstrong, Fyans Allen,—each with a full carload of friends. Louis Garnier and Archie McGillaway had the honor of being the first for this season to get baptized from the diving chute. Mrs. Leavitt and Miss Ruby Peel were first and second witnesses respectively in the 130 yards swimming contest.

Dewberry tells the world that their annual sports on July 4th will be the biggest day north of the International boundary line. The famous "Flying Blacksmith," Dick Hensel, is in training for his unique program, and there is money of all denominations awaiting children who have the ambition and the ability to take it.

R. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Railway, said:—"Mr. MacInnes has been in the company's service for forty-five years and has discharged his exacting duties as freight traffic manager and as vice-president in charge of traffic with conspicuous ability and loyalty to the company's interests. By his retirement the company loses one of its ablest and most respected officers."

More than four hundred varieties of apples have been originated at the Canadian Government Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, within the last 25 years. As a result, hands of seedlings have fruited, the apples have been tested and the best of them named and personated for future production.

Five years ago the total output of petroleum in Alberta was 165,-644 barrels; last year it rose to 994,152 barrels; of which 1,241,231 barrels came from the Turner Valley, the comparatively new field about 35 miles south-west of Calgary.

Contracts for 65 miles of extensions to the Northern Alberta Railways which run west of Edmonton through the Peace River District—over 200 miles in all—have been let. These extensions will cost $2,250,000.

Canada exports more manufactured goods per head of the population than any other country in the world. The figures are:—Canada, $64.59; Great Britain $63.30; Germany, $23.68; France $36.15; and the United States, $36.15. It takes the exports of one American plus one German plus $8.99 to equal the exports of one Canadian.

The demand for quarter sections each of 160 acres, of free homestead lands in Western Canada, given by the Canadian Government to settlers, continues to increase. In the first three months of this year there were 2564 entries registered representing 410,240 acres, as compared with 2,466 entries representing 394,800 acres in the corresponding months of last year.

THE VOTE JUNE 19.

Attaining power in 1921 and again in 1926, the U.F.A. government awaits on Thursday next a further expression of confidence by the electorate of Alberta which will return them again to office for the third term. No predictions have been voiced to any extent that the Brownlee government will meet defeat at the polls on June 19th.

There are 63 members to be elected. The U.F.A. have four acclamations and 61 candidates in other constituencies; the Liberals 58, Independents 24, Conservatives 19, Labor 11 and Communists 2. From the above it can be concluded that everything is in favor of a majority of former U.F.A. candidates being elected. That two or more groups will have to unite to form a government is hardly likely in face of the record of the Brownlee administration in the handling of the affairs of the province, though some papers are making such a prediction. It is more than likely the government will again be returned with a substantial majority in face of a most strenuous opposition campaign.

Word from all parts of the province would indicate that a record vote will be cast, one that will represent a very large percentage of the electors.

UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY FOR VERMILION PEOPLE

On Thursday evening, June 19th, the 1926 Dominion champion boy orator, Fred Horsnell, will speak at a public meeting in the United Church. Mr. Horsnell is a student missionary of the United Church and is accompanied by another student, Mr. Maxwell, musician and soloist. Through the generosity of a business man in Oshawa, these young men have been supplied with a car equipped with cooking utensils and sleeping accommodation. They are touring the Vermilion, St. Paul and Peace River Prospective, touching points not served by any church. Next week they are attending the Bindrel Conference — announced elsewhere in this issue—and by special arrangement will stay over till the Thursday evening when they will speak and sing for the benefit of the Vermilion people.

YOUNG CONSERVATIVES ADDRESSED BY CAMS. DATES FOR NOMINATION

Col. Watson, J. W. G. Morrison and Mayor Fallow Speak

The local candidates for the Conservative nomination for this riding addressed the Young Conservative meeting last Thursday night in the committee rooms. Each one of them chose an enlightening topic on which to converse and the talks were extremely enjoyed by the young people, many of whom will be casting their first federal vote on July 28th.

A considerable amount of general business was also transacted, an important point being settled was the age limit for the Young Conservative Association. This was set at 30 years of age for married and no limit for unmarried people. A large number of members intend being present at the nominating convention to be held in Wainwright on June 11th, and arrangements were made for transportation.

The next meeting will be held on Friday evening, June 13th.

BUMPIEST ROADS NOT IN TOWN

The poorest roads are not always in town and this is particularly true since the big Caterpillar grader made a good job of the streets in this town. For a main market road probably the biggest bugbear and car bumper to the road leading to the cemetery over the railway crossing just east of town. This road is practically indescribable—it is hard, yes, and full of holes, bumps and what not; the whole mile is bad enough, but the first half is the worst. Instead of opening up new roads along allowances which will be little used the work could be put in much more usefully repairing this portion of road, which is used as much as any leading into the town.

Essence Quality and Length

Canadian Inspectors Keep Careful Eye on Flax Twine

One of the perennial difficulties of the grain grower at harvest time comes from binder twine The Seed Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, through its inspectors, keeps a careful check not only on the quality of binder twine made in Canadian factories and also brought in from other countries, but they also take particular care to ensure that the full length of the twine is in the ball Under the Inspection and Sales Act every ball of binder twine sold in Canada must bear a label showing the name of the maker and the number of feet per pound in the ball of twine. The usual lengths are 500, 550, 600 and 650 feet per pound, the two longer lengths being the more popular in Canada Systematic inspection shows that infractions of the regulations are infrequent, and also ensures that quality in the product which gives confidence to the farmer using it

In Ontario, where the commercial production of all descriptions of fruit is capable of cultivation in Canada has reached its highest development, apples have been grown from the middle of the eighteenth century but commercial orcharding has developed only within the past 50 or 60 years, and was only made possible when the building of the railways permitted trees and fruit to be transported rapidly to the great winter apple districts include the border of lake Ontario extending back 30 miles and more from the lake, the slopes of lake Huron and Georgian bay, several miles in depth, and the southwestern part of the province.

A sports weight linen in lovely soft brown with maize dots adopts bolero treatment that is decidedly smart, with such rods joined to underarm seams and tied in bow. The skirt swags so prettily cut circular and joined to diagonal yoke top. Skirting at left front shoulder provides decorative note and fullness. Long sleeves have perforations to be made short, if desired.

Style No. 2948 makes an excellent school frock for the girl who knows how to make her own attractive clothes. It is very inexpensive, too. In the 8-year size, 2½ yards of 35-inch material is sufficient to copy it exactly. It is designed in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

Brown and white checked gingham with the one-sided bolero which is merely an over blouse caught in at shoulder and armhole made of plain brown piqué is strikingly chic and serviceable

Manitoba's Diamond Jubilee

On July Fifteenth, Province Will Celebrate Sixty Years Of Provincial Progress

The following speech by Premier John Bracken, President of the Provincial Committee, was broadcast on May Thirtieth:

I have been asked by the Diamond Jubilee Committee to make a statement concerning the celebration this year of Manitoba's Diamond Jubilee.

In the 230 years since the first white man set eyes upon the northern part of what is now Manitoba, many ministers have read the progress of the people of all that part or Canada lying west of Manitoba's eastern boundary line.

For my purpose tonight, let me direct your attention to four milestones that history, still unwritten, will record. The first, on the Sixtieth Anniversary of the birth of the Province on July 15th next; second, the transfer of Manitoba's Natural Resources, on July 15th, from Federal to Provincial control, a result of the unfolding of many years; third, the recognition of Manitoba as a Maritime Province, as a result of the extension of the opening up on a commercial scale of the rich mining territory in the north, following the construction of railway lines into Flin Flon and Sherridon.

On July 15th, of this year, sixty years will have come and gone since the mile post of 1870. It has been a wonderful sixty years from whatever angle it is viewed—sixty years of growth and progress in agriculture, in education, in colonization, in industry and in transportation, in fact, in all activities.

The transfer of the Natural Resources places the province in a position of equal status with the other provinces of Confederation. On July 15th, we shall have reached full stature as a province in one of the units of the Empire. It is fitting, therefore, that this historic occasion should be officially recognized with appropriate ceremony.

The completion of the railway line to Manitoba's inland sea, the year, is also significant. It was through the Hudson Strait, the Hudson Bay and up the Nelson and Saskatchewan Rivers that the first white explorers and traders came into the land of promise, over a hundred years ago. For many years after the opening up of trade between the Hudson Bay and the Red River. With the opening up of transportation by the Lord Selkirk settlers, there will be established an all water route replacing that early one which was so vital to the very existence of the people of the great north west.

The opening up of the vast mineral wealth in the Pre-Cambrian geologic zone of the north land, has been referred to here. Within the last few years the faith and hope of the pioneers has been justified and more than realized, and this year will see for the first time in the oldest of the prairie provinces, two large mining plants turning out thousands of dollars in value per day, of copper, zinc, gold and silver.

It is in view of all these circumstances that it was decided that this Diamond Jubilee should be held not without due recognition of its significance.

Accordingly plans have been made for fitting thanksgiving services and jubilee ceremonies and exercises throughout the length and breadth of Manitoba. We have arranged to proclaim July 15th, a public holiday, and we trust, it be suitably observed by every community and every citizen regardless of race or creed throughout.

Among other suggestions in the Organization Bulletin, are two to which attention might well be drawn.

That pioneers will be given due recognition in this celebration.

That the occasion be utilized in being together the early history of local communities and of all different peoples throughout the Province.

It is to be desired that we should recognize in our local celebrations the services of those who built for us, with hope and courage to meet the adversities of early Frontier conditions, men were inspired by their faith in the great open spaces of our land to persist in the building of homes, schools, churches, transportation routes and industries such as we see about us today. I might mention in passing that the government will welcome the placing of suitable bronze tablets of those pioneers, of whatever race or creed, in the halls of the Parliament Buildings. And it is hoped that the Selkirk Association or the Old Timers Association will be the first to honour those who prior to 1870, paved the way for those who came later.

I desire also to direct attention to the urgent need for bringing into organized form the early history of local communities and also the early history of each of the people who have come here from other lands. The Government is prepared to encourage such local efforts by assisting in financing the preparation of suitable histories of these communities and these early pioneers.

In agriculture it is a far cry from harvesting with sickles, then scythes, later reapers, and now accomplished the cost of an association of women in Jerusalem. Jesus hated but would not drink, for He wished to have a clear mind to the last.

Hendrik Willem Van Loon, famed historian and author of "The Story of Mankind" and "Ancient Man," Phillips Brooks suggests, it might well have been that the people who stood and watched would have felt the majesty of the sacrifice. JESUS ON THE CROSS

Golden Text: "Looking unto Jesus the author and perfecter of our faith, who, for the joy that was set before Him, endured the cross, despising the shame, and sat down at the right hand of the throne of God." —Hebrews 12:2.

Lesson: Matthew 27:1-66.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 22:1-5, 14-19, 27, 27.

Explanation and Comment

The Crucifixion, verses 32-38. They led Jesus away to be crucified, going outside the city limits, as was the custom (Acts 7:58). The knoll to which He was taken away was called "Golgotha," a word meaning "the place of the skull." We call it "Calvary," from the Latin word "Calvaria," a skull." There they offered Him wine mingled with gall, for it was a merciful practice to give a stupefying drink to one about to be crucified. This charitable office, Alfred Edersheim tells us, was performed by the cost of an association of women in Jerusalem. Jesus tasted but would not drink, for He wished to have a clear mind to the last.

French Hope To Make Desert Blossom As the Rose

The Sahara desert will be made to blossom as the rose one of these days, J. H. Richard believes, and then France will be one of the great agricultural nations of the world.

Richard, former French Minister of Agriculture, has arrived in New York to study machinery used in reclaiming American deserts.

He hopes some means will be perfected for using radio to detect underground strata of water. Several geologists, he said, agree that vast layers of water are beneath the Sahara and at El Goles, in South Algeria, underground water has been pumped to the surface and used to grow rose bushes ten feet high.

For three consecutive weeks, a visitor in London, England, has amused himself by tasting the truth of the old saying that no one can cross London Bridge without seeing a white horse. "Morning and evening daily I have crossed the bridge," he said, "and sure enough, each time I have seen at least one white horse — except, to be honest, when I have forgotten to look. The saying originated, of course, before transport became mechanized, but it is curious that the people who stood and watched would have felt the majesty of the sacrifice. Transition Was Difficult

Austrian Chancellor's Remark Did Not Lead Itself To French Language

Chancellor Schober, of Austria, who has been visiting all the principal European capitals in succession during the past few months, had a curious adventure in Paris just before going to London. This adventure might be considered unimportant except that it illustrates how many European differences are due to different languages and different habits of thought.

Dr. Schober was asked by a Parisian interviewer what his conception of Austro-German relations was. The Chancellor replied: "I consider Austria and Germany as one people but two nations."

The interviewer, who understands German perfectly, applauded this definition, which emphasized Austria's determination to remain independent. But unfortunately, in attempting to translate the chancellor's words into French, he could not find the exact equivalents and made the statement read, "One nation but two states."

This precipitated a tremendous howl in the French Nationalist press and led Dr. Schober to issue a succession of statements in which he attempted to correct the faux pas committed but which almost led him into new pitfalls until he finally was obliged to elaborate his original epigram into the meaningless formula, "One civilization but two nations and two governments."

Former French Premier Has Great Faith In The Future Of Aeronautics

Giant trans - Atlantic aeroplanes hurtling through dizzy altitudes at terrific speeds, the passengers breathing oxygen supplied from special tanks, will soon make Paris less than 10 hours from New York, M. Paul Painleve, former premier of France, told the United Press.

"Perhaps I shall live to see the day," said the 67-year-old former premier, "when these specially constructed 'planes will roar through the thin air at altitudes above 22,000 feet at speeds surpassing 300 to 400 miles an hour.

"When the technical problems for the construction of these high-altitude speed airboats are solved, then will trans-Atlantic air service become a reality. Lindbergh's solo flight stimulated the solution of these difficult problems perhaps before I die, aeroplanes speeding at 300 and 400 miles an hour high above both clouds, rain and tricky air currents will link Paris with North America."

Seated at his desk, littered with mathematical treatises and scientific manuscripts, M. Painleve waved his hands at the bookcases which covered the walls from floor to ceiling of his study.

"In 1902 when I was well along in my study of those books and was beginning to do a little mathematical thinking myself, I convinced myself that heavier-than-air flight was possible. Six years later Orville and Wilbur Wright came to France with their crazy air-machine. I knew it would fly, and it did. My six-year-old dream had come true and since then I have never lost my faith in aviation.

"Three years ago Lindbergh landed at LeBourget. His flight was just as important as the first trial I made with Wilbur Wright in 1908. That flew proved the 'plane was feasible, the other demonstrated it was the world's best means of rapid transportation. Lindbergh set the best aviation experts of the world studying means of perfecting aeroplane motors and equipment. The Wright Brothers, Bleriot and Lindbergh are a trio of names upon which aviation history stands."

The famous mathematician-politician declared there are only two certain methods of conquering the Atlantic by air. The first is by developing machines to fly in extreme altitudes, thus lessening resistance, increasing speed, and decreasing danger through atmospheric conditions, and the second is to establish floating islands for use with present-type of aeroplanes.

Although Painleve said he believed floating landing fields were feasible, he thought the chances of aviation rested in flying high at terrific speeds. The machine would have to be constructed in such a manner to resist the unequal pressure, and both passengers and crew would have to be supplied with oxygen to breathe at such dizzy altitudes.

Six times M. Painleve has been minister of war, and yet he is not convinced that the aeroplane is the most formidable war craft in the next war, which Painleve hopes will never come for at heart he is an arbdent pacifist.

"Aeroplanes have their use in war," he said, "but they will be of no dangerous as many people like to believe. New anti-aircraft guns are being perfected which will make the average airman in the next war feel like a partridge under bombardment from a thousand shotguns. To me 'planes is more interesting to me for its commercial value."

"Any insanity in the family?" asked the insurance doctor of Mrs. Suffragist.

"Well, no—only my husband imagines he is the head of the house."

"Mary, I see you have drunk all my brandy."

"Yes, sir, to get over my shock."

"What shock?"

"I broke the large mirror in the drawing room."—Pelgus Gales, Yverdon.

The Power Of Lightning

Man Cannot Produce Force Contained In Single Flash

When a great thunderstorm is raging we realize something of the stupendous powers of electricity, says an article in TH-Bits. If a cat's back is rubbed in the dark during hot dry weather, sparks will often fly from it. The sparks are harmless, though they are identical with lightning flashes, and the crackling which accompanies them is thunder on a small scale. In a thunderstorm the earth represents your hand and the clouds are the cat's back. The pressure which causes a flash of lightning may be as much as 1,000,000,000 volts—1,000,000 times greater than that which is used for household lighting. Could we collect and harness the power set free by a single flash of lightning we should have at our disposal a force greater than anything which can be produced by man. In a famous scientist's laboratory there was tried the experiment of producing a million-volt spark. It leapt a ten-foot gap, leaped over the explosion of a bomb, and nearly wrecked the building. Most of the lightning in a thunderstorm does not approach near the earth, but flashes from cloud to cloud. Occasionally a fork tongue leaps from cloud to earth, and then anything in its path is destroyed.

Resents Removal Of Indian Carvings

British Columbia Wants Valuable Work Kept in Canada

There is great indignation at the wholesale removal of Indian carvings from British Columbia to the United States, says a letter received at the Canadian Museum, Ottawa, from an official of the British Columbia government. At present there are a great many influential people who do not want any of the objects mentioned in the Indian act, such as totem poles, carved grave boards, carved rock inscriptions and paintings on cliffs and large boulders, removed from the province, the letter continues.

Commenting on the matter, the archaeologist of the national museum declared that recently a retired United States naval officer collected certain historic carved cradle whorls, formerly used by the Indians in spinning mountain goat wool, and took them out of the province while a representative of the national museum was searching for just such specimens.

Fifty-five cities in the United States and Canada will be represented at the fourth World's Poultry Congress which has been organized by the Government of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and a large number of the attending poultrymen will sail on the Canadian Pacific liner "Duchess of York" from Montreal on July 12, headed for the Crystal Palace, London, where the Congress will take place, from July 22-30.

Prince Of Wales Will Exhibit At World's Congress

Birds from the ranch of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, at Pekisko, near High River, Alberta, will be among the many interesting exhibits at the World's Poultry Congress, to be held at the Crystal Palace, London, England, July 22 to July 26, 1930. Another exhibit that is likely to attract attention will be the birds from the royal sanctuary at Sandringham. Canada has a particular interest in this aviary for among the birds are some Canadian Barred Rocks presented to His Majesty, King George V. by the Canadian Government following the second World's Poultry Congress at Barcelona, Spain, in 1924. This trio was the finest that could be procured in Canada. An exhibit of 1,000 birds is being sent to the World's Poultry Congress from Canada.

One Way To Count Cost

Expenditure In Great War Would Have Built Many Garden Cities

The League of Nations reports the cost of the Great War at $363,000,000 and 37,000,000 lives—that is four times the total population of Canada, not merely of lives, but lives of selected men, competent in virtue of admirable qualities to meet the most terrible responsibilities that an imperfect civilization can place upon men. The cost in money would have built 181,500 garden cities, where the evils of congested living, the sordidness, the ugliness and the despair that breeds resentment, anger, broken homes, ill-bred-children, crime and disease would have had no seed bed for growth.

Passenger service on the Great Lakes is now opened for the summer season, and the three fine vessels of the Canadian Pacific fleet on those waters, S.S. Assiniboia, S.S. Keewatin and S.S. Travellers wishing to vary the railway trip between Toronto and Winnipeg, are now able to make a pleasant change by taking ship at Port McNicoll and passing through Lakes Huron and Superior, via Sault Ste. Marie, to Port Arthur and Fort William. At the latter point they transship to the Canadian Pacific trans-continental train and continue their journey to Winnipeg and the coast. Lay-out shows S.S. Annual Agricultural Statistics

Every Farmer Asked To Fill In and Return Schedule

It is the custom of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics to co-operate with the nine provinces in taking a Dominion-wide census of important agricultural facts in June of each year

The census takes the form of a simple cardboard schedule, distributed to individual farmers through the medium of the rural school teachers and pupils in seven provinces, and in Ontario and British Columbia through the rural postal offices. The essential object is to reach every farmer and to encourage as many as possible to fill in and return the schedule.

The two main phases of farm production—the areas of field crops and the numbers of live stock - are covered by the form. The areas of field crops determined from the schedules of the present year will be compared with the estimated average yields per acre to determine the total yield for the year. In the case of wheat, particularly, the importance of having correct estimates of acreage is thus made apparent. Although there are many estimates of anticipated production, most of these are based on the one official acreage estimate, which has been issued annually since 1917, by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

It is unnecessary to emphasize the value of a wide sample to the attainment of accurate statistics, and it is our hope to obtain a completed schedule from the great majority of Canadian farmers. The more numerous the returns received, the more reliable will be the estimates compiled from them. Much of Canadian economic enterprise depends to some degree on correct estimates of agricultural production in the making of their plans.

If any farmer does not receive the cardboard schedule by the middle of June, he should apply to the school teacher of the nearest rural school, to his provincial Department of Agriculture, or to the Dominion Statistician, at Ottawa. Letters addressed to the Dominion Statistician require no postage.

Junior Red Cross Teaching Children To Avoid Disease

The number of deaths of children of school age would be "shocking" if they were not so accustomed to their daily and hourly occurrence. There is such a death every ten minutes. It is nothing short of appalling to study the statistics of the mortality and morbidity of our school age boys and girls. Such a tale of woe as the story of death and its causes has been given us by our neighbors across the line Dr J F Rogers, Chief of School Hygiene Division, and Physical Education, Washington, has issued a sheet of figures that should be in the hand of every parent and school teacher.

Roughly speaking in the registration area of 103 000 000 persons, one child in every five hundred children died in a year A thoughtful reader will look with interest at the reasons for this slaughter of the innocents Particularly striking is it in these days of speed traffic to observe the figures for accidents and automobile deaths Seven per cent died from accidents and 21 per cent from accidents.

The doctor goes on to say that practically all the deaths from the following diseases were preventable. Typhoid, smallpox, diphtheria, dysentery, syphilis, rabies, tetanus By better protection from infection tuberculosis would take a less heavy toll With greater sick-care and more knowledge fewer children would die of measles and scarlet fever, whooping cough, etc. It was estimated that there could be a certain saving of 5,000 lives a year, or thinking in terms of cents and dollars $100,000,000.

There will doubtless be better machinery established for public health in the generations to come, and this reproach will be wiped away. Today among the foremost agencies in the field for the furtherance of a healthier efficiency is the Red Cross. Its far reaching Junior Work has enlisted approximately 12,000,000 Juniors in the fight against disease and dirt.

A complete trans-continen'al highway in Canada may be a somewhat remote goal, but it is worthy of observation that it is now engaging the attention of Members of Parliament from one end of the country to the other. In the recent debate on the subject such parliamentary leaders as Hon. Dr. Manion, Hon. Charles Stewart, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Hon. Charles Dunning, the Prime Minister, Hon. R. B. Bennett, Mr. Woodsworth and others indicated an increasing concern for the scheme. In connection with the matter, Dr. Manion supplied the interesting information that there remains only some 830 miles of highway yet to be constructed, and he advanced the argument that as this was through unproductive provincial territory, it might well be expected that the Dominion would contribute towards the construction of it. One of the strongest arguments in favor of the project advanced in the House of Commons was that there is no national highway comparable to the Lincoln Highway in the United States. In case of wheat, particularly, the importance of having correct estimates of acreage is thus made apparent. Although there are many estimates of anticipated production, most of these are based on the one official acreage estimate, which has been issued annually since 1917, by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

"Because I wasn't there." — Montpelier, Cherlerol.

Mary Swyripa, Kitscoty, Winner Of Flag Essay

CONDUCTED BY THE FROG LAKE CHAPTER I. O. D. E., VERMILION

The local branch of the I.O.D.E. have just awarded another prize, this time for the best essay written on the subject "The Composition of the Union Jack, its History, and the Proper Way to Fly It."

The prize winning essay was written by Miss Mary Swyripa of Kitscoty, 17 years old, and Miss Milly Proskiw, Grade 7 school girl of Marsham took second. The judges of the essays submitted were the Vermilion public school teachers and the competition was open to some 60 schools in the Vermilion inspectorate. The first prize essay is reproduced below.

"THE UNION JACK"

The Union Jack is the national flag of the British Empire; and wherever British subjects, we should know something of its origin.

The Union Jack has been derived from three different flags; the national emblems of England, the Cross of St. George, a horizontal rectangular red cross on a white ground; of Scotland, the Cross of St. Andrew, a diagonal white cross on a blue ground; and of Ireland, the Cross of St. Patrick, a diagonal red cross on a white ground.

The Cross of St. George was used by the English during the Crusades. Sir Francis Drake, Sir Walter Raleigh Sir Richard Grenville and other navigators whose names have become famous in English history, flew this flag on their adventurous voyages and wars with Spain in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. Upon her death in 1603, James VI of Scotland came to the English throne as James I of England. Some of his subjects flew the Cross of St. George, some flew the Cross of St. Andrew, while others flew them both. This showed clearly the demand for a new flag which could be used by both countries. The Cross of St. George was placed on top of the Cross of St. Andrew, and a small white border was left around the red cross to separate the red from the blue and to remind us of the original white ground of the Cross of St. George. This flag was called the Union Jack and was officially adopted by England and Scotland in 1606. This flag was used for nearly two centuries with the exception of a short time during the Commonwealth. It was under this flag that Wolfe conquered Canada in 1759, and the great Indian Empire was founded and many naval victories fought.

In 1800 the Act of Union with Ireland was passed and in 1801 it became necessary to change the flag so that it would include the Cross of St. Patrick as well, so that Ireland could also have it. This was not an easy task, and after some time the present Union Jack was designed. Between the red band which represents the Cross of St. Patrick and the blue ground of the Cross of St. Andrew is a small white band. This band is not a portion of any cross, but simply serves to separate the red from the blue and to remind us of the original white ground of the Cross of St. Patrick.

It is quite interesting to know why this flag was called the Union Jack. The word "Union" does not only stand for the union of the three flags, but also the union of the British colonies overseas which have adopted our flag for their emblems. There are many reasons why it might have been called the Jack. It might have been called so because it first came into use under James I, whose name was Jacques in French. Some people say that it got its name from the jackets worn by sailors which were worn in these days by the English soldiers. These jackets were called Jacques and had red crosses on the breasts, which resembled that of the Cross of St. George. This flag was first used in the navy, being hoisted on the jack staff in the bows of ships.

We should be careful to fly our flags correctly. A flag which is flown upside down may signify danger, but it usually shows carelessness and ignorance. It will be noticed that the half of the flag next the post is not the same as that away from it. In the half next to the post, the broad white band representing the St. Andrew's Cross comes at the top, while in the other half it comes below the St. Patrick's Cross.

Thus we see that every portion of the Union Jack has its meaning. The colors too, interpret themselves; red says: be brave; white says: be pure; and blue says: be true. Our flag emblazons for us the history and glory of our native land. It is a record of our conquests and growth. It is the emblem of freedom and binds together the nations of an empire so vast that it is said that the sun never sets on the British flag. We should, therefore, treat with respect and regard it as a sacred emblem. We should love, honour, and cherish it, keep it unsullied, and never forget it in the moment of strife. We should be ready and willing, if need arise, to shed the last drop of our blood in defence of our flag and country.

HARMONVILLE HOLDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL

The annual Musical Festival, under the auspices of the Manville School Fair Association, was held in the Orange hall, Manville, on Wednesday, June 4th.

Keen interest was exhibited in all classes, there being 134 entries and the preliminary contests had been decided. Contests were run in the Orange Hall and the United Church simultaneously and large audiences were present in both buildings. In the evening a concert was given by the winners of the various contests and was much enjoyed by an audience of approximately four hundred people.

R. C. Heckbert, of the School of Agriculture, Vermilion, was chairman for the evening, while Inspector Parker and W. J. Elliott of Vermilion, acted as judges for the recitations and dramatization with Inspector Williams of Verperville adjudicating the musical.

Great credit is due to Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Clement, the teachers and people of the district who combined to make the affair a decided success.

It is regretted that owing to the presence of diphtheria in the Clovelly school district the children of that district were unable to take part in the Festival. The prize winners were as follows:

HER TENTH

In many parts of rural England tourists may see the quaint old build ings whose very stones provide ... of bygone days Of such are the ancient Tithing Barns, into which the farmers brought his tithe of corn and produce. Red tiled and weather beaten they have stood the test of time, and though centuries old ... mute evidences of an age when tithing was accepted as the duty of a man unto his Maker ...

Here and there one still meets the same spirit of unselfish sacrifice in the hearts of some men and women of kindly wishes and sympathetic understanding. The following little story taken from the busy headquarters of Red Cross in Alberta restores one's faith in humanity in these hysterialistic times.

The Commissioner says "One day when more than usual the financial clouds were threatening, there came out of the grey sky a silver lining in the shape of a little note from a work ing woman." She said that she was poor herself, but she had lately earned a little and she wished to dedicate her tenth to Red Cross for the care of crippled children A dollar and some cents fell out of the envelope, but far more than that in reality for with the money there came a spirit of sacrificial service that re-dedicated the Red Cross workers afresh to their great work of alliviation of suffering, their faith strengthened by this simple story of a country woman's loving gift.

Auto Camp An Acquisition To Town

Will Be Used More in 1930

If any one is in doubt as to the use that the Vermilion Auto Camp is put to, just let them glance through the camp book register and put their minds at rest, for the register shows that the camp is continuously used From May until October. In 1927 the first to register did so on the 8th of June and the last date on which the camp was used was October 15. During this time 191 parties registered at the camp, and the parties themselves varied in number from two up. Many complimentary remarks during this year also are seen on the pages of the book. Written in very fine handwriting the following is a sample— this appears on Sept. 5—"A splendid camp; after touring through British Columbia and the Western States, we think Vermilion camp ranks as one of the best and wish your city every success."

In 1928 the first names to appear did so on June 12th and never let up until October 5th, during which time some 156 cars stopped there with parties varying from 1 to 7 according to the register. One particularly interesting remark, appearing from the pen of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Olders of Tessler, Sask., follows: "Thank you, Vermilion. We like your country. We like your town. By your camp we judge you as a fine community. We are coming again with the family." There are many the compliments paid to the camp. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rabe of Chicago, Ill., give vent to their thoughts thus: "Hail the city of Vermilion. One in a million. We wish to express our sincere thanks for the warm welcome extended to us by one of your citizens in directing us to this camp with its numerous conveniences."

The 1929 camping season started off on May 25th and was still going strong on Aug. 20th. Some misery seem into the pages of the register, but so that all record from there on is lost. This year the camp has already been used several times, thus starting out earlier than ever. The available records show that 228 persons stopped at the camp up to June 20th, so it is safe to assume that 1929 would have set a record for this year to try and break. The last remark to be found in the register for this year was written by Mr & Mrs. J. C. McDonald of Sydney, Nova Scotia "You have the cleanest, quietest and one of the most convenient camp grounds across Canada. Thank you for providing free campfires. Those who travel fully appreciative."

The camp consists as most others will know, are equipped with a kitchen containing stove, lamps brooms etc. Firewood is provided in cord lengths well in on the grounds. Tree provide plenty of shelter and ideal camping sights are abundant. An attendant spends two hours daily during the camping season keeping every thing on the camp grounds in fit shape The remarks in the camp book show that the camp is appreciated and appreciated to the highest degree

Canada Is Being Careful

All Immigrants Must Pass Medical Examination Before Being Admitted

We are accustomed to thinking of immigration as a sociological and economic problem. Seldom do we realize that it is primarily a problem of social hygiene—a problem of the physical, mental and moral health of our country.

It is obvious that the population of Canada can only grow in two ways—first, by the natural increase provided by native births. And second, through immigration. Generally speaking there is little danger that native Canadians will fail to absorb Canadian ideals, and receive Canadian training. Our educational system takes care of that. But our educational system does not take care of the adult immigrant—the stranger within our gates who intends to become our adopted brother.

And because there are all kinds of people in the world, we have to be careful whom we admit to brotherhood. We have to make certain that the immigrants who are permitted to come to Canada will not bring a tainted heritage to our country. We have to make certain that they are healthy.

We have already pointed out in a previous article, how improper housing gives children rickets, and rickets makes children bad-tempered and grateful, that when they grow up they are almost bound to show the effects of this time of their life, when they were so ill-health, by their attitude towards their fellow-men.

The importance of barring undesirable citizens from the land then that during the years 1924, 1925, 1926, there were over 3,000 foreign citizens in Canada alone, who used public charges. Under the present system, this situation will be greatly improved. It is Lloyd George who said, that you "can't raise an Al nation on C3 citizens."

If we bear this epigram in mind, the future of Canada will be a shining mark in the pages of history. Before going into detail as regards Canada's system of safeguarding her national bloodstream by carefully handpicking immigrants, let us consider some of the off-shoots of ill-health. And, by the way, if we think of each prospective immigrant as a blood-corpuscle seeking admission to our national blood-stream, we may get a clear picture of the importance of careful selection.

First of all, let us consider crime. Crime in many cases is an indirect consequence of ill-health. Not merely mental ill-health, but physical sickness. And with crime goes its cousin, poverty. How often do social workers see the progress of a man or a family from sickness to prison! A father takes sick, and becomes a chronic invalid or dies. His children, dependent upon charity, are undernourished and underprivileged. Their mother, struggling to support them, has little time to spare to bring them up in the way they ought to go. They are undisciplined. As children they join gangs, and when they grow up the gang habit remains with them.

Unemployment they have seen, sickness they have seen, poverty they have seen; crime is the almost inevitable development in many cases.

We have seen in the United States what happens when the flood-gates are opened and thousands of immigrants pour through them. Great prosperity comes, as it came to Uncle Sam, but with that prosperity comes other disadvantages. The crime situation is rather difficult to handle, as witnesses Chicago with a murder a day.

We don't have a murder a day in the cities of Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver and even have no prisons. Expensive machinery has been set up on other coast, with Ottawa as the headquarters, to see to it that the crime angle or any other difficult feature of bringing new citizens to the country, does not get out of hand.

"Why do you want to sell the piano so cheap?"

"My daughter is nearly old enough to have music lessons."—Sketch, Vienna.

W. N. U. 1040

We are, in other words, hand-picking the people who are going to have the privilege of living in this fair land of ours.

So you see immigration is "Primarily" a health problem. Canada need that.

The authorities carry out a most rigid physical examination of every immigrant who enters the country. We have doctors in some countries whose sole duty is to examine people before they leave their native land. Even after that, some of the people are turned back because of some defect which either developed on the way over or went unnoticed during the examination. The government of this country takes no chances of unsound and unwelcome guests entering our gates.

But when the hand-picked ones who do pass the critical eyes of the authorities, arrive in the province of establishing their new homes in our country many problems arise.

They are subject to more sickness than the native-born, and they have less money with which to safeguard their health. In the United States, where they have had greater opportunities of studying the questions, they have increased immigration. It has been found that about forty-six per cent. of all admissions to state mental hospitals were foreign-born.

It has been found that 70 to 80 per cent. of all Italian children have rickets.

But do not think that the problem involves itself into anything so simple as making it difficult for people to come to Canada to live. In fact, many more are desired. The Canadian Government are no anxious to have right kind of immigrants, that they spend money are spent annually to bring them here. But it is "the right kind of immigrants" only, that is wanted.

A total of twelve-million dollars has been spent during the past five years on immigration projects for Canada. During that time 875,000 new citizens have been introduced to the country. Naturally, it is in the interest of all of us, as Canadian citizens, that this influx should include only the perfectly healthy. To this end, the Canadian Government in its wisdom has found that the most satisfactory way of operating is to have these immigrants examined before they embark for Canada. In this way there is a double check on them, and as well as that, the prospective Canadians do not run the risk of being rejected at Canadian ports. Hence by wasting money which their trip across has cost them.

A staff of twenty-five qualified medical inspectors, appointed by the civil service commission of Canada, and operating under the Federal Department of Health has been assigned to Europe.

Eighteen of these are stationed in the British Isles, the remainder at different ports on the continent.

Hundreds of medical forms, each of pocket-size, bearing the photograph of the applicant, are issued to those who have passed the inspection of the immigration doctors, and these are good for a period of four months from date of issue. In other words, unless your Canada Home Book in has been found to be perfectly sound, mentally and physically.

Native Sons Coming Back To Settle In Canada

It is gratifying to know that Canadians who had sought the "green pastures" of the United States have found that the far away hills have not been so green as they had hoped for and they are now returning to Canada by thousands. The New England States are undoubtedly the finest section of the United States and from sixteen cities there a total of 61,874 Canadians have returned to the Dominion and the exodus is causing grave alarm. It is said that 3,000 Canadians planned to leave Manchester, N.H., for Canada, in May There are no immigrants that Canada will more warmly welcome than these who are her own native sons and daughters.

Require Mineral Matter

Lack Of It in Feed is Serious Impediment To Growing Pigs

A problem in the mineral supply of feed to hogs in certain parts of the Western provinces has been investigated by the livestock department of the University of Alberta, and in view of the unusual condition of the crops there, the conclusions drawn from many experiments carried out at the University are of special interest. The problem is caused by the low ash content of some of the locally grown grains and a scarcity of dairy by-products. Oats and barley do not appear to contain sufficient mineral matter for growing pigs and probably 50 per cent. of the pigs raised in Alberta do not get way skim-milk or buttermilk. The main conclusions which may be drawn from mineral feeding experiments conducted at the University are:

1. Simple mineral mixtures may be used to advantage in reducing the mineral deficiency of pigs on dry lot, and in reducing feed costs when combined protein and mineral supplements (skim-milk and tankage, etc.) are not being fed.

2. It would appear that when the protein requirements of pigs which have been properly carried over the critical weaning period and weigh around 60 pounds, are fed for 9 by a pasture crop, the most serious impediment to normal growth is likely to be mineral deficiency in the ordinary grain ration.

Must Carry Out Condition

Budapest Restaurant Keeper Ordered To Supply Free Dinner Every Day

When in 1920 a restaurant-keeper in Budapest bought a house for a comparatively small sum from a man named Andreas Csepl, he undertook to provide the former owner with dinner every day for the rest of his life. He did this for two years. Then they quarrelled and he refused to continue the contract. On the ground that an important condition of the sale was not fulfilled, Csepl started a law-suit to annul the sale of the house. The defence was that the provision of dinner was an act of charity and could not be annul the sale of the house. The defence was that the provision of dinner was an act of charity and could not be annulled. Both the lower courts examined before they embark for Canada. In this way there is a double check on them, and as well as that, the prospective Canadians do not run the risk of being rejected at Canadian ports. Hence by wasting money which their trip across has cost them.

Giving Convicts a Chance

Canadian Penitentiaries Fit Them For Honorable Life When Discharged

Something of the work of the penitentiaries of Canada are doing to their inmates for an honorable life on their discharge is shown in a short despatch from Kingston which says:

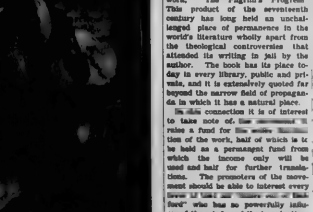
"Twenty-four convicts confined at Portsmouth penitentiary will be paroled and upper school examinations, 19 in the first category and five in the latter. One of the inmates has passed on all high school subjects."

When men who have been engaged in criminal pursuits can be influenced to study during the spare time outside their ordinary prison tasks to such good effect that they qualify themselves for attendance at University it is a sure sign that the men in charge of the penitentiaries are at the right type, making them places of correction rather than of brutal punishment.

Knut Buys Western Horses

Evidence that the machine age is not relegating the horse to the discard entirely is given in an official statement that in 1928 the Province of Ontario bought over 10,000 horses from the Prairie Provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta; Quebec, 12,000, and the Maritime Provinces, 3,000, making a total of 25,000. In the six months April 1 to September 30, 1928, over 30,000 horses raised in Western Canada, were sold in the Eastern provinces.

Cut Cost of Sections



As announcement of interest to those who like to have plenty of head-space when travelling in sleeping cars has been issued by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

After May 1, the upper-berth in a compartment or bedroom, will be available to a traveller holding the lower-berth section of the same section for the price of the lower berth and half the price of the upper-berth. Formerly it was necessary for a passenger to buy a compartment, lower and upper-berth, paying the combined charges for both, if the privilege of relaxing on a stated berth overhead was desired. After May 1, this privilege will thus be available at a substantial reduction.

When sold at the reduced price the upper berths will not be available for the lower berths, and conversely, but will be sold at those rates if both berths are to be occupied.

History Dates Back Twelve Hundred Years

Irish Hermits First Inhabited Iceland in 795

Iceland, one of the smallest of nations, had the greatest per capita exporting country, is making ready to entertain this summer in honor of the 1,000th birthday of her parliament, the first national legislature of the civilized world.

King Christian X of Denmark, who is also head of this independent monarchy, will be chief figure at the celebration, but all other leading nations will also be represented officially. King Christian will travel by Reykjavik on a Danish cruiser and will be accompanied by Queen Alexandrine, Crown Prince Frederick, Prince Knud and other members of the royal household.

Iceland being considered one of the Scandinavian sisterhood, most of the non-official visitors are expected to come from Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland. But special parties are also being organized in Canada, Great Britain, the United States, Germany, and the Netherlands. These latter will be housed on their ships while here, neither the hotels nor private accommodations of the Icelandic capital, with about 100,000 inhabitants in the kingdom—being adequate for such an influx of people. The capital itself has a population of only 28,000.

While the Icelandic parliament, or Althing, first gathered on Thingvilli, or "place of assembly," in "the year 930, the history of the country dates back considerably further than that, Irish hermits reached Iceland in 795 and found it uninhabited. About 860 A.D. a Norwegian named Naddod, discovered the country and Gardar Svavarsson, a Swede, was driven by storms to its shores.

The first permanent settler, was Ingolf Arnarson, a Norwegian. Appreciating the country at its proper worth, he cast overboard his high seat pillars and vowed to make his home where they should be washed ashore. They were washed ashore. The first Thing was the launching of the boat which was to be the scene of the first parliament. Ingolf's high seat pillars are at the right type, making them places of correction rather than of brutal punishment.

Acknowledged As Great Work

Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" Holds Unchallenged Place in World's Literature

As aftermath of the John Bunyan tercentenary, which was widely celebrated throughout the world in 1928, has been the movement for the wider distribution of his great work. "The Pilgrim's Progress." This product of the seventeenth century has long held an unchallenged place of permanence in the world's literature wholly apart from the theological controversies that attended its writing in jail by the author. The book has its place today in every library, public and private, and it is extensively quoted far beyond the narrow field of propaganda in which it has a natural place.

In this connection it is of interest to take note of the action of the Religious Tract Society in London in issuing a new edition of the work, but of which is to be held as a permanent fund from which the income only will be used and that for further publications. The promoters of the movement should be able to interest every lover of books in the "Pilgrim's Progress" and the imaginations of men.

Work For the Timekeeper

If the change in daylight saving time bothered you, think of the guardian of King George's clocks at Windsor Castle, in England. He had to adjust 380 time-pieces of various makes and ages to the new schedule. Not even the first lever watch ever made, which was recently discovered at the castle, or the famous old clock in Curfew Tower, made in 1690, escaped.

Sixty thousand workers are engaged in the German porcelain industry.

France Has Big Air Program

World Cover Half the World With Air Transport Lines

France seeks to expand a spider's web of air lines over half the globe.

She wants a full share of peace time aerial traffic and she wants to train a great reserve of war time pilots.

France also desires to reach out her long maternal aerial arms to the colonies across the Mediterranean, the Atlantic and over deep into the Pacific. Just as she wants her navy on the seven seas she wants her aeroplanes flying in the air lanes that lead to every spot where France's 60,000,000 colonials live.

French aeroplanes fly now to Great Britain, Poland, all of southern and eastern Europe, to Africa and South America. Already there is a line as far east as Bagdad and pioneer work is being done to have regular mail flights to Indo-China and Madagascar. The radial lines of a big part of the aerial web already are known.

France is well aided by her geographical situation," says Emmanuel Chaumie, chief of the Commercial Section of the air ministry. "For this reason that French territory is spotted along many of the probable flight routes. Corsica and Algeria would be would make more airfields, light more lanes, establish more and better wireless and meteorological posts to guide planes over France and French colonies the most desirable routes for foreign planes to take.

All these international roads, the ministry contends, must be bound together by French domestic service, intended primarily to make connections between international lines. For that reason it is felt that only long hauls will be profitable for some time. To further this policy letters are written during the day and should be transmitted by provincial government as appointing a police magistrate there. An order-in-council, signed by the Lieutenant-Governor, has named Ernest James Hoskins as police magistrate. Settlement at Churchill is now being completed by the government, but a police magistrate is already needed there in the administration of justice among the men engaged in rail terminal and harbor construction works, who at present are the only inhabitants. Ill, and is reported to be well able, I Schofield is not a lawyer, but a railway official now stationed at Churchill, and is reported to be well qualified to discharge his new duties.

Highest Spot in Alberta

Is Crest Of Mount Columbia On Western Boundary

According to the three-sheet map of the province of Alberta, published by the Topographical Survey, Department of the Interior, the highest point in the province is the crest of Mount Columbia on the western boundary. It is 13,294 feet above sea level. Indications are that the lowest point in the province is the bed of Slave River at Forth Smith, on the northern boundary, but this elevation not yet been properly determined.

"Oh, no, she doesn't!" contradicted Grandma, "not if she finds the right man, anyway. School teaching is all very well for a while; but I guess the girls are just the same inside as they were in my day, and I know what they're more sensible. A girl wants her own man and her own home and her own children, whether she wears her skirts to her knees or trailing in the dust as they did when I was your age. I'm not in the Boston parlor protesting about 'this leg show,' as the woman called it. I made me sort of mad. I guess she was over seventy, or else terribly behind the times. I'm too old to make changes myself; but it would be a dull world if nobody made 'em; and for my part I can't see what's wrong with a pair of legs. Even Mrs. Merry's had her best dress shortened, though being the minister's wife I expect some folk'll criticize her. If you're not too tired, child, I think you'd better make something good for supper. The doctor's been worrying himself all day, and is liable to have an appetite. Here he comes now!"

CHAPTER XVI.

On a bright afternoon in late October, Charmian, who had stayed after school to oversee some papers, was just starting on her homeward walk when a familiar car approached and drew up beside her.

"Ride?" questioned Jim shortly.

"You don't seem to be going my way," she answered.

"What of it? I'll have you back in time to get your supper, and a breath of air will do you good. Hop in."

Charmian obeyed.

"I hope Grandma won't think I'm lost or kidnapped," she said uneasily; but in a moment Jim saw that she had relaxed, and guessed that his timely invitation was a relief.

"Tired?" he asked, as they moved away from the old brick schoolhouse and headed toward Fleetboro.

"A little," the girl admitted. "It's been a trying day. I suppose such days come to all schoolma'ams, and I'm no exception."

"What was your special brand of trouble this time?"

Charmian looked up with a quick smile

"Doucen Pardie"

"That old maid turtle! What business did he have to come to you?"

"Have you forgotten that he is now the doting father of six?" smiled Charmian. "To make a long story short, Jim, Luella's eldest, who's a smart Aleck if there ever was one, was too impertinent yesterday to be endured. I sent him home with a note saying he could not return without apologizing; and his loving stepfather took it to heart."

"What'd he say?"

Jim was running slowly in order to watch Charmian as she talked. She met his eyes with a wistful smile.

"Oh, let's forget it! He's gone."

"You'll forget it quicker if you get it off your chest," advised Jim wisely. "Go on."

"He said that his son (note the 'son,' Jim) was not going to apologize to 'no Davis.' He implied that he held the school board in the hollow of his hand, and could make things hot for me unless I let the boy come back without saying he was sorry. Jim, I haven't always been a shred of discipline left if I allowed it. All the children heard what the parent said. I'm perfectly honestly, that the deacon is just trying to get even about those dreadful boys I don't tell Grandma, Jimmy. It would worry her to death; but if I lose the school. . . ."

Her voice trembled, and the brave heart was more than bold eyes wanted anything, to tell her that the school might 'go to the devil' if only she'd see a certain subject the way he did, he opened the throttle and said nothing at all until he had himself in hand. He didn't speak until they reached a bit of woodland where he stopped the car.

"Look here, Charmian" His voice was the least bit husky, and his arm were folded across his chest in an effort to keep from temptation. "Don't let that worry you a minute. The deacon's on the school board, of course (more shame to Wickfield—but he's only one. Do you imagine that his word would weigh in the balance against yours with the other members, George K. and Doctor Howe? Don't let him scare you! Just stick to your guns and everything will be all right. Gosh! I wish you'd order me to break his ugly nose!"

Charmian laughed. Already her troubles seemed ridiculously lighter.

"I'm afraid I'm right then?" she questioned humbly.

"Of course, you are! Cheer up, now, and relax. Shut your eyes, if you want to, and I won't bother you with talking. You need a rest."

The car moved forward, but though the girl closed her eyes obediently for a few moments, they wouldn't stay closed.

"There's no use my mixing this lovely foliage," she explained. "It and Grandma's more gorgeous than usual to me; and Grandma's sure Miss Lizzie's cut-leaf maple was never quite so gay."

"I think it's only that every year the coloring surprises us a little," Jim agreed. "It's delightful. We're going to seing it all green. Then comes a frosty night and presto change! We wake up and the scene's different, the way they do it in a theatre"

"I believe you're getting poetic in your old age!" laughed Charmian light-heartedly.

"I must have caught it from you, then," he responded.

She answered, a bit reproachfully: "If you did, the infection can't be very recent. You're a good deal of a stranger these days. Jim Bennett"

He threw her a quick glance

"I understood that your evenings were engaged."

"How?"

"Entertaining your gentleman boarder," he answered honestly, and was furious to feel the color creep into his face.

"What would you have me do—lock him in the wood shed or his office?" she retorted. "After all, Jim, a boarder is supposed to have the privilege of the family sitting room; and Grandma likes to talk with him."

"A fine chance she has when you and he are watching the moon rise from Wolfe's Hill," Jim countered with good-natured sarcasm.

"Whoever on this earth told you I climbed Wolfe's Hill with him?"

Charmian was so astonished that Jim smiled as he replied: "It may have been the whip-poor-will that was singing its head off somewhere in the vicinity that evening; and then again, it may have been Lizzie Baker. There's precious little you do, my friend, that Lizzie doesn't broadcast, I—well, my mother, for instance. She hasn't forgiven me, I understand, for taking a detour from the straight and narrow path that leads to your front door; and in consequence. . . ."

As he hesitated, Charmian gave way to a peal of laughter in which he joined.

"I wonder why it is that our elders take our slights so much more deeply to heart than we do ourselves," said the girl at last. "Miss Lizzie's dead, she owns a piece of me, you know. In her opinion every man in Wickfield should be in love with me."

"She's not far off there," responded Jim gallantly. "But as for slights—why, I'm never. . . ."

He was suddenly inarticulate, and Charmian stretched out an inquisitive finger to touch a long scratch that gripped the steering wheel; which unexpected contact caused the car to swerve.

"You don't owe me any explanation, Jimmy."

"I think I do," he answered as she removed her hand, "but not on the subject of Clara Darling."

"Clara Darling! Who's she?" asked Charmian in surprise

They had reached Eastboro, and Jim answered with a shout to the driver of the bank: "I'll tell you some day." but before she could ask more he had turned the car about and was headed across to the building after banking

Into the way home, however, he skillfully managed to keep the conversation away from his own problems, and as he helped her down the steps at the bank that made her laugh he asked questions about trivial nothings to hear her voice. Even at her encounter with Deacon Purdie and when he dropped her before the door of the parsonage and Grace Stephenson what would be the fare from Stockton to Darlington

Inland Fisheries Show Gain in Production

Marketed Value Last Year In Manitoba Over Two Million Dollars

While agriculture, the basic industry of Manitoba, together with manufacturing, mining and other industries has advanced substantially in the provinces in recent years, the production from the inland fisheries has probably shown the greatest gain. In the past five years the fisheries production has increased more than 1700 per cent. In 1924 the market value of the fish caught in Lake Winnipeg, Manitoba, Winnipegosis and other lakes was $1 232 900, while last year, it was $2,634,000. In 1929 the commercial fishermen of the province caught 33,000,000 pounds of fish, a record for Manitoba, with a marketed value of $2,634,000.

Little Helps For This Week

"Changed into the same image from glory to glory."—2 Corinthians III. 18

O hearts of love! O soul- [illegible] Like sunflowers to the pure and best!

To you the trust is manifest.

For they, the mind of Christ dwells With lean, like John, upon His breast.

—John Greenleaf Whittier

Stand in Christ's presence and mirror His character, and you will be changed in spite of yourself, and unknown to yourself, into the same image from character to character. Every man is a reflector; that is the principle upon which this is based. He cannot help reflecting; he cannot help showing the environment in which he has lived, the influences that have played around him. All friendship, all love, human and Divine, is spiritual so that it is no difficulty in reflecting the character of Christ that we have never been in visible contact with Him. He does not appeal to the eye; He appeals to the soul, and is reflected, not from the body, but the soul

FOUR INCHES OF RAINFALL LAST WEEK

Heaviest Here for Years

The rainfall which lasted for four days last week and which amounted to over four inches, was the heaviest known over a limited length of time for years in this district. The rain commenced last Wednesday morning, June 11, between 2 and 3 a.m. and continued intermittently until around midnight Saturday, June 14th; 3.70 inche had fallen at 7 a.m. Saturday and the light but continuous falls all that day brought the total up to a fraction over four inches. It is understood that this rain was general all over Western Canada, although it is reported to be heaviest at this point. Several dry lakes experienced a covering of water again, if only for a few days, while ditches are still full. All roads were in a terrible condition, but dried up in a remarkably short time.

ENO'S "FRUIT SALT"

An Encouragement To Progress

The subject of immigration has for many years been a live topic in Canada, and never more so than during the past year or two. There is, however, this difference, that whereas for many decades the discussion of the subject was largely as to ways and means whereby a large volume of immigration could be secured, in more recent years the thought of our people has rather been directed towards the successful colonization of the new comers

That is to say where at one time the main objective was to get immigrants in large numbers to settle upon our vacant lands, the main objective now is to see that those who do come make a real success of their venture, adapt themselves to the new environment in which they find themselves, and by assimilating themselves with the life and activities of the communities in which they locate identify themselves with Canada and become Canadian citizens in thought and aspiration as well as in name

To a greater extent than ever before native-born Canadians, and those of our citizenship who call the British Isles "home," have come to realize and appreciate the fact that immigrants coming to Canada from lands other than those under the British flag or speaking the English language, are really, even barely existing in Canada in the full meaning of the term. Appreciation of this fact is helping to break down old barriers or prejudice, and the English-speaking Canadian is becoming more and more assiduous to co-operate with and assist his fellow-Canadian or foreign extraction.

In a recent issue of this paper there appeared an article in the news columns describing a plan originated by the Canadian National Railways, under the direction of Dr. W. J. Black, the directing head of the department of Agriculture and Co-ordination of that system, having as its object the encouragement of community progress and development, and the attainment of the fullest possible measure of Canadian citizenship by those rural communities of the three prairie provinces which are of European origin

The plan is simple, but far-reaching and of tremendous importance. It involves the carrying out of a series of competitions among such communities, to be held annually for a period of five years, with three substantial prizes, of $1,000, $500 and $250 respectively, to be awarded each year in each of the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta on the understanding that the money be utilized in community work of some progressive nature

In other words, each of these rural municipalities or groups of school districts within municipalities in which the population is made up of people of continental European origin of the first or second generation, which displays the greatest interest in co-operation among themselves to promote education, public health and a better class of agriculture, and show the best results, will be awarded these prizes which, in turn, are to be used in still further promoting progressive community betterment.

The community which through the co-operative action of its people shows the best schools, the most regular attendance of pupils, the largest percentage of children going on for secondary or university training, which takes the keenest interest in matters of public health, social welfare, music, arts and handicrafts, which enthusiastically supports community organizations such as agricultural societies, co-operative marketing pools, women's institutes and home makers' clubs, libraries, etc., or which evinces the greatest interest and reveal the greatest progress in the improvement of agricultural methods, will be the winners of these substantial prizes.

But the greatest gain to such communities will not be the winning of the prizes, but in the direct and indirect benefits which will accrue to each individual and the community as a whole from the practice of these worth while things The prizes are, after all, but an additional incentive to work for the welfare and advancement of the community which the people thereby call "home." The prizes are but a tangible encouragement to excel all other communities in real constructive Canadian citizenship, to demonstrate through a determination to make use of and emphasize the best things made to offer in the development of their particular section of the Dominion

Ocean Bed is Changing

Shipping Has Been Endangered By Tidewaves in Pacific

Strange things are happening in the murky regions of the ocean bed in the Pacific the bed has been rising so much that shipping has become endangered. Off the west coast of Nicaragua the charts show an extra depth of 222 feet, but the figure is now actually 2 feet. Another sounding showed the actual depth to be 41 feet where the chart showed 1,-036 feet. Sudden upheavals on the ocean floor recently worked havoc among the telegraph cables; many of the stoutest were snapped like string. Including one of the latest, which normally takes five different sets of messages at once in each direction. When a break occurs the cable ship goes out; delicate apparatus aboard shows the break within two yards of the actual spot, and dragging commences Up comes the cable. A new length is inserted to make the join, and so critical is the actual work of joining the strands inside that the film of grease on a man's hand can actually prevent the join from being effective

BRIGHT EYES ROSY CHEEKS

The Birthright Of Every Girl

Dull eyes mean misery and weakness — a sure sign of a bloodless condition. Anaemic girls and women have dull, heavy eyes with dark lines underneath. The bright eyed girl or woman is always happy and healthy.

There is one way to make the eyes shine, to bring the glow of health to pale cheeks—that is to invigorate the body with the blood-rich, red health-giving blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this and they do it well Concerning them Mrs. Robert Devitt, Broughton, Ont., says: "My daughter became so ill and nervous we had to take her out of school. She was pale as white. Her eyes were dull and the least exertion upset her. I began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in less than six months you would not know her. She gained in weight, in strength and is now the picture of health"

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont

Predicts Reduction in European Crop

One Third Less Than Last Year May Wheat Exports

A European wheat harvest without one-third less than the bumper crop of 1929 is predicted by London, England, wheat experts.

The 1930 harvest, which the experts estimated at about 25 per cent. less than average, was damaged somewhat by a cold, wet spring. Decrease in acreage was cited to account for the remainder of the drop from last year's total

In the event of a shortage in the current crop in the United States, Argentina and Canada, it was considered certain that prices would be advanced materially.

Canada's War Pensions

Liberality Shown By Act Recently Passed By Parliament

The recent War Pensions Act passed by the House of Commons and the Senate keeps the Dominion of Canada in the forefront among nations of the world as to liberality in dealing with war veterans. So far, the Canadian pensions and soldiers rehabilitation $635,900.00 Soldier's insurance, given without medical examination is by far the most self-supporting, but before the conclusion of the scheme the loss as estimated will be over $25,000,000.

This year's expenses for pensions and soldiers' civil re-establishment is estimated at $41,264,000. Next year this branch is expected to cost $2,-000,000. The new scheme giving the equivalent of old age pensions at an earlier age to "burnt out soldiers" will cost $2,000,000 this year and increase annually to 1937, when it will be $18,000,000. It will expire in 1975, and the aggregate cost will be $480.-000,000.

An immediate outlay of $7,457,000 will be involved in replacing those on the pension list who commuted their pensions. There are 8,048 in this class. The law is made broader in widow's pensions and medical examination and this will also add to the annual cost.

New Telegraph System

Office-To-Office Connection Would Keep Account

A new system of telegraphy for London has been suggested by which messages would be typed out on a keyboard like a typewriter keyboard, in a private office, will be transmitted and automatically typed out in the office of another subscriber. If the new system is installed a subscriber wishing to telegraph to another will merely call the exchange, and dials the number of the subscriber to whom he wishes to telegraph, in the usual way and an automatic telephone is dialled. When the exchange signals that the connecting has been made, both subscribers can typewrite to each other. Their messages will be telegraphed and re-typed automatically. When the communications are finished another button is pressed which ends the connection. The introduction of the system will offer the advantages of quick transmission, the ability to send messages at any time, and complete secrecy as the direct office-to-office connection will prevent the message being seen by telegraph clerks or other post office employees.

Plans Elevated Playgrounds

New York Architect Has Idea For Congested Areas

Elevated playgrounds for children over the streets in the congested areas have been proposed by a New York architect Such a playground is was estimated, could be constructed for about $35,000 each, only a fraction of the cost of purchasing property for them, and at the same time providing the facilities where most needed. Land for playgrounds is often difficult for the children to reach. The grounds would be built of reinforced concrete, with a steel supporting structure and surrounded by a wire net with flower boxes outside the railing to give the effect of a roof garden.

LARGER VOLUME OF IMMIGRATION FROM BRITAIN

London, England.—Despite a decrease in the volume of British emigration to other parts of the Empire in 1929 as compared with 1928, emigration to Canada showed a substantial increase, according to the report of the overseas settlement committee, made public today. The report is counted to a statement of events in 1929 and it is presumed the general policy of the Empire governments with regard to overseas settlement will be discussed at the Imperial Conference in [illegible]

During 1929 the total number of emigrants from Great Britain and Northern Ireland to non-European countries was 145,886, compared with 124,854 in the preceding year. Notwithstanding this increase in the total migration overseas the total who went to other parts of the Empire was 106,900 in 1929.

The figures for 1928 were 108,562. The number assisted to go overseas under the Empire Settlement Act increased from 47,655 in 1928 to 73,213 in [illegible]

The substantial increase in the movement to Canada was due to the ten pound rate, the report states. The total movement to Canada was 60,585, compared with 45,709 in 1928. There was a decrease in the movement to Australia.

The report describes the scheme for settling 3,000 families on farms in Canada, which started in 1924, and is now completed, as the most successful large scale enterprise yet undertaken under the Empire Settlement Act.

New Order For Stockyards

May Be Permitted To Do Business In Any Province

Ottawa, Ont.—Public stockyards were excluded from the restrictions placed on a designated area while testing for bovine tuberculosis is conducted, by an order-in-council passed by the Federal Government. It will mean that the Minister of Agriculture may issue an order that a public stockyard in a restricted area may be permitted to carry on its business just as if the area had not been established

Saskatoon is the only place in Canada affected at the present time, officials of the Department of Agriculture said. While no order had been passed affecting the stock yards in that city, one is expected, they said

When tests for bovine tuberculosis are being conducted in a specified area, there can be no movement inward except that of tested cattle. Stockyards protested that this worked an injustice on them and that it seriously affected their business. This led to the order-in-council which excludes them from the restrictive terms.

Married women now employed will be given notice that their contract will terminate December 31, 1930, unless exceptional circumstances prevail to warrant continued employment after that date

Underworld Haunts Raided By Police

Six Hundred Suspects Are Arrested By Chicago Squad

Chicago, Ills.—Nearly 600 alleged hoodlums were rounded up as a special "strong arm" police squad slashed into underworld haunts, beat flophiding Chicago "for all time" of criminals.

Stirred to drastic action for solution of the murder of Alfred ("Jake") Lingle, Tribune reporter, and other gangland slayings, the squads, armed with shotguns, revolvers and tear bombs, crashed the thug hangouts with a vengeance. Patrol wagons, loaded, began arriving at police headquarters in a stream shortly after 10 p.m. and at midnight there was no sign of a let up.

The prisoners poured in so fast that the attaches of the bureau of identification were swamped and extra details were called on to assist in the work of booking.

As soon as word of the raids was circulated, a veritable swarm of attorneys, bondsmen and others interested in seeking liberation of the suspects also descended on headquarters, but their efforts came to naught, bail being refused in each instance.

Jury Acquits Oliver On Assault Charge

Son Of Ex-Premier Of B.C. Found Not Guilty

Vernon, B.C.—It took less than 20 minutes for the assize court to bring in a verdict of not guilty against John Oliver, son of former Premier John Oliver, charged with assaulting Dr. V. E. Latimer, in Penticton, last November 21. It was almost a foregone conclusion following the address of Chief Justice Morrison to the jury that Oliver should be acquitted and a murmur of satisfaction ran around the packed court room when the verdict was given.

Only four witnesses for the crown were examined and little time was lost by Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., chief defence counsel in cross-examination. Mr. Maitland put in no defence but immediately opened his address to the jury.

The jury retired at 3.40 p.m. and rendered their verdict at 4.00 p.m

Settles Old Dispute

Nova Scotia Not Liable For Militia Expenses During Strike

Ottawa, Ont. — The Province of Nova Scotia is "not liable to pay to His Majesty in the right of the Dominion all expenses and costs incurred by reason of the calling out of part of the active militia in aid of the civil power in Cape Breton" during June, 1925. This was the majority judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada, delivered by the chief justice here. Mr. Justice Newcombe dissenting, and Mr. Justice Cannon finding that liability was "conditional."

This settles a five-year-old dispute between the Dominion and the province in which the Dominion claimed reimbursement in the sum of $133,-116.72- the cost of despatching and maintaining troops of the permanent force in Cape Breton during the coal-miner strike of 1925.

PRINCE MAKES HIS FIRST WORLD-WIDE BROADCAST

Glasgow, Scotland. Making his first world-wide radio broadcast, the Prince of Wales, standing on the famous Clydebank wharves on the occasion of the launching of the Canadian Pacific Railway liner "Empress of Britain," said the building of the new liner was the most important milestone in the record history of the British mercantile marine.

The reason, the Prince said, represented the last word in shipbuilding and as to appointments would be found to have no condition. The building of what the Prince described as "this wonder ship" was another sign of the sound financial policy of the Canadian Pacific Railway

Ships Collide In Fog

Many Lives Lost When Passenger Steamer Rams Oil Tanker

Boston, Mass.—Flaming oil, spurting from the depths of a stricken oil tanker, believed to have been the "Pathia," of Fall River, was thought to have claimed the lives of more than 40 persons aboard that ship and the passenger liner "Fairfax," outbound from Boston, when they collided in Massachusetts Bay.

So suddenly did the tragedy occur that not a single survivor of the tanker was believed to have escaped the fog-shrouded inferno which followed the impact

At least a score of the "Fairfax's" passengers and crew were accounted for while the "Pathia" carried a crew of 19

Aboard the big passenger liner scenes of wildest confusion succeeded the shock of the crash Men and women, fighting the panic deemed, buried themselves into the sea only to perish amidst the raging oil which poured from the tanker in all directions Others were burned in their berths by the white heat of the fire which seared the port side of the ship.

The flames which swept both craft melted their radio antenna and temporarily ended possibility of summoning aid. The tanker, afire from stem to stern, settled slowly into the water plunging from sight 20 minutes after the crash

Successor Not Appointed

Australia Has Not Yet Chosen New Governor-General

Canberra, Australia.— In well-informed political circles it is stated Lord Somers, governor of the State of Victoria, will act as governor-general of Australia for about six months after the departure of the retiring Governor-General, Lord Stonehaven, in October.

The reason given is that Premier Scullin has asked to have the appointment of Lord Stonehaven's successor deferred in order to enable him to consult the Dominions office when he is in London attending the Imperial conference in October.

Some time ago the appointment of a native-born Australian to the post was mooted and the name of Rt. Hon. Sir Isaac Isaacs, chief justice of Australia, was mentioned. Premier Scullin at the time said there was nothing to prevent the appointment of an Australian

CROP REPORTS ARE WATCHED IN OLD LAND

London, England.— The truth about the Canadian wheat crop is anxiously awaited here because of despatches from Canada giving rise to the impression that there will be a shortage and that the price will be higher in the Old Country this coming winter.

The Winnipeg correspondent of The Daily Telegraph cables that Canada is faced with the prospect of another short wheat crop, adding this important information was not obtainable from the Wheat Pool, because of their attitude that we told the truth last year and the world would not believe it, now the world can find out for itself"

He reports too, that the Canadian farmer resents being called a Bolshevik because he wants a price for his wheat

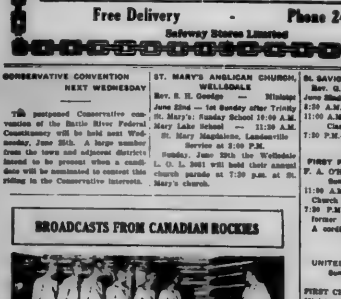
BROADCASTS FROM CANADIAN ROCKIES



The Canadian National Railways have blazed a pioneer trail in Canadian radio broadcasting and it again made history with the transcontinental broadcast from Jasper Park Lodge, Jasper National Park, on the occasion of the opening of the Lodge for this season. This was the first broadcast to be made from Jasper, in fact, it was the first time a radio programme has found its origin in the Canadian Rockies. Irvin Plumon and his Jasper Park Lodge Orchestra, which has just commenced its ninth consecutive season at the Lodge, supplied the instrumental music for the historic broadcast. Hudson Gladys Bell Owen, of Regina, who was the principal soprano in the New York production of "The Rivals," and Sydney J. Hendra, tenor, of Montreal, were the soloists.

The illustration above shows Irvin Plumon and his Jasper Park Lodge Orchestra; a Canadian National Railways observation car equipped with combination radio and phonograph; the resonance boards of the "Ship" Jasper Park Lodge.

BROADCASTING A DARING ADVENTURE

There is a large red brick House of Healing on the city of Calgary around which is a story of daring adventure in faith and optimism.

Children of all ages are to be found here, from a little morsel of humanity with hair of gold to a youth in the late teens—all guests and patients.

Utter confidence in the power that has brought them from their humble homes to this beautiful new House of Healing is theirs. Entire trust that as they are now launched on a wonderful cure, so shall her future days and weeks be safe and secure under that benevolent power.

The citizens of Calgary are cooperating in a supreme effort to meet a tremendous challenge in connection with this beautiful place. They hope to raise $12,000 to clear the building which will then be a permanent memorial, "The Red Cross Crippled Children's Hospital," and thus will be justified in their daring advocacy in such an undertaking. This property on Mt. Royal, with one and a half acres of ground.

It is hoped all lovers of children will rally to the cause of Red Cross in Calgary this week.

EDMONTON EXHIBITION

The Edmonton Exhibition is annually becoming more attractive, as the Directors adopt various features of special interest to those living in Northern Alberta.

In lieu of the pageant, this year the feature attraction will be Thrift's Revue—an artistic musical and dancing production which will go into the moving pictures at the close of the Western Canada Fair circuit. Possibly Hannaford's horse act is one which the fairs have been endeavoring to secure for some years, and is the most famous horse act on the continent. Those who have lived in Alberta for many years will be interested in the dancing of the group of ten halfbreeds from St. Paul des Metis, who were the star dancers at the recent C.P.R. Festival.

A new midway will please those who like to mix a little fun with their recreation. The Morris & Castle Shows will play the midway for the first time, and one of their stellar shows is a real, unadorned whale.

But of course the Edmonton Exhibition is first and last an agricultural exhibition, and a $50,000 prize list should attract a splendid entry list. In addition to the classes for live stock and grain, special classes have been made for farm women, and for ladies over 70 years of age; the prize money for bread making and similar accomplishments is extremely attractive.

The entries close on June 28th, and the prize lists are free to those asking for them.

Here and There

(633.)

Taking turns while the engine was under a full head of steam, Engineer H. J. Sherry and Fireman A. Fulkerson, dumped the fire and spurred the five feet of the engine to make running repairs at points displaced from the grade carried on Canadian Pacific engine 570 at Hope, B.C., recently. They could stand the intense heat only a few minutes at a time, but they succeeded in their work and saved serious delay, bringing their train to destination within a few minutes of scheduled time. They were each awarded 10 merit marks, the railway's recognition of conspicuous merit.

Forty-three years ago May 23 last, the first transcontinental passenger train reached Vancouver over the Canadian Pacific Railway, leaving again next day. That was eleven months after the arrival of the first through passenger train at Port Moody, originating at the terminus of the transcontinental.

"Judging from present indications, there is every reason to believe that the tourist traffic from the United States and from other Canadian provinces to the Maritimes will reach record proportions this season," says George B. Dear, recently appointed district passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Saint John, N.B.

Three important appointments in the freight traffic department of the Canadian Pacific Railway have been announced by George Hobson, newly appointed vice-president in charge of traffic. They are:—C. E. Jefferson, assistant freight traffic manager, Winnipeg, to be freight traffic manager, Montreal; H. W. Gillis, assistant freight traffic manager, eastern lines, to go to western lines in the same capacity; and David Wilson, assistant general freight agent, Montreal, to be assistant freight traffic manager, eastern lines. The appointments were effective from June 1.

A tax day "all expense" tour of eastern Canada, covering 2200 miles, and including a visit to the Toronto Exhibition, world's greatest annual fair, will be conducted from the Maritimes by Professor H. L. Stewart, of Dalhousie University, next August. The tour which will take in most of the points and cities of interest in the territory will be over the lines of the Canadian Pacific, Dominion Atlantic and Canada Central Railways and by Canada Steamships Line.

Six of the Canadian provinces, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia, have taken advantage of the Plain Loan Act of Canada, a Dominion Government measure under which long term mortgage credit is extended to Canadian farmers. At the end of last May, loans in the total amount of $4,000,000 were approved.

Canada leads in the following:—For lumber production; wheat and flour exports; world's wheat championships; railway mileage per capita; high grade wheat standards; world's per capita trade; newsprint production of the world; value of fur exports; forest per capita; fish per capita; in the number, world's largest inland port — Montreal; world's largest smelter of its kind — Trail, B.C.; and largest nickel-zinc grain elevator in the world.

GEORGE ROBERTSON

George Robertson, late of Morayshire, Scotland and for the past five years a respected Islay farmer, died at his home "Riverside Farm" on Sunday, June 8th, 1930 at 4 p.m. He was in his 85th year.

The late Mr. Robertson was born in Scotland in 1875, where he lived the greater part of his life. In 1892 he married Miss Jemima Polson, and five years ago he left his native land and came to Canada. He settled in the Tilsonburg district at Riverside Farm some 5 miles north of the village of Islay. Here he soon won the respect and esteem of his neighbors by his quiet, genuine manner. Early this spring he was taken ill and although given constant medical attention and spending some time in the hospital, he failed to improve, and passed away on June 8th.

Besides a host of friends he leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife and a family of six daughters and four sons; Mrs. Milne and Mrs. Grant in Scotland; Emily, nurse in training at the Misericordia hospital Edmonton; Christie, Hessie, and George, Polson, Harry, Charlie, all at home.

Mr. Robertson was connected with the Presbyterian church in Scotland but since coming to Canada had attended the United church. He was a man of strong convictions, a splendid neighbor and a true friend. His helpful advice and wise counsel will be greatly missed not only by his sorrowing family but by neighbors and friends alike.

The sympathy of the entire neighborhood is extended to the bereaved family, who always found in the deceased a faithful husband and devoted father.

The funeral service was held at the United church Islay on Thursday, June 12th and was conducted by the Rev. L. A. Thompson. Interment took place in the Islay cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of Mr. J. Waring of Vermilion.

A tea and sale of home cooking will be held in St. Saviour's Parish Hall on Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock, June 21st, under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary. 6-7x

INTERESTING ADDRESSES AT YOUNG CONSERVATIVE CLUB

Possibly the most beneficial meeting yet held by the Young Conservatives was that of last Friday evening when several of the members gave enlightening talks on leading topics of the day. The information contained in these and the eloquent manner in which they were delivered speaks well for the future of Conservatism in Canada. The speakers and the topics of their addresses were:

Mr. Archie Little, who spoke on "A Comparison of the Policies of the Parties in Canada and the U.S.A."

Miss Kathleen Craig, who spoke on "Observations of a Young Conservative on the present condition of Canada."

Mr. E. Stewart, whose subject was "The Tariff Situation in Canada."

The next meeting is being held this Thursday, June 19, when a social evening for members and prospective members is being given and which will also include short addresses by Mesdames Lamb and Jonnes, and Messrs. Stewart and Little.

R. C. Borland is a visitor in town this week.

THE STANDARD

VERMILION, ALBERTA

ESTABLISHED 1909.

Published every Thursday afternoon at the Office, Main St.

G. E. P. GOUPIER, Editor

Vermilion, Alta., June 19, 1930.

The Standard learns that a spirit of opposition has developed in certain quarters against the opening up of the additional summer resort lots on the town as covered in a news report on the front page of this paper. It is hard to understand why such an attitude of antagonism should be adopted by any well-wisher of the town. This old, part trail, part street was the one and only main eastern road into Vermilion for many years. The present main street road was first graded years ago, hardly ever used, and went back to weeds and sod in a couple of years, and until the first street south trail were away to a veritable rock pile, the main street road became an ideal highway. True, it was re-graded under Mayor Fallow and has in a large measure been the one in choice and has done duty as the main highway. The public spirit shown by Jos. McKeon in organizing the present work is only in keeping with his past actions which have redounded in nothing but the good and advancement of our town. A portion of this road is on C.P.R. property, but it must be borne in mind that it has always been on it and not likely to be used for years to come. Surely Vermilion citizens are big enough to approve, rather than oppose, the valuable cooperative effort put through by a citizen of Vermilion. If the town possessed more of his kind its progress would surely be assured.

The editor has received a note from a reader who says that the people who are advocating co-operation in all things, should take lessons from the four millers of the western provinces. He then goes on to say that "through co-operating they have kept the price of flour from one and a half dollars to three dollars a barrel higher than it should be according to the price of wheat ever since the war." Our knowledge of the milling business is not sufficient to express an opinion on the writer's assertion. The Standard notices that Welsh millers, who are buying wheat from France, Belgium and Roumania at many shillings below what Canadian wheat can be bought at, say the saving in price will not mean cheaper bread for the Welsh consumer, claiming they have lost so heavily recently they cannot afford to reduce prices.

Work on the Canadian Legion Memorial which is to be erected in the town park is proceeding merrily. A considerable amount of rock has been hauled, most of which were a nuisance and an eyesore around the precincts of the town but will push ahead fulfil their mission in life when built into the Memorial.

Grass is growing well on the C.N.R. bowling green, and this will soon be a "green" in the true sense of the word. Many longing glances are being directed at it by old time and would be bowlers — indicating that this will be a very popular spot in town when the grounds are able to be utilized.

Anyone that thinks that co-operation is not possible in this town should take a look at the way Joe McKeon has rounded up his bunch of 1st Ft. South workmen in putting through the new road into the town from the east. And to think that the boys along 1st Street aren't in the manual labor class is another error, and a visible one, as anyone who noted George Capatos digging out rocks at 6 a.m. on Wednesday will testify, or saw "Doc" Bailey swinging a mean axe on some brush and "Jabez" Winters plying a crow bar. As is usual with a McKeon project, Joe and son are in the thick of the work.

LIBERALS CLOSE ELECTION FIGHT

R. Bruce Hall, the Liberal candidate contesting the provincial seat in this riding, held his campaign here on Monday evening with a meeting in the Armories.

He was assisted by W. R. Howson of Edmonton. Both speakers criticized the record of the Farmer government. Mr. Howson explained the policies of the Liberal party which if would carry into effect if returned to power. The development of industries, reduction of public expenditures, promotion of agricultural interests, were among the matters upon which he said his party entertained advanced views. J. D. Adams acted as chairman for the evening. The attendance at the meeting was small.

BOARD OF ACTIVITIES AT SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

Government Buildings Always Busy and in Use

The end of the regular school term doesn't mean a long summer holiday for the Vermilion School of Agriculture officials—it is merely a switching from one phase of work to another, as will be seen by the long list of summer activities now scheduled for that institution.

The dormitory has been somewhat enlivened of late by school children from the rural districts who have been brought in for 5 day's visit. Quite a number of schools have come in during the past ten days.

Commencing July 3 and continuing through the fourth and fifth, the Institute of Co-operation for northern Alberta will be held. All phases of co-operation will be dealt with by Canadian and American experts in this three-day meeting. A preliminary meeting was held May 31, when some 20 farmers and farm women met to draw up plans and to select committees. One hundred "junior" delegates, that is, delegates under 21 years of age, will have their expenses paid. Of these, 50 will be Junior U. F. A., 30 will be V.S.A. students, and the remaining 20 will be drawn from such organizations as the Boy Scouts, Women's Institute, etc.

Mothers' Week

Following this, Mothers' week, an innovation for this school, will take place from July 7 to 10 inclusive. The object of this is to give mothers throughout the country an opportunity to get away from their daily tasks for a week's rest and recreation. Demonstrations and talks from staff members will be given and an opportunity for recreation about the lawns and buildings will be afforded.

To date, some 20 applications from mothers of V.S.A. students have been received.

The Hudson Bay are holding a picnic for their settlers at the V.S.A. on July 14. The Alumni Association meets on July 15 and from July 17 to 24 inclusive the annual short course of school fair trainers in northern Alberta takes place. July 27 to 29 the girls' guides have special classes in household science.

FRATERNAL VISIT

Mrs. Brooks, Worthy Matron of Lloydminster Chapter Order of the Eastern Star, accompanied by several of the members of that Chapter, paid a fraternal visit to the Queen Esther Chapter of Vermilion on June 17th. During the afternoon they were entertained by a tour of points of interest about the town and Agricultural College under the guidance of Mrs. A. T. Law, Worthy Matron of the local Chapter, following which tea was served at the home of Mrs. Law. Mrs. Brooks brought fraternal greetings from the Lloydminster Chapter and extended a hearty invitation to the Vermilion body to visit Lloydminster in the near future. Following regular business luncheon was served and a social hour closed a most happy event.

The Cause Of Many Ailments

Heart Trouble May Sometimes Be Traced To Bad Teeth

You may be surprised to know that if you are suffering from rheumatism, anaemia, tuberculosis, ear trouble, or a number of other common ailments, the fundamental cause of your trouble may be your teeth.

Only in comparatively recent years scientists found this out. And only a comparatively small number of people have learned to take advantage of this new knowledge in keeping themselves well.

The Mayo clinic, which has won fame all over the world for the high standard it maintains, and the conscientious treatment it gives patients, now insists that every person who comes up for treatment should undergo a thorough examination of the mouth, no matter what disease is appraised.

Dr Charles Mayo once said that the great cause of the people of this generation would not die from one of the great plagues, but that ninety out of a hundred would probably die because of some simple infection, the original cause of which would give them no trouble. Diseased teeth frequently are such local infections.

One by one the great agencies of the world are taken even more interest in what the teeth are doing to the rest of the system. The life insurance companies want to know what is behind the applicant's mouth before they decide whether he or she is a good risk for a policy. Large industries employ dentists to examine the teeth of their employees and see to it that they have the best chance of highest efficiency through healthy mouths.

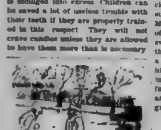
It is therefore, of the highest importance that we be most systematic in taking the very best care possible of our teeth. And it will help us to do so if we know some of the reasons. There is a world of truth in the old quotation, "Infected teeth are ill teeth."

But it is a poor law that fails to work both ways. And while it is true that diseased teeth disturb the system, so also is it true that a system that is not properly fed will bring about tooth-decay. Therefore, if you would have good teeth, it is not sufficient that you keep them clean—though this is highly important; it is also necessary that you choose your food carefully

Immigrants from Italy, Greece, and Balkan States, Poland and Germany have fine teeth, surprising as this may seem. Investigation of this factor in their lives showed that they eat a simple diet, consisting of coarse foods, plenty of fruit and vegetables, and dark bread that is never eaten white it is fresh. They do not have the same opportunities that we have of indulging in white flour and refined sugar, and they seldom eat candy. On the other hand, the Mayo clinic examination of fifteen hundred patients shows that 57 per cent. had infected teeth and 80 per cent suffered from pyorrhea.

Toothache, while about as unpleasant as anything one can think of, has its advantages because it is a danger signal and sometimes we are apt to be thankful unless we receive a very emphatic warning. The fact that you have no tooth-ache, however, should not be taken to mean that your teeth need no attention. Sometimes people have teeth that are gradually undermining their health while they are not suspecting danger. They reach middle age and find that not only are their teeth getting past the the stage of usefulness, but their general health has suffered as well One of the most intelligent habits one can form is—regular visit to the dentist every six months and the utmost co-operation with him when we get there

Teeth properly and regularly brushed, will not decay unless candy is indulged into excess Children can be saved a lot of useless trouble with their teeth if they are properly trained in this respect They will not crave candies unless they are allowed to have them more than is necessary



"Go home and go to bed."

"Why Not?"
"Last night I dreamt of work."—Regale Lustige Welt, Berlin.

And a bad habit, once formed, is hard to break.

An adult who indulges in candies should do so during meal times. Candies or sweets should not be taken between meals, and if this is done the mouth should be rinsed out immediately with water. To eat candies just before going to bed, is the best way to encourage tooth-decay and large dentists' bills.

If you are [illegible] dentist regularly, he will soon recognize any symptoms of pyorrhea in your mouth, and the time to treat this disease is in its early stages. To avoid pyorrhea, one must avoid taking soft, starchy and gelatinous foods, like cake, between meals and before going to bed at night. Whenever they are taken they should be followed by cleansers such as fruit. Cleanliness of the mouth is one of the greatest means of avoiding this disease. Thorough mastication helps by increasing the circulation in the gums. If you have erred in the matter of diet in the past, the best thing you can do to correct your mistake is to maintain the habit of brushing the gums [illegible]

Would Save Much Trouble

Considerable Expense Is Avoided If People Make Their Will

An Ontario judge recently stated that in one country in this province, and he thinks it a fair average in connection with the estates of deceased persons dealt with by court officials, only one in every three persons makes a will. The reason assigned for this are that it is repugnant to the average man to think of his own death and he hates to make his will on a schedul as it would be an admission that he expected to die. He is always looking forward to the time when he will be better off and doesn't know just how he should dispose of his property. The chief reason to our way of thinking is that he is one of procrastination. The making of a will is something men and women don't have to do, like paying a tax bill, and so they put off what they consider is unnecessary until it is too late, and hasty work is thrust on their heirs by making no will at all.

Some of the shrewdest business men have no wills, and some of them make wills that high court judges have difficulty in interpreting.

Then there are deathbed wills when the maker of the will is influenced by those who are in closest touch with him and these will often lead to protracted lawsuits. Have you made your will? If not, do it this week. If you can't get to town conveniently, write it out on a sheet of foolscap or even in a scribbling book, sign it as your last will and testament and one of your neighbors witness your signature, and it will save a big expense to your family in lawyers' fees, and the will settling out the beneficiaries and the amount left to each will not be carried to a high court to be understood. A deathbed will witnessed will made on a strip of birch bark in the woods had good in a legal test.

More Sweet Clover Planted in West

Area Seeded is Being Increased In Manitoba and Saskatchewan

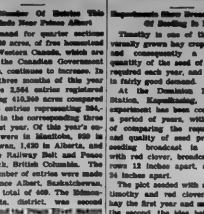
From the Dominion Seed Branch comes one of the most interesting reports of field crop development in 1930, which is that the prairie provinces are moving very much larger quantities of sweet clover seed this year than ever before. The Branch reports indicate a definite trend in the direction of increasing the proportion of forage crops throughout the West, and the best sugar manufacturers are distributing sweet clover seed to beet growers for the purpose of maintaining and improving beet production. Saskatchewan is calling for larger quantities of sweet clover seed, which will probably be supplied from Eastern Canada, and Manitoba is also increasing the area of sweet clover seeded. As a crop sweet clover costs less to produce than some of the other legumes, it is a practically sure crop, it has very high fertilizer value, and it can be introduced into a system of grain farming with particular ease. These are all factors which contribute to its growing popularity as a crop.

As Ordinary Citizen

King George, were he an ordinary citizen, would be "Mr. George Windsor." In similar circumstances, King Edward would have been "Mr. Albert Edward Wettin," and Queen Victoria before her marriage, "Miss Guelph." The family name of the House of Hanover to which Queen Victoria and her predecessors belonged, was "Guelph."

Motor cars hit 300 tmiles last year, but, you'll notice, the trains are still running.

NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE PRESIDENT



Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, was in the chair at the annual meeting of that organization, which was held at Toronto. Mr Calder has been the leader of professional hockey in Canada for many years and of international hockey since the scope of the N.H.L. was enlarged. He is a first-class executive officer and the best hockey man in American today.

Require Much Care

Every Locomotive Has History Card On Which Record Is Kept

Locomotives, like horses, have to be stabled. When the engine has made its journey it is gently led to the locomotive shed and refreshed and comforted for its next journey. At the locomotive shed the roaring engine ceases to do any work. After having its coal-box cleaned of ashes the driver and fireman hand it over to the shed staff, and then the whole fabric is carefully examined and cleaned and oiled so that no defect is likely to escape examination. After running a thousand miles an express engine undergoes a special examination and overhauling, which include the washing out of the boiler and the scouring of the steam tubes. Even more severe examinations follow after every 3,000 miles, after every 10,000 miles, and after every 30,000 miles. After running 10,000 miles the engine goes to the central workshops to be completely reconditioned. Every locomotive is provided with a history card, in which each repair or replacement is carefully recorded. An engine has to be reported as in perfect working order before it goes out for a fresh trip; but even this does not absolve the driver from responsibility. He has to satisfy himself that there are proper supplies of fuel and water aboard, and that all the working parts of the engine are properly lubricated, before he begins a journey.

World Makes Crop Universal

The Imperial Bureau on Soil Science is preparing technical papers on the subjects of a culture for the inoculation of Lucerne clover seed which will make cultivation of this crop practicable the world over, Rt. Hon. Charles Addison, parliamentary secretary of the British Ministry of Agriculture, announced in the House of Commons.

Island Well Named

Nianfou Island, in the South Pacific, from which astronomers will observe a total eclipse of the sun next October, is known as "Tincan Island" because small for its inhabitants is sealed in a tin can and thrown overboard by the monthly inter-island steamer, a native swimming out and rescuing it.

CAPTAIN J. McCANNELL GETS THE HIGH HAT

It's an old custom. Every year when the first great tuber steamship gets through to Port William from Port McNicoll, after the ice break-up, the captain is presented with a silk hat by the city officials. This year Captain J. McCannell, of the Canadian Pacific steamship "Assiniboia," was the lucky man—and he looks mighty pleased, too!

Demand For Land Continues

Largest Number Of Settlers This Year Made Near Prince Albert

The demand for quarter sections each of 160 acres, of free homestead lands in Western Canada, which are given by the Canadian Government to settlers, continues to increase. In the first three months of this year there were 2,504 entries registered representing 415,340 acres compared with 2,605 entries representing 394,-800 acres in the corresponding three months last year. Of this period 1,-tries 108 were in Manitoba, 920 in Saskatchewan, 1,430 in Alberta, and 107 in the Railway Belt and Peace River Block, British Columbia. The largest number of entries were made in the Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, district, a total of 469. The Edmonton, Alberta, district, was second with 407 and the Peace River district third with 145.

The Canadian Government requires a registration fee of $10 to be paid by each settler to whom a quarter section of homestead land is granted, and the settler must do a certain amount of cultivation and fulfil other requirements as to residence, etc., within three years. These homestead lands are now for the most part at some distance from railways but with the rapid increase of settlement and good roads they are in increasing demand.

Record Bible Sales

Over Forty Million Copies Were Purchased Last Year

More than forty million Bibles were sold last year—a record. The figure surpasses all previous records by 5,000,000 copies.

The British and Foreign Bible Society, of London, England, whose report for 1929 will shortly be issued, sold 12,000,000 copies of the Testaments and the Gospels.

The National Bible Society of Scotland, accounted for another five million copies; while the American Bible Society claims a total of 18,000,000 copies of the Bible as compared with 11,000,000 in the previous year.

The 12,000,000 turnover of the British and Foreign Bible Society includes 4,000,000 copies of the whole or major part of the Old and New Testaments printed in English. This is an increase of 775,000 on the 1928 figures. A million of these were sold in England. The remainder went to the Dominions and Colonies.

The figure for Wales is still more remarkable. Sixty - six thousand copies of the Scriptures in Welsh were sold last year. That is an increase since 1928.

The society publishes the whole Bible or parts of it in 630 languages.

Mansfield's Worst Fears

"If we can abolish the fear of unemployment and the fear of war, we will be abolishing the two great fears which afflict mankind," declared Hon. J. H. Fenton, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in the Canadian Government, speaking at the annual banquet of the Quebec division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Montreal. Mr. Fenton was on his way home from the naval parley.

Services Are Voluntary

Many hundreds of voluntary observers throughout North America are collecting information concerning the numbers of water-fowl observed this spring, each month. Reports for Canada are forwarded to the National Parks of Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, and those for the United States to the Biological Survey, Washington, D.C.

Production Of Timothy Seed

Superintendent Shows Drawbacks Method of Seeding Is Used

Timothy is one of the most universally grown hay crops in Canada, and consequently a considerable quantity of the seed of this crop is required each year, and it is usually in fairly good demand.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ontario, an experiment has been conducted over a period of years, with the object of comparing the results in yield and quality of seed produced from seeding broadcast in combination with red clover, broadcast alone, in rows 12 inches apart, and in rows 24 inches apart.

The plot seeded with a mixture of timothy and red clover is cut for hay the first year and saved for seed the second, the idea being that the red clover will have largely died out and consequently the stand would be mostly timothy.

This experiment has been conducted on quadruplicate one-fortieth-acre plots, using a nurse-crop of either barley or oats.

In some years it has been found that the first-year meadow has not been a good stand and in some cases had to be cancelled. This was probably due, in part at least, to the smothering effect of the nurse-crop.

The average results show that there is not a very great difference between seeding broadcast and in rows, and considering the fact that fields sown in rows are more apt to become weedy unless cultivated, which would take extra time and naturally add to the cost of production, it would appear as though the broadcast method is to be preferred.

How Name "Rocky Mountains" Originated

Indians Referred To Them As Great Backbone

In his diary, while Governor of York Factory, on Hudson Bay, in 1754-55, Anthony Henday, the first white man to see the Rocky Mountains, refers to them as "mountainous Indians" with whom he had "a great deal of discourse." They told him their country was "very mountainous and of a prodigious height. . . . so they cannot pass the tops without it be clear weather. . . . The east side but a little way to the westward of the mountains." This is the earliest reference to the Rocky Mountains in the records of the Geographic Board of Canada.

In 1780 Beauharnois, the French Governor, transmitted to France a chart which the Indian, Ochagach, had drawn for La Verendrye, showing the Grand Portage route to Western Canada from Lake Superior. This map indicates the "montagnes et Rochers Brillantes," a name which is found in translation "mountains of Bright Stones" on Jonathan Carver's map, 1778.

The mountains are referred to by their present name in dispatches of St. Pierre's Journal of 1752. He calls them "montagnes de Roche." The name is a translation of the Indian name, which in Cree is "assiniwai," in Stoney "ainka," and in Blackfoot "mistakin." Viewed from the prairies, the Rockies present a great wall of rock.

Composers Well Named

Meaning Of Names Seems To Be Carried Out In Works

The names of musical composers are often as suggestive of their work as are those of people in other spheres of life. Handel means commerce or business, and there never was a more businesslike composer than "the giant Saxon." Haydn had a name which means "of the meadow," or "of the health," which may account for the fresh, healthy character of his music. Brahms is nearly the same; but harder and more northern, for the name means nothing more or less than brown, a plant which grows in abundance in the district from which the Hamburg composer's family came. One might also ask whether the flowing character of the music of Bach does not come from his name, which means brook, or the brightness of that of Verdi (Green), or the driving style of Wagner (Charteriglit), while Byrd, Chernicki, and many other names carry equally obvious suggestions.

Canada In World Court

Senator Raoul Dandurand, Canadian delegate to the council of the League of Nations, announced to the council that Canada would shortly deposit with the league the instruments ratifying the protocol by which the statutes of the world court of international justice are revised in connection with Canada's entry into the world court. The Canadian parliament recently approved the ratification.

Britain Leads In Luxurious Flying

New Liners Of Imperial Airways Are Least Word In Luxury

Jules Sterlet flew over the English Channel just twenty-one years ago next July, in a contraption that looked little better than the gliders which are now coming into vogue. By the time the next anniversary comes around, M. Sterlet will be able to gaze upon real liners of the air which are the lineal descendants of the machine he navigated on that occasion.

British Imperial Airways are putting into commission in a few weeks a fleet of air liners between London, Paris and other cities, which are so far in advance of the Sterlet machine as the Bremen is ahead of the packet which brought our immigrants in the early part of this century ago.

They will carry forty passengers, plus two pilots and two stewards. There will be two cabins, one of them for smoking, but each has commodious as the drawing-room of an average home, being sixteen and a half feet long and more than half that in width. The cabins are decorated on a scale never hitherto attempted except by a firm used to decorating the trade. There will be a buffet and hot ocean linery built for the Atlantic between the two saloons, and tables are provided for cards.

This, of course, is an all-British achievement, the air liners being built by the Handley-Page Company. Undoubtedly it will be as easy for these air liners to travel between London and England, as between London and Paris, with the necessary stops between.

The big Dornier machines have carried more passengers—150 at a time—but that, also, was only made possible by the use of British-built engines of the same type as the Airways' liners have.

Thus Britain is again leading the way in the new science of transportation. The fastest and biggest planes; the largest and most luxurious trains, and ocean steamships which are temporarily the second fastest in the world, are all built and manned by Britishers. In the air, on the land, and on the sea, British is best.

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard 17th JUNE 1914

Buck the Hopkins and Elk Point ferries were carried down the river last week when the cable broke owing to the force of the current caused by the rise in the river from the heavy rains. At the time both ferries were crossing the river with passengers, wagons and horses and an exciting, not to say dangerous, time was experienced. The Hopkins ferry went down 25 miles with a team of horses, a young lady and three men on board, before it was brought to the bank. That at Elk Point only went a short distance and those on board were able to make back in a boat.

No less than $21 oil companies with total stated capital of more than 200,000,000 have been incorporated under the laws of Alberta since the strike in Discovery well in the southern part of the province.

Samples of oats measuring 19 inches, barley 21 inches and red fyfe wheat 17½ inches were left at the Standard office this week by C. A. Hodgins, 16-25E.

Vermilion's contribution to the big military camp at Calgary entrained here Monday morning and consisted of 21 officers and men with some 25 odd horses.

The Vermilion Citizens' Band under Bandmaster West, supplied music for the day of sports at Lashburn on 11th of June. The band has become so well known that their services have been requisitioned for Kitscoty July 1,

"Lady of Snows" Gets Hot

Rudyard Kipling, poet of Empire and friend of the common man, has a phrase "Our Lady of the Snows" as a description of Canada. Here's another view of the Dominion. Making a flying trip to this country, the famous author sketch of Mr. Kipling from the top of the Chateau Frontenac into the steps and inside the post wonder how he ever got the idea that Canada was a land of snow and ice. "My chief impression of Canada, judged by the past few days, is heat," he said. Kipling was housed in a "Duchess of Bedford," on which he is returning to England. Cut is reproduced from a pencil sketch of Mr. Kipling by Canadian Pacific Railway.

Indigestion

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what the doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

Phillips Milk of Magnesia

Use tasteless spoonful in water now—many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Or learn—as the doctor method is improving.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggists.

Cutworm Outbreak, 1930

Are Present in Exceptional Numbers and Over Wide Areas

(Kenneth M. King)

The cutworm outbreak which was predicted for this spring is materializing in very serious proportions and over wide areas. Two types of cutworms are involved:—The Red-backed cutworm group and the Pale western cutworm. The Red-backed cutworms seem to be generally abundant this year in the bush country, throughout the park belt, and into the adjoining margin of prairie land. It is particularly destructive in fields next to the bush. Unsowed crops, though cereals may also be seriously damaged.

The pale western cutworm occurs in two areas: —(1) It is extremely abundant this year in south central Saskatchewan, in the heavy soil of the Regina plains. The outbreak definitely extends from Balcarres, Indian Head and Strasbourg in the east to Moose Jaw, and possibly to Rushbank and Central Butte on the west. Southwards, it probably extends to the International Boundary, in the heavy soil. (2) An outbreak is also expected in eastern western Saskatchewan, especially around Alsask, extending possibly to Madison, on the east, and Maple Creek to the south, may perhaps be used, or coin for green feed or hay.

How To Distinguish:—Cutworms can be readily distinguished by their soft round bodies, and their habit of cutting off the plants completely at or near the surface of the ground. The only other pests which cut plants at the slight collar given by the food and other contents of the body; it usually has a very greasy appearance.

Control Measures — Red-backed cutworms:—Poisoned bran bait is a very effective and practical means of control, either in gardens or in large fields, for all cutworms of the red-backed group. The important thing is to watch the fields closely and use the bait in time to save the crop. Usually 24 hours after the bait will persist immediate re-seeding safely.

Three things are essential in using poisoned bran bait cutworms: —(1) The bait must be put out in the evening, since it is only at night that these cutworms come above the surface to feed. (2) A warm night should be chosen; if the thermometer registers less than fifty degrees Fahrenheit at sundown, it will be too cool to secure a good kill of cutworms. Best results are secured when the surface soil is moist. (3) The bait should be evenly spread over the surface, since the worms must come in contact with the bait in order to feed on it; a very thin application, 20 to 30 pounds per acre, is sufficient.

The bait is prepared as follows:—Bran, 25 pounds; Paris Green, ½ pound (or white arsenic, 1 pound); cheap molasses, 1 quart; water, 4 or 5 quarts.

The dry bran and poison are first thoroughly mixed together (keeping mouth and nose covered with a damp cloth, during the process). The molasses should be dissolved in the water, and this mixture then slowly stirred into the poisoned bran until it is thoroughly moistened and free from lumps. CAUTION:- Keep any unused bait or poison out of the way of children or animals.

Pale Western Cutworm:—Poisoned bran bait has not proved effective with the pale western cutworm. Also (hence the special importance of distinguishing it from the red-backed cutworm) the pale western cutworm is one that can be done, where fields are heavily infested by the pale western cutworm, it is usually advisable to plow early and by delaying re-seeding until the cutworms have ceased feeding. These cutworms migrate very little, even when a field has been eaten bare, and cases are known in which 4 or 5 seedings have been destroyed in the same field in one spring. Every year, re-seeding will probably be safe about the end of June; this is, of course, too late for most crops, but barley may perhaps be used, or oats for green feed or hay.

Where only parts of a crop are destroyed by this cutworm, the remainder may be partially protected by shielding the deep furrow around each undamaged area.

Reports and Queries:—Cterians giving fuller information about either or both of these types of cutworms may be had upon request

Specimens of any important cutworms which may occur in your district would be welcome.

Reports or queries may be addressed either to the Department of Agriculture, Regina, or to the Dominion Entomological Laboratory (formerly of Saskatchewan), Saskatoon

High School Notes

The closing exercises, of which the chief item was the Shakespearean play, "As You Like It" were very successful. The actors were all students of Grade X except Mr. Markle. Jean Smith as Rosalind, the heroine, did very well with Art Wicks as Orlando. The comedian parts of Audrey and Touchstone, taken by Madelen McLeish and Kenneth Weeks, caused a good deal of amusement. The proceeds from this delightful drama will go toward the school fund.

The actual lecture began on Tuesday morning and so far we have heard of no fatalities. If Russell manages to survive the history exam, and no relapse sets in, we will consider ourselves lucky.

A deathlike silence hangs over the school lobby, no ringing voice proclaims the secrets of Algebra or Geometry--merely the stealthy scratch of a pen and the muffled sigh of an overcome student breaks the monotony. It may be monotonous for the supervising teacher--it is decidedly not so for the writing students.

Choice Of Big Convention At Wainwright

From all parts of the great federal riding of Battle River all roads led on Wednesday to the convention town of Wainwright. The occasion was the big Tory convention, and J. W. G. Morrison, K.C., Vermilion, received the nomination, nearly 400 delegates being in attendance.

The gathering was called to order by the President, E. C. Tregale, and in a very few minutes was under way. It looked like a hard and fast business proposition from beginning to end. The first item of business was the election of officers. It was on motion unanimously decided to re-elect all the old officers with a few changes on the executive. The list as finally passed is as follows: Hon President: Hon. R. B. Bennett; Hon. Vice-Presidents: D. M. Duggan; President: E. C. Tregale, Prutrust; Vice Presidents at large, L. G. Dunaway, Vermilion, 1st; Capt Vice-Presidents: Vermilion: W. J. Macnab; Alexandra, J. E. Miller, Kitscoty; Wainwright, D. R. Smallwood Irma; Ribstone, A. H. Hutson, Provost The general executive composed as the following: Vermilion, C. R Clement, J. J. Jones, Manaville, Mrs W. E. Stewart, Minburn; Alexandra, W. H Anderson, Dewberry, T. J. Farley, Lloydminster, Bruce McKay, Kitscoty; Wainwright: J. W. Stewart, Wainwright, F. W. Watkinson, Irma, Wm. McCluskey, Ribstone, Ribstone; A. E. Reindel, Hughenden, Mr Bride, Hardisty and A. W. Flake, Provost The convention then proceeded to the nomination of candidates The names of the following were then submitted in quick succession E. C Tregale, Provost; W. A. Fallow, Vermilion; Dr McBride, Hardisty, Colonel Hugh Watson, Vermilion, and J. W. G. Morrison, Vermilion. Each candidate was given ten minutes in which to address the convention, after which the balloting proceeded. The first count gave Morrison a lead of 19 over Fallow, his nearest runner-up. The others were quite a distance behind and it became evident at once that the race was to be between the two Vermilion aspirants On the ballot, however, Mr Morrison increased his prestige and secured a substantial margin over the necessary number for a clear majority, and his nomination was immediately made unanimous on the motion of Mr Fallow The result of each voting was received with a tumultuous ovation and it was some minutes before Mr Morrison could be heard in expressing his appreciation for the confidence of the convention Following a motion made by Mr Jones, Manaville, the convention remain in session and pledged its support to the candidate winning the convention

A resolution moved by Mr. Morel son and seconded by Mr Fallow, expressive of the convention was expressed in the leadership of the Hon Mr Bennett It was a big convention the details of which worked out smoothly and with the greatest of harmony The resolution passed with the singing of the National Anthem

ANOTHER BIG RAIN SOAKS THE COUNTRY

Two More Inches Fell, Making Total Precipitation of Over Seven Inches for June

Rain, starting out Friday afternoon in a very light drizzle, gradually got heavier until it developed into a steady downpour, fell all Friday after noon, night and all day Saturday until well on towards Sunday morning Although the amount of rain falling was slightly over two inches about half as much as the fall of the week before--it took much longer to disappear owing to the wet condition of the ground. Ditches are still full, while many old lake bottoms and sloughs have taken on a new lease of life. Seven inches plus of rain has fallen so far this June.

Request For Scientific Work

Gue Fourth Of Nansen's Fortune Goes To Fund

One-fourth of the fortune of Fridtjof Nansen is to be applied to the Nansen fund. Extracts from the explorer's will, read before the Norwegian Society of Science at Lindo, recently, revealed that the fund, which is used for scientific work, will benefit to the extent of $25,000

The directors of the fund will administer the estate, the interest on which goes to Dr Nansen's widow.

The Nansen Fund has made large grants for several Norwegian polar and oceanographic expeditions in recent years

The Farmer's Advocate says: "Farmers are getting a grip on things politically." Honourable Walter Lee, a farmer in Prince Edward Island, is now Premier of his Province. Dr. Doolittle Again Makes Transcontinental Tour

Dr. F. E. Doolittle, who is now serving his eleventh term as president of the Canadian Automobile Association, has driven to the coast again and is now in Vancouver awaiting the start of the "Golden Twilight" caravan of the provincial government to the northern Cariboo district. This time the cross-country driver came from Toronto to Vancouver, travelling over 3,145 miles of roads, most of which were in Canada, within ten days

After concluding his tour with the provincial government caravan, Dr. Doolittle plans to turn east at Kamloops, and drive back again across Canada and to the Atlantic ocean.

War Books Losing Their Popularity

Output Continues Enormous But Sales Fall Off

War books, which have been appearing in great numbers in Europe, are reported to be losing their popularity there. While the output continues to be enormous in rolling countries, readers are beginning to complain that they cannot sell near the number they have on hand. Russia is said to be the only country which did not catch the war-book craze When Sheriff recently presented an autographed copy of Trotsky's "Lenin" to the Imperial War Museum, in London, England, the museum announced that it had 80,000 volumes of war books.

Manitoba Jubilee Impressions

Celebrations in July To Mark the Fiftieth Anniversary Of Manitoba's Admission Into Confederation

(By Old Timer)

Men who have lived in Manitoba since the early days, and especially those who were born here, love to recall the various fights or squabbles in which the Province was involved during the first half-century of its corporate existence. Most of the questions raised in the stormy days found their origin in the well-known constitutional fog which seems to have always surrounded the relationship of a Province, particularly a new one, to the Federal authority. The Province was brought into the British North American Act, as well as the more or less vague terms received it up before it became law, failed to take into account many of the big problems that have developed since For this reason there was no number they have on hand. Russia is said to be the only country which did not catch the war-book craze When Sheriff recently presented an autographed copy of Trotsky's "Lenin" to the Imperial War Museum, in London, England, the museum announced that it had 80,000 volumes of war books.

When the Canadian Confederation was established in 1867, four diverse units of British territory in the north-eastern section of the continent agreed to come together and forget, for the time being, their differences. Since they all retained their provincial status, however, with their own machinery and their own governmental machinery in each case, there was still plenty of room for argument. If the Fathers of Confederation (who rightly received so many tributes during the Jubilee celebration three years ago) could have adjusted the situation between the Federal jurisdiction and that of the four units which had just entered into the combinations, how could they be expected to foresee and care for problems relating to a fifth province subsequently taken into the union? It simply wasn't done, for the reason that it couldn't be.

The Diamond Jubilee celebrations through the Province on the July 15 next, are intended chiefly to mark the sixtieth anniversary of the admission of Manitoba into Confederation, and there is no doubt they will in every case be worthy of the occasion. When the event actually took place in 1870, there was much shaking of heads, particularly in the East, about the wisdom of the step. A few years of the bitterest of these controversies followed which seemed to justify some of the doubts, and it is a matter for congratulation now that the Province has developed Manitoba was the first of the new territories to be abandoned, and her problems were without precedent, hence, in her relation with the "rest of the family" was concerned. It is little wonder, then, that when trouble arose there was plenty of it. This Province was variously regarded as the "martyr," the "enemy spoiler" or the "ugly duckling." according to the particular viewpoint of the observer, and there was plenty of opinion on the subject. Whatever the occasion, Manitoba was prominently in the limelight. Whether it was in the matter of railway competition, or argument and adjustment of boundaries, educational and religious difficulties, subsidies, or control of certain phases of commercial affairs, there was a lot to be said, and it was all heard in the capitals. If there was a fight, she was supposed to be in it, like the mythical Kilkenny cats that is the way the story desired to be in it, but she had few with gratified to the full.

From the standpoint of material advancement, the most important battle was that in connection with the Hudson Bay Railway. Permission was instituted in 1876, it was a tiny affair, and was facetiously likened to a single hundred breadwinch in blunder tone, or of Royal blue velvety woolen coat with dress of matching flat silk crepe.

with the west ward extension, so that the boundary was pushed out about 130 miles without difficulty. Finally, in 1912, a large and important section in the north was added, giving the Province a long stretch of seaboard on Hudson Bay, including two possible ports, Nelson and Churchill. The setting about this boundary dispute is simple enough, but a large volume would be required to record the history in detail. The same is true of the other disputes, some of which made or unmade political reputations in various parts of the country. The sequel has been that Manitoba has come to symbolize the protection of provincial rights in Federal interests. She has played and is still playing an important part in the affairs of Canada

ATTITUDE AT APPEARING OF CHRIST

Golden Text: "Then art the Christ, the Son of the living God."—Matthew 16:16.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 2:2-4.

Explanations and Comments

In the triumphal procession of the Roman conqueror, kings and princes were assigned captive in the conqueror's train. Now all the greatest men of the race, generation after generation, joined Christ's triumphal procession. Let us call the roll of the great men. Among Carlyle's last words were these: "The most important event ever transacted in this world is the life and death of the Divine Man." In Judea, at once the symptom and cause of innumerable changes in all people in the world." By universal right, John Ruskin will be voted the first place among the English prose masters of the last two centuries. But Ruskin says his life "has been dedicated not to the study of the beautiful in face and flower, in landscape and gallery, but to the interpretation of the truth and beauty of Jesus Christ." Another modern humanist is Leo Tolstoy, Count. But dying, Matthew Arnold said: "Christ saves." In reveal what right-ousness really is. For nothing will accept righteousness except Christ; other conception of righteousness will be found to be partial and false." Of His method and secret." James Martineau asserts that Christ must be called "the regen-erator of the human race. The world has changed and that change is due to the influence of Christ." We all know that Shakespeare, perhaps the greatest intellect ever known in its wide and many-sided splendor, paid the highest reverence to Christ in passage after passage. All the great poets of our age, Lowell and Longfellow, Browning and Tennyson, unite in saying

Thou seemest human and divine:
The highest, holiest manhood thou:
Our wills are ours, we know them Thine.

Captain Carried Purple Silk Umbrella With Him Into Battle

In White, Holstein, Henry Moeller, 15, decided to go to sea, sailed on a clipper ship for Hamburg. He made and goodbyes to him and presented Henry Moeller with an umbrella, a present of the admiration of a seahewood handle. "It will be handy in case it rains," she said.

In 1860, Henry Moeller became captain of the "Lackawanna Railroad's river barges. In 1908, he became captain of tugs for the Pittsburg-American Line. In 1920, he retired and went to live in Hoboken, where he often sat in the corner room of Meyer's Hotel, drinking beer with other old captains. Recently he died. His daughter obeyed his request to place, under the dirty, salt-stiffened pilot coat in which Henry Moeller had lived, the purple silk umbrella which he had carried on all his voyages, short or long.

Unlimited Quantities Can Be Commercially Produced in Northern Alberta

Gasoline in almost unlimited quantities can be commercially produced from oil sands in Northern Alberta, according to Dr. K. H. Bowmar, of the University of Alberta, addressing the National Research Council. A new method which yields light oils suitable for the production of gasoline is credited to Dr. Bowmar and Dr. A. K. Clark, also of the University of Alberta; and a semi-commercial plant, now in operation, shows it is said, that Western Canada, at least, will shortly be independent in the production of motor fuel.

Food For Babies

Food Question is a Serious One to the Mothers of Summer

Hot summer weather is very trying on babies and the food question is a serious one every mother must solve correctly if the infant is to avoid ailments common in this period. Breast feeding is undoubtedly best for baby, but it happens in so many cases that this is impractical. Rather than experiment with all sorts of foods it is wise to use one that is known for its value as a infant food. Eagle Brand Condensed Milk has been used continuously since 1857 and is highly recommended by leading physicians as safe, pure, easily digested food for bottle-fed babies. It is simply pure cream and pure granulated sugar. Feedings are easily made up according to directions on the can. Eagle Brand is especially satisfactory in difficult feeding cases. Frequently it agrees perfectly with babies who cannot assimilate any other food. Mothers who would appreciate a very helpful booklet in the care and feeding of baby may obtain a copy of "Baby's Welfare" from the Borden Co. Limited, Montreal, free, if they mention this paper when writing.

"That's for you to say, Jim. When are you going?"

"Within a fortnight. The doctor wants Mother to get away before cold weather. It'll be some change from Wickfield, Grandma!"

"It'll do you good. Maybe you'll meet some to those moon vampires and fall before 'em."

Jim laughed. It was what Grandma wanted and was working for; but she added wistfully as he reached the door: "I'm going to miss you, Jimmy-o."

"And believe me, I'm going to miss you!" he responded warmly as he turned away.

CHAPTER VIII

The Bennetts had been gone a month. Their big house facing the common, which had been Sarah Bennett's pride for thirty years, was closed for the first time in its existence, the shining plate glass windows boarded over because, Jim told his mother, boys are curious from one generation to another, and a window-pane in an empty house is a source of big stone collection. Coming from the library one Saturday afternoon, Charmian paused to look up at the house, thinking that the house seemed hardly more forbidding now than in the days when the front windows were constantly pulled down to keep a ray of sun from penetrating the gloom within, and, possibly, fastened to the heavy iron fence hung that had come from Boston when Sarah was a girlie.

The iron dogs that guarded the big front door looked different. They seemed, thought the girl wistfully, friendly now, and patiently unhappy, with drifts of snow on their icy backs and between their ears, Jim. Yes, Jim was there, and always had been brushed clean of snow. They had been his playmates, and Charmian's Tower and Sidney's Castle shared them. How many miles, she wondered, had she and Jimmy ridden those iron steeds?

She was moving on but at a sudden impulse turned about, and going up the path to the door, kissed Jimmy's brushed off the light frost with a mittened hand Then, glancing stealthily around and seeing no one, she reached out hastily and gave them each a pat. Jim had once told her in a burst of half-ashamed confidence, that he patted them every morning when he went to work! Together they had laughed at the idea, but Charmian did not laugh now. Indeed, it seemed to her as she regained the sidewalk and glanced back at them, that the dogs looked more cheerful. She could, indeed, almost hear the thump of two hard, metallic tails!

"Going my way?"

Charmian turned startled The old doctor's shabby car had drawn up beside her, and he was leaning forward in invitation in his kindly eyes.

"I was going home," she answered, looked with Saturday reading matter. you see; but if you don't be gone too long I'd adore a ride."

The old man beamed with pleasure.

"And I'd indeed your company, my dear. Hench in behind for my old cape, and wrap it 'round you There are colder months this time of year without adding to the number, and that coat of yours is none too warm a day like this."

"You're right," said the girl dragging the worn old cape from the back seat, and snuggling into it. I'm planning to go to Portland after Christmas and indulge in a new one. Provided I can find a bargain. Happenly cold on those early morning walks of mine, though John has been so kind as to hand for emergency in the summer

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. The tender tissues become sore and inflamed.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will promptly end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

"You on a vacation?" questioned Dominick with a smile.

"Not so's you'd notice it," replied Jim, taking the Grandma called "the visitor's chair," and throwing his hat onto the table. "I've been to Eastboro on business and saw Mr. K. Dosen't expect me back till after lunch, I thought I'd pass the time of day with you. Heavy evening?"

You mean Charmian?" queried Grandma astutely.

"Yes!" Jim's smile was a first rate detective, Grandma," was Jim's retort; and the old lady laughed.

"Well!" she responded, "the last I saw of 'everything' was when she left her school. The doctor offered to take her in his car, but she said she wanted to walk as I suspicioned she had something on her mind."

"What?" asked Jim, and added with caution, "Something to do with school?"

"My idea was," answered the old lady, "that it was something to do with you, Jim."

"Me."

"Yes," said Grandma. "Maybe I'm all wrong, sonny, but I thought she was feeling sort of hurt that you never told her, when you were riding yesterday, that you and your mother were going to California."

"I meant to," explained Jim, "but my mind got taken up with other things. Then, too, I didn't know that Uncle George was going to take me so soon. Not that I care, because Mother's going to tell Lizzie Baker this morning and she'll be in some new-saying for her before we start. Besides, I knew it didn't make much difference to Charmian whether I was in California or Timbuctoo."

"I dunno why you should say that, Jimmy. You haven't got a better friend in town than my girl is unless it's me."

Jim's young eyes looked suddenly weary, and his mouth grim

"It's something more than friendship that I want from Charmian, Grandma. No use pretending, is it to you anyway? And it's plain to see that she's giving the thing I want to some one else. Why should she care whether I go West or not?"

Grandma looked out of the window for a moment, but seeing nothing to comment upon, turned back to Jim

"I presume you mean she's falling in love with Dorice Carter?"

"I dunno as I like you saying that Jim," said the old lady. "Suppose now, he didn't fall in love with her."

"Great grief! how could he help it —living right here in the same house with her this way?"

"He knows a sight o' girls back in the city," said Grandma wisely. "There's pictures of 'em on his bureau, and another in his watch I saw it the day my clock stopped and I asked him to set it for me. Maybe he isn't in love with Charmian at all."

"He is," asserted Jim "D'you ever watch 'em walk down the street together? He goes sort of sideways, Grandma, so he can look at her all the time."

Grandma reached out to lay a tender hand on Jim's shoulder, patted it. "I think you've got a chance, sonny," she said.

"I'd like to agree with you," he responded, "but I don't. He's got his head so turned that I'm afraid I'm no dumb that I don't see it. Perhaps if I'd gone to college—rubbed off some of the Whiddield—my present claiven" (even in the bitter moment the eyes that met Grandma's showed a dry humor), "I could have acquired it, even if I was born in this little one-horse burg But it's too late now. I see where I got off; but — there's something I'd like Charmian to understand, and, somehow, I can't seem to get her. Every time I begin, the words stick in my throat. That's why I stopped in this morning when I knew she wouldn't be here. I thought if I told you, Grandma, you'd be you'd explain to her after I get away. It's about Mother."

"Yes?" urged the old lady as he paused

"It's this way," Jim continued. "A good many times Charmian, and the other people, too, have sort of implied that I don't dare breathe without Mother asking my mother if it's agreeable to her. You get me?"

Grandma nodded.

"And they're right, to a certain extent," Jim continued. "But it's not easy, Grandma, always thinking of some one else before yourself, even if she's your own mother. There's been times.

He hesitated again, and Grandma said: "I know sonny. I understand. You've been a splendid son, and that's all."

"Then why don't you?" demanded the specialist.

"The law won't let me," replied the patient. "I'm a pawnbroker."

"Because they accept much smaller salaries," says a commentator, "women are coming draughtsmen from their jobs." The designing females!

SPADES AND PAILS

A traveller who has been many countries and made a study of child nature the world over was struck impressed with a sight that may be seen daily in the city of Calgary in a beautiful garden, where many many children at play in happy grassy plots under the shade of great fir trees. The older boys and girls were making no in essence that did not call for much movement for one observed that they little tables were chained in plastic chairs, or limited with splints (in a rug hay a small baby with golden hair who was evidently the pet of them all.

Across the walk was a huge pile of sand and here were many spades and pails busily being filled and emptied in the time-honored custom of making sand pies. The shining sand gave the children a great deal of pleasure, they seemed to enjoy holding it in their little hands and watching the grains slowly trickle through their fingers.

The brilliant June sun shone on they little bodies for these little people were taking their daily sun bath and the healing rays, which Alberta sunshine has to a great degree, were taking effect in a very redness that looked healthy and wholesome.

One realized that this happy form of care is one which can be indulged in by all children, just as much as they were like these little people at the Red Cross Children's Hospital in Calgary. All that is necessary is a back yard or garden, a sun suit which may be made from underwear or even a swimming suit. Mothers must remember that such treatment must be carefully understood, so that the child is not burned too quickly or harm may result. Write to the Red Cross, 307 Civic Block, Edmonton for a book on Sun Treatment free on request.

"Why We Should Buy Produced in Canada Goods"

By Leah Cameron

Every one of us from the largest to the smallest feels a throb of patriotism when we see the Union Jack waving in the wind. As we watch the red, white and blue it strikes us with greater force just what this country of ours means to us. If we are proud of it why should we not try to improve it. And how can we better do this than by using Canada's own products. To be sure we all buy things for their quality. Yod instance, certain men and women buy for style and others for durability and even the small boy in the buying of his baseball bat looks for something that will stand rough usage. They will buy things that have these qualities, but would they not feel an added pride in their belongings if they had the mark of Canada upon them?

In the first place it increases the population. With the greater demand for Canadian made goods the turnover of the factories must be increased. For this very reason thousands of sturdy immigrants have been admitted into Canada. Some of them go to the farm and there indirectly help production. Their wheat, their cattle and their poultry go the East where great machines change them into their desired form. Other immigrants go directly to the factories and there they labor—really for the living but unconsciously they are helping to improve their newly adopted country.

But besides these immigrants it give employment to our own men and women of Canada. These, more than their foreign neighbors, have the interest of their country at heart. Can we not help them just a little by buying what they work to produce. The Canadian people must live and many are struggling for work and a more living. This itself is a poor state for a country to get into and when we think that we could at least employ a few by purchasing their products, it does it not seem a humane thing to do.

By buying Canadian products we have not only the goods but also the money derived from them. This money stays in our own country and goes to increase production and to improve the general conditions of it, but by purchasing imported products the gain goes to other country. This money staying in Canada keeps up the value of our Canadian dollars.

Buying Canadian goods also helps to open up our natural resources. If our factories are increased this means that the mines will have to be opened up. The coal and iron from the mines are required to operate the factories.

Every purchase of a Canadian product is an expression of loyalty and good faith in our own country—Canada. Every Canadian producer should prove worthy of this trust and help in building and growing better products which help to build better men and women.

FIFTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, Saturday, June 21, 1930.

Reports received from south of Calgary indicate that during the past fortnight several windy days with a high temperature have checked growth which up to that time had been very satisfactory. Summerfallow has been standing up well but crops sown on spring plowing were beginning to suffer. Little or no rain had fallen during this period but reports of rain over a large area on the night of June 20th creates a much improved crop prospect. Irrigation has been generally practiced throughout the irrigated area.

In the central and eastern part of the province, rains within the past few days have done much to relieve the serious condition caused by continued dry weather and high winds. Estimates place the damage from winds and cutworms as high as 40 per cent. Much of this land has been reseeded but in some cases this was impossible owing to the difficulty in securing seed. The western and northern areas have abundant moisture and their greatest need is for warm weather. Along the C N R. lines east from Edmonton and north of them, heavy rains have fallen. St. Paul reports five inches since June 1 and Vermilion 2.91 inches from June 10 to 19th. The Peace River district continues to have abundant moisture with plenty of grass and feed in the eastern part. Insect injury, particularly from cutworms, is greater than usual, otherwise crop conditions are favorable.

Hay and pasture crops are reported to be doing well except in the areas which have suffered so severely from high winds and lack of moisture.

The sugar beet crop is about 70 per cent thinned. Some damage has been done by cutworms but otherwise the outlook is promising for a favorable production of beets.

The Co-operative Institute

Report are coming in well from the Preliminary Committee of thirty regarding the likely attendance at the Co-operative Institute to be held at the School of Agriculture, Vermilion, on July 3rd, 4th and 5th. The registration of 100 junior delegates will be complete and those with a large number of members, speak well for one of the largest Co-operative meetings ever held in the province. Herb. scout, District Representative from Redcliff, suggests that many from his district are planning on camping on the lawn for the three days. Besides there will be hundreds who will drive into the meeting daily by car.

The meeting start promptly at 10 a.m., July 3rd, with an address by such national and international speakers as Verna Belanger, Director of Organization, Farm Bureau, Columbus, Ohio; Dr. E. W. Murchie, Professor of Rural Economics, University of Manitoba; Dr. Robert Maltby, Federal Agent for Agricultural Education for Southern Regina, Washington, D. C.; Geo. McIver, General Sales Manager, Canadian Wheat Pool; and others will be on hand for the convention, which will be the biggest thing we have had in Vermilion for a long time.

The Co-operative Conference is bringing 100 junior delegates who will have all expenses paid, so convinced are they that the information is worth while. An effort is also being made to gather in the V.S.A. orchestra headed by Eric Hale and if they can be secured good music will be provided throughout the convention. Mr. P. A. Craig, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, will be chairman of the opening meeting.

There will be three special evening features, July 3rd at 7:30, Miss Verna Belanger, Director of Organization, Farm Bureau, Columbus, Ohio, will be the speaker. Splendid reports have come in regarding Miss Belanger. On July 4th the banquet will be held at 6:30 and after that either Premier Brownlee or Dr. Walker of the University will speak. Both of these programmes will be interspersed with musical numbers by local musicians supported by Mr. W. B. Elford. On Saturday evening the regular Co-operative dance will be held. This will be free to delegates who have paid the registration fee of $1.00 and to the speakers and artists who have assisted with the programme. For all others it will be $1.00 per couple. Dancing from 8:00 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Please remember that the meetings begin at 10 a.m. on July 3. Let's go!

Lake Minnewanka, famous sheet of water in the Canadian Rockies, not far from Banff, has entered angling history with the capture recently of the largest trout ever taken from the lake. It weighed 40 lbs. 2 ounces and was 41 inches in length and 22 inches in girth. It has been stuffed and is now in the Banff museum.

The immensity of the progress made and the almost boundless prosperity he sees ahead for Canada has brought home to him the great need for the awakening of England to a better understanding of the Dominion, was the statement made recently by Major L. A. Wood Jones, economic supplements editor of the Morning Post, London, England, who is making a several months tour of Canada studying conditions here.

During the course of the forthcoming World Power Conference to be held in Berlin, Germany, June 30, C. Ledoux, delegate for Canada, will propose that the next convention shall be held in Canada in view of the rapid strides made in matters electrical by the Dominion. Mr. Ledoux sailed for Europe recently on board S.S. Empress of France.

June 2 saw the furnishings of the new central tower extension of the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, completed. Altogether there are 163 guest rooms in this wing, including six period suites, 27 modern, flower, Dutch and Tudor. The Royal York is the largest hotel in the British Empire and with the addition numbers 1,186 rooms.

Fenwick Saunders, riding his bicycle at Yunket, N.S., recently, saw a salmon disporting itself in shallow water near Yunket Dam. He crept cautiously up, grabbed the fish which almost escaped, dragging him into deep water, but although out of his depth, succeeded finally in getting a 18-pounder fish safely ashore.

Radio continues to advance in popular favor in Canada. At the end of March 1930, there were 423,547 radio receiving licenses issued by the Canadian Government Radio branch of the Department of Marine compared with 294,324 on March 31, 1929, an increase of 126,-631 in the 12 months.

The number of motor vehicles registered in Canada during 1929 was 1,153,589, an increase over the 1928 registration of 137,67- or 14.- per cent. The ratio was seven or more motor vehicle to each 32 persons. Canada ranks third among the countries of the world in the number of automobiles in proportion to the population.

Ontario tops the list of Canadian provinces with 3 [illegible] at level crossings during the past three years, according to Arthur [illegible], secretary-general of the Province of Quebec Safety League. His figures show 71 deaths in 1926, 78 in 1929 and 16 to the end of May, 1930. These compare with 23, 7 and 7 for Quebec in the same periods. The greatly reduced numbers in the case of Quebec are attributable says Mr. Gaherty to the observance of the law in that province calling upon cars to stop when reaching a crossing, whether a train is in sight or not.

NORTHERN ALBERTA'S ANNUAL HOLIDAY

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard

Alex Nanna, an old and highly esteemed resident of this district, passed away at the Vermilion Private hospital on Tuesday morning, June 16th at the advanced age of 76 years and 10 months.

High School Notes

The school year will come to an end on Friday, June 27, and the student body will break up after a party on the evening of that day. Ex-students of the school are invited. We guess to make this a "good time" of it.

The past year has been a very successful one in many respects. The class from the public school will (by most of the students). A depleted piano fund shows the industry of the school under the presidency of Art Wiebe The Glee club Concert and the play of last week are other examples of High School still alive and happening.

In sports the school has gained quite a fine reputation. The hockey and basketball teams rest eminent after many victories. And will anyone dare say a thing against the girls' softball team!

The student body numbered 127 this year, but was reduced a while ago by the illness of Roberta Wilson and Wilfred Fraser. Roberta returned to write off her units and we wish Wilfred a speedy recovery and return.

A large number will not be back next year, some going to Normal, others to follow various pursuits, but the class from the public school will almost make up for the number this year.

The editor takes this opportunity of thanking the students and staff for assistance rendered this year, and wishes every one of them all success and happiness.

Have a good vacation, everyone!

Gum-Dipped Cords Stand the Acid Test

Even though Firestone cords are of superior strength and elasticity before they are built into Firestone Tires, they go through the Gum-Dipping process for added strength and endurance.

Gum-Dipping—exclusive to Firestone Tires —saturates and insulates every fibre of every cord in the tire. This prevents the cords from chafing against each other and eliminates internal friction and heat—the greatest enemy to tire life.

That Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have double success for their toughness, ruggedness and unequalled mileage—by actual test they hold all world's records for mileage and endurance! Specify Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires on your car. See your nearest Firestone Dealer today.

PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT RETURNED

As was generally expected, the Farmer government has been returned to power, winning 40 of the 63 seats in the province, which gives it a majority of 17 over all other parties in the house. The final results as announced in the daily press give U.F.A. 40 members, Liberal 15, Conservative 6, Labor 4 and Independent 3. The Hon. R. G. Reid was again elected in Vermilion riding with almost the same majority as he obtained in the last

HOT WEATHER EAT TABLE

A report has become current, in connection with the co-operative effort in progress for several days past in improving First Street South, that those engaged were "working out their taxes." This paper has been requested to deny that such is the case—who work is being done voluntarily and not costing the town one cent. Next.

B. SMITH THRP

The storage pit warehouse occupying the greater part of the corner lot opposite the Imperial Block is in such a dangerous condition since the big rains that it is a menace to the life of children playing around these grounds. The eave-in in the roof has enlarged considerably and various portions are likely to go at any time. Youngsters play where they feel like playing, and this second has always been a favorite resort. Action from the proper source will avert a casualty.

ADVERTISE THE TOWN.

No business man in any place should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere. It does not mean that you should have a whole, half or even a quarter page advertisement, but your name should be mentioned if you do not use more than a two-line space. A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in the town by looking at a paper. This is the most possible town advertiser. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The life of the place depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising man.—American Banker's Magazine.

YOUNG CONSERVATIVES HOLD ENJOYABLE SOCIAL AND BUSINESS MEETING

The Young Conservatives mixed business and pleasure at their meeting last Thursday evening, enjoying cards, several "talks", an informal debate, and refreshments.

Bridge and whist were played at the commencement, followed by several speeches. Mrs. H. C. Jensen spoke on "Federal Aid for A National Highway" while "Emigration and Immigration" was dealt with by Mrs. W. A. Lamb. Archie Little gave a resume concerning Canadian and U.S.A. political parties, while Jas. Adam supplied the Liberal viewpoint on some of the questions brought up; these in turn were rebutted by E. M. Stewart, providing the meeting with some lively informal repartee which was very much enjoyed.

Messrs. Hodson and Maxwell, two United church students who are touring the country by car, also sat up the during the evening. Refreshments served terminated the meeting.

GIRLS' CLUB NOTES

At the meeting on Friday, June 20, it was decided that a special meeting would be held on Wednesday, July 2nd to make arrangements for the Friday following, when new members will be admitted.

Our leader who has also been our president—Miss Craig—has decided to give up the latter office. A new president will therefore be elected next meeting.

Special hospital work was given out to members.

Plans for the meeting being on examination week, only eight attended.

"THE WEED THAT STINKS"

"Oh, don't bother with that," friend Neighbor may say. "It is just Stinkweed and you cannot keep it out. Anyway, it isn't a bad weed and they would strike it off the Noxious Weed List. Why, I've seen crops go 40 bushel to the acre in fields polluted with it."

Such misleading propaganda is to some extent, more or less, responsible for our present infestations of the weed. The problem has been your neighbor and he is trying to make virtues.

Now you want to know how to control it. This is simple. Cut it before it pods or pull and burn after it pods. Keep the edges of the grain fields and the road allowances clean, take extra precautions at the time of threshing and cultivate behind the binder. For reliable information a long these lines I refer you to Bulletin No. 3, issued free by the Dept. of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Then you are going to say that even with the above methods that the weed will appear again and again year after year. This is true and that is the reason that it will always be on the Noxious Weed list because it is one of the worst of the Annual Weeds. Its persistency is due to the nature and germinability of the seed. It is a question of whether you want it or it wears you out. Let it go and in a few years you will notice quite readily the increased cost of grain production and with the price of grain at its present level this will never do.

Get this weed, friends, while there is still time. Keep up the fight. Keep them pulled and hoed after you will wear it out and triumph with a farm clear of the pest, a credit to any farmer in Alberta.

—F. D. Hunley, Field Supervisor, Wainwright, Alberta

EDMONTON EXHIBITION

With most of the buildings freshly painted, and the entrance to the Edmonton Exhibition grounds widened and improved, the Exhibition management are putting a great deal of energy into making this annual event bigger and better in every way. The Directors are optimists — and they must be, for they have to gamble on good weather and good crop conditions, and plan the most attractive programme possible.

This year, the Provincial and Federal Government exhibits will be very attractive, and cover all phases of activity from bee-keeping and poultry farming, to family comfort and health

Those who have watched the show but sure improvement in the livestock of Northern Alberta farms may not realize just how much is contributed by the annual Exhibition to this improvement; the same is true of all other phases of farm activity, and those who would keep pace with the times will attend the Edmonton Exhibition and inspect the modern farm and home equipment exhibited by the various manufacturers.

To the educational features have been added the finest aggregation of attractions ever selected for the Edmonton Exhibition. An art loan exhibit from Nutana Collegiate Institute of Saskatoon will be one of the added features in the Art Building On Monday, July 14th, an amateur band contest should create much interest and a horse-shoe pitching tournament open to any man who can pitch shoes will create lots of fun. The Morris & Castle midway shows, Travic's musical and dance Revue, and the splendid platform acts should please all patrons. The Exhibition dates are July 14-19.

Thinking over the story of the Crucifixion on Easter Sunday, I said: "I wish God would heal my rupture." Immediately a voice said "What would you do?" I answered, "I would proclaim it to the world." The Problem Of Markets

It may be poor consolation to the wheat producers of Western Canada, who are in a quandary over the problem of selling their product in the markets of the world at a price which will yield to them a reasonable profit over the cost of production, to learn that they are by no means the only producers of a commodity used the length of the world who find themselves in difficulty of a like kind. And because the producers of these primary commodities are experiencing difficulty in finding markets, the makers of secondary and manufactured articles are also feeling the pinch, and find themselves oversold on the goods which they cannot at the moment sell.

The situation which exists is not one that affects Canada alone or any one commodity alone but the whole world. It is a problem of over-production in the majority of cases. It affects not only the primary producers in all countries, and the manufacturers, but it has its adversary upon every line of business and every individual industry. Even in a glut of primary products the transportation companies are loading business, and in turn they are employing fewer men in their manifold departments. Merchants require less help because less goods are being sold, office staffs are reduced, and the resultant shrinkage of money and of buying power on the part of everybody has slowed up or put a temporary stop to building construction activities.

No country in the world is immune from this present condition. It is world wide, but, fortunately, Canada is less seriously affected than any other of the great trading countries of the world.

While Canada's problem is not unlike Brazil's in coffee. While other countries grow coffee, notably Java and Arabia, Brazil is the great source of supply. It has been steadily increasing production, as have other countries growing coffee than the world could consume. In order to prevent prices falling to a ruinous figure below actual cost, Brazilian Governments bought up the surplus and kept it off the market, to be released in years of a short crop. The result is Brazil now has on hand or under control about a total world requirements for two years, with another big crop coming on. The financial strain has proven too great, and that country is now endeavoring to float a huge loan, $100,000,000 or more, at a high rate of interest, and in doing so has given a pledge it will buy no more coffee, and will liquidate its present enormous holdings within ten years.

Sugar is much the same position as coffee. In 1926-27 world production of sugar was placed at 23,750,000 tons, or about 300,000 tons less than consumption. The following year production exceeded consumption slightly, but in 1928-29 production jumped over 1,000,000 tons, or far in excess of world requirements, while this year's estimates indicate a still greater production.

Cotton, too, joins the procession. In the last five years the United States produced on the average 60% more cotton than the average for the preceding ten years. The average for the ten-year period ending 1925, was about 11,000,000 bales; in 1926, about 18,000,000 bales were produced in Texas, formerly a great cattle ranching state, is now the greatest cotton producer among the states. Oklahoma is also going in strongly for cotton, and both states are using machinery, as against the old hand picking system, with a result similar to the revolution in wheat production through the introduction of the combine harvester reported. 1,700 bales of cotton with five laborers, whereas under the system in the old cotton growing states 150 workers would have been required to plant and cultivate and 300 more to pick the crop by hand. It is estimated that Texas alone could increase her cotton to as much cotton as present world needs.

Rubber copper, tin, zinc, silk, and other basic commodities are all in the same class, production over consumption, the increase in the latter not nearly equalling the increase in the former, and in regard to some commodities, silver for example, actually declining.

Coupled with this situation was the huge withdrawal of money and credit into the speculative stock market during the past two years, ending in the crash of some months ago. The effect was that farmers were deprived of their usual credit facilities, and this operated universally upon their retail purchasing which, in turn, reacted upon consumption, consumption on manufacturing manufacturing on labor, and labor on consumption .All business wound up.

In the case of Malay rubber Cuba sugar, Brazil coffee the idea prevalent was that control of distribution was the same as control of production. As one writer puts it, "Control is the greater commodity." Production is controlled by the direction and energy of human activity added or retarded by forces of nature. Price on the other hand are arrived at by the relationship between supply and demand. If demand is greater than supply prices rise. If supply is greater than demand they fall.

In Canada, the source of national prosperity, it is now admitted, lies in the wheat crops of the West. World wheat production is steadily, even rapidly increasing. The biggest problem, therefore, confronting Canada today, is to find a profitable, permanent market for its wheat To the solution of that problem every Governmental the Wheat Pools farmers' organizations, manufacturers, merchants citizens generally must bend their energies and to it devote their best, most constructive thought

Scientifically Trained Men Not Less-ing In Such Large Numbers

A radical decrease in the number of scientifically trained men who find it necessary to leave Canada for employment was cited by Rev. Dr. H. J. Cody, chairman of the board of governors of the University of Toronto, in an address to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association there. Dr. Cody spoke of the work of the Technical Service Council, an organization founded in 1927. During the past year, 1,700 applications for trained men had been received, and 530 graduates had been placed in key positions in Canada. Since 1925 the percentage of the graduating class of Toronto University leaving the country had been reduced from 27 to 3 percent.

Interested In Canada's Railways

Many Questions Asked By People Antipodes

"One of the chief things that impressed me in both Australia and New Zealand was the intelligent interest the people showed in railways," said H. B. Teskie, general manager Canadian National Steamships, who returned recently to Montreal from a trip which has taken him around the world.

"I went to the Antipodes," he said "in the interests of the Canadian National Steamships and it was a great satisfaction to me to find that not only were our sister dominions interested in Canada but that they had a very good opinion of the Canadian railways and our steamships. Where ever I went, I was asked questions about the Honey Thereton, who is regarded on the other side of the world as a public figure of considerable significance his opinion and judgment in railway operation are studied carefully by railway officials.

Solved His Problem

Miner's Driven Away by Blackmole.

WAS WIDELY KNOWN

Late Jas. F. K. Thomson

Death took a colorful figure from the railway and newspaper worlds of Canada recently, when F. E. Trumeau, for many years press representative for the Canadian Pacific Railway, western lines, and dean of western publicity men, succumbed to a short illness in Misericordia Hospital, Winnipeg. "F.E.", as he was familiarly known in hundreds of newspaper offices throughout Canada, and the United States, was in his 67th year. He leaves a widow and one young daughter, Jean.

After a long and varied journalistic career in the eastern states, Chicago and Canada, in which he filled every position from one at the compositor's case to the editorial chair, Mr. Trumeau joined the Canadian Pacific Railway in Winnipeg, in 1910, under Sir George Bury, who was then vice-president, and inaugurated the first railway press bureau here.

Under a deliberately gruff exterior, he ran a very human organization. He cried a remarkable fellow feeling for the young newspapermen, and many of them owe their start in life or their fourth estate over their start or their success to his advice and help. It is partly on this account that few Canadian journalists were so widely known and esteemed.

Mr. Trumeau was married to Miss Kathryn M. Ross, who survives, and who was at the bedside during his last illness.

British Columbia Apiaries

About Two Thousand Bee Keepers Are Operating In the Province

British Columbia has about 2,000 bee keepers with an average of ten hives each and a yield of about 50 pounds per colony, according to "The Pioneer," formerly an oil present, however, a tendency towards "big business" in honey production and consequently the formation of large companies. If this Empire is to remain a British Empire and its practice and its institutions are to remain British, the British stock must be increased to keep pace with other stock which is flowing into the vacant spaces. So far as Canada is concerned there are two ways of doing this—by assimilation and by the injection of new British stock. The process should be worked simultaneously.

Her Three Children Troubled With Diarrhoea

Mrs. Leo Lapointe, Laurier, Man., writes:—"My three youngest children were very bad with diarrhoea. I tried all kinds of remedies, until a friend told me to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I got a bottle right away and started giving it to them, and the next day the diarrhoea had stopped altogether. Now I will have what to do when any of my children are troubled that way again."

Women Who Work

Modern Devices Have Not Altogether Lessened Work In the Home

By some persons whose knowledge of housework is limited these important members of society are supposed to have been relieved of the necessity of doing any physical work. Excessive feminine indulgence in amusements is assumed to be the sorry result.

Systematic inquiry shows a very different state of things. The Bureau of Home economics in the Federal Department of Agriculture reports that in country districts and in cities of less than 50,000 population women work in their homes considerably over forty-two hours a week, while the average among thousands of women questioned is fifty-one hours a week.

Plainly, vacuum cleaners, electric washing machines, telephones, canned goods, delivery service and all the rest of the time saving and labor-saving devices have not reduced the housewife to demoralizing idleness. She is not yet threatened with ennui. There is no great danger of her finding too much leisure on her hands. The problem of her mental and moral condition in her supposed state of freedom from toil is, to say the least, prematurc.—Chicago News.

Will Use Western Flax Straw

Flax Straw To Go To Ireland

Many new methods are being evolved and machinery developed for cheapening flax for the spinner of northern Ireland as a direct result of the existing depression in the linen industry G. B. Johnson, Canadian trade commissioner, has reported to the Department of Trade and Commerce, that in some cases it is claimed that the new methods will allow the use of Canadian western flax straw which has hitherto been to a great extent, a waste product.

Mr. Johnson reports that one important firm has arranged for a trial shipment of 50 tons of flax straw from the Dominion. This, however, is not for linen manufacture.

Fairly Satisfactory Proof

British Fishing Interests Have Decided That Advertising Pays

If the proof of the pudding is in the eating of it, the proof of advertising is in the outing of it. So the British fishing interests decided. People ate fish in Great Britain in considerable quantities and had done so for generations. But, so the heads of the business saw it, they did not eat enough nor nearly as much as they would if properly educated in respect of the virtues of fish as a food.

The product of it all was that the fishing interests began an advertising campaign. They exhorted the public to "Eat More Fish" and told why. There were doubters, of course. But the far-sighted leaders in the campaign were confident that the public demand for their fish could be enlarged if they advertised widely and intelligently. They got the fish trade to appropriate for advertising one penny out of every pound sterling of value of fish caught. A small allowance, to be sure. But it effected an increase of more than $2,500,000 in the fishing industry's sales.

Fairly satisfactory proof, one might say, that advertising pays.

Will Discuss Many Things At Conference

Subjects Of Interest To Empire Will Be Aired

London, Eng.—The British governmest proposes to place no limitations on the scope of discussion at the forthcoming Imperial Conference, but all subjects of interest to the Empire will be aired, declared Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, in the House Of Commons.

The prime minister spoke of the "economic conference" which will meet at the same time as the Imperial Conference proper. At this side-meeting, announced, the scheduling of economic interest to the Dominions and to ourselves may be brought up.

The Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, secretary of state for the Dominions, also made it clear that the government desired discussion in the widest possible sense.

Effect Of Crisis In U.S.

Communist Papers Refer To Economic Conditions In America

Moscow, Russia.—Communistic newspapers declared that the United States was paying one of the worst economic crises in history

Pravda, one of the organs of the Communist party, said the latest Wall Street slump was merely a prelude to the coming serious and dangerous drop.

"America's general crisis," said the newspaper, "has been followed by an agricultural crisis of unprecedented depth and acuteness which already threatens the purchasing power of the farmers. The danger of a new war among the imperialistic countries and especially against the Soviet Union, assumes a greater reality than ever.

NEW BRUNSWICK GOVERNMENT IS SUSTAINED

St. John, N.B.— Endorsement of the Foster government's administration of New Brunswick's provincial affairs was written into the political record of the province in decisive terms, climaxing a short but crowded campaign with the irrefutable argument of ballots, the electors journeyed to the polls to return 31 of the administration's representatives to power, while the forces of the Liberal opposition succeeded in consolidating a gain of six seats over the total of 11, which was their total in the last legislature.

Charged into office in Saint John County, with a greatly increased personal majority was Premier the Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, whose handling of the Grand Falls power development as a private enterprise, inauguration of government liquor control, and permanent road policy had emerged as prime issues of the campaign, while Wendell P. Jones, chosen leader of the opposition in April, went down to defeat in his home county of Carleton. A. A. Dysart, opposition leader in the last legislature was re-elected with his running mate being returned by a majority of over 1,000 votes, tripling his margin of 1925.

The only surprise of the government to meet defeat was Hon. Lewis Smith, Minister of Agriculture, who lost by a majority of 180 votes in Albert County, where the opposition made two of their six gains, the other gain being scored in Restigouche-Madawaska in Northumberland.

Lumber Shipments Delayed

Cars Of Canadian Lumber Are Held Up At Border On Account Of New Tariff

North Portal, Sask. — The new United States tariff now in effect, has resulted in a number of cars of Canadian lumber being held on the Canadian side of the border pending the receipt from Washington by United States customs brokers of more explicit information as to the application of the new tariff. Heretofore Canadian lumber entered the country as was admitted free, but under the new tariff countervailing duties will apply, the Canadian rate on finished lumber being 25 per cent. and rough lumber free. Difficulty arises from intricacies of grading on mixed cars, and fear of "lumber," with no distinction as to whether finished or rough.

Reduction on autos in 10 per cent from the previous countervailing duties of 20 and 27½ per cent, will have little local application, and will only affect used cars, as no new cars are imported from Canada. Increases on oats, corn, butter, eggs and shoes, are also immaterial, as these articles are not imported from Canada.

BALDWIN WILL NOT CONFER WITH PRIME MINISTER

London, England.—It is understood that Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, has declined to accept the invitation of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to participate in a conference of the three party leaders on the emergency problem of unemployment.

Mr. Baldwin's reply was sent to the Prime Minister after consultation with leading Conservatives.

These advisers, it is said, took the view that Conservative abstention from the conference would not prevent the Government from introducing in the House of Commons such measures they might evolve to meet the critical situation. The Conservatives pointed out that these measures should they win the support of the Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George and the Liberal followers, Mr. Lloyd George having pledged co-operation in any "sound and effective" legislation, would be passed by the House.

The Conservatives feel the present Government is incapable of dealing with unemployment and blame Mr. MacDonald's refusal to allow the opposition access to official data on the unemployment situation, for the present deadlock.

Will Pay Portion Of Freight Rates

Of Lignite Coal

Ottawa, Ont.—The Dominion government will pay 50 cents per ton of the freight rates on all Saskatchewan lignite coal shipped into Manitoba during the next year, according to an order-in-council made public by Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of Interior. Another order-in-council provided the payment by the government of one-eighth of a cent per ton on all shipments into Manitoba of coal mined in Alberta or in the Crow's Nest Pass district of British Columbia.

The special rates are put into effect, from March 1, 1930, to May 31, 1931. They are to apply to all coal used for industrial purposes, but not when the coal is for use on railway locomotives or for domestic fuel

The order-in-council respecting Alberta and British Columbia coal supersedes another order-in-council passed a week ago which provided for payment of one-fifth of a cent per ton per mile for coal from the Coyer's Nest Pass area and the bituminous area of Alberta. Under this order extends the favored area to the whole province of Alberta and the rate is altered to one-eighth of a cent.

Officials of the Dominion Fuel Board explained that the new rates are not low to be paid by the government is expected to remove the advantage which coal from the United States mines in Saskatchewan in the way of freight rates. Coal from over the border has been finding its way to Manitoba border cheaply, it was stated, on account of the water route between Lake Erie and the head of the lakes.

In the same way the assistance being given to the Alberta coal industry is expected to remove obstacles in its use in Manitoba.

REACTION TO THE NEW TARIFF LAW PASSED BY U. S.

Ottawa, Ont.— The signing of the new Hawley-Smoot tariff bill by President Hoover, in Washington automatically brings into effect some twelve changes in the Canadian tariff as against United States. These are the items containing provisions for countervailing duties brought into effect in the Dominion budget of May 1 last. Seven twenty items in the Canadian tariff contain the country-selling provisions, comprising 10 commodities. All of these are not altered or changed by the new U.S. act as in some cases the new U.S. rate is the same as under the Fordney tariff on the principle of the countervailing duties is that the Canadian tariff will be as high on the particular article coming from another country as the rate that country levies against the same commodity entering from Canada. While the countervailing tariff in this country does not specify United States, the interchange of the same kind of goods between Canada and that country is much greater than between Canada and any other country.

One of the most important changes with the bringing into effect of the Hawley-Smoot tariff will be the consequent applications of the countervailing tariff by Canada will be to effect the potatoes Canada shipped to the United States for the fiscal year ended March 31 last. potatoes to the value of $1,172,179 Potatoes are to United States from Canada under a tariff of 56c per cwt last year, and the Hawley-Smoot rate is 75c per cwt. Under the new tariffs the barrier both ways will be 75 cents per hundred pounds

Oats, cattle, meats eggs and butter are also greatly affected by the new tariff wall.

A new tariff becomes put into effect by the United States recently and international reaction to it was indicated in actual retaliation in hund ds one government consideration by the other of measures of reprisal and condemnation from the press of several nations

All satisfied with the effectiveness of the 1,122 rates schedules contained in the Hawley Smoot tariff with Canada countervailing duties became operative pinning higher duties on the chosen commodities imported into the United States

These duties which were included in that government's May 1 budget are applied on the principle that the Canadian tariff shall be as high on certain articles coming from other countries as the rates they are therefore legislated the same commodities from Canada

The Belgian cabinet discussed the new law and then decided that any retaliatory measures should await conference with other European countries. The Spanish government studied reports that it break the existing modus vivendi with the United States as a protest

In Havana the newspaper El Mundo attacking the new tariff law as another step which will destroy the friendship between Cuba and the United States.

The Paris Petit Bleu advocates boycotting of United States products in France

It Tevez, of Rome said the tariff is the ultimate manifestation of the economic imperialism of the United States."

PLAN AIR ROUTE FROM LONDON TO WINNIPEG

London, Eng. - The government is extending no financial assistance to the British expedition under Captain C. B. Watkins, which is to examine the possibility of a direct air route from London to Winnipeg over the Greenland icecap, stated the Hon. Frederick Montague, under-secretary of state for air, in answering a question in the House of Commons.

The under-secretary, however told the questioner, T. J. Albery, Conservative member for Gravesend that the government was putting the services of a Royal Air Force officer at the disposal of the expedition and was also lending certain meteorological instruments. The war office was lending wireless sets and wireless equipment

The object of the expedition said Mr. Montague, is to survey and to collect the necessary meteorological and geographical data with a view to determining the practicability of the establishment of a regular air route between Europe and Canada via Greenland. The expedition is to leave shortly

Captain Geoffrey Robert Sladen (retired) M.C. Farmers' Party Sustained in Alberta Election

Calgary - United Farmers of Alberta, who stroke into power in Alberta in 1909, has been returned at the election of Hon Herbert Greenfield, have again marched to a third term in the legislature of the province Predecessors of Premier J F Brownlee who held 43 of 63 seats in the last house, the standard re-adjustment with courts still proceeding in many constituencies

Two of the three new seats formed in the redistribution enacted at the last session went to the government party Rudolph Hennig, former speaker of the house won in Clover-bard, and Hugh Allen had already been given an acclamation in Grande Prairie

Two Labor members were sent back to the legislature from Lethbridge and Edmonton, Lethbridge-Acerned W. D Hardie and Robert Barrowman Ind. in a three-cornered contest in Edson Chris Pattinson defeated Charles Payne, Liberal

Predicts Another War

Russian Commissioner Delivers His Periodic Warning Of Outbreak

Moscow, Russia — Clement Voroshov, commissar of war, has delivered one of his periodic warnings of the outbreak of another great war

He said that the United States, Japan, Great Britain and France this year would spend 5,700,000,000 gold rubles (about $2,850,000,000) on armaments compared to only 3,200,000,000 in 1913, and he interpreted that as indicating clearly that these countries are preparing intensively and rapidly for war.

Celebrate Anniversary Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. M. Craig Host and Hostess to Large Gathering

An event of more than ordinary interest to the citizens of Vermilion and district took place on Monday evening, June 23, when Mr. and Mrs. J. A. M. Craig were "at home" to their many friends in celebration of the 25th anniversary of their marriage. Since their marriage at Olds, Alberta, in 1905, Mr. and Mrs. Craig have lived in Vermilion, where their children, Donald, Kathleen, Jean and Hugh were born and brought up.

The beautiful Craig home made a splendid setting for such an important celebration. The spacious rooms, with attractively shaded lights, were decorated with roses and lilies of the valley, making a fairy-land picture.

At the drawing-room entrance Mr. and Mrs. Craig assisted by Mrs. A. E. West and Col. W. C. Craig, the groomsmen of twenty-five years ago, received their guests as they arrived, who expressed in all sincerity their several felicitations. Mrs. Craig, who wore her beautiful wedding gown of twenty-five years ago, looked radiantly happy and completely belied the fact that she is the mother of grown up sons and daughters.

Several interesting photographs, including the wedding party of twenty-five years since, and their first home in Vermilion, were shown to the guests.

The tea table, centred with a beautiful four-tier wedding cake, and lit from the glow of tall shell-pink tapers, was presided over by old time friends, Mesdames Barwick, J. Lipsey, H. N. Stephens and J. McKone.

Mrs. J. M. Duncan of Edmonton, a sister of Mr. Craig, and assisted by Mrs. J. J. Kidd and Miss Dennis in pertake of the dainty refreshments in the dining room. Those assisting in serving were Miss Rae Craig, Mrs. Frank Baker, Mrs. W. H. Scott, Mrs. Ray Norton, Mrs. W. P. Badgero and Mrs. Percy Long.

During the evening several instrumental and vocal numbers were rendered by Mr Albert West, Mrs Lorne McLean, Mr. Markle, Col. W. C. Craig, Mr. R. Barwick, Miss Newton, Miss Rae Craig and Mr. Hugh Craig. Mr. W. B. Elford was the accompanist

The evening ended with a dance at her which the guests reluctantly departed, again wishing Mr and Mrs. Craig many more happy anniversaries

Road Gravelling Started This Week

Highway Soon To Be All-Weather Road

Contractors commenced gravelling the main east and west highway on Wednesday, when a large fleet of trucks started hauling gravel which had been shipped in on flat cars, to the road west of the town limits. The gravel being used is much finer than hitherto used for gravelling the road from Edmonton to Vegreville and it is thought will be much more satisfactory than there will be a harder surface to the road, eliminating much of the chance for accidents and also less waste and upkeep

Switzerland is Prosperous

Has Population Of Over 4,000,000 and Few Good Workers.

Switzerland, which has an area of only 15,980 square miles, has more a population of roughly 4,000,000 in which it has risen from 3,300,000 in 1900. Small as the country is, it has 39 towns of over 10,000 people. While the population has increased the mountainous regions are being deserted. The general growth of Switzerland is the more remarkable for the fact that one-fifth of the whole country is mountainous and unproductive. Switzer' s is almost destitute of native raw materials and yet she has 400,000 persons engaged in productive industry. In fact, it is not too much to say that if all the world worked as hard as the self-reliant Switzerland, it would be a happier place. Switzerland is never troubled by war or rumors of war.

HOW THE RICH FARMER SHUFFLED HIMSELF AS A PROTECTION FORM MOTOR-ACCIDENTS IN THE CITY.—Judge Smiles, Lodge.

Many Accidents Caused By Neglected Cars

Carbonmonoxide Allows Defects To Develop In Mechanical Parts.

Automobile owners in the United States who neglected to keep their cars in quality condition were responsible for five thousand of the lives lost in traffic accidents during the past calendar year. This estimate is made by the framers of the report recently submitted to the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety at Washington, by its committee on the maintenance of motor vehicles. To learn that fully fifteen per cent. of the traffic fatalities recorded in 1929 are actually traceable to lack of proper care of cars is an enlightening disclosure. The studies of the committee into causes of motor accidents have convinced its members that stricter official inspection of all automobiles is urgently needed.

Essentially this report charges that because of improper maintenance defects are allowed to develop in vital mechanical parts of a car; brakes and steering gear are allowed to become dangerously worn or get out of adjustment; horns, windshield wipers, rear lights and headlights uncared for. Carbonmonoxide is a steady increase in driving speeds in the last few years has served only to increase the hazards revealed by the negligence of those who own cars and permit them to be operated when they are unfit to drive on public highways. The committee recommends legislation that will enforce periodic inspection and correction of such "previous tion is not now taken. It suggests that in the case of old cars that have changed ownership a certificate of inspection should be required when drivers' licenses are issued.

Pulsating Stars

Theory Advanced That Certain Stars Do Not Retain

A theory that certain stars do not retain, is presented in the American Journal for the Advancement of Science, by Dr. Rose Gunn, of the Naval Research laboratory. The pulsating stars are those which pulsate, that is, which expand and contract, and which are supposed to have the habit of enlarging their diameters millions of miles. They include Zeta near fairy beacon.

One class of pulsating stars," the Cepheid variables, are the "light-house" stars of the sky, that is, they enable astronomers to calculate the vast distances of space. Dr. Gunn's theory comes from study of magnetic fields about stars, especially those about the pulsating suns

TEN YEARS' GROWTH OF TOURIST TRADE

The rise in the value of Canada's tourist trade during the last ten years has been little short of phenomenal. Estimates of the expenditures made in the Dominion by tourists from other countries run back as far as 1920, and it will be noted that during this ten-year period, 1920-29, inclusive, tourists from abroad are estimated to have spent in Canada a total of roughly $1,082,000,000.

Such a sum of money is almost staggering, and it is difficult to find comparisons enabling us to realize its immensity. Perhaps the most startling comparison that could be made is to place this sum alongside the enormous outlays that Canada was called upon to make in connection with the Great War. According to the Federal Public Accounts the total expenditure made by the Dominion Government under the heading "War and Demobilization" is placed at roughly $1,686,000,000.

Thus the expenditures made in Canada by tourists from other countries within the last ten years are estimated at an amount which falls only a few thousand dollars short of equalling Canada's immense outlays for war and demobilization purposes. It is not to be wondered that the highest financial authorities in Canada have recently made it a special point to direct public attention to the growth and possibilities of this comparatively youthful recruit to the ranks of the Dominion's major economic interests.

Trade With Russia

Canada's Exports To Soviet Russia Are On the Increase

"Soviet Russia may be said to be the only country, outside of Germany, in Central Europe which increases its export trade of its requirements of Canadian products," writes L. D. Wigmore, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Hamburg, in the "Commercial Intelligence Journal." "Other countries in this territory, such as Czecho-Slovakia, Austria and Poland, consume important quantities of Canadian goods, but these are usually consigned in the first instance to Hamburg and for this reason appear to the Canadian trade returns among the exports to Germany. Canada's exports to Soviet Russia in 1929 increased by $1,187,000."

Of Course Not

A Grammar School student was set a question in an examination paper—"If twenty men reap a field in eight hours, how long will it take fifteen men to reap the same field?" The student thought long and carefully before writing the answer, which he handed in his paper this is what the examiner read —"The field having been reaped by twenty men, could not be reaped by the fifteen!"

ABRAHAM, A PIONEER OF FAITH

Golden Text: "By faith Abraham when he was called, obeyed to go out unto a place which he was to receive for an inheritance, and he went out, not knowing whither he went."—Hebrews 11:8.

Lesson: Genesis 12:1-6; 13:1-12; 17:1-8; 18:1-33; Hebrews 11:8-19.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 39.

Explanations and Comments

The Call That Came To Abraham, Genesis 12:1-3. — Some inward suggestion of duty, outward event confirmed Abraham (who is called Abram in the early chapters of Genesis), that he was called by God to leave his country, and his kindred, and his father's house (cumulative expressions which show how much Abraham had to lose in obeying the command), and go to the land that God would show him. The goal is definitely stated in verse five as the land of Canaan. The writer of the account did not imagine that God spoke to the outward ear; he only felt that does the oriental of the present day. God has spoken to me." A modern Arab phrase today when a man feels a deep impression in himself. "Under the simple statement 'Jehovah said,' there are probably hidden the processes of question and meditation: Elah's revelation of Himself to Abraham in all probability extended through the preliminary stages of surprise and doubt and gradually merged into a conscience assured that God was calling him to the duty of Canaan. Abraham responded resolutely."—Marcus Dods. He was sure that God had a plan for his life, and he acted upon his belief.

God's Promise To Abraham.—That was a necessary condition of blessing. "I will make of thee a great nation; and I will bless thee, and make thy name great"—this is the great thought about which he knew as a child they went forth into the land of Canaan, and into the land of Chaldea they came"; was there ever a briefer account of a long and dangerous journey? "They started, they arrived . . . and there they lived." The call of Jehovah is all. What is really important to people who are as capable as Abraham and his relatives in their faith."

To Lot.—Lot calls for the acceptance of a map, while faith is the taking of the voyage. Abraham had belief and faith.

So I go on not knowing.
I would not if I might;
I'd rather walk with God in the dark
Than walk alone in the light;
I'd rather go with Him by faith
Than walk alone by sight.

Desert Will Become Garden

Young Engineer Building River Power To Water Desert Land

A miracle is recorded in the Basin of the Jordan dividing at the west of the prophet. The miracle is being repeated now at the south of an engineer. Sceptics or skinsts must believe what they can.

Hutzenberg, the engineer, is tilting the Jordan bodily and throwing it just where he wants it to fall, like the giant of fairy tales who lifts up the mountains and hurls them at the heads of his enemies. And in a few years the oldest of countries will be electrified and the most dreary of deserts will become a green garden.

On the left are the foreboding and barren hills of Transjordan. Pedestrians are a rarity on the road to Jaz. After a few miles the sound is heard of a pick striking stone. There is a loud braying of donkeys and the jingle of harness. Around the bend from the direction of the desert the traveller falls into an oasis of concrete, the Hutzenberg miracle.

Workers stop their work to gaze at the European stranger.

It is all very simple," says an enthusiastic young engineer, who is helping turn a hideous desert into gardens of loveliness. "All you have to do is know how to do it and then see that it is done. For miles around there is land ripe for cultivation, but the Dead Sea has been depositing it here for centuries." But there is no water and so the land is deserted and barren.

"But if we raise the Jordan thirty feet we shall be able to turn the whole basin into a garden. It is quite simple. You see that concrete wall that goes sheer down, that is the first lift. Hills further along they will find another. It is believed that the service Hutzenberg is doing Palestine by watering the land there is greater than by supplying it with electricity."

A Romantic Province

Colorful Pages Of Pioneer History In the West

The oldest of the Prairie provinces has had a romantic history. It gave birth to the romance of the West with its Red River carts, an association which colors the pages of pioneer history in the West. From what was Fort Garry to what is today Winnipeg, is in itself a monument of story replete with adventure and achievement. It is the story of early beginnings ending in great accomplishments, with the fourth lift by the first pioneers now illuminating a great and prosperous province. July 15 will be a day of great gladness to the people of Manitoba with what has been done serving as an incentive in further achievements in the spirit and zeal of the early pioneers carried on to meet the needs of the modern day.—Lethbridge Herald.

Wood Produced From Cotton

New Material Has Been Developed By Man In England

Synthetic wood produced from compressed and treated cotton linters material has been perfected by a Clerkenwell, England, man. It is said to be indistinguishable from mahogany, oak, or any other wood, and can be used in making furniture and all kinds of house fittings. Its cost is much less than ordinary wood and its life will be as long, the inventor claims. It may be moulded into any warp. It is expected to reduce the cost of houses as well as of furniture

The doctor chuckled, glanced shrewdly at his companion, and replied: "I don't imagine that those rides were a real sacrifice to my appetite."

"If they were," retorted Charnuian with a chuckle, "he disguised the fact with proper gallantry; but I'm none the less grateful to him. It's a long walk to District Four when the mercury hovers around zero, Doctor; and Grandma worries."

"I wish you didn't have to leave her," frowned. "The days must seem long now that winter has set in."

"I fear they seem a great deal longer than she admits," replied the girl. "Grandma's so patient and uncomplaining. But I can't give up the school, Doctor, even with the welcome board money coming in each week. I know we're foolish to cling to the old house the way we do. I might, in the name of common sense, be willing to part with it and break my heart, but I can't break Grandma's; and no other home would seem her own."

The old man was silent for a moment, and then said: "George K. tells me the house is really yours, Charnuian."

"It is. I thought you knew that Grandma deeded it to me a year ago. She got the idea that it might save trouble for some other spec; but I let her do it because it made her happier."

They rode half a mile in friendly silence. It was beginning to snow, the big flakes drifting down lazily and settling on the windshield.

"I've been thinking," said the doctor at last. "I can't help worrying about you, child, because I know, you see, that I shan't always be on hand to advise you when you may need advice. An idea came to me in the night, an idea that might not suggest itself to you, and I'm telling you now so that if the time comes when you must part with the old homestead you could consider it. It's this: If you sell the place, don't part with your great-grandfather's little office. You could live there comfortably, you and Grandma. With a kitchen and bathroom added at the back it would make a cozy enough home; and it would be home, in a way, to help us you. Don't forget it, child, if I'm not here to remind you."

"But you will be! I won't admit anything can ever take you from us, Doctor Steve—we need you so. But I'll remember your suggestion. It's a good one, only—what would your young M.D. do for an office?"

"That point," answered the doctor, "will take care of itself."

Another moment of stillness followed; then he said, abruptly, as if making a decision, "I think I'll confide in you, Charnuian. You know, of course, that I haven't saved much money. I've had nothing to save for; and I've done my work for the world's sake, and the love I have for my loyal patients. I've kept my house to repair and keep it up, and my providing there was enough for that. I haven't hounded folks if they paid slowly, or even if they didn't pay at all. So you see, child, I'm no John D.!"

"I see," said the girl, wondering where this confidence was leading.

"I wonder how much John Carter has told you about his will. He's a queer old fellow, very secretive."

"Very little," replied Charnuian, still puzzled.

"Possibly then, you don't know that as a boy he had almost everything to do with Carter's mother. Very wealthy people, John and his sister might really have been spoiled. They were not, however, and after Carter married a girl of whom his family disapproved, and who died in his second year there, his father died—a shock caused by financial losses. Carter was left on his own, and his things had been going badly with his business. There was enough left to keep him and Carter and save a few of the family heirlooms, nothing more. Two weeks later John's mother died in her sleep."

"Oh, that poor boy!" broke in Charnuian with compassion.

"Poor boy, indeed!" went on the doctor. "And he loved both parents dearly. The sister, fortunately, had married well. John made his home with her, and went on studying and earning his own way working too hard, and risking his not too robust health. That was his reason, my dear, for taking a country practice. He needs fresh air, and to get away from the irritations that would mean less hours. There are enough less hours in the life of the average doctor without adding to them in society."

"They will certainly escape society in Wickfield!" smiled Charnuian.

"While to what he wants, and what brings me back to my starting point, the old man continued, "The boy is doing well. The Wickfield people like and respect him. He understands them, and takes hold as I'd hoped he would. So, though of course he doesn't guess it, when my time comes, Charnuian, he will step into what little I have to leave: a roof over his head; an office that folks are glad to coming to; and the trust of my friends and patients. So you needn't worry about leaving him without an office if you and Grandma decide to make the change. He'll be provided for. All he needs is a good wife, and I'm wondering . . ."

The doctor paused, turning to look at Charnuian so intently that her color rose

"There are photographs of two perfect ponchos on his bureau, and, according to Grandma, another in his watch!" she retorted lightly.

"And what is there in his heart, my dear?" asked the old man

"How should I know?"

"Well," said the doctor, shaking his head, "if a red-blooded young fellow can live under the same roof with Charnuian Davis, and not find something in his heart, I am mistaken. He should have been on his knees to her before this."

Charnuian laughed as she responded: "I understand that they don't do it that way these days! And I've been told that a doctor's wife has a hard life."

"I think you could stand it," smiled her old friend. "I shouldn't want the lad to live alone, Charnuian, as I have. He's like a son to me."

She ventured a little laugh

"I believe that I regard him that way myself! It's a pleasure to keep his meals hot: he's so grateful."

"I'd rather you regarded him differently," said the doctor, sighing. "That is, unless Dear me! Here we are at my destination. The widow Smithson has got the grippe. I shan't be long, child."

The girl glanced up, suddenly conscious of her surroundings. They had stopped before the small, brown, shabby cottage where Jim Bennett had once collected interest money the place where Charnuian had called him "Boyloch."

CHAPTER XIX

As the doctor went within, Charnuian's thoughts drifted back to that ride with Jim—to all the changes that had come since, and to those that were destined to come before many years. The old man's confidence had stirred her deeply. She was younger than her grandmother, but he had lived a harder life and had suffered more. She couldn't quite know more about his condition than he had told her. The end might be near, or many years away, and he was "putting his house in order." It was like him to be ready when the call came, and to plan so that his care for her nothing went even beyond the grave.

Charnuian shivered, not from cold, but from a sense of what life would be to her when all these natural changes had taken place. Even Grandma—she was old, and could not go on for ever. What would there be for her in Wickfield without Grandma? Jim Bennett, and even Jim? There was John Carter, to be sure. Perhaps . . .

The girl's glowing color deepened at just a trifle at the thought of where this reverie was leading. Then a flush of shame swept over her cheeks. Grandma, but he wasn't going to cottage brought her back to the scene before her. The house seemed even smaller, dingier, more forbidding and cold and uncomfortable in its wintry setting. A broken windowpane was stuffed with rags, and a thin curtain at the windows were torn and sagging. What would such people do without the second greatest gross income from maritime freights in 1928, the figures being for the United Kingdom, $857,000,000; for the United States, $339,000,000, and for Germany, $9,000,000, with Norway, Italy and Sweden following.

Canada profits more from tourists than the country whose name is generally synonymous with tourists. The nations receiving the most from foreign tours are in this order: France, Italy, Canada, and Switzerland. Literary Digest

Neglect Of Good Books

Is One Of Great Evils Of Modern Society

Stanley Unwin, of the well-known firm of London publishers, George Allen and Unwin, is convinced that "there are scores of thousands—nay, probably hundreds of thousands—countrymen who never enter a book shop or spend even half a crown per annum on the purchase of a book. And the same is no doubt true of Canada. And it is quite probable that the same current that deals out buy books doesn't get them out of the libraries and read them. The neglect of good books is one of the great crimes of modern society

YOUNG WIFE STRENGTHENED

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bancroft, Ontario. "When I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I had been married about a year and my strength was leaving me on account of my condition. I was only 19 and it was my first child. My mother told me I needed something to steady my nerves and a girl friend told me to take the Vegetable Compound. Little Helps For This Week

"The Lord shall be unto thee an everlasting light"—Isaiah lx 19

There is no day so dark
But through the murk some ray of hope may steal.
Some blessed touch from Heaven Dit we might feel.

If we but choose to mark

Celia Thaxter

Let us all be sure that all is well whatever comes, while we trust and hold fast and strive and only hope and rightly hopeless when we want what we are in no wise willing to earn. The glory and the grace of life come by right living. So live while we may not know what trials and joys may be ours, but whatever they be may it be with the assurance that as the days in which Job wrestled with his dark maladies are the only days that make him worth remembrance and but for which his name had never been written in the Book of Life: so the days through which we struggle, finding no way, but never losing Hope Sight, will be the days through which we are called to live Robert Collyer.

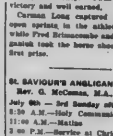
Espedal Troupe Here July 12

Will Give Platform Entertainment

The famous Espedal troupe of school boy acrobats will again be one of the platform attractions at the 12th of July celebration. The troupe will consist of more boys this year and practically an entire change of personnel, with one exception, that being the famous leader's younger brother, Alvin Espedal. The boys started practising about five years ago and toured many fairs and celebrations for both pleasure and practise. They also toured all the way to California last summer, about 3000 miles being covered in the trip. Mr. Espedal and his troupe expect to be on the Chautauqua circuit next year, as their program is both educational and entertaining.

GOODYEARS ONLY



Here's the Reason

WE know them. For years we've handled every make of tire in actual service. We've seen what is given for its cost.

Our policy of selling only Goodyears is based on each customer's satisfaction. We've proved time after time that Goodyears give longest, most satisfactory mileage. We've proved the stamina of Goodyear Supertwist Cords and the great protection of the All-Weather Tread.

We make a smaller single profit on Goodyear Tires. But we gain through their quality selling more tires. And the complete Goodyear line gives us a tire and size for every purchaser need of every customer.

Perfect Day For Mannville Sports

V. H. S. Team Wins the Baseball Tourney

Perfect weather featured the July 1st holiday and local people took full advantage of it in spite of the rough roads, the town being practically deserted all day Tuesday. Mannville sports proved their chief attraction as the high school ball team was competing there, as well as horseshoe and aquatic sports.

High School Wins Ball Tourney from Field of Six

The Vermilion high school team stepped out and won first money in the ball tourney at Mannville from six entries. Drawing a bye in the first round, the youngsters trimmed Innisfree 7-2 in their first encounter. Frank Pilkie doing fine hurling for the boys and getting air-tight support. This brought the locals against the Clandonald team in the final and in spite of the odds being heavily in favor of the strengthened north club, Art Wiebe pitched his kids in a nip and tuck 5-4 victory over the veteran players opposing them and carried off first prize money. Twas a gallant victory and well earned.

Carman Long captured all of the open sprints in the athletic events, while Fred Brimacombe and Stan Draganiuk took the horse shoe tourney's first prize.

A. Hollas Has Wish Come True

Sees Cloudburst on Saturday Last But Under Uncomfortable Circumstances—Happened About 10 A.M.

All throughout the dry summer of 1929, A. Hollas, well known bridge contractor and builder, who has his headquarters for the present at Vermilion, had a tremendous desire to witness a cloudburst, and the wish continued on into this year until last Saturday morning when it was suddenly gratified in a very full degree and not as entertaining circumstances as Mr. Hollas was coming in from the construction camp at Helmsberg, and was north of Islay when the event occurred. The rain came down virtually in a basketful, and kept on coming down. The trunk which the bridge builder was driving was swamped and the rain killed the engine. After the cloudburst had subsided somewhat Mr. Hollas left the truck and went to a nearby farmhouse some quarter of a mile distant and from there caught a ride later in the day into Islay and came by train to Vermilion. On Sunday he returned by car and brought the truck to town.

This rain which continued all Saturday night throughout the whole Islay district is reported to be the heaviest ever known, reaching proportions of cloudburst several times during its course and being heaviest about 10 a.m. when Mr. Hollas ran into it.

AMONG THE HORSE-SHOES

Our horse shoe club is getting along very well. K. B. McKenzie and son brought home first money from Viking on June 25th. Stan Draganiuk and John Nazarchuk went up in the air and lost in the first game.

Stan Draganiuk and Fred Brimacombe got first on July 1st at Mannville. Fred is not a club member but we hope he will be in the future.

ENJOYABLE PICNIC AND SPORTS AT ISLAND HILL

Island Hill-celebrated Dominion day with a picnic and sports at their school grounds which were much enjoyed by all present. It was a real heyday for the boys and girls and the youngsters certainly put pep and then some into their athletic events. Horse shoes, tenn's and ee8 ball were also played. The major event of the day was a baseball match, married versus single, in which the married men proved a little too much for the standard-bearers of bachelorhood.

The Standard is not in possession of the variety or nature of the land it was sown on but it's "some" wheat in any case and probably a record better for this district.

Canadian and World Progress

The above is the main feature of an article in the current issue of Toronto Saturday Night dealing with the present economic situation. The sub-headings to the article state: Dominion's Rate of Advancement Far Above Other Nations Favorably Situated To Share Again In Progress."

Because owing to the present temporary depression in Canada, as throughout the world but fortunately less acute in this country than elsewhere there is a tendency on the part of many people to become unduly pessimistic, it is perhaps well to pass on some excerpts from this very illuminating article in the Toronto paper.

Economic life is ever in a state of flux. The fortunes of nations are affected by some radical change which may raise or lower their status among the powers. Business men find themselves drawn into the current of new demands and competition through which the most careful navigation is necessary. Even professional men in the most humble circumstances and those who for one reason or another are not engaged in active work cannot fail to notice how their living habits are affected by the course of time.

The most recent period of prosperity probably lends itself to more thorough analysis than any other, for one reason, because from the data available we can more accurately measure the forces employed; we can well determine the degree of economic recovery from the most disastrous conflict in history. Two years ago the receding tide of war influences left a mass of economic disorder indicative of credit and currency, severe depression in commodity prices, unstable political conditions, an enormous weight of debt and taxation and serious labor troubles these were but a few of the difficulties which faced world business.

The economic forces of the world were finally mobilized along the broadest front ever occupied by an army of workers. The causing advance was not uniform the world over, the United States Canada, France and Argentina swept ahead of other countries, but progress was made almost everywhere on the globe and in the period of intense economic activity world production reached a record level.

An analysis made by the Canadian Bank of Commerce bears out this statement. An interesting sidelight in that analysis is a comparison between the progress of Canada and that of the world as a whole. It should not be taken for granted that Canadian production of basic commodities exceeded that of every other country, but it is a proven fact that the rate of increase in Canadian production exceeded that of the world by a wide margin in many of the most important branches of economic life.

This advance of Canada was so rapid as to place her among that small group of nations which enjoys a highly diversified economic organization, and one which has a broad field of opportunity for the application of agricultural and industrial science and the delivery of business into the most channels.

Consider a few figures. Between 1925 and 1928, world wheat production increased 13 per cent., but in that same period Canadian wheat production increased 35 per cent. Canadian grains production increased in Canada 71 per cent., as compared with a world increase of only 5 per cent. Coal production world increase, 5 per cent. Canada, 23 per cent. Oil production world increase, 34 per cent., Canada, 86 per cent. Lead production world increase, 11 per cent. Canada 37 per cent. Copper production world increase 18 per cent. Canada, 81 per cent. Pig iron production world increase 14 per cent., Canada 61 per cent. Steel production world increase, 20 per cent., Canada 68 per cent. Automobile production world increase, 7 per cent., Canada 66 per cent. Paper production world increase 9 per cent Canada, 31 per cent. Aluminum production world increase 15 per cent., Canada, 125 per cent. Artificial silk world increase 103 per cent. Canada, 317 per cent Water power developed world increase, 17 per cent., Canada, 43 per cent. Foreign trade (value) world increase, 3 per cent., Canada, 26 per cent.

The foregoing cannot, of course, be accepted as a complete registration of the world's economic activity nor should it be regarded as painting a picture of unalloyed prosperity perhaps it is not without saying that the world has not yet reached that ideal state where the work of all its people can be usefully rewarded, and where this work will be in such perfect balance that none shall struggle against difficulties or suffer distress.

In the current year we see the aftermath of some moderate economic effort, and of the greatest speculative boom in history But, whatever the actual damage may be today, the people's needs must eventually go on increasing and its present great productive capacity will be called into active play when the pressure period of unsettlement is over and the stage is again set for prosperity As for Canada her imposing record of progress achieved in the brief space of less than four score years gives but a hint of her possibilities power, and of the positive which, by the development of her natural wealth, the can take when world progress is resumed

Tribute To Dr. Eckener

People Take Visits Of Graf Zeppelin As Matter Of Course

A writer in the New York Evening World says: "It is interesting, as showing what has happened with regard to this 'air-mindedness' that is so often spoken about, that the Graf Zeppelin, fighting the worst weather that it has ever encountered, caused the smallest stir by its arrival here. Had it ever caused. People now take it for granted that it will arrive safely and sail safely on, just as they take it for granted that the "Europa" will arrive and depart safely and on schedule, or that the "Berengaria," or the "Bevengaria." She has become, in the minds of the American people, a sort of habit of her, a little more exciting, no doubt, than an ocean liner, but in pretty much the same class. Dr. Eckener, then, if he is a reflective man, will realize that this matter-of-fact acceptance of his presence was perhaps the highest tribute to him and to his craft that could be paid. People no longer wonder about the Graf Zeppelin, but routine regular air transport over the Atlantic is now a reality.

Some credit to Mr. Hoover as a president, it seems to us, is due in this connection too. It will be recalled that quite casually, before any of us had ever seen the Graf Zeppelin, he said that a regular service across the Atlantic would come in a few months. Well, here it is

PALE FACES JADED NERVES

Due To Weak, Watery Blood

Anaemia impoverished blood comes so stealthily that it is often well advanced before it is identified. Fatigue and discomfort the earliest symptoms, are usually treated as if the cause had been seriously. Soon the face becomes pale the eyes lack lustre the heart palpitates violently after the slightest exertion, the appetite fails, it comes feeble and before you realize it you are in a terrible plight. Your nerves are shaky, by enriching and purifying the blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People bring the nerve cells and correct the run-down condition. Concerning this Miss Mildred Tovey, Turnbull, Que., says: "I suffered from headaches and dizziness. My heart would palpitate on the least exertion. Nothing I ate agreed with me. I started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and by the time I had taken several boxes I was ready for anything. I had gained 10 pounds and every distressing symptom had left me.

You can get these Pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MINARD'S KING OF PAIN LINIMENT

For a Unified India

New Era Is Visualized In Second Volume Of Nehru Memoirs

India, with its teeming millions, its history stretching back into dim antiquity, ever a story of division and differences, its many religions, is visualized in the second volume of its famed report as ultimately one nation, united nation occupying an important place among the British commonwealth of nations.

Although the process may take many years, the report foresees India eventually united into one great confederacy under a federal government to which not only British India, with the exception of Burma, but also the individual Indian states under native rulers would adhere.

In the meantime the report recommends the building of a federation founded on the eight governors' provinces. The remaining governors' province, Burma, would be entirely separate from India.

The provincial governments would be the schools in which the training of the Indians in self government would be continued. An all-India federal framework would be set up for the provinces by a revised India Act, which would be based upon the result of adjustments to meet the varied requirements of the different provinces and upon the principle of federal or uninterrupted growth to complete responsible government.

In the governor of the province would form his ministry but while it would not be necessary in every province that the ministers should be members of the legislature, members from the legislature would be eligible for any of the portfolios in the cabinet and there would be joint cabinet responsibility. At present in the provinces there is a division of responsibility, and restricted authority.

The British army must remain in India. The well-being of India is also the well-being of the Empire require its presence there for many years to come, much as it is constituted today.

Canoe Won During Race Was Death

Aged Treacherous Ice Floes Transported Sick Nat-therer To Church

Hardships of a daring two-day voyage in an open canoe through floating blocks of ice in Hudson Bay to bring H. Ford, Hudson's Bay Company factor at Moosin, 80 miles north of Churchill, to the latter place for medical aid, were described at The Pas by the company officials.

On May 20 he fell victim to a mysterious malady. For three weeks he battled for life with only the crude medical assistance afforded in such a settlement.

As he was rapidly weakening it was decided to bring him to Churchill. An open freight canoe was fitted with a sail, loaded with scant provisions and prepared for departure.

Kenneth Carter and two Eskimos volunteered to take the sick man through the hazardous course to the new northern seaport

The party set out early in the morning of Thursday, June 5. Packies combined with a small sail forced the small boat through the heavy seas that ran during the most of the trip Twice the party were nearly swamped by floating ice, proved a danger during the voyage.

Ford weakened perceptibly during the journey, and died on the open sea. Although the days were warm there was a sudden drop in temperature during the evening

On Saturday morning, June 7, the four arrived at Churchill, and Ford was given a treatment in the Hudson Bay Company post there. On Monday, the 9th, he was brought on the steamer Limited to The Pas. He arrived there Wednesday morning, June 11, and left in the evening for the hospital in Winnipeg.

Reduction in Postage

Rates On Letters and Parcels Outside Canada Are Lost

Reduced postal rates on Canadian mail destined to foreign countries with the exception of the British Empire, France and North and South America, became effective July 1, according to announcement by Postmaster-General's Department. The change resulted from the World Postal Congress held in London, England, last year, and will affect many countries of the world.

Under the new rates, letters will be carried for five cents for the first ounce and three cents for each subsequent ounce or fraction. The postcard rate will be three cents. The rate on printed matter will be one cent for each two ounces.

Commercial papers will be carried for five cents for a packet not exceeding 10 ounces in weight and one cent for every two ounces thereafter. The rate on samples will be two cents for a packet not exceeding four ounces in weight and one cent for every additional two ounces.

International reply coupons will be sold at seven cents each and the redemption value will be at the rate of five cents in postage stamps for each coupon.

All these rates apply only to parcels or letters destined to points outside Canada.

Speed Boat Shipped

British Girl Has Entered Craft For International Trophy

"Estelle V.," the motor boat with which Betty Carstairs hopes to establish a new record at Detroit, was shipped from England on the White Star liner "Calgaric," accompanied by five mechanics. From Halifax the boat will be shipped by Canadian National Railways to Chesterfield, Ontario, where it will be tuned up in the Muskoka Lakes before the Detroit races.

As a result of Major Segrave's death, Miss Carstairs will be the only British entrant for the international trophy.

Record For Fishermen

Scotch fishermen who have handled thousands of tons of many kinds of the finny tribe are puzzled over a large fish of rather a species which was caught in a net in Moray Firth, 90 miles off the Banffshire coast, recently. The oldest fishermen say it is unlike any they have ever seen. It was still alive when landed, hours after its capture.

Coal Movement Arranged

Everything Ready For Shipments From Alberta and Saskatchewan Into Manitoba

All administrative arrangements in connection with the movement of Alberta and Saskatchewan coal into the Manitoba market under the recently granted subvention to aid in the coaling of imported fuel, are now completed, it was stated by Frank C. Neate, secretary of the Dominion Fuel Board, Ottawa, when Mr. Neate was in conference, at Winnipeg, with operators from Alberta and Saskatchewan and also with distributors and railway officials.

"The machinery is all set up to handle the administrative work, the co-operation of the railways has been secured and the operators and distributors understand what is required of them," said Mr. Neate "With the weapon now in their hands with which to meet the importation of foreign coal, it now is up to the coal people to use it."

English Language Spreading

American Banks Have Extensive Market In Foreign Countries

The wide and growing prevalence of the English language is attested by the fact that countries to which our tongue is that of a foreigner take high rank among the purchasers of the publications of the United States. The Department of Commerce supplies the information that there is a foreign market of considerable magnitude and significance. From Halifax the boat will be shipped by Canadian National Railways to Chesterfield, Ontario, where it will be tuned up in the Muskoka Lakes before the Detroit races.

As a result of Major Segrave's death, Miss Carstairs will be the only British entrant for the international trophy.

As he paused, a voice from the back of the room replied: "Dough."

Canadians Have Much To Learn About Vast Empire Being Developed In North

So vast is the Dominion heritage and so numerous are the points offering promise of great and continuous development, that it is difficult for the most assiduous of newspaper readers to keep in touch even with his own province. For more distant information he is dependent on promoter sources and therefore has all the more reason to appreciate editorial and other articles outlining what is being done in districts that are only in process of being opened to the light of day. Recently the Lethbridge Herald touched on the development of the Alberta Northland and remarked that in this is proceeding no British Columbia's great block of land east of the Rockies is coming in for a lot of attention. Speaking recently about the potentialities of this region it quoted Hon. F. P. Burden, Minister of Lands of that province, as saying that the section had one of the best bodies of coal on the continent, and according to the speaker Alberta was the only coal on the continent that would smelt without coking.

In clean proximity, Mr. Burden said, was a great body of iron ore. In years to come, he believed, a great steel and iron industry would be developed and would create a big demand for the agricultural products of the district.

There were also other minerals, the minister said, and possible hydro-development of over one million.

The Herald repeats its view previously expressed that in the vicinity of the Peace River, the Smoky River, and where they cut through the backbone of the continent on their way to the Arctic, there is a veritable empire of wealth and room for a few Canadians even dream of. Here are to be found valuable commercial timber and pulpwood, the Grande Cache coalfields in which the late Lord Rhondda was interested as in that area. Close by there is said to be mountains of iron, while it is also stated that mines as rich as the Rothman at Kimberley may be developed. And with it all there is, in the Peace River Canyon, water power capable of developing within a few miles of it something like 1,500,000 horsepower.

While there is so much talk of a coast outlet for the Peace River country, it is well to bear in mind that the development of the mining, lumbering, pulpwood and hydro-power potentialities along the Peace River head waters, is practically certain to open up a route through the northern section of British Columbia. Somewhere along the course of that route will be a railway, and demanded upon it, close to the Pacific, and closer to the Orient than any other British Columbia port, may be a modern city founded upon the wealth of resources in that area

We really know very little as yet, the Herald says truly, about the great northland which, in a few years, will be a big factor in bringing to the world's markets and bringing back new wealth to Western Canada.

Settlers Are Keeping Ahead Of Railways

District in Northern Saskatchewan Is Rapidly Developing

Settlers are still keeping far in advance of the railway in the opening of the north country.

For the past 10 or 12 years good crops have been grown in the Meadow Lake district, 100 miles north of North Battleford, and the growers have hauled their grain 60 miles to the nearest railway line.

This year the Canadian Pacific Railway is building a line through the Meadow Lake area from Meadow Lake to no longer the frontier town.

Every week hay-racks containing settlers' effects are to be seen crossing the Beaver River, 30 miles north, making for a district on the other side which is rapidly filling up.

Rice Grown To Compete

British Guiana May Have Exhibit At World Grain Show

In all probability rice growers from British Guiana will be represented in the competitive classes at the World's Grain Show, according to a letter received at the exhibition office, Regina, from J. Sydney Dash, director of the Department of Agriculture, Georgetown, British Guiana.

The compilers of the prize list for the 1933 World's Grain Exhibition decided to make it as attractive as possible to the growers of all countries. For this reason, apart from the fact that the cash awards offered are higher than have been offered over before, the classification embraces practically all of the grain and seed crops cultivated the world over.

The rice growers of British Guiana, one of the smaller parts of the British Empire located in the tropical regions of northern South America, are showing a keen interest, and according to word received at the World Grain Show office from Mr. Dash, should be the only way be reported from that country. In concluding his letter Mr. Dash says that he hopes to go to Canada to take part in your exhibition and conference to be held in 1933. I shall advertise it when it arrives growers may have the opportunity to participate."

For Healthy Poultry

Clean Soil Is Run Necessary For Growing Chicks

Clean soil is the one and the one sure cure and preventative for the most destructive poultry disease, intestinal parasitism, asserts the Poultry Husbandman of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. And practicing what he preaches, the poultry runs at the Central Experimental Farm have been freshly ploughed and the rotation system of soil cleansing is under way on the runs used last year. A succession of seed, grain and green crops is used to remove all possible infection from intestinal parasites. Poultry should always be kept on clean soil, especially growing stock, and rotation on the poultry run is the one most effective way of enabling nature to do the trick.

Increase In Plant Imports

Canada Bringing in Large Number For Parks and Gardens

Canada's appreciation for the new shelie in parks, garden and amateur horticulture is reflected in the amazing increase in the number and in the importations of trees, shrubs, roots, perennials and bulbs. In 1919 the Plant Importation Service of the Dominion Department of Agriculture examined 600,000 plants, etc., at ports of entry, while in 1929 the number examined was over 48,000,000 Inspection stations are maintained at Halifax, St. John, New City, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Windsor, Winnipeg, Estevan and Vancouver, and all imported plants are examined to ensure freedom from insect pests and plant diseases.

Britain Acclaims Canadian Wheat

Sir James Dunn Says Manitoba Product Makes Best Bread

All who are interested in Empire Free Trade should make it their duty to demand an "Empire Loaf"—made of wheat flour produced in the British Empire—and popularize it among their friends, says Sir James Dunn, in a letter to the London Evening Standard.

Sir James, a native of Balhurst, New Brunswick, and now a prominent lawyer and husband of the Marchioness of Queensbury, says that apart from any question of imperial sentiment, the Empire loaf consisting of 85 per cent. Manitoba wheat, is the best bread in the world.

His own researches into the relative nutritive values of Canadian and competitive wheats have shown that Manitoba produces a higher gier and lighter loaf, which gives greater nourishment than bread made from any other flour, he says.

Department of Agriculture Is Studying Problems of The Ranching Industry

The following article was prepared at the direction of Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, by Mr. E. S. Archibald, director, Dominion Experimental Farms, Ottawa.

Previous to 1912, when the beef cattle industry in Canada was in a thriving condition, a very small investment, outside of that in cattle was necessary to carry on the business. With the coming of the settler, and the consequent splitting up of the open range, the rancher was confronted to a definite area. This change necessitated a more economical use of the range and the construction of fences, the development of watering places, and the production of winter feed. With these increased costs more attention was paid to the care of cattle raised, the percentage calf crop, and the death losses Although the best known grazing practices were followed there was a decline in the carrying capacity of the ranges, and many areas became badly overgrazed. The result was that natural pastures, less thirsty cattle entering the winter, and sub-normal gains in weight by marketable and breeding cattle.

It was not until 1923 that a detailed scene for experimental work on the range, and following a survey in 1928, by the Dominion Experimental Farms Department of Agriculture it was decided to conduct experiments on the short grass plains to study methods of range management with the object of improving the carrying capacity. As the outright purchase of land and equipping of experimental ranch appeared to be unwise because of the large cost involved, it was decided that it would be more economical and more useful to cooperate with some rancher who had a long experience in ranching Christ Brothers, of Medicine Hat, Alberta, offered their co-operation, which was accepted and the experiments are now being carried out on this ranch.

The main project under investigation is known as the deferred rotation system of grazing. It is usually carried out on three pastures, depending upon the number of herds which it is practised. The system is designed to defer grazing on each pasture twice in six years to allow each pasture to mature a crop of grass On the station, four fields, each comprising 2,740 acres, are used to determine the practicability of the scheme. The fourth field is grazed continuously and serves as a check on the other fields. In order to determine the efficiency of this system of grazing as a whole and whether it is not the grass cover is improved, a thorough study of all factors affecting it is made

An essential factor in range management is a reliable water supply In this connection the Act provides that natural watering facilities is being investigated Other factors in range management being studied include influence of the vegetation, effect of the use of salt, the gains in weight by different classes of cattle, the possible limits of the grazing privileges, the palatibility and nutritive value of the range vegetation, the question of supplementary feeding and the provision of hay kept several years in reserve, and the effect of frequent cutting on range hay fields. Soil studies occupies an important place in the ranch operations the use of wood preservatives for the protection of construction and maintenance are also investigated

In addition to the pro sets at the ranch station there are several other investigations being conducted in Alberta and Saskatchewan by the Department including an economic study of the vegetation covering tests on the best methods of control of weeds, and a number of trials in the growing of forage crops for winter feeding A beginning has been made on the study of the cost of production of range cattle in the different grazing areas, the object being first, to learn the financial importance of different factors in the cattle business, secondly, to present a fair picture of the industry and thirdly to analyze the business for the purpose of learning which are the most profitable range practices to follow in the different localities

New projects to be studied during 1930 will be the determination of the carrying capacity of the range land on the short grass plains, the winter feeding of cattle, the use of homegrown roughages and their economic value for fattening younger steers immediately, and the value of supplemental feeding to cows on winter pasture

When more complete information is available on summer grazing, winter feeding, and on cost of production, a fairly complete knowledge of all phases of the cattle industry will be available.

Might Increase Apple Sales

Vending Machine Opens New Market For Canadian Product

One of the most interesting and important developments in connection with the marketing of apples in recent years is the automatic vending machine. Officials of the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture are watching this development with special interest at the present time and Commissioner G. E. McIntosh states: "I think it will provide a new means of marketing the apples which will prove at once popular and effective"

The new machines of which there are two types on the market at the present time, have been tried out with surprisingly satisfactory results in a number of cases At the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, last year, several of these machines were in operation and the sales for each machine ranged from 3,000 to 7,000 apples per day.

The automatic apple vendor is a "nickel-in-the-slot" contrivance by which the customer may select the apple he prefers from a range of size, variety and color. Both the wall and sylinder type machine carry the apples in tiers with glass tops so that they are enticingly visible. The apples are kept in perfect condition ready for sale at any time, and the automatic vendor provides the individual an opportunity to get "an apple a day" when it is most important, an apple when it is wanted.

An idea of the potential sales value of these machines in operation is afforded by the experience at the Royal Winter Fair. The machines were in use each day except on operation averaged sales of 2,500 boxes of fancy fruit of an average size which was accepted and the net profit this meant $6.25 a box or well over $15,000 from the machine sales during the period of the Fair.

British Columbia has taken the lead in the introduction of the sale of apples by this type of appliance; one hundred machines being now in operation in the City of Vancouver and fifty being installed in Victoria.

Sweden Is Prosperous

Has Small Population But Is Very Progressive

Sweden, which has a population not much less than that of London, is one of the most prosperous of European countries Though only a third of the small population lives in towns, Sweden is remarkably go-ahead in all matters of art—the drama, architecture, and so on. The Town Hall of Stockholm is one of the finest modern buildings in the world. There was a time when Sweden made a great stir in the affairs of Europe, when, united to national resistance to Napoleon, she fought her neighbors, she waged war on Germany, Russia and Poland; her standards were raised in Munich, Moscow and Warsaw. These were the days of Gustavus Adolphus, Charles XII and Queen Christina, who dressed as a man and died a pauper in Rome. Today things are changed. The country has a great past and a most contended present which is the best we would desire for any nation.

BOYS MAY BE GRAIN KINGS

Canada is still a country where opportunity awaits the young man of intelligence, energy and the will to persist. Who knows, but some of the younger men now associated with some of the various junior grain clubs may be crowned kings of the grain classes in 1932. A hard-headed old prize winner ventured the remark the other day that this is like many another thing that happens every day. The younger man has vim, energy and the advantage of everything that is up-to-date in research and experiment. He is sure to make the older man rustle for a place among the winners. J. R. Ainsle, president of the Moose Jaw (Sask.) agricultural society, speaking recently at a meeting of one of the many younger men's registered seed clubs sponsored by the board of trade of that city, voiced a much similar opinion. "These boys," said Mr. Ainsle, "may be winners of high prizes at the World's Grain Show at Regina in 1932. There are two crops for them to select from and they are starting with the right kind of seed to make a good showing. Further, they are located in a district that stands high in the production of high quality wheat."

GEORGE JOSEPH MAGGS

The announcement of the death of George J. Maggs at the Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, B.C. on Sunday, June 22nd following a lingering illness was received with feelings of general regret by numerous old timers and friends in Vermilion and throughout the surrounding district where for many years he was so well and favorably known. The deceased was 63 years and 3 months of age and besides his sorrowing widow leaves the following sons and daughters to mourn his passing: George J., Ronald, Ala; Alfred E., Victoria, B.C; William F., Armistice, Alta.; Samuel R., Powell River, B.C.; Mrs. J. Reynolds, Vermilion; Mrs. Wilson, Victoria, B. C.; Mrs. S. Snelgrove, Mary Lake, Alta.; Mrs. J. D. Hogg, Edmonton, Alta. and Mrs. Kate Hicks and Mrs. F. Reed, Vermilion, besides twenty-six grandchildren.

The late Mr. Maggs was born in Bristol, England and was married on November 22nd, 1893 to Jane Bennett who survives him. He and his family were among the pioneer settlers in this district, coming in ahead of the railway through 30 years ago and homesteading 8and twelve miles north of the present town of Vermilion, where he and his family developed a farm which today stands out as one of the finest homes in that district, the present owner being Mr. J. D. Cameron, and for Mr. Maggs became associated with the then Canadian Northern at this point where he was employed in charge of the pumping station. During this period he was appointed a member of the Alberta provincial police of the C.N.R. Maintenance of Way Employees, in the work of which he took a very prominent and responsible part and for the past seven years he was secretary-treasurer of the organization with headquarters in Winnipeg, Man. His membership covered a period of eighteen years. Deceased was a Mason and an Oddfellow. A sad feature in the case is the severe illness of absence owing to the condition of his health and accompanied by his wife and children at the coast, where he passed away, deeply regretted, on Sunday, June 22nd.

The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon, June 25th from McCall Bros. Funeral Home, Victoria. Services were conducted by the officers and members of Britannia Lodge No. 71, A.F. & A.M. Right Worship'd Bro. Robert Robertson officiating. Interment was made in Royal Oak Burial Park, with the following as pallbearers: Wor. Bro. E. Garland, Bro. F. M. McGregor, Bro. D. Cangbell, Bro. J. Mrs. G. J. Maggs and family wish to thank their many friends for great kindness shown, letters of condolence, and the many beautiful floral offerings, during their recent and severe bereavement in the loss of a loving husband and father. They especially wish to thank the officers and members of the A.F. & A.M., both the Vermilion lodge and Britannia lodge, No. 71, of Victoria, B.C. for kindly services; also Dr. Bank and staff and nurses of the Royal Jubilee Hospital for very kind and sympathetic service.

Edison Drinks Milk To Maintain Health

A recently published newspaper interview with Mr. Edison announced that he is living on a milk diet, and credits him with the following statement:

"When I was a baby," he said, "I lived on milk and didn't like it. Now I have gone back to milk again."

An article in one of the February magazines based upon interviews with Mr. and Mrs. Edison quoted her as telling about Mr. Edison's diet thus:

"In January of last year he said, 'I am going to go on a milk diet—nothing else.' He went on a milk diet and stayed on it. Two glasses of milk every two hours. He can't risk taking any chances with his health —there is too much to do."

ELEVENTH ANNUAL CONVENTION BATTLE RIVER U.F.A. FEDERAL CONSTY

Owing to bad weather the Battle River U.F.A. Federal Constituency Association convention was not called to order until 1 p.m., Thursday, June 26th. The attendance was very good when the state of the roads were taken into consideration, and delegates commenced to come in until late in the evening.

After the usual committees were appointed the President Mr. W. Skinner gave his annual address, when he outlined the history of the organization and the work accomplished in both the provincial and federal fields; he also pointed out the economic impossibility of agriculture.

Mr. Spencer then gave his report of the session at Ottawa to giving this report Mr. Spencer divided the subject into the following categories:

1. High lights from the Speech from the Throne.
2. A synopsis of group opinion in the House in regard to the Speech.
3. An outline of the Budget.
4. A synopsis of the Budget.
5. Amendments to the Budget.
6. Resolutions on the Order Paper which were debated.
7. Heaviest expenditures in the estimates.
8. Important public and private bills.
9. Work of special committees.
10. Votes recorded.

The most important recommendations contained in the Speech from the Throne, said Mr. Spencer, were no doubt the return of the natural resources to the Prairie Provinces; the legislation which was to widen the scope of the Pensions Act, and the completion of the new grain act. It also announced one more milestone in Canadian development in that the great Welland Canal is finished this year at a cost of some $150,00,000

He next gave a synopsis of the speeches of those who spoke for and gave representative of, the four groups in the House, including those of Messrs. Bennett, King, Gardiner and Neeps.

An outline of the budget came next when the member drew attention to the main proposals. Attention was then drawn to the revenues and expenditures of the country and how these were allocated, when the speaker drew comparisons as he went along. Mr Spencer quoted two amendments which were moved to the budget by Messrs. Bennett and Fansher respectively.

The private members' resolutions on the order paper which were debated were dealt with in some detail, especially the one on full time health units, for which Mr. Spencer was responsible. He then gave the largest items of the estimated expenditure for the coming year, and pointed out that whereas our total liabilities are about $500,000,000, just eight items which he gave, out of 12, amounted to $262,000,000.

Public and private bills were then dealt with, and it was pointed out that certain very important ones which were not mentioned in the Speech from the Throne, found acceptance. They were: The Divorce Act, giving Ontario power to set up her own Divorce Courts; The Export Act with reference to embargoes per Sugar; Giving married women the right of a domicile of their own.

Work of the committees of the House was also given attention.

In conclusion, the most important votes were given in the attention of the convention, and Mr Spencer told of the stand he had taken on the various questions.

At the end of the report the audience were invited to ask questions or make suggestions.

Mr. W. Farquharson, M.L.A. for Rimbey touched on the valuable services Mr. Spencer had given to the constituency. He stressed the unemployment problem, and spoke for a time on political representation.

Nominations were then called for a candidate to represent Battle River Mr. Archie Rouse moved, supported by Mr C. East the nomination of Mr. H. E. Spencer of Edgerton. Both gentlemen paid a high tribute to Mr. Spencer and his nomination, which was unanimous, was received in a very hearty manner by the Convention.

This was followed by a short address by Mr Bayley the local organizer, who asked the audience for true co-operation in the elimination of weeds. Mr. C. East gave a very able address on the subject of economics. Mr. P Emmerson, M.L.A. gave a treatise on marketing and exchange, and Mr. Love, M.L.A. spoke on farmers' financing and financial control, both of which addresses were much enjoyed.

During the Convention sundry resolutions were considered, and numerous selections were given by Miss Parnell, and Messrs. W. Hoye, S. A. Bent, G. Skinner, and Bond, while Mr. Harry Wood gave two comic recitations. Mrs. Lally of Wainwright very kindly accompanied on the piano.

The officers elected were as follows: President: Mr. Walter Skinner, Riverview; Vice-President: Mr. C. L. Pickett, Hayter; Directors: Joe Vermilion; Mr. C. East, Vermilion; for Wainwright, Mr. S. C. Lees, Edgerton; Mr. Wm. Hoye, Mr. J. Reed, Riverton: for Ribstone, Mr. H. A. Beck, Czar.

TOWN ACTIVITIES

Considerable road improvement is in progress around the business streets of the town, consisting of gravelling and levelling. The roads have been in very poor condition for improvement where the work has been done and it is hoped that the town can be in any close to carry the work further. Good roads in and around the town is the best advertisement any community can have.

Reverting to the subject of good roads, a culvert or two would not come in amiss, one particularly noticeable spot being the corner beside the tennis courts; natural drainage is easily obtainable here with the aid of a culvert running either east and west or north and south. As it is now the deep ditch full of water has to gradually dry up and keeps the road bad at the corner, as well as being rather inconvenient to tennis enthusiasts. Another bad spot is at the corner of the imperial Bank on Main street where no drainage exists and the water lays until it dries up, which has not occurred so far this summer.

Thirty Lives Lost In Dynamite Blast

Lightning Strikes Boat in St. Lawrence River and Sets Off Explosives

Brockville.—When a bolt of lightning struck their boat and utterly destroyed it, 30 men were buried to their death in the waters of the St. Lawrence River near here. Only 12 of a crew of 42 are alive, and of these several are in hospital in a more or less serious condition.

The boat was the "J. P. King," a drill boat owned by J. P. Porter and Son, of St. Catharines, Ont. It was engaged on a Federal Government contract to blast out the ship channel off this river port. Lying off Cockburn Island, one of the eastern islands of the Thousand Island group, the boat was engaged in drilling a shoal when a thunderstorm blew up from the west.

Suddenly, there was a deafening report audible for miles around. A blinding sheet of lightning reached down from the heavens. The boat was struck by the electricity which ran from the drill dynamite in the shoal. Literally, the boat was blown to atoms.

No one had no chance to escape. They were caught like rats in a trap. Those who were not killed instantly by the force of the explosion were thrown out into the water in such a dazed state that they sank before help could reach them.

Heroic rescue work was carried out by the United States consignard vessel 211 by Captain Hamilton and G. G. Lok, of Olcott, N.Y., and carrying Commander M. R. Musselman, labor inspector of the Department of Labor, Washington, D.C. This boat was proceeding east along the shipping channel about half a mile from Cockburn Island when the "J. P. King" was struck. Full steam ahead was ordered and she plowed her way through the water.

Two or three tenders belonging to the drill boat also rushed to the scene. Between them only 12 men were rescued. A few men hanging to driftwood, scattered through Lough and various spots, that was all that remained of the $100,000 drill boat, the largest of her kind in Canada and her crew of 42 men.

Noted Visitor From Japan

Leading Statesman Crossing Canada On Way To Geneva

Victoria, B.C.—One of Japan's leading diplomats and statesmen, Hidenobu Adachi, former ambassador to France and Belgium, passed through Victoria aboard the liner "Empress of Asia." He is accompanied by his wife and is on his way to Paris and Geneva.

Viscount Herbert Marler, the Canadian minister to Japan, is making himself very popular in my consulting Mr. Adachi and his party extensively all over the empire and is very well known in all parts of the world as he has been in the diplomatic service for more than the Canadian Press presented.

"It is an enormous relief to me to get out of Japan," the noted Winnipeg editor, "to know that there is the Canadian Press to give one a rest mental facts on every question. If I wish to embroider them that is my privilege."

Mr. Davies said that as a result of the formation of the Canadian Press the smaller Canadian newspapers were enabled in give their readers a more complete service.

New Zealand Requires Canadian Engineer

Wellington, New Zealand. — Service of an "outstanding Canadian engineer" are required by New Zealand. The government has cabled its trade commissioner in Canada asking that he secure such a man. The man will be required to supervise the recently completed Arapuni power plant. Canada's great strides in the science of building and operating such power plants is largely responsible for the fact that a Canadian is wanted.

Speed Reward For Women

Detroit.—What was declared to be an international speed record for women was set here when Amelia Earhart, noted aviatrix, completed an 81-mile course at Grosse Isle airport, averaged 174.9 miles an hour. Miss Earhart flew a standard Lockheed Vega plane.

Manufacturing More Butter

Winnipeg, Man. Manufacture of creamery butter in Manitoba continues to increase rapidly, according to a report from the Department of Agriculture. The make for May, it is stated, was 20½ per cent. greater than in May, 1929.

Austrian sound-film interests are seeking government support.

SOUTHERN CROSS LANDS SAFELY AT NEW YORK

Roosevelt Field, New York.—Completing his flight from Ireland which was interrupted by a landing at Harbour Grace, Newfoundland, Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith brought his famous monoplane "Southern Cross," to a safe landing before a wildly enthusiastic crowd.

His first appeared out of the northern sky, a speck attended by a dozen smaller specks, shortly before 5 o'clock, but passed high above to circle above Manhattan.

Although he had flown 1,100 miles from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, he treated the crowd awaiting to acclaim him, to a spectacular exhibition of vertical flying before bringing his ship to a perfect three-point landing directly before the hangar where he was behind a high wire fence.

The four men of the "Southern Cross," Captain J. Patrick Saul, Stuart Van Dyk, and J. W. Stannage, were neither physically nor nervously weary.

Deafness bothered them a bit, from the long endured roaring of the three engines, bright sunshine bothered, but they were nimble and widely agrin when they clambered out of the big blue-painted ship into the hands of the mob.

It was a reception that might have reduced heroes even to dizziness. A real exhaustion, for the arrangements, made so carefully and so constantly all day, broke down utterly and shamefully.

It had been planned that after the United States Naval Band had sometimes inspectors had cleared them, the Nassau County reception committee, the New York City reception committee, and finally, Air Ronald Lindsey, the British ambassador and his staff, greatly, should formally greet the flyers.

But instead the police lines failed to hold, the gendarmes of the Nassau reception committee got hustled about with no regard for their eminence, Mr. Russell was violently pulled in the stomach by an excited copper, the coat was nearly torn from the back of Henry Allen, the Australian high commissioner to the United States.

It was the worst hurly-burly that has ever occurred. Long Island flying field, where there have been many notable skindies between the cops and the citizens.

The flyers, as a result, were nearly trampled under foot as they stepped down into the noisily cordial crowd and it was fifteen minutes before the 175 county police under Chief Abraham Skidmore, were brought into sufficient discipline to clear sheering members of the reception committees and get the flyers to the operations office.

There at last, when the last politician's hand had been shaken and the last recognizable newspaper photographed in proud passivity to the fliers, the rapidly wilting Kingsford-Smith was able to read a message of congratulation from his fiance, Miss Mary Powell, of Melbourne, to greet a couple of his chief backers in this country, and to tell the story of his last great flight to the newspapermen.

It was his last great flight, he stressed. When he sets the "Southern Cross" down at Melbourne, he will have completed his aerial circumnavigation of the world which commenced two years and one month ago.

And when that is done he will marry in Melbourne and give himself to the more humdrum but vastly more profitable business of directing a flying transport service in Australia.

Plans Approved For An Empire News Service

London, Engr.—By an almost unanimous vote the Imperial Press conference placed its seal of approval on the resolution which was proposed by E. Norman Smith, of the Ottawa Journal, that "this conference approves the principle of mutual and co-operative assistance of wide news between the component parts of the Empire."

Subsequently, R. C. Nicholas, of the Victoria Times, moved a further resolution that the communications committee be authorized to investigate and report upon the feasibility for co-operative news distribution for the Empire. The purpose of this resolution, Mr. Nicholas explained briefly, was to translate the conference decision into practical fact. There was considerable opposition to the Nicholas resolution, however, and Mr. Nicholas did not press it.

During the morning's discussion, J. B. F. Livesay, general manager of the Canadian Press, a delegate, submitted a tentative scheme for the creation of a British Empire Press Association. The scheme suggests the establishment of national co-operative news service, similar to the Canadian Press, in the various states of the Empire, with a central office in London, through which the national units could exchange Empire news. The association suggested, ad Mr. Livesay, should be "mutual and co-operative from crown to base, yielding the world with a news service owned and controlled by the newspapers of the British Empire."

C. F. Cazalet, of the British Unit ed Press, Montreal, praised the need for individuality in news service. The Hon. Theodore Fink, chairman of the Australian section, approved of the principle of the news interchange but was not prepared to present an opinion in consideration of a definite scheme. K. C. Roy, of India, doubted if the creation of a British agency with headquarters in London, as that suggested by Mr. Livesay, would be possible in India.

Victor Sifton, The Leader-Post, Regina; J. W. Dafoe, Manitoba Free Press, Winnipeg, and W. Rupert Davies, The Whig-Standard, Kingston, Ont., emphasized the advantages of co-operative service as exemplified by the Canadian Press.

The Canadian Press despatches said Mr. Sifton, were accurate and impartial. Mr. Davies declared that Canada had every possible diversity of views; co-operative news gathering had been tested in Canada and found satisfactory. It did not destory individuality as it newspaper could have its own private correspondents or take other services. But every political question had its hard core of neutral facts and it was the core of fact which the Canadian Press presented.

"It is an enormous relief to me to get out of Japan," the noted Winnipeg editor, "to know that there is the Canadian Press to give one a rest mental facts on every question. If I wish to embroider them that is my privilege."

Mr. Davies said that as a result of the formation of the Canadian Press the smaller Canadian newspapers were enabled in give their readers a more complete service.

When East Met West

Japan's delegation to the Imperial Press conference in London, England, is typical of the Orient. Here are Kenzo Adachi, Japanese ambassador to France, and his wife, who are on their way to Geneva. Mrs. Adachi is wearing the national costume of Japan.

Helping claims to a famous poem that East is one thing and West some thing else again, and "never the twain shall meet," but this picture is mailed by the quaint unspoiled, reproduced above, of eight-year-old Milly Chan, little Chinese brunette, and Pauline Nancolla, 8½, curly-haired English lass, walking through the same life belt aboard S.S. Empress of Asia. Milly "adopted" Pauline during the ten-day voyage of the Canadian Pacific liner from Yokohama to Vancouver.

They were the only youngsters among the first-class passengers on the trip.

Federal Aid For Highways

Canadian Good Roads Association Will Urge This Matter

Toronto Federal aid for main highways, provincial as well as interprovincial, will be urged on the Dominion Government by the executive of the Canadian Good Roads Association, it was decided here at a conference between that body and representatives of the Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and New Brunswick governments, the railways, the Dominion Railway Board and other bodies.

The executive will also draw up a proposed schedule of uniform traffic regulations, which it is hoped all provinces will adopt. The code will cover a speed limit, lighting and brake equipment, and registration fees.

A plan for federal aid for highways in Northern Ontario was made by Hon. William Finlayson, minister for lands and forests for Ontario Mr Finlayson declared that these highways would be a valuable link in a national chain, but that the area through which they extended was very sparsely populated at present, and that unless the Dominion contributed towards the cost, the whole burden would fall on Old Ontario.

Britain's Naval Program

Program For 1930 Includes Three 35-Inch Gun Cruisers

London, England.—Rt. Hon. A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty told the House of Commons that supplementary estimates in the government's 1930 naval expenditure program would be presented shortly for three 8-inch gun cruisers, nine destroyers, three submarines and four sloops and one net-layer and target-towing vessel They would cost about $15,000,000.

The first lord said orders for laying down these vessels would not be given until the first quarter of this financial year, and that only a small sum would be required to be spent on the vessels during 1930.

"I would emphasize," remarked Mr. Alexander, "that these ships are required in replacement of others which have passed the age limit and to enable the royal navy to carry out its current duties in time of peace and that the program has no relation to those of other powers"

UNITED STATES IS WORRIED OVER GRAIN SITUATION

Washington Political and official Washington is watching with anxiety the price of grain and cotton closely these days.

The Democratic senators from Texas and Oklahoma states which produce both crops, called the senate's attention to the renewed lows recently, connecting the price drops with the new tariff bill

The Oklahoman Senator Thomas said a moratorium proposed for dealing with the world market which flies from Australia to Europe. He introduced a resolution to authorize the president to call an international conference to deal with the farmers' problem, consider a system of internationally fixing exporting and stock a plan for control of production of exportable agricultural products

At the Farm Board, Chairman Legge stated that he was hopeful that the time has not yet come to act because the farmers have not put their crops on the market at the low prices. The board's peril will come however, only in the contract marketing phase for cotton and grain.

Arrangements made today, by the board with the grain exchanges and the cotton exchanges, whereby the latter agree to hold their stocks off the market until the board has had opportunities to dispose of supplies held by farmers, which looks to the board to be the beginning of the end for private banks of the marketing system, he said.

The first months to market Tennessee bushels of grain of the new crop are to be kept secret, so as not to affect the market, the board announced. The board has no power to buy except during the period of harvest time in the low. The board believes that money is available to handle this and consequently the $250,000,000 authorized but not yet appropriated may not be needed. The government's expected deficit next year is also a factor to be considered in seeking farm support legislation.

The board had no comment to make on the telegraphed request of Governor Reed, of Kansas, for immediate action to bolster the price of grain.

Say Banks Not Pressing Wheat Pool For Cash

Winnipeg.—Reports that Canadian lending banks were pressing the wheat pool and the prairie governments for cash to cover a portion of advances in the 1929 grain crop were characterized as "nonsense," by officials concerned.

A London newspaper is stated to have published a report that the provinces might be asked to put up part of their guarantee and that a grave financial crisis was involved.

Referring to the newspaper's reported estimate that a demand of 18 cents per bushel would involve $1,-000,000, Pool officials commented that the statement was "no foolish that it does not require an answer."

R. L. Cook, chairman of the committee of the Pool's leading banks, remarked that he did not know of any such situation. Recently, Premier John Bracken, of Manitoba stated that no additional step by the provinces was necessary

At the present time cash wheat is selling well under $1.00, which is below the amount of the Pool's initial payment to member. Two days ago initial payments on remainder of the 1929 crop yet to be delivered by Pool farmers were cut to 85 cents per bushel

It is known that the amount of grain in Pool farmers' hands is small, the Pool has termed the amount "negligible." The initial payment cut had the added effect of barring co-pool farmers who might have wished to market for cash in an a bold-over which they failed to sell when the prices were above the dollar mark.

In February the prairie provinces met and decided to guarantee backed by their resources; the loans made to the Pool by banks in order to finance the initial payment. This was done in order to prevent the Pool being forced to unload wheat on depressed market in order to provide sufficient cash to protect the margin required by the banks on loans

Report On Manitoba Grain Fields Encouraging

Crop Summary Issued By Department Of Agriculture

Winnipeg, Man. Grain fields in Manitoba are in "very well," by virtue of satisfactory growth during the last few weeks and despite slow May growth, the total spring wheat, according to a crop summary issued by the Manitoba Department of Agriculture. Many fields now wheat is reported in the shot-blade and full rye has been headed two weeks or more.

In most districts moisture requirements have been met, though drough-water is not plentiful due to drought of the year ago. Soil drifting has been pretty well outgrown, though it was quite prevalent in short time ago in central Manitoba. The few bailetorms recorded in the province have done considerable local damage.

Cut-worm damage on the whole has been slight, it is stated, and the insect menace for their activity will soon be over. Hay prospects are fair to good and while some grain and clover acreage is below average, the growth is fair. Animals have been doing well the past month.

General Election For Britain

Ramsay MacDonald Stakes Labor Party May On To Country In the Fall

London England The possibility that a general election might be necessary before fall was expressed to the Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald at a meeting of the Labor Party here

The Prime Minister made the statement in explaining his action in consulting earlier in the day, when he announced the government was to appoint the education bill and the consumers' council bill for the balance of the present session.

Mr. Arnold said that in view of the likelihood of a general election before autumn it was not desirable to face the issue "with the docks littered with lumber."

Fall From Wagon Fatally Injures Clandonald Woman

While driving to the hamlet of Clandonald on Saturday afternoon, Mary Dalton, wife of Thomas Dalton, was fatally injured when she fell off the seat of the wagon, the wheels of which ran over her before the horses could be stopped.

Her husband was driving at the time and they had their little child with them. It also fell off the wagon but was unhurt.

The unfortunate woman's back was broken and she sustained other injuries in the fall. She lived for about an hour but never regained consciousness.

The Daltons came to the Clandonald settlement about a year ago. The husband and five children survive.

Tragic Death Of Nick Mereniuk

BUFFERS FRACTURED SKULL

Nick Mereniuk, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mereniuk of town, met with a tragic accident last Thursday which later resulted in his death, caused by a fractured skull

The young lad in company with several other boys, was climbing around the rafters of the old piggery buildings situated about a mile east of town. While descending from the building Nick lost his hold and fell some six feet to the ground, striking his head on a board. Although somewhat dazed he managed to walk to his home where he immediately collapsed and lost consciousness for 14 hours. On regaining his senses Friday morning he was able to relate to his parents the story of the accident, after which he again lapsed into unconsciousness from which he never recovered, the death occurring on Friday, July 4th. The immediate cause of death was a fractured skull at the seat of the brain

Nick was a bright little fellow and had just passed with honors from grade six to grade seven

The funeral was held from the grandparents home, near where Nick was born, to the Greek Orthodox church at Dauvergne, interment taking place in the cemetery adjoining. The local Boy Scout troop headed the procession and six of their members acted as pallbearers. Patrol Leader Marwood Brimacombe carried the reversed colors, and Scoutmasters Ion Taylor and Jas. Anderson were in charge. Rev Fr Chrusanka conducted the impressive service. J Warina was in charge of the arrangements

Experiment a Total Loss

Chief Tube To Convert Gulf Stream To Electrical Energy Collapses

A giant tube built at a cost of more than $1,000,000 and designed to harness the waters of the Gulf Stream to convert them into electrical energy, collapsed when sunk into the sea near Matanzas, Cuba, and was destroyed.

The tube was designed by Georges Claude, French scientist. It was built of corrugated steel, was 1,000 meters long and required three months to build.

The plan was to place the great tube in a channel on the bottom of the sea to serve as pipe line from the Gulf Stream to a power plant erected at Professor Claude's laboratory along the gulf shore, near Matanzas.

Professor Claude's theory was that the Gulf Stream water, being subjected to vacuum would rise to the boiling point and produce steam sufficient to turn great turbines for generating electrical power

Monster Inter-Provincial Picnic

Will Celebrate Linking Of Manitoba and Saskatchewan Highways At Gateway On Labor Day

Arrangements are rapidly being pushed forward for the monster Inter-Provincial Picnic, on Labor Day, on the Manitoba-Saskatchewan boundary west of Dauphin, as a result of a historic meeting of the representatives of various communities in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, concerning this celebration met recently at Robin, and spent a busy afternoon discussing different items in connection with the picnic. The genial general chairman of the Association, Art Stalck, of Dauphin, kept the boys working hard along the real serious problems. A welcome visitor on the occasion was "Ace" Emmett, of the Canadian Legion, who, in his enthusiasm for anything which makes for development of better trails and good roads, made a special solo trip from Winnipeg to attend the meeting. Following the business meeting, and spurred by the enthusiasm of H. J. Bowley, the energetic chairman of the ground committee of the Manitoba section, the meeting adjourned to the picnic grounds in the beautiful Assiniboine Valley, eight miles west of Robin to view the site chosen for the picnic. At this point Manitoba Scenic Highway No. 10 joins Saskatchewan Highway No. 10. All were delighted with the wonderful natural amphitheatre and picnic grounds available through the courtesy of the owner "Bill" Thompson, an old timer of the Rolain district.

At the time chosen for the picnic, which will be of the basket variety, there is a beautiful level meadow bordered by low hills, on the south with the Assiniboine River on the western limit. Rising from the meadow which is on the floor of the Assiniboine Valley, at that point almost a mile wide, there is a natural bowl amphitheatre formed out of the banks of the valley, practically free of trees, and ideally suited for recommodation, convenience and spectator. A platform can be erected at the base of the hills and speakers can be seen and heard by thousands with comfort. The facilities are related to start about 11 a.m., when bands from points in Manitoba and Saskatchewan will be presenting a musical programme until the noon hour. Then the picnic will settle down about one hour, to be followed by a symbolic ceremony to indicate the linking up of the good provincial highway systems of Manitoba and Saskatchewan at that point. Honorable W. H. Chaba, Minister Highways and Public Works and Honorable A. C. Stewart, Minister of Highways for Saskatchewan, are expected to be present at the brief participants in this symbolic ceremony. Governor Christianson, of Minnesota and possibly Governor Sorenson, of North Dakota, are expected to be on hand to give the occasion a friendly international flavor. There will be picnic games, a Buffalo barbecue, where a thousand hooks will be broiled if necessary, a sudden death baseball tournament between all star Manitoba and Saskatchewan teams, championship horseshoe pitching contest, children's sports, and many other diversions, entertainments and attractions. Altogether it is freely conceded that a very pleasant time will be had on this occasion. Hot water and hot dogs will be available on the grounds. And the world is invited to attend.

Many will ask what is this all about" The aims and objects of the Inter-Provincial Association, which is the body set up to handle this picnic, is stated in its literature to be "Organized by communities and public bodies of Manitoba and Saskatchewan to celebrate in the form of an Inter-Provincial Picnic, on Labor Day, September 1st, 1930, at the Manitoba-Saskatchewan boundary in the Assiniboine River Valley at the junction, near Robbin, Manitoba, of South Dakota Highway No. 5, with Saskatchewan Highway No. 10; the completion and linking of all weather roadway systems of Manitoba and Saskatchewan at that point." While the basis of the appeal to the public and especially the motorists to come and celebrate is largely from the standpoint of well established publicity, there is a strong sentimental urge behind the proposal. To those who have watched the development of transportation of people and things through the Prairie Provinces from the old Red River cart to the present day motor car and motor bus, must come the realization that we in Western Canada stand at the bright light of a new day insofar as transportation over our prairies is concerned. The use of motor transportation is upon us and while we rejoice in its coming, we all have many deeply rooted sentimental attachments for the old order of things. And so the Inter-Provincial Picnic, a commendable step in publicity machine, as a sentimental appeal, for as a disseminating agent of good will between our Prairie communities and our friends to the south of the U.S.A. border, and as a gathering to evidence the fact that good roads for which we have long struggled have brought distant communities practically to each-others door.

Using Small Seadrome

San Francisco Air Ferry Has Float Anchored At End Of Dock

A seadrome, built on the principles of proposed mid-sea landing places for aeroplanes, has been put in service by a San Francisco bay air ferry service. It is 100 feet wide, and declared to be the smallest floating island landing place in the country.

Shaped like an inverted saucer, the landing contrivance has a smooth rounded top and beneath its hull is a system of air tanks which may be regulated to control the depth and angle at which the device floats. The artificial island' bias is carried out with sand on the bottom to prevent the amphibians from skidding. The sand is cemented into paint. The float is anchored at the end of a dock where more than 85 landings a day are made, with a similar number of take-offs.

JACOB, A HELPLESS MAN TRANSFORMED

Golden Text: "For what shall a man be profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and forfeit his life? or what shall a man give in exchange for his life?"—Matthew 16:26.

Lesson: Genesis 25:19-34; chapters 27-33; 46:28 to 47:12.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 103:7-14.

Explanations and Comments

Jacob Treats His Brother Meanly, 25:29-34.—One day Jacob prepared pottage, a dish made of lentils or small beans, and Esau, his brother, coming in faint from the field, begged for it. "Therefore was his name called Edom." "Edom" means "red." Esau had red hair and red complexion, and it was red pottage for which he sold his birthright: all of these things combined to give him the name of Edom, and his descendants were called the Edomites.

"Sell me thy birthright," Jacob demanded, taking a mean advantage of Esau's exhaustion and hunger. By the birthright he meant the rights and privileges of the first born, which were, at least, included a double portion of the father's property and succession to the leadership of the family, priestly rites, and to the covenant of Abraham brought to its covenant privileges. Mean as Jacob's proposal was, it shows that he appreciated the value of the birthright, as Esau, who cared only for the gratification of the present moment, could not.

"Behold, I am about to die." Esau exclaimed—he was "tired to death," as we say often say with an Hour's walk and what profit shall the birthright do to me?" Jacob knew that when Esau's hunger was appeased Esau would repent his bargain and break it as readily as he had made it, so he asked Esau to swear solemnly to abide by it, which Esau did. It was a sharp bargain that Jacob drove, how sharp Esau did not realize, for he was not noble enough to appreciate the birthright's value. He had his bread and pottage and went his way; he despised his birthright. His birthright was nothing that he could appreciate at the time, therefore he could not appreciate it.

Cotton Bond Sales

Amount Being Invested In Bonds Speaks Well For Prosperity Of Canada

The first five months of the present calendar year saw Canadian bond sales total $282,677,277, as compared with $223,765,612 for the similar period of 1929; and $210,365,660 for that of 1928. Two thirds of the whole, or $214,000,777, were purchased in Canada, while the remainder, amounting to $67,676,500 were bought in the United States.

Good Even If Old

Students of Ottawa University have been served plum jam which had been buried in the schoolastic grounds for twenty-seven years, and they liked it. Forty quarts of the preserves were found buried several feet in the earth by excavators, working on the location of the old kitchen destroyed by fire in 1908.

The front pew in the church may lack the required degree of upholstery, but at least there's no windchisel to take a bender through unexpectedly.

Presentations To Iceland

Interesting Ceremony Carried Out At Meeting At Thingvellir

A bronze tablet, bearing the likeness of Thomas H. Johnson, at one time minister of public works and later attorney-general of Manitoba, was unveiled, at Thingvellir, by Hon. W. J. Major and officially presented to Iceland at Manitoba's centennial gift. The tablet, which bears an excellent likeness of the first Icelander to occupy a cabinet position in a Canadian legislature, hangs on the wall of the antechamber in the parliament building. A large number of Canadian Icelanders were in attendance when after Mr. Major's address "O Canada" sounded for the first time in Icelandic legislature halls. The ceremonies—timed with the Icelandic and British National Anthems.

The gift of the United States was officially presented by Senator Burtand Dr. Frederick Johnson.

Ard Rggerrson officially presented the resolution passed by the last session of the Canadian parliament, declaring its desire to honor Iceland with a gift which would be most acceptable. The character of the gift will be determined by the recommendation of the Canadian representation upon their return.

Germany's gift to Iceland on this occasion is complete equipment for the Landsbokasafn, or public building, when erected, Sweden presented a library of 600 books; Norway an exchange collection; Denmark Denmark a Copenhagen porcelain vase and bestowed upon the president of Althing the Order of Commander of the Legion of Honor; a bronze bust of Vilhjalmur Stefansson by the Icelandic American sculptress, Nina Sæmundson, was the gift of the Danish women of America.

There were numerous other gifts and countless illuminated addresses in most elaborate bindings. The celebration officially closed after three wonderful days at Thingvellir

Good Roads Program

Extensive Mileage In the National Parks Being Built This Year

Good roads are being extended to every part of Canada. In the rural districts of every province there is a network of paved and gravel roads, which not only are of benefit to the motorists, but to the farmers. In the National Parks of Canada, the great playgrounds of the country, maintained by the Canadian Government, there is an extensive mileage of improved roads. The road building programme in these parks this year is a substantial one and the provincial governments are constructing sections to connect the roads in the parks with the principal provincial highways.

CLANDONALD CHAUTAUQUA AUGUST 1, 2, 4 AND 5

"BROKEN DISHES"

The first program of the Chautauqua series this summer is one of the outstanding successes in the realm of light comedy. It concerns an ordinary household, and the incidents which are clevery woven into the story are the incidents of an ordinary family's life; but such is the genius of the playwright that these characters and their story take on a brilliance and charm that captivates any audience.

Pa Dimsdall proves to be the hero of the piece. His simple heroism and fine chivalry would do credit to any knight of old. He is armed His wife is an ambitious woman, who has never realized the greatness of the hidden qualities of her husband. Their daughter, Elaine, is the figure around which each situation revolves. She has the beauty and charm of her mother, and the hidden treasure of her father. An interesting situation ensues when she announces her decision to marry, not a rich dazzling sir tor such as her mother would choose, but the village grocery boy.

How Elaine and her father reolve their most cherished dreams in this match, and yet retain the love and respect of the mother, constitutes the theme of this sparkling comedy

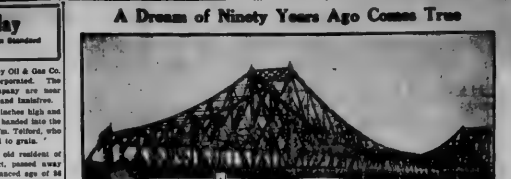
A Dream of Ninety Years Ago Comes True



Main picture shows the steamboat what as it looked in 1840.

Superimposed is the main span of the Montreal Harbour Bridge where it crosses over the counter channel of the harbour.

Good a view of the new bridge at night showing the brilliancy of the illumination.

In 1840 the people of Montreal dreamed of a bold e to join the harbour with the communities of the South Shore. The idea they then believed was that on which now stands the magnificent structure known as the, three generations later, as the Montreal Harbor Bridge, officially opened on May 24th, 1930.

The single 16 candle-power gas lamp in the foreground is typical of the scientific darkness of its day, for it was not till 1840 that electric light was installed in the Harbour of Montreal. Today the dream of ninety years ago is translated into bridge—one of the world's finest monuments to modern science and engineering—illuminated by 166 one thousand candle-power incandescent electric lamps—a total of 166,000 candle-power. Special plans for this lighting installation were designed by the engineers of the Harbour Commission in conjunction with illuminating engineers of the Northern Electric Company Limited.

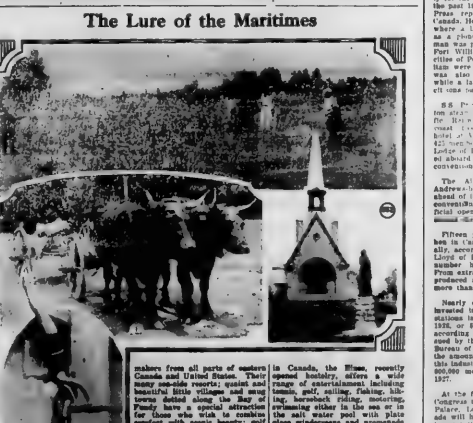
The Lure of the Maritimes



The Maritimes hold a proud and well-merited place in tourist popularity as well as being a favorite territory for holiday makers from all parts of eastern Canada and United States. Their many seaside resorts; quaint and beautiful little villages and snug harbors dotted along the Bay of Fundy have a special attraction for those who wish to combine comfort with scenic beauty; golf and a wide variety of other sports with fishing and sailing; and the whole with modern and direct transportation.

St. Andrews-by-the-sea with its well known and excellent summer hotel, The Algonquin, is one of the most delightful of Maritime resorts. There, as at its more popular sister resort, Digby, is to be found one of the outstanding golf courses in Eastern Canada, where many a hard-fought championship has been decided. Digby, on the Bay of Fundy, but in some of the most beautiful, old-world scenery in Canada, the Minas, recently opened hostelry, offers a wide range of entertainment including tennis, golf, sailing, fishing, hiking, mountain climbing, motoring, swimming either in the sea or in the salt water pool with plate glass windscreens and promenade for spectators; meeting under the verandas of the hotel. Good motoring roads give access to scores of beautiful little villages, some of them, in the Evangeline country, full of historic incident and tragedy. Here too, the modern artist will often meet the old-world air so vain taking its leisurely way down the country road. Lastly, there is hand-spring dive into the Pines Hotel Pool; Evangeline country showing church and statue at Grand Pre; and section of course at St. Andrews.

The fourth annual church parade of the 40th Battalion Association will be held in Edmonton on Sunday, July 20th next. The parade will assemble on the Hippie Square at 10 a.m. and will move off precisely at 10:30 a.m. All ranks will "Fall in" in their former companies.

Dress—Civilian clothes will be worn with medals and decorations.

The service will be held on Parliament Hill Park, out of doors, so that all relatives and friends of the members may have an opportunity of taking part in the service.

A luncheon, to which friends and relatives may be brought has been arranged at a reasonable price to take place at 12 noon in the Rose Room of the King Edward Hotel.

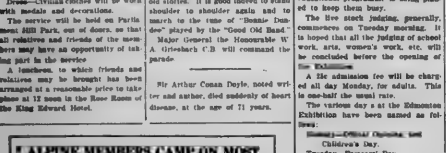
Special rates on the railways of a fare and one-third for the round trip for the Edmonton Exhibition will be in force if purchased between July 11th and July 19th for trains reaching Edmonton not later than 2 p.m. July 19th.

Every man who at any time served in the 40th Battalion C.E.F. is eligible to attend this parade and is urged to do so. Old "Overs" will meet old friends and comrades they have not seen for years. Old times, old friends, old stories. It is good indeed to stand shoulder to shoulder again and to march to the tune of "Bonnie Dundee" played by the "Good Old Band."

Major General the Honourable W. A. Griesbach C.B. will command the parade.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, noted writer and author, died suddenly of heart disease, at the age of 71 years.

"ALPINE MEMBERS CAMP ON MOST BEAUTIFUL LAKE IN ROCKIES"



WHERE year by year increasing thousands are turning to it for rest and recreation, finding beauty in the glorious ranges and by its exquisite lakes restored stores of joy and health, Jasper National Park will be visited this summer by Alpinists to the 26th Annual Camp of Alpine Club of Canada, in the Maligne region, July 26th to August 10th. Mountain climbers from all over the United States, United States, many of whom will have their wives—or husbands—with them in attendance, as will also a number of distinguished ladies attending the British Medical Association Convention in Winnipeg, to an hotel to make the "rest camp" the experience is interest.

To reach the main camp, the party will be conveyed from Jasper town or Jasper Park Lodge by motor car to Medicine Lake, about 30 miles; to the upper end of this lake via motor boat, and from there to Maligne Lake a distance of about 9 miles, on foot, although a limited number of riding ponies will be available between the two lakes.

The main camp will be pitched close to the mouth of Cornice Creek at the south end of Maligne Lake, directly behind the camp, looms the mountainous walls of Mount Warren (10,000 feet). The most unique of this peak was made by Miss M. Bateman and William Ainsworth in 1923, who, from their camp at the mouth of Warren Creek, at the southeast corner of the lake, also made the ascent of the Thumb (9,000 feet); also of Mt. Florence (9,750 feet). These ascents can be made from the main camp, but with the assistance of a motor boat the peaks can be considerably shortened. The double ascent of Mount Mary Vaux (10,350 feet) and Mt. Sawtier, Mt. Lyyyfran (9,000 feet), will be a popular expedition for beginners. To the northwest, another large group of mountains will claim the attention of the mountaineers, Mt. Leah and Mt. Sampson, impressive rock massifs. Directly opposite them rise Mts. Charlton and Unwin, topping all other peaks in the region and heavily draped in snow and ice. Directly south of these two summits rises Amery's Mt. Julian, climbed by him and Edouard Feys last August for the first time.

In order to climb mountains too distant to be reached from the Main Camp an auxiliary camp will be placed at the head of Coronet Creek, seven six miles away, and food here necessary will be made to Mt. Brazeau (11,250 feet), Mt. Valad, Mt. Henry MacLeod (10,000 feet), Coronet Peak (10,000 feet), and other unnamed peaks. There are many minor expeditions for those whose tastes lean to less strenuous activities. Trips to places bearing such fascinating names as Opal Range, Fryatt, Poet Valley and the Fall of the Veil of Tears are being considered.

The new Memorial Hut at Poncho Creek, in Tonquin Valley, not far from Surprise Point, will be ready for members shortly before Camp. It is about twenty-five miles from Jasper, this town of which can be traveled by motor on the Edith Cavell highway and the balance by trail. It is an excellent climbing centre and many members will visit this wonderful region.

Edmonton Exhibition Opens Monday Next

All roads will lead to Edmonton the week of July 14th to 19th, when the big annual Exhibition is on, in to Capital City.

A. E. Warren, vice president of the Canadian National Railways, Western Lines, will officially open the 32nd annual Edmonton Exhibition on Monday, July 14th. The gates will be opened to the public on Monday at noon, and the general programme will be varied from day to day. On Tuesday and Wednesday, the Cat Show will be held, with the Dog show on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. CHAPTER XIX.—Continued

Charmian nodded, took the scrap of paper and stubby pencil he was holding, and wrote it down.

"I never was much good at remembering addresses," declared the doctor. "Here it is. Annie. Run to cookie, or you'll take cold."

The small girl who had followed him from the house, grasped the paper in her cold hands, and with a shy smile for Charmian, scurried away like a half-frightened animal.

"They must be very poor," said Charmian as the doctor took his place beside her. "What does that woman want with Jimmie's address?"

She was thinking: Could it be possible that Jim was still collecting interest, at this distance? The thought hurt incredibly. For the sake of said lung eyes and her peace of mind, she wanted to think better of him than that. But how could she if. . . .

She turned to look at the old doctor. He seemed to have had her thoughts as he responded: "There is a verse in the Bible, Charmian, that says: 'When thou dost alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth.' That describes as well as anything could, I think, Jim Bennett's character. Seeing him going about the country on the bank's business the most of the time, the 'job' they've ever had, according to George K., one wouldn't suspect that he was wearing the cloak of the Good Samaritan, now would they?"

"I—I don't seem to understand."

The doctor smiled at her bewilderment.

"Why should you? If I didn't follow pretty closely on Jim's heels, I wouldn't understand, myself. Like as not he'd pound the life out of me for telling; but that doesn't scare me a—with the boy three thousand miles away! You see, my dear, Jim's father left considerable property. Jim came into his share at twenty-one, and he earns a good salary at the bank. He's well fixed—for Wickfield. No tie save his mother, and she's provided for."

The old man paused, while Charmian urged impatiently: "Go on, please. Doctor, You're wandering all 'round Robin Hood's barn.' You say that Jim is a good Samaritan; but if collecting interest from widows and orphans—"

"Tut! tut!" broke in the doctor quickly. "You go too fast. I think you'd admit that Jim's a fine hand in collecting interest from the poor, my child, and paying that interest for them, lending a hand—helping a lame dog over a stile, you know—leaning one's own money with no interest. That's what our Jim's been doing for five years whenever he came across a case deserving help. That woman wanted his address so she could send a Christmas card."

"Oh, no" cried Charmian.

This was the doctor understood, not a protest at the Christmas card, but at her own blindness. She had to set her firm white teeth into her lip in order to keep it steady. "I must have hurt him horribly," she confessed after a tense moment. "I was a fool! I didn't see. I asked, if he felt like—like Shylock!"

There came a silence; then the doctor said: "Yes- that would 'have hurt.'"

"He should have told me," cried Charmian, grasping at this straw in self-defense.

"How could he—being Jim? You had maligned him," responded the old man with rugged honesty.

"I shall never, never forgive myself!" she declared passionately.

The doctor smiled.

"Perhaps not; but Jim will forgive you, child, if I know him as I think I do. There! Charmian, don't be too much distressed. Just drop the lad a line and say you understand."

"But will he understand?" asked the girl, raising unhappy eyes to her old friend. "I should think he'd despise me."

"Not Jim!" answered the doctor. "Come, child, cheer up. We're almost home, and I don't want Grandma to think that I've been scolding you."

Charmian managed a misty smile as she replied: "I deserve more than a scolding. I—I ought to be—lynched!" And they both laughed as they drew up before the window where Grandma was waiting.

"So you've had a ride?" she asked as the girl came in.

"Yes, Grandma." It's a terribly cold day. The doctor's run in three times from the office to look at the furnace. I wish I was young enough to marry that man, Charmian, just to keep him in the family. Some one'll get him." "Tadaboddy."

Charmian smiled, but as she slipped off her coat and sought the register she warmed her recent conversation on the subject of John Carter come back, and her color deepened.

"Yes, I was warm enough, Grandma, thanks to Doctor Howe's odd 'faithful,' an Jim calls that ancient housekeeper of his. Enough to marry that man, Charmian, just to keep him in the family. Some one'll get him." "Tadaboddy."

Charmian smiled, but as she slipped off her coat and sought the register she warmed her recent conversation on the subject of John Carter come back, and her color deepened.

"Yes, I was warm enough, Grandma, thanks to Doctor Howe's odd 'faithful,' an Jim calls that ancient housekeeper of his. Enough to marry that man, Charmian, just to keep him in the family. Some one'll get him." "Tadaboddy."

"Who on?" asked Grandma with interest. "The real sick woman's just beginning."

"The Smithsons. The mother has been sick in bed for a week, and the father's all thumbs when he's needed."

"Poor soul!" murmured Grandma compassionately. "She must have a real hard time making both ends meet. You ought to carry her something good to eat, child, while she's laid up. I don't suppose there's any one to do for her but Edward Howe, though she won't have to worry about here doctor's bill! Sometimes I've wondered how she's managed to keep a roof over her head, left as she was with all those children."

"I'll tell you how," said Charmian and proceeded to divulge Jim's secret in her voice trembled as she finished, not wishing to spare herself: "And I asked him, Grandma, if he didn't feel like Shylock! I remembered he answered, 'Why on earth should I?' and that made me mad. Oh, I do think I'm the stupidest girl in the whole world! It does seem, when I've known Jim Bennett all my life, as if I might have understood that he wouldn't be hard-hearted to a sick kitten!"

She had sunk down on a hassock at Grandma's feet, and the old lady reached out and stroked her hair.

"There there, child, Jim isn't one to bear a grudge. You put write him a real nice letter and say you're sorry. And that reminds me of something else. Jim was here one day when you were out. He wanted I should make you understand something after he got away, and the only times I've thought of it were when you were at school, or evenings when the doctor was in and I couldn't speak. It was about his mother and that queer old lady business that's always bothered you. He said he'd tried to explain to you, but somehow he couldn't get it out, so he came to me I guess maybe it's easier to talk to old folk. You see I'm safe.

The girl looked up, breathless, as Grandma, finishing Jim's story, said: "He wanted me a honor, that I'd get myself, Charmian, and ask any promises of you when my time comes it'll be because I don't know what I'm doing, and you mustn't feel called upon to keep 'em. James Bennett never was much given to fuss, but he did him a sight o' good. I've an idea that Jimmy's a lot more sensible than folks give him credit for being."

"I—I don't see why he finds it so difficult to talk to me," said Charmian, a vague hurt tugging at her throat.

"I do," replied Grandma. "It's for two reasons. One's because he felt you didn't understand him, and the other's because he cares such a heap more for you, dearie, than you've ever cared for him. I declare, Charmian, so long as you don't seem to want the boy yourself, I hope he'll meet some nice girl out in California, and marry her. He'll look different to a girl who hasn't seen him in short pants! Jimmy Bennett for Fuller's brook, and his toes tied up afterwards in rags because he'd stepped on a broken bottle or something more romantic maybe."

A reluctant laugh escaped the girl as she arose.

"Well, Grandma, I feel like a criminal; but I suppose we've got to eat to live, and nothing's going to help that everything's ready. You and John will have to play double Canfield this evening instead of bridge. I've got to write to Jim, or I shan't be able to sleep a wink. I feel," she added, turning in the doorway reached the door, "I feel just about one inch high!"

CHAPTER XX.

What ails our 'Blessed Damozel' these days?"

Grandma and the young doctor were dining their noon-day meal at the kitchen table. Christmas had come and gone, and Wickfield had settled down to the cold, hard, relentless winter months. For three weeks snow had fallen at frequent intervals, freezing almost as soon as it reached the ground, so that the roads and sidewalks were packed. Grandma had expressed a wish that, despite the cold, they might stay that way till spring because the walk to school was so much easier on the hard snow than through the slush and mud that accompanied warmer days. She had refused the doctor's offer of a ride, and, feeling vaguely troubled, Grandma had watched her out of sight. Something was wrong.

John Carter's question, therefore, came as a relief, giving her an opportunity to speak her thoughts. Yet she smiled at his manner of putting it, though the young M.D. had addressed her granddaughter in a like manner many times since a day in August when he had driven into the yard to find her leaning from his own bedroom window, the sun making an aureole of her hair as he had stepped the car directly below her, and stared up in admiration as he said

"You look like the blessed damozel."

"Her eyes were deeper than the depth
Of waters stilled at even
She had three lilies in her hand
And the star's in her hair were seven."

Did you do it purposely?

Shirmina still leaning on the window sill, glanced down at the faded lilies in her hand, and answered "Not guilty. As you perceive I have been gathering. I went into the garden to let the sun bend a hand at the drying, and picked these poles for a centre piece for the table. This accounts for my invasion of your domain, but your imagination is vivid, Doctor John. Where, please are the seven stars to adorn my hair?"

Descends To Great Depth

A new deep sea diving record is claimed for William Beebe of the New York Zoological Society's oceanographic expedition, who descended 3,028 feet beneath the surface at Hamilton Bermuda in a steel ball with fused quartz windows. The lowest depth previously attained was 325 feet. The steel sphere contained an oxygen supply and was fitted with apparatus to absorb the exhaled air.

In Class By Herself

University Of Montreal Graduates First Woman Doctor With Honors

The first woman to be enrolled in the faculty of medicine of the University of Montreal, affirmed her primacy by out-distancing all her male comferres, and carrying off the highest honors of her class, when she received her degree as a doctor at the convention. She was literally in a class by herself, since the list was headed "Class A—Miss Martha Pelland, with highest distinction," her name standing alone in this category. With true chivalry, her class mates gave her a rousing ovation when she was called up to receive her degree.

In the same year as Dr. Pelland began her course in medicine, a friend Miss Juliette Gauthier enrolled at the University of Montreal as a law student. Miss Gauthier, who had an excellent record as a student, received the University degree of LL.D. Although in academic real, they enjoyed equal status, their positions now is another story. Dr. Pelland may, and proposes to practice her profession, which she is entitled to do, without restriction, but her confrere, Miss Gauthier, will be obliged to rest on her University laurels until the battle to have women admitted to the Bar in Quebec is won.

Mariners Trying To Ascertain How Far Bottles May Drift In the Ocean

How far bottles may drift in the ocean is a question for which mariners have recently been trying to obtain a satisfactory answer. The unusually long drifting records have already been reported to the hydrographic office in Washington. In this case the bottle had traveled nearly one-third the distance around the world, or a little more than 7 500 miles.

One bottle, thrown overboard in the North Atlantic near Europe by an officer of the Norwegian steamer "Thlidar" was picked up near the Marshall Islands. The second, dropped in the same locality from the American steamship "K R Kingsbury," drifted 7 000 miles.

The longest bottle drift in the records of the office was made about twenty years ago. A bottle was thrown into the sea on May 31, 1900, and was picked up nearly three years later on May 18, 1912 after travelling 11 470 statute miles

No Food Has Been Found To Take Place Of Milk

Milk is the food of all foods for mammals of whom man is the chief Further it is the only food actually designed and evolved by nature to be food for them. It is, of course merely lack of knowledge to regard milk as not a food because it does n- a liquid In reality, it is solid in the breast and in the stomach, in nature it is only fluid for a second or two of convenient transit from one to the other

Optimally we do not test our foods this diet is mixed and we have a large factor of safety upon which to draw during time of debilitating There are four periods however during which food may really be tested growth with birth exercise, illness and old age And no other food can be suggested which remotely approaches milk when tested under these four conditions

STONE — SMITH

The Heatherbell school, daintily decorated with wild roses and summer flowers, was the setting of a pretty wedding ceremony at half-past seven o'clock on Wednesday evening, July 2nd, when marriage vows were exchanged between Elizabeth Smith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Smith, of Saltcap, and Alexander George Stone, only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Stone of Cummings.

To the strains of the wedding march by Lohengrin, played by Mrs. J Young, contralto, the bridal party entered the school. Rev. Mr. Hart of the United Church, Manville, performed the ceremony under a canopy of pink and white streamers and wedding bells. The bride made a charming picture in a frock of pink flat crepe, with smart hat. She carried a bouquet of ophelia roses. Miss Agnes Irving as bridesmaid wore a gown of peach georgette and carried pink and white carnations. Mr. T. Smith, brother of the bride, was best man.

During the signing of the register Miss Dorothy Hetherington sang very sweetly "Ai Dawning."

Following the ceremony a buffet supper was served to about seventy guests. The bride's table was centred with the three-tier wedding cake and lit with the glow of tall pink candles in silver candelabra.

For travelling, the bride wore black flat crepe. She was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace; to the bridesmaid a white gold pin set with amethysts, to the best man a fountain pen.

Mr and Mrs. Stone left for Banff and the coast cities, where they will spend their honeymoon, after which they will return to Cummings to make their home.

WELLSDALE ANGLICAN FIELD

The W. A. met at the home of Mrs. Gordon on Thursday, fourteen members being present. It was decided at the meeting to hold the picnic at Half lake on July 23rd.

The Clandonald Sunday schools, Anglican and United, picnic will be held on Wednesday, July 16th at Half Lake.

STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!

In an English Illustrated paper there appeared a picture of a roadside ambulance station with First Aid workers in charge and business-like nurses in uniform. It was at a corner of one of the busiest roads in the world—the much-travelled road to Epsom on Derby Day. Seeing the need, the British health authorities prepared to meet it in the usually effective British manner.

One would wish that every Albertan would take note of the following figures and determine that they will be reduced, and that he and his will have a hand in helping so to do.

In 1929, seventy-one people in this province met their death in auto accidents, and in the previous year Alberta was third of all the provinc s in the death rate from autos. Last year she was in fifth place (three accidents in the city of Edmonton took toll of human life as follows: Fatal accidents in 1926, seven in 1927; eight in 1928 and ten in 1929. Going up. In an uncertain measure, every year, until we shall be having the inevitable record of the United States, where the rate was 23 per 100,000 of the population.

Schools and homes and churches must all unite in the efforts to make life of supreme value. Children must be protected from their own impetuosity, and taught to take time to consider the grave issues—death itself or a maimed body during life. One of the interesting feature exhibits at the Red Cross Health Booths at the Alberta fairs this year will be a model of a level-crossing accident where the race was not to the swift, and the supreme prize was paid. It is well worthy of the attention of every visitor to the Fairs, and is entitled "Stop, Look and Listen."

Literature on Safety First and First Aid is available free from Head Office Red Cross Society, 407 Civic Block, Edmonton.

BROWNE NOTES

During the holidays our meetings will take the form of short hikes and nature work. For the next meeting we will meet outside the English church. Bring a small lunch — just enough so that you won't get hungry during the hike.

Last week we met at the home of Brown Owl and from there went to the lake camp. After we got back we played games until six o'clock.

ROADS GETTING BETTER ALL THE TIME

All the main roads of the town have now been given the once over and those around the business blocks graveled. First street north was the latest addition to the improved roads, being re-graded, re-ditched and the low spots filled in with gravel. The roads are now the equal or superior of any found in the towns between here and Edmonton, from experience, and no doubt we could take in a much larger comparison area.

SEVENTH ANNUAL PICNIC FOR THE DEAF JULY 9th.

The seventh annual picnic for the deaf was held at Vermilion on Wednesday afternoon, July 9th on the banks of the Vermilion river. Over fifty were present, including the deaf and their friends. The time was spent in games and visiting. Bathing also played a great part in the program. Suitable prizes were distributed to the older contests to the deaf alone in memory of another happy day.

After a hearty supper, which was a spread second to none, a short programme was enjoyed in which Mr W. H. Williams acted as chairman. Mr Geo Law gave an address both in speech and signs. This was replied to by Mr H. Thomas.

The affair was concluded with a tug-of-war in which the ladies beat the men, but after a hard battle the men woke up to their position and won the honor of the day.

The families represented were as follows: Labouceme, from Maughan; Berchuk, Willingdon; Bokensky, Willingdon; Childs, California; Baker, Vermilion, Williams, Vermilion; Thomas, Manville; Brett, Dewberry; Hardy, Irma; Sokiuki, Irma; Robinson, Vermilion; Law, Vermilion.

Some of the above had come 90 miles for the occasion, and expressed their desire of coming again in another year.

FIRE ALARM MONDAY NIGHT

A short circuit in the gasoline tank lighting fixture at Vermilion Messers was the cause of a fire alarm Monday evening at 9 p.m. Smoke was pouring out of every opening in the big gas pump, while some 100 gallons of gasoline in the tank underneath made it rather delicate job to tackle. The fire boys went after it with a will, however and the trouble was soon located and remedied, while every vestige of fire was subdued.

A World Subject of Discussion

The whole civilized world is discussing one subject today. Tariffs And Its Effects—writers who are the most highly educated, where the standard of living is the highest, and where the most efficient methods of production are followed—are the ones who are the most in the discussion is most keen. Why, then, should we, in Canada, be afraid to discuss it?

Farmers a year and a half ago the United States has been in the throes of a most-terrible struggle over the new Hawley-Smoot tariff the effect of which is to raise duties against all other countries to a height never before attained

In Great Britain Lord Beaverbrook, supported by his fellow publisher, Lord Rothermere, is engaged in a great campaign of publicity with the object of forcing upon the British people into support of a new fiscal system, including a protective tariff. Whether or not these men are sincere in their advocacy of protection, whether they are working in the interests of

Monster Mushroom Found On Moore Farm

Weighed 18 Ounces, With Diameter of 12 Inches

A perfect mushroom of the most [illegible] variety was brought into the office last Saturday afternoon by Campbell Moore, and to say that it startled the editor and staff would be putting it mildly. The mushroom was found by Mr W J Moore on his farm just east of town. It was a perfect specimen in shape, color and condition, with slightly oval top, rolled edges and a fine pink underneath, but it was the size that drew the attention. A diameter of 12 inches and circumference of over 20 inches, with a weight of 18 ounces is worthy of note and those were the measurements of this mushroom. The only disappointing part of the incident was that Campbell took it away with him [illegible]

Four Thousand Attend Centenary And Sports

Vermilion Orangemen and Ladies Celebrate "Glorious Twelfth"

Led by Harry C. Gates as King William, bearing aloft the Union Jack, representatives of twenty lodges in the country from the Saskatchewan river to the Wainwright railroad line, marched in a monster parade from the Arena around the main streets of the town to the Agricultural grounds. Here the "glorious twelfth," anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, was celebrated with a big sports day. Fine weather, with a gentle breeze and a bright sun completed a perfect setting for the Orange day. Both the Vermilion and Wainwright bands were in attendance.

At the fair grounds a long program of sports, speeches and platform attractions were carried out for the entertainment of old and young alike. Meals and light refreshments of all kinds were sold on the grounds.

The speakers of the day were Grand Master A. E. Williams who acted as chairman; His Worship Mayor Pelow who extended a welcome to visitors from outside points to Vermilion; Rev. A. R. Nash of Rainy River, Ont., and formerly of Manville, who impressed all by his quiet decisive manner, and pointed facts backed up by solid proofs; Mr. Disley of the North Vermilion United church field, and R. C. Snelgrove, well known from previous meetings here.

The platform attractions included a fife and drum contest won by Messrs. Cunningham and Bruce; two exhibitions by Stanford Espedal and his school boy acrobatics who delighted all with their clever stunts; and two sleight of hand performances by Mr E. Ruff, local magician, who made a decided hit with the large gathering.

The oldest Orangeman on parade was also introduced from the platform, being Mr. McLimlin of Manville who has been an Orangeman for sixty-two years.

SPORTS

The baseball tourney in which three teams participated—both winners and losers getting a share of the money—resulted in Chadonadd capturing 1st and Vermilion 2nd. Asheradde was the third team playing. Marwayne was also entered but failed to turn up.

Harry Gates' chestnut won the harness horse race against three local entries. Messrs. Leveille and Dish each captured the horse shoe tournament

In the athletic events, Carman Long of Vermilion, Mary Lloydminster and Allen of the same town proved the big winners, while every young sister participating in the juvenile events was given a "nickel."

The Jitney dance at night was well attended and seemingly thoroughly enjoyed, 12 o'clock midnight bringing a great day to a close. Some 4000 people thronged the grounds when festivities were at their height.

Many Attractions At Vermilion's Big Fair

Something To Please Everyone

This year the directors of the Vermilion Fair are endeavoring to make the program of attractions as diversified as possible, so that everyone will find their choice in the large variety offered. In addition to first-class grandstand platform attractions, and the general appeal of the Midway, the Fair board have provided many additional features for the three days, Thursday, July 31st, the first day of the Fair, has been devoted to Juvenile sports: baseball, basketball, etc., and on this day all the public school children of the Vermilion district will be the guests of the Fair board, as many time have attractions tickets have been distributed to the youngsters to date.

The second day, Friday, August 1st, horse racing has been made the extra attraction, and on the last day, Saturday, Aug. 2nd, an open baseball tourney will be played, and will be worked out on the plan that both winning and losing teams share in the distribution of the prizes.

Just for good measure, every evening of the fair will see a jitney dance in full swing in the pavilion on the grounds, and a big fireworks display is also scheduled for one of the evenings. Taking all in all the Vermilion Exhibition board have this year planned the greatest list of attractions ever, and a program that is bound to please everyone and provide them with variety every hour of the three day fair.

Will Explore Arctic Region

Youthful Scientist To Spend Year in the North

Fifteen youthful explorers, whose average age is only 23 years, sailed from London recently aboard the expedition ship "Quest" for a year's exploration of the arctic regions. Their work will be done on the lecovered sketches of Greenland and Iceland. The purpose of the voyage, which is under the auspices of the Royal Geographical Society, is to obtain information with a view to establishing an air route from England to North America across the Arctic regions, with only 300 miles over the sea. H C Watkins, 23-year-old explorer, is leader of the expedition. His fourteen companions are all about the same age, and each is a specialist.

Watkins made a scientific exploration of Labrador last year, and of Spitsbergen the year before. The expedition will establish a base on the south-eastern coast of Greenland and a second on one of the ice caps, 8,000 feet above sea level. From there they will make notes on meteorological conditions in connection with flying

The hold of the "Quest" was packed with a year's food supply, including a keel for the boat and the dogs which will be picked up at the Faroe Islands. Two airplanes two speed motor launches and several delicate meteor-logical instruments furnished by the government were included in the equipment

A pampered passenger is a young turkey who is doomed to be served for the explorers' Christmas dinner

Reports here said that if the data gathered proves the feasibility of the flights, a local flight will be made and Canada will be asked to make a similar survey on the western side of the American continent

Scotland's War Memorial

Not Even the Humblest Worker Has Been Forgotten

No one seems to be forgotten in Scotland's wonderful war memorial which is built on the Rock of Edinburgh.

There it stands glowering with the carved and colored bulges of every nationality that was served in the Great War While in bronze friezes or stained-glass windows, sailors, artillerymen, airmen, chaplains, nurses and other workers are depicted. Even birds and beasts have their memorials.

Carved on the walls are the words "Remember, also the humble beasts that served and died." Over the commemorations framing the hands of a horse, a mule, a camel, a message from the fighting animals with a cage of carrier pigeons and a group of canaries and mice inscribed, "The humblest French," because these little creatures are used underground where their swift collapse when the air becomes poisonous is a warning to men

Not even the humblest worker has been forgotten in the memorial to men and men who planned the building.

In the shrine is a block of marble set on the rock which rises through the floor, and on this block is a casket given by the King and Queen containing the illuminated roll of honor of every Scotsman who fell in the war. It is a place of pilgrimage to Scotsmen all over the world. One busy place where the boldest heroes and the humblest creatures are all remembered together

Canadian Coke

During the past few years there has been such a marked increase in the use of coke for domestic purposes in Canada that this fuel bids fair to become a serious rival of anthracite, which has long been regarded as the standard fuel for this purpose, at least in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec

3444

IT'S SMART AND WEARABLE

It has the smartly belted waistline like the grown-ups are wearing, that achieves a pinched-in effect.

A large yellow bone button attracts attention to the tab closing of bodice with interlacing cap sleeves.

The back is quite straight and slender.

Style No. 3444 is simplicity itself to make. It can be had in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. For the miss of 8 years, 1½ yards of 36-inch material with ¼ yard of 36-inch contrasting is sufficient to copy it correctly.

Two one-piece skirt is merely pressed into box-pleat effect and attached to the bodice. Patch pockets, attached of edge of plaits, secure a snug pocket, to keep the hands slender.

It's so attractive in white cotton broadcloth printed in color that polka-dots with crop sleeves, belt and pockets of plain blue.

Rivaling the stunning in opal-pink shade.

Plain silks in baby blue or baby pink tones is just the cutest idea ever that combines to be really popular this summer for beach and country wear.

The green and white paper print worn with green leather belt is smart. Checked gingham with brown stripe is men's cotton shirting fabric is very effective in such crop sleeves and pockets cut on the bias and worn with brown leather belt.

Printed chintz, printed handkerchief linen and gingham checks also appropriate

Price 25 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

A Remarkable Record

Seven Hundred London Firms in Business For Century Or More

It will be a surprise to Londoners to learn that their great city boasts no fewer than seven hundred firms which have been in business for one hundred years or more When we consider how easily businesses change hands, how they fail into decay through a change of fashion or the coming of new inventions, how families die out and how the younger generation feels ever the urge to make fresh woods and pastures new, it is a remarkable and praiseworthy record of industrious enterprise.

Although we may be interested in many things we stand loyally by our prejudices.

Takes First Glider Lesson

Prince Of Wales Coached By Famous German Pilot

The Prince of Wales has taken his first glider lesson.

The lesson was given near Leweston, in Dorset, by Robert Kronfeld, a German, who is reputed to be the world's champion glider pilot. It occasioned chiefly of a demonstration as how to operate the glider, and it was understood the prince did not actually pilot the ship.

The prince long has been an enthusiastic aviator and is reputed to be an excellent pilot, although for reasons of state he is never permitted to make solo flights. He always is accompanied on his flights by one of the best Royal Air Force pilots, but the prince handles the controls except when taking off or landing on strange or difficult landing fields.

Lent Appointment

Four Men Keep Tryst Started 21 Years Ago

Keeping a tryst started 21 years ago, four men met in Trafalgar Square, London, England, on a recent night. In 1899 six young decorative artists, H. J. Wilkinson, W. Donald, G. Clifton, E. Bite, Brown and Edwards, were notified that the studio in which they worked was to be razed. They then made a vow to meet once a year. This year only Mansfield, Donald, Clifton and Bite were able to attend, but the two absent ones sent telegraphic greetings to their friends.

Agricultural Conventions

Efforts will be made to bring as many large agricultural conventions as possible to the west at the time of the Western Canada Irrigation Conference, in Regina, in 1922. According to a decision at a committee session, each convention will be invited to meet directly prior to or following the above, in cities other than Regina. Saskatoon will thus be able to attend Regina session.

MOSES "A COURAGEOUS LEADER"

Golden Text: "By faith he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king; for he endured, as seeing Him who is invisible."—Hebrews 11:27.

Lesson: Exodus 1:8-14; 2:1-10; 3, 1-14; 11:1-10; 12:36-38; Deuteronomy 34:1-6; Hebrews 11:23-29.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 90, 13-17.

Explanations and Comments

The Call Of Moses, verses 1-10. — The summons to become the leader of his people, deliver them from oppression in Egypt and bring them forth on their way to the Promised Land, came to Moses as, in his care of the flock of his father-in-law, Jethro, the priest of Midian, he wandered from the back of the wilderness (that is, the west; the east is always the front), to Horeb, the mountain of God. There before the bush that burned and yet was not consumed the lonely herd God speaking to him. Just as the account of the temptation of Christ is left to darkness some have come from Christ Himself, and in his pictorial way of portraying His inner experience, so the account of the call of Moses in the wilderness must have been told by Moses himself, and may have been given to him in this pictorial way. The burning bush was the divine assignment representation of an inward spiritual experience of realization for a great cause. Be that as it may, it is assuredly true that the wilderness was the very best divine origin of the glowing beauty of the bush; he was able to see God in the things of everyday life.

Moses stood before an ordinary bush, and he became aware of God; Jeremiah stood before a basket of almond tree while all around was dead, and he became aware of God; Wordsworth stood before a little primrose on a rock, and it became to him the court of the Deity" "J H. Jowett.

Draw not nigher; put off thy shoes (sandals) from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground." Revell Jacobs' sense of God's presence at Bethel and the sanctity of the place.

But only he who sees, takes off his shoes;
The rest sit round it and pluck blackberries.

Mrs Browning.

With a new flash of insight Moses knew that God was calling him to a stupendous task, that it was God's will that he should return to Egypt and accomplish the deliverance of the enslaved Israelites. All this is expressed in the words of verse 7-9.

"Since the hair itself appears to have been plucked out by the roots," was the gallant response, "their absence is not noticeable."

"You are a born flatterer," declared Charmian, and turned away, thereby transforming what had been "the gold bar of heaven" into a plain New England window sill!

But the doctor liked his fancy, and Grandma, who had become accustomed to the appellation, merely smiled. Then her face sobered, and she replied: "You've noticed it, too, sonny?"

He nodded, saying thoughtfully: "Something's gone out of her. For lack of a better word we'll call it pep. She seems on edge. Last night I ventured to ask if she didn't feel well, and—she took my head off!"

He grinned at the memory, while Grandma chuckled as she admitted: "Sometimes I wish that way, Charmaine's a good girl, but she's so mild, and I'm glad of it. She's human like all the Darrows. I'll tell you what's the matter, Doctor, but you mustn't ever let on I spoke of it. It's Jimmy Bennett."

John Carter didn't suspect that Grandma's wise old eyes were watching to see how this would strike him. His head tilted suddenly, as if her words surprised him, and he stood so for a moment that way.

Here and There

(Met)

Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, president of the Japanese House of Peers, and his son, Hon. Iyemoto Tokugawa, Japanese Minister to Canada, met recently on board Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia. The Prince was on his way to London to attend the Inter-Parliamentary Conference and took the opportunity to use his son who had come to Victoria from Ottawa to meet him.

Looping into shark-infested waters in the China Sea halfway between Hong Kong and Shanghai, Carpenter Tom Ellworthy, of the S.S. Empress of Russia, saved the life of Mrs Mukaroff, passenger on the ship who had jumped over-board in a fit of dementia. The woman strongly resisted efforts to rescue her and 4th Engineer Dean went to Ellworthy's assistance, the two men succeeding in bringing her back aboard ship after long and exhausting struggles.

Boasting the world's record in passenger traffic operations, Western Canada comes into the limelight this year with the 1382 mile reinforcement run from Port William to Calgary of the Canadian Pacific locomotive number 2804. A number of locomotives of this class are now being built by the railway, equipped with rotary-bearing tenders which will still further facilitate engine operations on long runs.

The season's first climb of Mt. Temple, 11,660-foot peak in the Rockies, was made last week by Dr Thorington, well-known Philadelphia walkhorn writer and Alpinist, and W. Kerr, of Vancouver. Edward Feuz, dayon of Swiss guides in the Rockies, was in charge of the climb which started out from Chateau Lake Louise at three in the morning and reached the summit at ten.

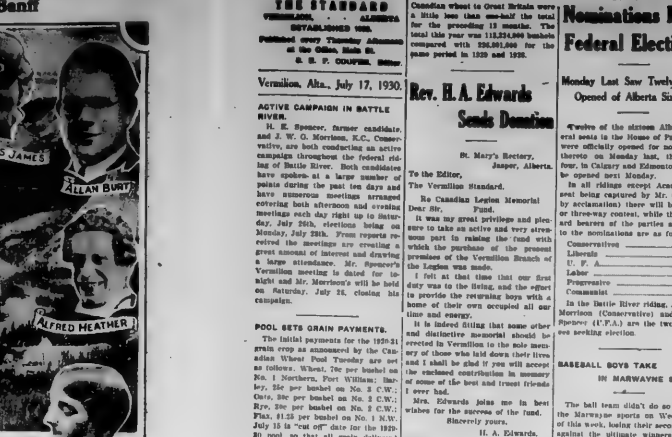
With the opening of the New Penn Hotel at Derby and of the Algonquin Hotel at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea at the end of June, the tourist season in the Maritime Provinces is now in full swing. Reservations at both hotels are very heavy, forecasting a prosperous season.

Difficulties met by Canadian and United States motorists when taking their cars to Europe have been overcome by facilities afforded by the Canadian Pacific Railway, under which the owner can ship his car as baggage between Canada and European points in either direction. The company arranges for all necessary customs and registration documents for every country to be visited, during its route. Sailings and membership in the Royal Automobile Club, the motor is unloaded within an hour of the ship's arrival and is furnished with oil and a small supply of gasoline and made ready for the road. There is no red-tape and no bond or other financial guarantee required.

Delivered to be the largest salmon ever taken by fly on the Medway River, Cape Breton, when Lindsay Musgrove Club guide, took a fish recently that weighed 32 lbs., was 42 inches long and with a girth of 21 inches. The fish has been photographed for reproduction in the Saturday Evening Post.

The railway grade crossing problem is not a problem of the railway's making but essentially a "social problem" and responsibility for its solution rests upon society as a whole, in the opinion of W. F. Borland, Chief of the Bureau of Safety, United States Interstate Commerce Commission.

Opera Season at Banff



Twice a week during July and August, the Light Opera Company of Alfred Heather has been engaged to play at the Banff Springs Hotel. A very wide variety of operas will be produced including Gilbert and Sullivan, eighteenth century comedies and light and ballad operas by Canadian writers and composers on Canadian subjects.

Among the artists playing are Alfred Heather, widely known as the original Pish in "The Beggar's Opera," a work which is among those to be played Amy Fleming, contralto, and Enid Gray, mezzo.

MUNICIPAL DIST. REPRE. SENTATIVES MEET HERE

Representatives from the various municipal districts in this portion of Alberta lying in the territory between Vegreville and Lloydminster are in convention at Vermilion this afternoon. General matters effecting the interests of the municipalities will be dealt with. Two very important questions, it is understood, before the gathering and around which it is anticipated much discussion will centre are unemployment and old age pensions.

Arrangements have been completed whereby the arrival in Canada of the R-100, Britain's huge airliner, will be broadcast throughout Canada and the United States by the Trans-Canada Broadcasting Company and the National Broadcasting Company, according to announcement recently made by R. W. Ashcroft, manager of the former company. The official broadcast, which includes the arrival of the ship and attendant ceremonies, will be carried from coast to coast of the Dominion over the new radio programme broadcasting transmission system of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's enterprise.

Welcoming the latest addition to the Canadian Pacific Railway's fleet of 19 passenger vessels on ocean and coastal service in British Columbia, Vancouver recently congratulated the railway on its initiative and foresight in building upon the west coast of Canada a service second to none, on the occasion of the arrival of the "Princess Elizabeth" at the Pacific port. The sister ship, "Princess Joan" arrived at Victoria the following day. The "Elizabeth" was welcomed by the Mayor of Vancouver.

GRANDSTAND ATTRACTION VERMILION FAIR, July 31, Aug. 1-2

DILLY LORETTE

If slapstick, laughs and guffaws mean anything aboard building up the reputation of a circus clown, then Billy Lorette, merriest of the big tent "Jays", who has been associated with the Vermilion Exhibition, should rate in a class by himself. Lorette, minus the customary grease paint, is more closely associated with all circuses, can go into the "blues" or a circus, or into the grandstand at a Fair, and garner more real laughs—the "real kind" varied—than any other man in his line of the show business. All he needs is a frayed cigar, an old faded police uniform, a make-up that turned him less than a minute to apply, and that inimitable smile (these thin this, his sole stock in trade is his ready wit, a kind of wit that has made millions laugh in every spot in the country where circuses have pitched their white tops.

Not only is Lorette one of the few nationally known circuses and comedians of this generation with all of the studious habits that have to be cultivated to attain perfection in any art, but he possesses that fraternal spirit which makes for him lasting friends wherever he goes. And Billy Lorette has travelled the world over, and many races of men in the far corners of the world have laughed when he walked among them.

Rev. H. A. Edwards Sends Donation

St. Mary's Rectory,
Jasper, Alberta.

To the Editor,
The Vermilion Standard.

Re Canadian Legion Memorial Fund.

Dear Sir,

It was my great privilege and pleasure to take an active and very strenuous part in raising the fund with which the purchase of the present premises of the Vermilion Branch of the Legion was made.

I felt at that time that our first duty was to the living, and the effort to provide the returning boys with a home of their own occupied all our time and energy.

It is indeed fitting that some other and distinctive memorial should be erected in Vermilion to the sole memory of those who laid down their lives and I shall be glad if you will accept the enclosed contribution in memory of some of the best and truest friends I ever had.

Mrs. Edwards joins me in best wishes for the success of the fund.

Sincerely yours,
H. A. Edwards.

July 7th, 1930.

Two of the outstanding events in the sports programme of the 12th of July celebration at Vermilion were two horse races, best two out of three heats. In the first race only two horses started; Star Belle, by Rex Star (R. Breman) took both heats; Brownlow Frisco, by Sanfrano (W. D. Williams) second. In the second event three horses started. This was won by Billy Mondy, by Susan Laddie (H. Gales); Baby Tide, by Full Tide (W. H. Whitman) second; Midnora Fly, by Baron Cross (J. Gambler) third. How's Your Bank Account?

It is a common thing for parents to open a bank account for a very young child taking care of the savings until the child is old enough to manage it. Then the child gets his own pass book and learns at first hand a new responsibility.

In this way the child gets a start in learning the valuable habit of thrift practice, lessons in the keeping of accounts and records are learned And as these savings grow, more and still more opportunities, a substantial sum of money is often available for the child's education, or for the later education of the child, or sometimes a contribution is required to start a boy in business—sometimes a good deal of money is involved in establishing him in life.

Financial independence comes to most individuals gradually, even on a small scale—and the foundation for financial success To save only five dollars a month is a financial record which will grow To continue that record over a number of years is a financial achievement of outstanding benefit.

No matter how small or how large an account at the Bank of Health which is handled in such a way that it does not reach the age of responsibility for the saving for health. It makes all the difference in the world whether you handle or handle money or foolishly.

How is your account at the Bank of Health? Have you a good balance? Is it showing regular steady growth? You ought to know.

Nature abhors and punishes waste while she approves and rewards thrift both in animal as well the big realm of Nature and in the individual human life.

Experts tell us that reckless and unchecked cutting and fishing threaten the existence of some of the world's largest forests and fisheries. The supplies are thought unlimited may fail We are learning that continuance of supply depends on conservation which is simply a bigger word for thrift

The same is true of health Nature exacts heavy penalties for waste. Prevention is more profitable and easier than cure. Thrift is health

Just as savings accounts must be built up small deposits, so must our health reserves be built up through food and exercise enough rest and recreation must be dispersed with Health every twenty-four hours

These deposits must be in good currency too Nature, like our bankers, accepts no bad bills or counterfeit coins.

Why not look into this matter of your account at the Bank of Health? A wise way to begin to keep in good order for a complete medical examination Don't wait until you are sick to visit your doctor, go to him when you are well and have him keep you well.

Another good plan is to repeat the process of a thorough medical examination at least once a year say on your birthday anniversary In this way any disease which may have gotten under way in the early insidious headway will be discovered in its early stages checked and cured but which if left to develop undisturbed until you begin to "feel sick" may by then have reached the stage where it is beyond cure.

Accident near Carmen ville P. D. Kellogg of Athens Township received the only relief for one grateful user, and that is but one among many. Mrs. Lillie wonder that it has now become the most recognized salve in the market. It has earned its fame by its never failing effectiveness. It is curing it today, as it has done for years. It is the greatest known remedy within the reach of suffering humanity.

Attentive sometimes comes closer to you than you imagine Recently, for example Roy Long editor of Chesterfield Magazine, opened a manuscript envelope mailed a few days previously in San Francisco by Peter Rice containing the manuscript of the story. When Long threw them at he found them slightly damaged by fire. Noticing that the envelope also somewhat burned bore an adhesive postal stamp he wired National Air Transport pilot in North Sacramento, California, to deliver the envelopes to the mayor of this city.

The Imperial Conference

Material Resources and Wealth Possessed By British Empire

The British government intends to enter the Imperial Conference free and unfettered by prejudice or bias, declared Right Hon J. H. Thomas, secretary for the Dominions, in addressing the Empire luncheon at the opening of "Civic and Empire Week," at Colchester, Essex

Mr Thomas proceeded to discuss the unemployment problem and Great Britain's handicaps as the result of the financial burdens of the war. He said the Imperial Conference would give an unique opportunity for a free and unfettered discussion of all the aspects of this question. As he had examined it, everything the United States possessed in material resources and wealth was possessed within the confines of the British Empire.

"It is because of that knowledge that I, on behalf of the government, intend to attend the Imperial Conference to consider every problem on its merits, unfettered by prejudice or bias, and prepared with a single minded desire to try to find a solution of the problem," he said.

French Evacuation Of the Rhine

Reports State That Departure Of Troops Was Somewhat Hurried

All was not so quiet and peaceful as official reports stated when the last French troops left Mainz and Wiesbaden recently, according to the Paris National organ, "La Liberte," which describes the departure under the headline of "violent incidents."

La Liberte says that, owing to hostile manifestations, hooting and whistling by the crowd at the Mainz station, Gen. Guillaumat, commander-in-chief of the Rhine army, had drawn the blinds of the compartment occupied by himself and his staff The newspaper also quotes a German newspaper story to the effect that the French troops covered the distance from the barracks to the railroad station in two minutes, whereas ten minutes was usually taken for the same march.

The Lokal Anzeiger calls it "precipitated departure."

Gen. Guillaumat himself, who arrived in Paris with the president of the inter-allied high commission, M. Tirard said: "We have given evidence of our confidence in the good faith of Germany May it be understood and appreciated by the government and population of the Reich."

GENERAL CROP CONDITIONS

The high temperatures of the past few days have been most welcome in the Northern and Western parts of the province; the moisture supply is abundant Crops in this area have made excellent growth but continued cool weather in June has tended to retard progress and maturity The present warm, bright weather will correct this condition

Seeding in the Peace area may be described as patchy In some parts the recovery has been remarkable due to frequent showers At other points, less favored recovery is only partial on the whole the crop out look continues to be very promising

Along the line of the Calgary Macleod railway there is promise of a bumper crop Rainfall and farms in south crops have suffered from drought during the past fortnight Rainfall at various points over this area in the past few days has brought a measure of relief and a more optimistic outlook Many 2-per cent of wheat is in bud and the remainder in the shot blue.

Hail damage has occurred at several points in the Province but the areas involved are not large Cooperators are making favorable progress in general throughout the Province the crop being reported in excellent coins

REGINA WELL EQUIPPED FOR WORLD'S GRAIN SHOW

Regina, Canada, is admirably situated and well equipped for holding the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference in 1932. It is a city of nearly 54,000 people, the capital of the province of Saskatchewan, surrounded by one of the greatest grain growing areas in the world. The Regina Exhibition Association grounds are already well equipped with spacious buildings for exhibition purposes. The World's Grain Show, however, will be housed in a new building specially designed and erected for the purpose, distinct and separate from the others The architecture and decoration of this additional structure, estimated to cost approximately $250,000 and to provide a floor space of 100,000 square feet, will be appropriate to the purposes for which it will be used in 1932 To facilitate the shipment of grain, seed and other exhibits, Regina will be created a customs port of entry and all arrangements will be made to facilitate matters for exhibitors and visitors from any country in the world.

The 1930 International Railway Congress may be held in Canada with Japan as a possible alternative location, according to information brought back from the 1934 Gathering, in Madrid, Spain, by D. C. Every country in the world, except Russia, was represented.

Empress of British, one of Canada's steamships, took the water and pictures of the function were flashed across the Atlantic and the speeches radioed and appeared in New York papers. Coupled with the Prince's speech were speeches by Lord Aberconway and E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway

The Royal York could not of course fully accommodate them and the Canadian Pacific Railway built "Pur Chic" of railway coaches for the purpose near the hotel.

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard 16th JULY 1914.

Norman Darling met with a bad accident Saturday evening while on route home with Jimmy Armstrong. When the latter got out of the car to turn around from the road, and as the car was about to upset, Mr Darling jumped, alighting on the side of one of his feet with such force as to drive the ankle bone into the ground. So bad was the break that the bone protruded and had to be wired back into position Mr Armstrong was thrown out and rendered unconscious from striking his head on a rock.

Mothers' Week" At The V.S.A.

A few thing has been started in the way of service by the Vermilion School of Agriculture and its staff it is not just certain where the idea originated, but it is thought it was with Mr. H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture. The idea is to bring in busy mothers from the farms of the Province—mothers who because of small growing families rarely get away to conventions.

There are three ideas behind the movement:

1. A pleasant holiday and restful time.
2. The fellowship for a few days of other busy mothers.
3. Something helpful along the line of Household Science or general home or farm problems.

The course began Monday at noon with 37 mothers registered and continued until Friday noon of last week. Mothers with small babies brought them and their care spell for during the day by a special nurse.

Many interesting things were dealt with in the Household Science classrooms and these were supplemented by talks on dairying, hen culture, poultry, home beautifying, etc., etc.

The evenings were spent among the flowers and in the fruit garden Mr Cornwall of the University Extension department, gave a very interesting talk accompanied with pictures, of many interesting scenes in the Old Country. These were taken by him-self while overseas.

The last night was thoroughly enjoyed Mr Rivard with a number of popular local vocal and instrumental ar-

Mrs. W. E. Mackenzie and son Dean left Tuesday night on a visit to the former's sister, Mrs. L.ierman, of Port Arthur.

The Vegreville and Vermilion flag drama played a ball game here on Saturday, the local boys winning out 12 to 5.

A double wedding took place at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thompson, Badger, Minnesota, on Friday, July 10th, when Cora Florence Thompson became Mrs. James W. Rankin and Alice Pilot Thompson became Mrs. Robt. Rankin, Jr. The newly-weds will make their future homes in Vermilion, Alberta, where the grooms have been homesteading.

Born—On Sunday, July 12, to Mr. and Mrs. K. D. McLay, a daughter.

On July 15 at St Kevin's church, Vermilion by the Rev. H. A. Edwards, Earl Rainbow Slane Fleming, son of the late Captain Fleming, 47th Pontiers, Dublin and Quebec, to Olive, eldest daughter of the late Alfred Atkinson, 5 West Villas, Stockton-on-Leon, England.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hall and Clifford Donnelly performed at the piano. Mr. Elford capped the program with one of his inimitable skits. The program was enjoyed very much and a hearty vote of thanks was given to those who assisted.

On Thursday afternoon there was another evidence of the warm thoughtfulness of the good people of Vermilion. A brigade of autos was organized and the whole convention of mothers were taken for a drive into the country surrounding the town. Cars were furnished by Messrs. F. C. Hall, Cook, Craig, W. Pilkie, E. Davies, J. Wemer and Dr. Knell, while J. W. G. Morrison and others offered still more cars, which however were not required. The heights of thoughtfulness was reached when, during the drive, a large box of cakes and candies appeared in the back car. These were furnished by Mrs. H. Watson, Mrs. Dr. Knell, Mr. Pilkie, Mr. Jas Wood, Mr. Wemer & Sons, Geo. Caputas, the Methuen Hardware and Safeway Stores. Needless to say these women enjoyed this trip immensely and were loud in their praise for the pleasant outing.

The mothers' week program was brought to a close on Friday at noon, when all expressed their great pleasure at having taken the week. The mothers predicted that many more would take the course next year. As is substantial evidence of their satisfaction regarding their course, the mothers left a most beautiful basket of flowers to Miss Storey and the rest of the staff.

In this connection may the Principal and Staff of the School of Agriculture thank the good people of Vermilion for their kindness and support. When the people of the town and community back up an institution as the people do here it helps very materially in putting the school over.

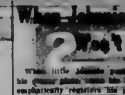
Where Is Your Wife?



When little Johnnie pushes away his porridge contemptuously registers his protest against food, Mother grows grey with worry and anxiety. Sometimes Johnnie runs about for all he's worth and in rare cases she will spank the said little John in her endeavour to bring him to reason. Often everything fails and John is the winner.

For just such mothers there is an excellent article by Dr. Ira Wile in Hygeia. The doctor believes that a child's eating habits are the result of his home training, good or bad. He says there are various reasons for Johnnie's refusal. For example, he may be overtired and in that condition of exhaustion he cannot respond to food. A rest would conduce to an appetite. And small children need much rest between meals. Another cause is one of psychical origin, when John refuses because he loves the attention that he secures thereby. Too much attention is often fatal, and Johnnie should receive only a modicum of instruction in table manners which turns him away from the enjoyment of his meal. The niceties of eating and the use of utensils, the ability to manage without spilling is really a matter of time, and as the child grows older, and he unconsciously acquires the habits of good breeding from the grown-ups at the family board.

Dr. Wile suggests that Johnnie should be allowed to miss a meal or two if he wants to; he should also be completely ignored when he appears in a negative state of mind, and on no account must he ever be over solicitude of his parents. It is a cardinal rule never to show by look, word or gesture, the slightest concern as to whether he eats or not. It is well to place smaller portions of food on the plate before the tired looking child, and all concealed distress must be avoided.

For health literature on children, send to the Red Cross, 407 Clute Bldg., Ottawa.

BROWSE NOTES

The next meeting will be held in the basement of the church. We would like to see a larger number present than at the previous meetings this summer.

THE HUDSON WONDERS

When two little girls, not yet in their teens and whose pretty blond and brunette heads just about reach the top pocket in the vest of the average man, can appear on a stage where adult performers of wide reputation are vieing for favor and literally monopolize the applause before they have half finished their act they must be artists of rare ability. That is what the Hudson Wonders, a feature of the Vermilion Exhibition entertainment that will be offered this year's grandstand audiences did. The Hudsons are what show people term an "overnight hit," they having been acclimated a pronounced success on their first important theatre performance. Under their tender ages, their knowledge of stage poise, acrobatics and character dancing is almost uncanny. Many times during a performance these little stars will purposely hesitate in their work until the loud applause subsides as they know it will become even more boisterous before they reach the climax of their act.

The past winter has been spent by the Hudsons performing in the finest theatres of England, France and Germany.

BORDER PATROL IS COMMENDED BY U.S. OFFICIAL

Washington.—The Canadian border patrol was credited by Representative Clancy, Republican, Michigan, with having "practically killed liquor traffic across the United States border."

Emphasizing that the Canadian Government is "absolutely co-operating," Clancy contended that there was no necessity for the "dangerous activities of the United States patrol in operating its boats without running lights." He recommended that in the treasury department that this was the practice of the United States patrol boats.

While lauding the Canadian border patrol for its "honesty, courtesy, service and efficiency," the Michigan representative quoted E. W. Camp, former commissioner of customs, as describing the United States border patrol as "about 90 per cent. crooked or inefficient."

Clancy attributed the difference he portrayed to the different liquor laws of the two countries. Canadians, he said, "respect and regard their liquor laws because they know a good one." In the United States, he said, "we can't build our jails fast enough."

France Delays Naval Program

Will Open the Way For Naval Negotiations With Italy

Paris, France.—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand has announced suspension of France's shipbuilding program until December 31, in the way for naval negotiations with Italy. He told the Foreign Relations Committee of the Chamber of Deputies, at the same time, that "another way is to Europe is impossible and inadmissible."

M. Briand assured the committee there was no reason for tension concerning the relations between France and Italy."

Disclosing that no more ships would be put on the stocks in the French building program before next December, Minister Briand said President Doumergue had been informed of that fact officially.

In conclusion, the foreign minister assented that while Italy had demanded naval parity the Italian government never had furnished figures or arguments to justify the claim.

Must Import Wheat

Portugal Is Now Faced With a Serious Shortage

Lisbon, Portugal. Because of a shortage of wheat, the National Association of Millers has suspended work. No fear of a breadless week was felt, however, since many stocks are sufficient to keep the daily supply without resort being made to a rationing system until the government is able to modify the new conditions for the import of foreign wheat.

The public has been advised not to waste bread and the Minister of Agriculture has ordered all wheat merchants to declare their stocks so the government may be able to fix the quantity to be imported above the legal quota.

Alarming reports have reached Lisbon from certain parts of the interior where there is a serious corn shortage.

New Woman Member For British House

Fourteen Now in Parliament, Nine Being On Labor Side

London, England.—With the election of Lady Noel Buxton to the House of Commons in the North Norfolk by-election, there are 14 women in parliament, the greatest number in history.

Of the 14, nine are Labor members; three Conservatives; one Liberal and one Independent. One of the 14, Right Hon. Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor, is the first woman to become a member of the British cabinet, while another, Miss Susan Lawrence, is parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Health

Population Of Prince Albert

Prince Albert, Sask. Local civic officials and members of civic board organizations are claiming a population of 12,000 for Prince Albert, the voters' lists having shown there are 4,795 voters within the boundaries of the city. This new total is based on the contention that the number of those entitled to cast a vote is generally about one-third of the population.

Labor Government Escapes Defeat

Slave Slim Majority On Critical Division In British House

London, England.—MacDonald Labor Government escaped defeat by the slim majority of three votes in a critical division in the House of Commons on the Simon bill. It was the smallest majority in this government's career, which was sustained by eight votes two months ago on the coal mines bill and lost a vote on a minor clause of the coal bill before that.

The vote was against an amendment moved by Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, under which profits spent upon modernization or improvements of plants or machinery would be rendered exempt from income tax.

Although it was the Liberal leader who moved the amendment which met adamantine opposition from the chancellor of the exchequer, it was some of the Liberals who saved the government and further weakened the offtheloin solidarity of the Liberal party in the House. Four Liberals voted with the Labor government. They were D. Simon, of the Withington division of Manchester; Sir William Edge, Leicester; Sir Robert Hutchison and Percy A. Harris, Bethnal Green. Buddie Shaw, several Liberals, including Sir Godfrey Collins and Sir Donald McLean, abstained from voting.

Boy Scout Jamboree

First Official Jamboree Ever Held in Canada Slated at Prince Albert National Park

Prince Albert.—First boy scout jamboree ever held in Canada was officially opened in Prince Albert national park, with 476 scouts answering the roll-call. Situated on beautiful Lake Waskesiu, the site selected for the camp is ideal in every way. "Big Beach" is nearly half a mile long, paved with clear, white sand, and curving out to Prospect Point, offers fine bathing facilities, combined with perfect safety.

Waskesiu Beach, the park headquarters and the site of the western Canada jamboree now being held, now public. He said it was a "deliberate attempt to coerce established authority by mass action."

"It, therefore, on account of its natural and inevitable developments must be regarded as a dangerous and dangerously subversive Mass action, even if the promoters intend it to be non-violent, is nothing but the application of force under another form. And when it avowedly is intended to make government impossible, the government is bound either to resist or abdicate."

The proposed legislation is exactly analogous to a general strike in an industrial country intended to coerce the government by mass pressure instead of argument.

In reference to the Simon commission's report a report reflecting proposed round table conference in London next autumn. Lord —— said:

"The responsibility of expressing considered opinion has now passed to the shoulders of India; and just as the Simon commission would have failed in its duty to parliament if it had not made a report reflecting the facts about food in Bengal, so nothing happens if India's people fail to face responsibility for judgment."

Tossing Out Glider

Flight Across Atlantic May Be Attempted Later

New York.—A wireless message from the liner "Saturia" revealed that the glider "Clalbourne Pastor" remained in the air for eight hours, believed to be the longest ocean flight ever made in a towed glider.

The glider, manned for the Broadway actress who is sponsoring the venture, is being taken to Gibraltar for an attempted east-west flight across the ocean behind a ship. On the eastward voyage practice flights are being made by the yourthful owners, Hugh Keavney and Robert Lewis.

Had Narrow Escape

Marshfield, Sask.—J. H. Burke, local agent for the North Star Grain Elevator Company, narrowly escaped being buried alive here when a grain bin in the elevator, next to the one he had been cleaning, burst open, just as he had climbed out, pouring the contents of the bin into the space he had just vacated.

Had the breakage occurred but a few moments sooner, it is probable that Burke would have been hopelessly trapped in the bin, with little, if any, chance of getting out.

VICEROY WOULD DEAL WITH FIRM HAND IN INDIA

Simla, India.—A fight to the finish with the civil disobedience movement was promised by the viceroy of India, Lord Irwin, in his address to the Indian legislature at Simla.

"As long as civil disobedience persists we must fight it with all our strength," Lord Irwin said. "I believe in the right and best solution in the middle of India will be found only in Britain and India joining together in the search."

Lord Irwin bitterly denounced the civil disobedience method of procedure instituted by Mahatma Gandhi, now jailed. He said it was a "deliberate attempt to coerce established authority by mass action."

"It, therefore, on account of its natural and inevitable developments must be regarded as a dangerous and dangerously subversive Mass action, even if the promoters intend it to be non-violent, is nothing but the application of force under another form. And when it avowedly is intended to make government impossible, the government is bound either to resist or abdicate."

Investigate Butter Prices

Charge Made That Combine Exists Amongst Certain Producer Companies

Ottawa, Ont. - Charges that a combine exists amongst certain producer companies with a view to depressing the price of butter to the producers may be ventilated under the Combines Investigation Act, at least in one of the provinces of Canada, if the representations of Jean Francois Pouliot, formerly of Canada, if the representations of Jean Francois Pouliot, formerly Liberal member of Parliament for Temiskaming, Que., are prosecuted in their ultimate stages.

In a communication to Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor, was enclosed a copy of a newspaper circulating in his constituency which in the assertion is made that the wholesale dealers "keep the market prices in a low figure purchase butter and accumulate it in cold storage for some time, selling it at an exorbitant price to the consumer later."

This thus deprive the farmer of the legitimate profits, says Mr Pouliot.

The former member asked the minister to intervene under the Combines Investigation Act

Crooks Displace Decent Men

Given Election Posts In Chicago Despite Records

Chicago, Ill - Throwing an illuminating light upon Chicago election conditions and the ability of known crooks to get into public life, even minor positions in the civil service, a petition has been filed here by Judge Edmund K. Jaycox.

The petition names 211 men and women, alleged to have police and criminal records, who have been placed as election judges and clerks.

This petition, signed by a large number of prominent citizens, was filed last month in which 2715 judges and clerks were named as having police or criminal records. Of these men judges and clerks with clear records were displaced to make room for the 211 named in the petition because it is asserted

TWINS TAKE LONG TRIP

June and George Hunt, two-year-old Lancashire twins, are recorded on a six-thousand-mile trip from Liverpool to Fortmain, British Columbia, on board the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of Atholl. George looks as though quite capable of defending sister June and faces the world with the air of one ready for all hazards. However, Canadian Pacific officials, both on the ship and the railway, smoothed the way for the tots and their trip was one long playtime to the two of them.

Milling Qualities Excellent

Millers in Britain Are Enthusiastic Over Garnet Wheat

Ottawa, Ont. Considerable enthusiasm was expressed among millers of Great Britain and on the continent who investigated Garnet wheat as to its milling qualities. A report by L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist, on the result of the investigations of specially bagged shipment of this blend of wheat varieties has been made public. For a time at least Garnet should be shipped as a separate variety, instead of mixed with Manitobas. This would give the millers an opportunity of knowing the variety they were dealing with and they could treat it to the best advantage

The Federal Department of Agriculture decided to submit Garnet to last by millers in the United Kingdom, and in different European countries. A year ago 6,700 bushels were shipped overseas to men expert in milling to obtain their opinions as to its suitability. These men were asked a series of questions, and Mr Newman's report includes the replies into a table

Would Halt Immigration

President Brett() Of the C.P.R. Would Put Check On Entries From U.S. and Europe

Toronto, Ont. Immigration from the United States and Europe should be stopped for the time being at least, said E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in an interview here Mr. Beatty would not include on the ban, however, those British immigrants who bring their own capital and can proceed under their own steam."

"Unemployment is bad in the building trades, I think, because the unusual 50 percent of the buildings are holding back until the wheat situation clears up. But if we have a normal crop this year and it moves out in a normal way, which it should, unless there is a permanent resistance in Europe, which I doubt, the situation in Canada should clear up" said Mr Beatty

U. S. SENATOR SAYS TRADE WITH CANADA IS KILLED

Washington Senator George of Georgia in a statement issued recently through the Democratic National Committee declared that the administration is strangling Canadian trade with the slogan "Buy American" and that the Hawley-Smoot tariff will ruin Canada.

Figures supplied in the Department of Commerce confirm the fact that while the president appointed the Smoot-Hawley customs tariff act he killed the presidential grange that lays the golden eggs with one stroke of his pen

It is to be regretted that efforts to promote friendly relations with our neighbors are not supported by liberal trade policies."

B. N. A. BILL HAS RECEIVED ROYAL ASSENT

London, Eng.and. - The British North America bill has received Royal assent and became law. It has passed both Houses of Parliament in the extraordinarily short period of 15 days, notwithstanding the fact that the session has been unusually busy.

The bill amends the British North America Act to give effect in the arrangements concluded between the Canadian Federal Government and the governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta for the return of natural resources to the three provinces. The turning over of certain Crown lands to the jurisdiction of the province of British Columbia is also involved

The province of Manitoba celebrates its 60th anniversary as a province-member of the Dominion of Canada, on July 15. It was in order that the bill might become law before this event that its progress through Westminster was so swiftly expedited.

SPECIAL MATINEE EVERY SATURDAY AT 2:30 P. M.

Federal Election Monday, July 28

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE BATTLE RIVER RIDING.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

At a large convention held at Wainwright on June 25th, Mr. J. W. G. Morrison of Vermilion, was unanimously nominated as the Conservative candidate for the election to be held on Monday, July 28th. The Association feels that the convention made a strong selection. Indications point to a change of government and it is therefore felt the best interests of the people of this constituency will be served by electing Mr Morrison as their representative He is well and favorably known to the people of the riding. The association appeals to the electors for their support and confidence on his behalf

As the electors know, the Hon R B Bennett is the leader of the Conservative Party Mr Bennett is a western man and in close touch with western needs and conditions, better than any other man in public life today. The Conservative Party is the only party presenting in this campaign a clear and definite policy to the people of Canada on the many problems with which we are faced today. The policy pledges Protection for Canadians in the development of our national resources, our agricultural and industrial life and our consumers from exploitation, To foster and develop the agricultural, livestock and dairy industries now so sadly neglected. To develop inter-provincial trade and foreign markets for our agricultural and other products. To inaugurate a national fuel policy; To improve our whole system of transportation including the Hudson Bay route, the part Smiliums at the Great Lakes, Atlantic and Pacific coasts, and build the St. Lawrence Waterways To establish a national highways system; To foster a great empire trade based on mutual advantage; To establish a national system of old age pensions thus relieving the Provinces and municipalities of being asked to contribute

These pledges will create a CANADA FIRST in all things. Mr Bennett pledges to call a special session of parliament to deal with the question of unemployment Over 200,000 out of work is not a good thing for the country. The development of our national resources means that our raw products will be manufactured in Canada, thus giving employment to our own people. At present we ship out our raw products to be manufactured outside of Canada, and then we buy them back as finished material. We paid over $600,000,000 last year to the United States alone for goods, most of which could be manufactured in Canada by Canadian workmen. The national fuel policy will increase employment in our mines and on our railways and incidentally create better markets for our farm products This building of a national highway across Canada, besides giving steady employment means that thousands of tourists from the east and south will visit these western provinces, which will mean the expenditure of millions of dollars with resultant benefit to the farmers and business interests generally By a national old age pension system the provinces and municipalities will be relieved of the burden of contributing to this worthy cause

These policies are in your best interests, and policies that for your own good and the good of the community you should support. The Association therefore asks you to

SUPPORT BENNETT AND VOTE MORRISON ON JULY 28.

District Officials Meet At Vermilion

A convention of the Councils of the municipal districts in this part of the province was held in the municipal office of the M.D. of Vermilion Valley in Vermilion on Thursday, July 17th.

The following councils were represented: Wellington, Streamstreet, Vermilion Valley, Ehkelyn, Grizzly Bear, Mellerets, Buffalo Coulee, Patricia and Lakeview. Mr. Cundal of Mellerets occupied the chair and Mr. R. T. Dorward acted as secretary.

Officials of the Provincial Government in attendance were: Mr. Robt English, Dept. of Municipal Affairs; Mr. R. B. Ritchie, Inspector Municipal Affairs; and Mr. Ritchie of the Engineering staff of the Department of Public Works.

The various problems discussed were Old Age Pensions, relief, roads, finance, and auditing.

The Old Age Pension Board was asked to make clear the working of subsections 2 and 3 of Section 8 of the Old Age Pensions act which states that in some cases the Board has authority to realize on estates of deceased pensioners.

A resolution was passed unanimously calling for legislation to compel companies bringing in settlers to look after them until they are established, and if within three or four years the settler proves a misfit to deport him.

Systems of auditing were also discussed in which the department officials took part.

Addresses were made by Mr. English and Mr. Ritchie of the department of municipal affairs, and by Mr. Ritchie of the Engineering staff of the department of public works. The latter was particularly interesting to those whose principal work was the making of good roads.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

The Scout Promise:

To do my duty to God and the King

To help other people at all times

To obey the Scout Law

Mostly all of the Scouts are out at the Scout summer camp at Whitney Lake — and we are surely having a wonderful time. We are first plain perry for the Scouts who could not take the trip — volley-ball, waterball, swimming and fishing, also pleasant hikes, not to mention the fun we get out of watching some of the boys trying to cook.

It used to be quite a chore trying to get the Scouts to go up the hill to get their meals at the camp — the path was always empty. But it is no trouble since the little girl came to live at the farm next to the drinking water pail has been running over the hand service out her on spuds, mashed chariis and a full set of trimmings.

I almost think in taking this week the boys what I enjoyed it best. Wilson dished out his dessert in the shape of preserved apricots

C.N.R. BOWLING GROUNDS ENHANCED IN APPEARANCE

The C. N. R. recreation club have lately veneered their bowling greens with rock in a very artistic manner. A neat fence provides protection for the grass of the green, the rocks being around the outside of the built up section of earth. The Standard was down why the C.N.R. tennis court was not completed when so very close to Finished, as it appears to be finely surfaced and only a small portion of the work is left undone. However everything in time and the C. N. R club have certainly done a lot of work on both bowling green and tennis court this year.

Marketing and Distribution

The problem with which industry is confronted today is marketing declares Donald M Marvin, economist, in the monthly letter issued by the Royal Bank of Canada. To quote Mr Marvin:

"Early economic thought had its birth in a philosophy of trade, but the Rise of thought was rapidly displaced by theories concerning production. In theory, trading operations became a mere adjunct to productive processes, and, except as regards foreign commerce, occupies a very subordinate place in economic literature. The engineering genius of the world has been focussed on methods of increasing the quantity of goods produced. The growth of large scale production and remarkable improvements in productive efficiency, but relatively speaking, distribution has escaped attention. Today this is changing; the problem with which industry is confronted is that of marketing."

While increased attention is being given to the principles and practices of marketing data relating to them are less comprehensive than for other branches of human activity. Population, production, prices, export and import, and many other kinds of statistics are available in abundance and in a high degree of excellence. Official statistics relating to agriculture, mining and manufacturing have been collected for many years. The number of persons engaged in these activities is known, together with varied information concerning the quantity and quality of their products." There are no comprehensive statistics of distribution and it is in this field that the need for further information is undoubtedly most acute.

The relative merits of the department store, mail order house and the local independent dealer have long been the subject of controversy and speculation. The fear that the independent merchant is being crushed in the mail by an over-powering competition has frequently been expressed. What the actual situation may be, not only as regards retail trade as a whole but as regards its different branches, can only be discovered when adequate information concerning distribution is available.

Urgent necessity has moved many private concerns to seek information in this field, but private enterprise has gone about as far as it can go in providing this information. Such results have been incomplete and only serve to emphasize the necessity of a comprehensive statistical study of the subject. The first requisite for such an analysis of distribution is a census of all manufacturing and retail establishments which are engaged in distribution. Such a survey will be undertaken by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in connection with the regular decennial census in 1931. The schedules and questions relating to the kind of business, number of employees, salaries and wages paid, inventories, expense of doing business and capital invested.

This census will be of great benefit to all those who wish to make an intelligent study of the problem relating to marketing in Canada. It will supply the basic statistical material required, and provide a comprehensive picture of the various outlets for the distribution of commodities and groups of commodities. The relative proportion of cash and credit sales will be given. Presentation of the data in the form of averages will furnish a basis with which individual organizations may judge their own results. A picture of consumer demand in each section of the country will be presented, together with information showing the various types of outlets through which they are now reached. Such data will be invaluable in the preparation of advertising and sales campaigns. While the advantages of this type of information to manufacturers and distributors is obvious, the fact that the consumer will benefit through the economies which should result, should not be overlooked.

Studies relative to the cost of living will be assisted by data showing the percentages of consumers' purchases of food clothing, fuel, and other groups of products. Special methods of distribution adopted to certain districts will be shown and additional light will be thrown on the movement of commodities between the various provinces of Canada. The compilation of these statistics and others of a like character should produce material of substantial benefit to industry and trade.

The success of this survey will largely depend on the wholehearted co-operation of those who supply the individual returns. The need for the information has become particularly urgent as advances in methods of production have pressed the problem of distribution more and more upon the attention of business leaders. With the added information made available, a real analysis of the problems of distribution will be possible and more effective measures devised for their solution

A Vagabond in Canada

Daughter Of British Minister Of Education Enjoys Trip Across Dominion

It's a good idea to be a vagabond for a while in the opinion of Katharine Tyrrelyan, daughter of Sir Charles Tyrrelyan, Minister of Education in Great Britain, who left recently for Montreal and her home in Chanbo, Northumberland.

Miss Tyrrelyan has spent the past two and a half months visiting her theory in practice. She has peeled potatoes in cargo boats on the Great Lakes, walked hundreds of miles across the prairies, ventured into the Okanagan and Cariboo districts of British Columbia, and as a final achievement in her adventurous journey across the continent, made a trip down the Canadian National Railways. Incidentally, she has also enjoyed herself.

"The thing that helps one most is one's purse," she said just before leaving Jasper Park Lodge for the east. "It is that it gives a sense of independence, it also gives an opportunity for digesting and thinking over the various things you have experienced during the last few years, as well as taking stock of what you see in your journey."

"That is why I think," continued the young English girl on her way back to England to continue down to a period of comparative tranquility, "everyone should get away from his usual routine for a little while every four years. In your own comfortable rut at home you don't get a chance to appreciate just what has been happening to you."

The Saskatchewan Power Commission is calling for tenders for the building of 758 miles of high tension lines to make available electric energy for the use of some 50 towns and villages throughout the province. The power will be supplied by plants located at Saskatoon, Prince Albert and Moose Jaw.

Adding Insult To Injury

The automobile tale Gaston Hornet, of Paris, has to tell is a strange one. Gaston was knocked down by a taxicab, and when he got out of the "cab" he was fined for "letting himself be knocked down." The driver proved he had blown his horn, so Gaston had to pay. It's a new law there.

Iceboard Ships Are Freed

Held in Ice Since Last September Are Finally Liberated

The icy embrace of the Arctic Ocean has at last released its grip upon the American ice-breaking ship "Nanuk" and the Soviet steamer "Stavropol" held icebound in Siberia since last September.

The "Nanuk" was freed recently when the pack ice moved off-shore while a fleet of Soviet ice-breakers lay in the bay, freeing the "Stavropol."

It was to the "Nanuk" that Carl Ben Eielson, pilot, flew for help. They were flying from Teller, Alaska, last November when their plane crashed near North Cape, killing both of them.

Recipe For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

BOSTON SANDWICHES

Either left-over or canned baked beans can be used for a delicious filling for a tasty sandwich. Whole wheat and Boston brown bread are equally desirable.

Cream 1 cup baked beans through a coarse sieve and add 1 tablespoon tomato catchup, ½ teaspoon onion juice, ½ teaspoon prepared mustard and ½ teaspoon sugar. Spread on buttered slices of bread and serve with crisp celery.

DATE PICNIC SANDWICH

The picnic lunch needs plenty of fruits. A few date sandwiches help to bolster this up, and furnish very nourishing food as well. Run half a cup of dates and half a cup of walnut meats through the food grinder, using the power will be supplied by plants located at Saskatoon, Prince Albert and Moose Jaw.

British Naval Estimates

Additional Estimates Call For Expenditure Of About $1,000,000

The British admiralty has published additional estimates for naval construction for the current financial year, in which £208,900 (about $1,000,000), is asked. The amount will be used for construction, allowed Great Britain under the London treaty.

Of the supplementary estimate, £188,000 is required to cover costs in submarines this fiscal year on three submarines of the 1929 program, construction of which has been deferred pending conclusion of the naval treaty.

The balance of £20,000 will be devoted to the new construction program for 1930.

Grain Via New York

Canadian Exports Constituted 58 Per Cent. Of Tonnage Last Year

Canadian grain constitutes 58 per cent. of the export tonnage from the port of New York, according to an estimate outlined in the annual report for 1929, of the Port of New York authority. It was also pointed out that this Canadian grain earned a gross annual revenue of $9,000,000 for United States railroads and barge canal operators serving the North Atlantic ports, and furnished from 25 to 75 per cent. of the eastbound cargoes of steamships operating from the port of New York.

His Sight Restored

Blinded In Right Eye, Sight Is Restored In Freakish Manner

Totally blind in his right eye for 23 years, Stephen McCormack, of Sydney, Australia, has had his eyesight restored by an accidental finger poke in the eye.

When a piece of stone thrown up by a horse's hoof robbed him of the sight of his right eye, specialists were baffled.

Thirty-three years later McCormack was exercising with a medicine ball when a companion accidentally poked a finger in his blind eye. He was seized with excruciating pains in the head and suddenly his eyesight returned.

German aircraft builders are well aware of the potential market for their products in Canada and the Junkers Aircraft Corporation, of Dessau, even anticipates assembling certain of its various types in the Dominion. One of the company's representatives is now in Montreal to investigate the situation, and will run one of the Junkers monoplanes for demonstration purposes. Aids To Flying

Canada Willing To Work With U.S. To Better Conditions

The Canadian Government is ready to work with the United States for a closer co-ordination of airways communication and radio aids to air navigation, says a report from Washington.

Secretary of State Stimson and that word to him from the Dominion Government indicated it would accept the recommendations of an informal radio conference held in New York last April, urging this closer co-operation.

Among the recommendations accepted in Canada were that the international air ceiling frequency, 333 kilocycles, be not required regionally for aircraft or aeronautical stations in other countries.

The conference further recommended that different national frequencies be established for the United States and Canada: that a long list of frequencies remain free from assignment of the United States within 750 miles of the Canadian border, and that this courtesy be followed by Canada with other frequencies.

Industrial Manitoba

Annual Industrial Output Has Now Reached $165,000,000

In the sixty years history of Manitoba as a province, the industrial output has grown from $80,000 in 1870, to $165,000,000, said the chief manufacturers in 6 to 830.

The output of iron products in Manitoba increased from $5,348,000 last year, and now stands at approximately $24 000,000 annually. The output of agricultural implements in Greater Winnipeg's three plants has grown from $377,000 to $1,187,000 in five years.

Winnipeg's furniture factories during the five-year period, 1924-1929, increased their output from $1,127,156 to $746 522, and they employed 149 more people and paid out $157,000 more in wages.

Production among the various industries manufacturing textile products in Manitoba has increased by 100 per cent. during the five years, and the output of knitting mills has quadrupled.

Anniversary Of the Strawberry

Four Hundred Years Since It Was Cultivated In England

This is the 400th anniversary of strawberry culture in England. It was in 1530 that the favoured berry of many had as a purchaser Henry VIII., who paid 10d for a half a pint or "a pottle" of strawberries as the measure was then called. That was 3s 4d in money, for 10d. in those days meant as much as 10s. and more in these times.

In Eastern Canada the wild strawberry grows in such profusion and in such splendid quality that the cultivated berry takes a back seat. This is not so, however, in other parts of the Province of The Pas, on the Saskatchewan River water route. Much of the freight taken into the north has gone in through this point.

Instruments Needed For Good Orchestra

Rumour Of Many Are Not Familiar To Most People

"Minute bath charms" so we have heard; but it must have its worries too, if the conductor of the orchestra has to remember the names of all the instruments. We used to think that an orchestra was most a matter of piano, drums, a number of violins and saxophones—large numbers of saxophones. The excellence of the orchestra depended on the size, and brilliance of the instruments and the variety of barnyard solos that could be played upon them.

We find, however, that our education has been sadly neglected, in a recent issue of the London Musical Courier we are given a list of the instruments that are represented in a good band or orchestra. As well as the usual items the list read like a menu. Things we had arrived at the salad course, we find celesta, which might be society for celery; grosses cymbales undoubtedly French for fancy vegetable such as carrots or spinach, while we thought the corne de basset, hautbois, euphonium, triangle sarrusophone and tympani disguised such dishes as macaroni and raisin pie, and pickled pigs' feet.

Checking the article over closer we found in our surprise that musicians are quite familiar not only with the above but with some 56 other varieties, not the least intriguing of which were bass clarinet, contra-bassi (sounds like a fish), trumpetti, obbi and heckelphones. This brings value to us the theory we thought that musicians evidently earn their living by the sweat of their memories like the rest of the world and by merely learning to toot or fiddle a little. Apparently most of us will be look to something other than a musical career if we are to find an easy road to fame and fortune. — Regina (Evening) Leader-Post.

Baling Hay In Field

Machines Have Been Adapted To This Work On Farm

Manufacturers of hay balers are adapting their machines to the new demand for balers which may be used in the field to take from the cock or windrow. The use of 4-cylinder engines mounted on the baler is one interesting feature. The engines are of the size and type used on combines.

In order to take advantage of the direction of the wind or the lay of the land, the feed table is arranged so that it may be used from either side of the baler. Extra capacity has been added to speed up production and lower the cost of baling, by making it possible to feed the machine with larger charges, while automatic facilities for placing the blocks are included. Longer baling chambers are used in order to give the wire man more time to tie a good bale.

For stationary baling, automatic feeders have been developed. This permits of all-day feeding at all times and usually makes it possible to eliminate a man from the baling crew.

The Cry For Speed

When Daredevils Pit Their Skill To Machines Has Tired Them

The world cries for speed — more speed. Automobiles, aeroplanes, and boats that are only paper-thin shells housing monstrous engines have been the accumulation of enormous costs in order that daredevils may pit their skill, not against one another, but against time, to establish new world's records. The excuse that is offered to justify such recklessness is that refinements necessary to high speed are utilized for the betterment of all vehicles. But the real reason is that man likes the bend of having done something that no other has done. A nation feels pride when one of its nationals becomes a "world champion."
Washington Post.

Foreign Americans

A young woman who left to reside in Paris shortly after her marriage, six years ago, has returned to Detroit with her two small children. One is a girl of five years, the other 2½ years. Both children speak only French. In fact, neighbors say the girl has mastered one English word — lee-tzum

Changed In Some Ways

"I'm glad to find you so well, sir," said the old friend. "Your grandson hasn't changed you."

"Well," replied the wealthy man, "it has changed me in one thing. I'm now 'eccentric' where I used to be impolite and 'delightfully sarcastic,' where I used to be rude."

May Revive Game Laws

Revision of the game laws of Saskatchewan, is contemplated by Hon J. A. Merkley, Minister of Labor and Industry in whose department rests administration of the Act. A legislative committee of the Fish Game Association will prepare tentative changes to be submitted to the next meeting of the Legislature. One of the chief changes proposed, will provide a new system of licensing.

Holiday Restrictions

According to the strict letter of British law, a holiday-maker may not wander at will over a common, but must keep to the recognized footpaths. Even when walking on a public road he must not loiter to rest, view the scenery or make a sketch. Fortunately, law of this kind is more honored in the breach than the observance.

Looking After The Tourist

Method Used In France Is Not Necessary In Canada

Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, recently made a speech in Paris in the course of which he praised the French "Ministry of Tourists," whose business is the attracting of tourists to France and their protection while in France. It is said that the French tradesmen and others do not employ extortionate methods at the expense of travelers from other countries. A proportion to its population, Canada probably has more tourists than the Republic of France, and most of us try to treat them well. We do not suggest that the Federal Government should set up a "Ministry of Tourism," but the business is one of vast importance to the Dominion, and therefore it deserves all the consideration and assistance which it "gets ting from the Federal and Provincial Administrations. Probably it should have even more attention.

Demonstration Farm Records

Six Notable Records in the R.O.P. At Ft Saskatchewan

The Canadian Pacific Demonstration Farm at Strathmore, has just published six notable records in the R.O.P. with two and three-year-old Holstein heifers, one of each age producing 30 pounds of butterfat to qualify for a place in the 30,000 pound list of cows. All of the heifers, excepting one that is two-year-old, were bred at the farm and two of the three-year-olds made their records in the 305 day test. The leader in the group, Strathmore Pauline Pabst child, a three-year-old, in the 365 day test produced 23,583 pounds of milk and 1073.75 pounds butter with an average test of 2.65 per cent. fat.

New Slot Machine

Coin-in-slot safety locks for bicycles are being installed about some of the bicycle garages in Berlin. After one of the city's thousands of cyclists has chained his wheel to a post, he turns the cycle it locks automatically. He then inserts a coin which releases the key in the field and retains the key until he is ready to use the bicycle again.

Skull on Side of Rock Commemorates 'Soapy' Smith

"Soapy" Smith was a tough guy He shot men for the fun of it and robbed them when there was nothing better to do. He had a trick of squeezing to wrap a cake of soap in a five dollar bill and of selling it to a gullible stranger for a few cents

Because of that they called him "Soapy" up in Skagway in the gold rush days of '98. But "Soapy" was too tough and too slippery even for the rough frontier of the north One day he met his slow on the draw He was shot and killed and buried with his antagonist, whom he had mortally wounded, in the little cemetery adjoining the town

When news of his sudden and long hoped for death arrived the townspeople apparently thought something should be done to commemorate the end of a desperate career

Someone had said that "Soapy" was buried on a rock. A party pointed out a skull on a cliff and lettered "Soapy's" name on it Today tourists to Skagway stand and photograph this relic of a day that is no more.

Alaska and the Yukon are sunny places of green hill sides and flowers, of placid lakes and roaring rivers of great peaks and deep valleys when the boats cruise up there in the summer time This year the service is to be augmented by the S S Prince Henry, of the Canadian National Steamships. The C.N.S. "Prince Rupert" and the "Prince George," of the same line are already known for their comfort and seaworthy qualities to the thousands of tourists who each year make the voyage up the well-known Inside Passage to Prince Rupert and Skagway. Two other new steamers now being built for the Canadian National Pacific Coast Service, the "Prince Robert" and the "Prince David," will ply between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle.

Rush To Take Up Land Near Prince Albert

More homesteads are being staked upon north of Prince Albert this year than any year since the country has been opened up and the rush to take up land is unprecedented, according to J. W. McDermid, prominent Prince Albert lumber merchant.

Mr McDiarmid states that the new settlers are nearly all Canadians and Americans. They appear anxious, he said, to raise what they believe to be the last chance to secure free land in northern Saskatchewan, as the railway is pushed out 80 miles northeast and northwest of Prince Albert as a result of this activity.

The Prince Albert citizen says that he could not put a collar on when company comes, to show that bondage still. There is evidence for this argument in the fact that the men usually puts his collar on Others say that the collar really begins with the made use of it in the Tudor age when men were too busy to wash their necks

But such arguments stand on more or less flimsy ground. The real source of the collar seems to have been in Adam's attempt to conceal the fact that he could not swallow everything his wife handed him There was a bit of truth in your remember, that lodged in his neck.—Edmonton Journal.

The Flickering Light

The Dethroned Hero Is Always a Pathetic Figure

Fortunate are the men who walk the quiet lanes of life, content with the performance of modest duties. Renown is not for them, nor do they seek it. To be appreciated by their friends is the fulfillment of desire. When they at last leave off their tasks a few simple farewells suffice. The public does not mark their passing.

Not so of men who have reached high places. The dethroned hero is a pathetic figure. In our country, for example, much is made of baseball heroes. But a few short seasons that ears ring with public acclaim. Then comes the inevitable day when they are thrown, shrill and cruel, aside. And when they are through they are conspicuously through.

Eminences are hard to reach. The day of glory is short. After that the swift descent and—the dust. —Toledo Blade.

Elevation Above Sea Level

Geodetic Survey Is Placing Tablets All Over Canada

The method of the Geodetic Survey of Canada, of taking the height of elevations above sea level throughout the Dominion, takes the form of affixing 3-inch bronze tablets to any available permanent walls or bases wherever necessary. By reference to one of these bench marks, as they are called, the elevation above sea-level of any part in its vicinity can be ascertained. The tablets are to be found set up in a wide variety of places of permanence, such as town halls, post offices, libraries, banks, churches, railway stations, grain elevators, schools, armouries, water towers, water mains, monuments, highway and railway bridges, subways, tunnels, stone arches culverts, rock cuts, boulders, rock surfaces, and in other locations where they are not likely to be quickly affected by the passage of time

Investing Hours Of Rest

Great Need Is Some Value Of Using Sabbath Properly

With all our new ideas we have not improved upon the old custom of using the Sabbath as a day of rest and for the worship of Almighty God. That may strike the modern mind as being a trifle old-fashioned, but there is abundant evidence of late years to show that it is actually and historically correct

It is not necessary on Sunday to lock the motor car in the garage; it is not necessary to wear a particular kind of hat. The great need is a new view of property investing the hours, free from the labor of the week, which are measured out to us between Saturday and Monday.

Opposed Confederation

For the first time since Confederation, there was no Dominion Day issue of an evening newspaper in Halifax. Consistent with the policy of its owner, C. C. Blackadar, in consistent opposition to Confederation, the Acadian Recorder never recognized the anniversary of provincial union by title process on July 1, but on May 10 of this year, one month after its owner's death, the Recorder ceased publication.

Norway is working to have all its labor difficulties at any time settled by arbitration.

The Collar Button

Patent Is Claimed From the Long-Suffering Man

Collars are a nuisance. Much has been written about the illogic of man's dress, about trousers that are ugly, coats that are hot, socks that are always slipping down; but of the twenty-odd items of apparel counting collar buttons) that a man wears at business collars take the pain for imaginary

There have been several reasons advanced for the continued use of the collar. Some say that it is a relic of that age when men wore brazen bands about their necks as evidence of their slavery, and that the survival is due to the insistence of the modern woman that her husband put his collar on when company comes, to show that bondage still. There is evidence for this argument in the fact that the man usually puts his collar on Others say that the collar really began with the made use of it in the Tudor age when men were too busy to wash their necks

But such arguments stand on more or less flimsy ground. The real source of the collar seems to have been in Adam's attempt to conceal the fact that he could not swallow everything his wife handed him There was a bit of truth in your remember, that lodged in his neck.—Edmonton Journal.

Prefers New York Route

Report Points Out Difficulties In Air say Via Greenland

Although the idea of a southern trans-Atlantic air mail route that would bring English letters to Canada through New York is less attractive to Canadians than that of a northern route across Greenland, the project is a much more feasible one, is the opinion of Air Commodore J. A. Chamber, a director of Vickers Aviation, London, and head of the Supermarine Aviation Company of Southampton, expressed when in Montreal after an brief tour of Western Canada.

He says many reasons why a northern airway would be difficult to establish. Lights would be necessary along the way; landing places would have to be available for emergencies in a part of the world where no one lives now; if radio beacons were to be used there would be dangerous interference because of the electrical phenomena of the north; boat would be necessary in the "plane; sheds and buildings would be needed and these, too, would have to be heated, while travelling near the equator would obviate most of these difficulties.

First Practical Lifeboat

Was Built By Henry Greathead In 1789

Devotion and courage are inseparably associated with the saving of life at sea, and even though the unpropelled boat has largely given place to the steam lifeboat, the thrill of the launch and the excitement of the dash to the wreck still remain The lifeboat staff of the National Research Laboratories have been announced. Three of these appointees are returning to Canada from positions in the United States, these being: William H. Graham, research fellow at the Mellon Institute for Industrial Research, Pittsburgh, Pa., R. G. Ballard, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Morris Katz, investigator, Trail Smelter reference, International Joint commission, Northport, Washington.

Oddities Of Electricity

People vary greatly in their resistance to electricity. A shock strong enough to kill a sober man will probably not kill the same man drunk, and a person is less liable to be killed by an electric shock if he receives it time it is received People suffering from disease are usually very sensitive to electricity, but idiots are just the reverse.

What City People Miss

Calling At Post Office For Mail and a Little Gossip

Folk in the big cities miss one of the best entertainments that is the privilege of small-town people — that at the post office. Seven and ten men and women will stop as they go by, and inquire for or look for their letters. Some are they don't expect any, but they want to step just the same. Probably they will drop in twice after one has to put up and before another comes in, justifying their act with the idea that a letter may have been put in the box and misplaced and found. And a town which has a bad-humored postmaster is up against a hard proposition to get him to go to the post office is to joke with the fellow who runs it.

Maybe He Was

Two elderly men, both extremely deaf, met on a country road. Dave had a fishing pole in his wagon. When he saw his friend Jim he stopped the horse.

"Didn' fishin'?" shouted Jim.

"No," replied Dave, "I'm gohn' fishin'."

"Oh," said Jim, "I thought maybe you was goin' fishin'."

Sixteen Years Ago Today

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard 22nd JULY 1914

All grain is forging ahead rapidly and prospects for a heavy crop are as favorable as earlier in the season.

The bulk of the hay crop is now cut and going into stack in good shape.

Ed. Mayhew had the misfortune to have a leg broken at the Wellesdale sports last week. During a novelty horse race a mix-up took place in which Mr. Mayhew was thrown, his horse falling on his leg.

Charles M. Flaherty died at his home about 10 miles north of Vermilion on July 16 of cancer of the throat which developed some eight months ago. He was 56 years of age and came here with his family six years ago from North Dakota. A widow and 7 children (4 boys and 3 girls) survive him, ranging in age from 4 years to 22. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Father Gontier on Saturday.

Bob Bechtel was seriously injured in a runaway Wednesday while engaged in teaming gravel for the streets. Thrown on the doubletree, he was run over, being badly bruised and cut up; the Standard learns he also sustained a broken leg.

The town is calling for tenders for furnishing material and construction of 11,000 feet of plank walk, 4 feet 8 inches wide on two stringers, and 1000 feet of crossing built of 2x4 on edge and laid in tar, sand and gravel.

(Editors' Note: There will be no 16 Years Ago notes next week as the Standard was not published on July 29th, 1914.)

Vermilion, Alta., July 24, 1930.

During the week both the north and south farming areas of the Vermilion district received copious downpours of rain and during last night the intervening country including the town enjoyed a particularly heavy fall, ushered in by one of the most spectacular and intense electric storms of years. The storm was at its height between midnight and 1 a.m. and was the climax of a day of intense heat. It has been a very warm week and the crops throughout the country present a magnificent sight. The stand of grain is the heaviest ever seen here.

The Pending Completion Of Hudson Bay Railway Will Stimulate Mining Interest

With the Hudson Bay Railway in the final season of construction, and again improved passenger and freight service, exploration of mineral properties to which the Bay line is tributary, has started on a really important scale for the first time. Several companies and syndicates have launched programmes to develop groups of claims in the neighborhood of the new steel trail

A dull mineral season is in view for the region north of Churchill, but reports circulating in mining circles point to interesting activity along the Hudson Bay Railway

Within the past few weeks half a dozen parties have travelled north on the line to explore promising areas quietly, before there are signs of a rush to one of the many new discoveries northeast of The Pas

However it is unlikely that prospectors will be allowed to travel north of Mile 412 this year unless special arrangements are made with the federal government. Moves thus are well-known mining man from northern Ontario has reached The Pas this summer with the hope of travelling to Churchill but they have been disappointed in one instance, it was refused an argument here over the fact that an eastern station agent had checked his equipment right through to Churchill and he had hurried to The Pas only to find that he could not go to the port And prospective officials explained present regulations to the prospector and he has to be content with one trip until another season It is reported in The Pas that efforts will also be made this year to have down liners reports that deposits of native silver lie in that great triangle between the Hudson Bay Railway and bounded by God s River on the east and Grafton Lake on the south

Last year there were samples of beautiful filigree silver ore brought this way into The Pas from York Factory It was stated then that a York Factory man and some Indian companions had found the native metal somewhere in the myriad triangle Excellent detective work on the part of mining engineers failed to show up the origin of the native silver, and the find—if there has been one—remains undivulged

For years Indian lore has hinted of spectacular silver to be found in that 62,500 square miles of territory This season may see a climax to the finding drama of centuries and, who knows but what a second Cobalt may spring up that little explored region north of York Factory on Hudson Bay.

Power Resources Of Manitoba

Claimed That 72 Per Cent. Of Water Power Resources Of Province Are Located In Manitoba.

The considerable power resources of the Province of Manitoba are estimated at 3,000,000 h.p., of which 300,000 h.p. already are in operation, 21 per cent. of the total. 72 per cent. of the water power resources in the Prairie Provinces are situated in Manitoba. The Winnipeg River power sites are estimated to be sufficient to provide for a population of 2,500,000 persons, ample load to provide employment for 300,000 industrial workers. This power will turn out products worth in the neighborhood of a billion dollars every year.

Selling Pace In Egg-Laying Contest

Rhode Island Red Hen Lead Of Seven Points

Records of the Canadian egg-laying contest at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa, this year, show egg production to be 2.7 per cent. above last year and 3.6 per cent. higher than in 1928 for the corresponding period. Birds entered appear to be averaging into greater production with the approach of summer. 33 pens having reached or passed the fifty-egg mark during the thirty-second week of the contest. It is interesting to note that of these 33 pens, 21 are White Leghorns.

While a pen of Barred Plymouth Rocks holds the leading position in the contest to date the leading individual layer so far is a Rhode Island Red. Two Barred Rock entries and this leading Rhode Island have layed the same number of eggs—14 but a slight advantage in weight on the part of the heavier Rhode Island Red gives her a lead of seven points over her nearest rival.

There is, however, indication that this year's egg-laying contest will show the same gratifying increase in egg production which has been in evidence each year since the contest were instituted in 1919 Some official explained present regulations to the prospector and he has to be content with one trip until another season It is reported in The Pas that efforts will also be made this year to have down liners reports that deposits of native silver lie in that great triangle between the Hudson Bay Railway and bounded by God s River on the east and Grafton Lake on the south

Last year there were samples of beautiful filigree silver ore brought this way into The Pas from York Factory It was stated then that a York Factory man and some Indian companions had found the native metal somewhere in the myriad triangle Excellent detective work on the part of mining engineers failed to show up the origin of the native silver, and the find—if there has been one—remains undivulged

For years Indian lore has hinted of spectacular silver to be found in that 62,500 square miles of territory This season may see a climax to the finding drama of centuries and, who knows but what a second Cobalt may spring up that little explored region north of York Factory on Hudson Bay.

Fruit Crop Prospects

Prospects For 1930 Crop Are Considered To Be Good

The fruit crop prospects for 1930, as on June 1st, are encouraging and, generally speaking, indicate the possibility of a total crop approximating that of 1929 according to the Department of Agriculture's crop report. Dr Cheriske, phone peaches, pears and grapes, all indicate considerable increase over last year ranging from 9 per cent. in the case of cherries to 34 per cent. for plums. Apples (crabbe well and while the total crop is expected to be less than last year, indications point to a yield equal to or slightly heavier than the average commercial crop for the five-year period 1925-29, estimated at 8,172,-796 barrels.

B.C. Canned Salmon

Importance of Canned Industry Is Shown By Figures

Shipments of British Columbia canned salmon from Vancouver to points outside of Canada in 1929 amounted in all to 1,213,697 cases of 48 pounds each. Indicating the importance of the Pacific Coast canned salmon industry as a factor in the export trade of Canada Australasian countries continued to be first among the purchasers with France and the British Isles third Thirty different countries were customers of the British Columbia canned salmon exporters last year

Does Not Indicate Hard Times

That the American people are still "rolling along" on rubber tires is evident from the March consumption figures of gasoline for forty-three states of the Union, which show use of 96,000,000 gallons daily, or 7 1 per cent. more than in the corresponding month of 1929. This does not look so much like "hard times" as do crowded purchasing power.

There are upwards of 1,500 passenger automobiles owned in various parts of England.

The London city directory contains such names as Goddard, Lily, Wood, Glass, Cups and Lessup.

CENTER FOR ALPINE CLIMBING

Into a country where there are many important peaks still unconquered and even unnamed, will come Alpinists from all over the world for the 1930 annual camp of the Alpine Club, of Canada, July 28th to August 16th, in Jasper National Park. Alpine members of the medical profession of England, will be among those at this year's camp.

In this vast mountain kingdom, climbers will try their skill in the Maligne Lake region, where such peaks as Mt. Sampson, Mt. Charlton, Mt. Unwin, Mt. Warren, Mt. Mary Vaux, Mt. Maligne, and Mt. Brenner —ranging from ten to eleven thousand feet in height, offer most interesting climbing problems.

It is perhaps the splendid profitgality, the massing of effects that distinguishes this region from all others. In the Rockies the folly of comparisons, where beauty is concerned, is always obvious. There are a score of lakes, each different, which, once seen, hold their place in the heart forever. Yet each stands out among them all. Where many of the others are chamber music, Maligne is the great orchestra. The composition forms one picture but into it has gone enough beauty to make a dozen regions famous.

The Maligne Valley is one of the most interesting in Jasper National Park, not only on account of its remarkable canyon, but because of its two beautiful lakes — Medicine and Maligne.

The famous canyon of the Maligne River is an interesting example of what nature can do in the way of natural carving with unceasing aeons of worshiping and rushing water as her tool. Its great depth, its narrowness—in places it is scarcely more than a few feet between dark walls of rock—and the great size of the pot holes, worn by the water in the course of ages, all make it of extreme interest to the geologist and nature lover and Alpinist alike.

One of the very interesting features of this canyon is the re-appearance at many places throughout its length of subterranean streams. It is believed that these streams form part of the underflow of Medicine Lake. Their combined waters so increase the volume of the river that by the canyon its volume is about four times greater than above the gorge.

New Provincial Park For British Columbia

Is One Of World's Finest Stands Of Timber

Cameron Lake Forest, on Vancouver Island, one of the world's finest stands of timber, will be made a provincial park under the plans announced by Premier Tolmie. As a first step in this project, probably the most important ever undertaken in Canada to preserve a virgin forest, the government has ordered an immediate cruise of the entire Cameron Lake area. This will be undertaken by the provincial forestry service and a report will be filed with the government before fall.

The Cameron Lake Forest, known to travellers from every part of the world, lies between the lake and the hills which are crowned by snow-capped Mount Arrowsmith. It consists of giant fir, cedar and balsam, growing close together and reaching to such heights that the inland highway, winding around them, is in twilight on a sunny day.

Recently an international conference of Associated Country Women's Institutes was held at Vienna, Austria, at which delegates from most of the important countries were present.

Destructive Wheat Disease

Loss Caused By Foot - Rot Greater Than Any Other

Of all the diseases of wheat affecting wheat "Take-All," or foot-rot, is the most destructive, observed the Dominion Botanist in the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa. The actual loss caused by it is far greater than by any other of the diseases, rust included, or perhaps a combination of all known fungous diseases affecting wheat. Little is known about this disease is that it appears only once in a series of years. Fortunately for the farmer, however, the proper care and the wholehearted support of Western farmers have put the disease under control. A research society established in Canada.

Ornamental Shrubs

Development Of Hardy Types Of Shrubs Is Discussed

Not the least important of the work being done by the Experimental Farms and Stations of the Dominion Department of Agriculture is the development of types of ornamental trees and shrubs and hardy perennials, and gardens in the Farms are suitable for use in all parts of Canada. Many of these have been found suited to even the most difficult climatic conditions, and the report of the Experimental Farms or Station nearest you will provide an indication of varieties adapted to use in your locality.

WHEAT BUYING TO BE TOPIC AT EMPIRE PARLEY

London, Eng.—The Labor Government, through Rt. Hon. Phillip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has now made it clear that all the British Dominions can hope for at the Imperial Conference next November is a discussion of the possibilities of participating in a system of bulk purchases through an import board.

This system would, for example, enable the Canadian Wheat Pool to sell to the British Government direct, but whether British general election, which is not far off now, and unless the visiting premiers are tactful and diplomatic they will find themselves involved.

In spite of Mr. Snowden's declaration, the Laborites are anxious about the outcome of the conference because they realize that if the Dominions make concessions to Britain it would be difficult to reject them without giving the Conservatives an opportunity of exploiting the question throughout the country as party propaganda.

Canada's Position Sound

Country Mostly Passing Through Temporary Period Of Depression

Victoria, B.C.—Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, arrived in Victoria at the end of his trans-Canada survey. He summarized his conclusions on business conditions as follows:

"We can't expect the sun to shine all the time; times are bound to be showers. But so many people are talking a shower for a cyclone.

"We have got to look below the surface and see if there is anything wrong with our fundamentals.

If we diagnose the position of the country, organically so to speak, you will find that we have the most outrageous and intelligent population we had a year ago.

"That tells us that we have no disease, or, as the doctors would diagnose it, we are merely passing through a headache or a cold.

We could not have had the stock market losses of the crash last year and have the wheels turned down all the markets in the world, without these losses finding expression in reduced purchasing power of the people in all lines.

"Things will probably reach time for a while longer until the public recovers its purchasing power. If we have a good crop on the Canadian prairies this year we will be well on our way upwards next year."

Six Women Candidates In Election Campaign

One Running In Manitoba and Two In Saskatchewan

Ottawa, Ont.—Miss Agnes McPhail may have to look to her laurels as the only lady member of the House of Commons, if the returns and the ballis lost or won. For there are twice as many women candidates in the present election campaign as there were in last. Ontario has two, including Miss MacPhail; Manitoba, one; Saskatchewan, two; Quebec, one, a total of six against three in the election of 1926 and four in that of 1925. And women too are likely to have more to say in the result. They are attending meetings. The new system of enumeration has put more of them on the voting lists.

Miss MacPhail was the first woman elected to the Federal House, and for three parliaments she has remained in her isolation.

At Ottawa, Miss MacPhail has been persistent in her attacks on the no-confidence evidence of militarism. At the League of Nations Assembly last September, she was outstanding proponent of the George Foster on the disarmament committee—the first woman to represent Canada at the League.

In the 1926 campaign, Miss MacPhail had the comfortable majority of 4,738, but this year she has a Conservative. Both a Liberal and a Conservative were in the field early in this present campaign, but Miss MacPhail has also got a straight fight on her hands.

Produces Better Eggs

Poultry Experts Find Large Hen Excels In Production

The larger hen is the better the eggs she lays and the more there are of them. Poultry experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture find that body weight has a very direct relation to egg production. A hen that has gained from 1257.9 eggs a year, weighing 32 ounces to the Dozen. With each ¼ pound increase in body weight, there is increase in the number of eggs layed and their weight per dozen—a four and a half pound hen lays 200 eggs more and 308.6 eggs a year weighing 36.5 ounces to the dozen. This item should be of interest to farmers keeping poultry flocks.

Ban U.S. Unemployed

Action Is Taken To Prevent Surplus Hiram Entry

Vancouver, B.C. Hon. Ian Mackenzie, recently appointed Minister of Immigration and Colonization, has asked to have his department prevent the surreptitious entry of unemployed United States workers into Canada

Instructions have been issued in Ottawa by Deputy Minister W. J. Egan to border inspectors to keep a sharp lookout for indications of attempts by United States citizens to make illegal entry into this country. Co-operation of the railway department and mounted police has also been sought, he states in a telegram to Mr Mackenzie.

Mr Mackenzie's statement at Ottawa "Having had reason to suspect that unemployed United States are surreptitiously trying to make their way into Canada, I wished my deputy minister to exercise the utmost vigilance to see that this does not occur

In view of the steps that will be taken in the near future to cope with unemployment in our Canadian cities, particularly in the west, we wish to ensure that the assistance rendered shall be to our own people only"

Will Participate In World's Grain Exhibition and Conference

Regina, Sask.—According to word received, Belgium has officially accepted the invitation to take part in the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held here from July 25 to August 6, 1932.

Some little time ago official invitations were sent from the Dominion Government to all countries inviting them to participate A few countries in which cereal production is not carried on, or carried on to a very small extent, have gratefully expressed their inability to take part; others including the United States, Bolivia, Columbia and Chile have expressed their interest and asked for further information for consideration, and official acceptances have been received from Peru, Jugoslavia, Gautemala, New Zealand, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, The Netherlands and Belgium, eight in all.

Mr. Mooney, the managing director, is now in Europe for the purpose of interviewing government officials and supplying to them detailed information relative to this great Canadian enterprise. His visit is expected to be the means of stimulating a greater interest on the part of European countries The fact that many countries, two years previous to the holding of the show have accepted the invitation to participate and send delegates is taken as a good omen for the 1932 show

TWO WARSHIPS SENT TO EGYPT TO QUELL RIOTING

London England Great Britain has approximately 9,800 troops stationed in Egypt. Two ships were ordered to Suez, a quarter in the House of Commons The troops consist of three cavalry regiments, two batteries of artillery, an infantry institutions and auxiliary troops, Sharp said The troops are stationed at Cairo Ismailia, Alexandria and Port Said

There was some question among political observers whether the British Government would not intervene in Egypt in view of its obligation to protect foreigners there

Reports that eight or more foreigners were killed in rioting at Alexandria were not confirmed however and it was certain the present British Government would not act precipitately

The British Government has ordered the battleships "Queen Elizabeth" and "Ramillies" to proceed to Alexandria for the protection of foreign lives and property, it was declared by dis-orders at that place

Prime Minister MacDonald, in announcing the dispatch of the warships, also informed the House of Commons that Sidky Pasha, the present Egyptian premier, and Nahas Pasha, former premier and Nationalist leader had been warned that trouble would be responsible for the protection of foreign lives and interests.

New Form Of Farm Relief

U.S. Farmers Advised To 4 or Wheat As Dairy Feed

East Lansing Mich Agricultural experts at Michigan State College advise a new form of farm relief to those who are worrying about the price of wheat.

Feed it to livestock, says a statement issued by four department heads At present prices wheat is worth $5 more a ton as a dairy feed than as a commercial cereal, the experts assert adding that farmers can save $10 a ton by feeding wheat instead of corn.

IMPORTANCE OF GARNET WHEAT DEMONSTRATED

Ottawa, Ont Garnet wheat is assured a position of first importance in the supply of Canadian wheat going to European markets This opinion was expressed by L. H Newman dominion cerealist, under whose direction the tests of milling and baking qualities of Garnet wheat were recently conducted in Britain and on the continent.

The statement issued recently based on his recent report dealing with the tests. Mr Newman set forth that the results of the report showed through the criticism of Canadian millers that flour from Garnet wheat was not as white as the flour of Marquis, and that Garnet being a very hard vitreous grain, might present some difficulties in the actual milling when mixed with Marquis and other wheats now being grown

Conclusions of the report show fairly clearly I think that these objections do not attain to anything like serious degree in England, or on the continent that they do here" observed Mr. Newman

"Both because of the fact that over there they blend wheat which they obtain from all over the world and also because of the strong and tempering Australia in the overseas auth orities anticipate no difficulty in the handling of Garnet because of its high grade it will enable the use of larger quantities if low grade wheats such as were produced in Canada in 1928 The heifer flour from Garnet is needed to improve the quality of flour made from low grade wheats It is as an improver of blends that Garnet will find its greatest value

Regarding the relation between Garnet, Marquis and Howard wheats from the grower's standpoint the Dominion cerealist declared that Garnet was not intended to take the place of Marquis It was only in particularly recommended for growing in districts where Marquis could be grown but which are better suited to Canada in 1928 The heifer flour from Garnet is needed to improve the quality of flour made from low grade wheats It is as an improver of blends that Garnet will find its greatest value

CACTUS FOUND SOUTH OF VERMILION

A cactus plant was brought in and left at the Standard office last Friday afternoon which had been found on the farm of Mr. Gerald King, located on 22-49-6. The cactus was in full bloom, having two odorless and pink like flowers, resembling a rose, on the plant, and was well protected with cactus thorns. There are many of this variety of cactus growing on a small knoll on his farm. The soil is pure gumbo. The gentleman who left the plant in said that he had never seen this section of country for the many years and had never seen a cactus here before, though they are supposed to be in southern Alberta. Mr. Imley, of North Vermilion who saw the plant said that in Australia they are called the Australian prickly pear and grow in thousands in that country.

HIGHWAY GRADES BEING BROUGHT TO STANDARD

Owing to the affliction of the Minister of Melborne recently, the opening of public works has had to contracts for the bringing up to standard grades of the highway grade between Vermilion and Kitscoty. Work has already begun, the 7 miles from the west end being the rotten down and widening of the grade two miles east of town at the 10th tender there. It is understood that the bulk of the work will be done between Islay and Kitscoty.

Young Conservatives Hold Meetings

Although not quite as advertised the Young Conservative Club held two very interesting meetings on Tuesday of this week when Mr. Ian Ramsay of the Young Conservative Association, Edmonton, was the principal speaker. Mrs. Victor Johnson was unable to be present as advertised and Mr Ramsay also addressed the ladies meeting in the committee room in the afternoon. The speaker spent most of his time at the evening meeting contrasting the conservative policy of the Conservatives with the Liberals, the latter of which he showed by contrasting the failure of the conservatives during the recent Dominion budget. The presentation of the material by Mr Ramsay was clear cut and precise.

Mr Fallow also spoke at the evening meeting and though devoting very little time to actual discussion of politics, alluded to Mr Spencer's speech of last Thursday night saying that instead of telling us what the U. F. A. were prepared to do to put Canada back on its feet, he spent his entire evening talking about what had happened the last nine years in parliament. Mr. Fallow pointed out that Mr Spencer did not offer one solution for any of the problems confronting the people of Canada today, whereas the Beaumont platform had solutions that would be put into effect immediately, covering every aspect of Canada's present situation. He also showed what to him was the absolute uselessness of the little group system which had no platform and nothing on which to work.

After the meeting in the evening Mr Ramsay was the guest of the Young Conservatives at the home of the Vice-Presidents, Miss Kathleen Craig.

CLANDONALD CHAUTAUQUA AUGUST 1-2-4-5

When the idea was first suggested that the children in each Chautauqua Community should have a full-length play of their own, many obstacles arose. There was the difficulty of finding the right play, and the difficulty of finding a cast which could present it.

With the discovery of this splendid version of "Jack and the Beanstalk," and almost simultaneously the discovery of Miss Marguerite Boland, who is perfectly cast as Jack, the difficulties melted away, and the kiddies are to have their own entertainment.

It is as artistic and as carefully prepared as anything which has come out of the Martin Erwin Studios, and the undying charm of the story is further enhanced by the use of certain stage effects as novel and as beautiful as Mr. Erwin has yet devised.

Jack and the Beanstalk promises to be a highlight of the program, not only for the children, whom it will certainly entrance, but for the grown ups as well for the charm of a fairy tale never grows old. This play will be presented on the fourth afternoon of Clandonald Chautauqua.

The Home Loving Weeds

I have seen farmers, standing in their own yards up to their very knees in weeds, while they were complaining to the inspector about the weeds in a neighbor's wheat crop. True the neighbor had weeds in his wheat but that wheat represented all that his neighbor had in the world. Yet our friend would have that crop cut on account of the weeds and would see no harm in turn a flame against the weeds in his own yard and other unpolluted areas on the farm. Is this wide-hearted cooperation? Obviously, no. Furthermore is there any reason why the Pigweed, Lamb's Quarters, Shepherd's Purse, Stinkweed, etc., etc., in these uncultivated areas should not be destroyed? Of course not.

Fortunately this year has been it early in the germination of every weed seed in such ground. Consider the results if these plants are destroyed before they set their seeds! I sincerely believe that many of our largest infestations have in these very places, for there are many methods whereby they may spread

Let us give a few hours to this work. It will mean a tidy place, will be a reduction on chaltcer, co-operation and ability. Above all it will do a great deal towards weed control and better agriculture

Here and There

Pressure of business and growth of the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs has necessitated the appointment of an assistant general manager of the system, W. D. Neill, assistant manager, western lines, Winnipeg, having been promoted to the position. Other appointments resulting from this are: W. M. Thompson, superintendent, Ontario Division, Toronto, to be assistant manager, western lines, Winnipeg; H. S. Fox Film Corporation during early July took sound records of the wind in the pines, the music of the waterfalls and the rippling of streams around Banff Springs Hotel and into this buzzed atmosphere there will be placed actors and actresses who will be shown climbing mountains, walking by the side of lakes or canoeing on watercourses they have never seen.

Beating the world's record in passenger traffic operations, western Canada came into the limelight at the end of June with 3,283 mile continuous run from Port William to Calgary performed by Canadian Pacific engine No. 2858, of the 2G class. This locomotive is one of several now in service and under construction for the railway and are the latest type of passenger engine.

Carrying nearly a hundred tourists organized by the Universities of Montreal, a special Canadian Pacific train left Montreal July 5 for western Canada and the Pacific Coast. This tour is the sixth annual transcontinental trip undertaken and will last for three weeks The richest industrial, agricultural and commercial districts of Canada, as well as the most beautiful scenery, including the Rocky Mountains, will be visited.

A total of over $87,000,000 is to be spent this year on the construction and maintenance of roads throughout Canada. Ontario has set aside $12,500,000 of which $10,000,000 is for new construction; Quebec will spend $11,500,000 for extending, improving and maintaining the provincial system of roads. Manitoba will expend $10,000,000; the Province, $15,000,000, and British Columbia, $8,500,000, representing a total of $87,000,000 spent by provincial governments.

The old gentleman, Father Time, often regarded as somewhat relentless, has had one last over him by the plant breeders at the Government Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa. Two crops of grain are now grown there in each year one in the open and the other in greenhouses, brilliantly lighted with electric lamps, which have by rare to be good substitutes for sun's rays.

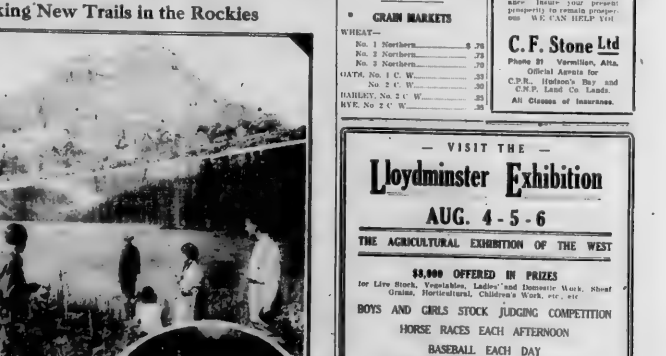
Breaking New Trails in the Rockies



Every year the Order of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies gathers together its devotees who set out into the unknown, or the almost unknown, on mountain ponies from the starting point at the Banff Springs Hotel or Chateau Lake Louise. For those new to the game there is a trail ride of a few days, covering, however, little travelled paths, while for the expert there is a ride of three weeks penetrating to the heart of the Rockies, and both in a Grand Pow-wow or campfire meeting when songs are sung and the feeling of general jollity is perpetuated These Trail rides are held in August when the weather is at its best and lovers of the outdoors gain an experience which, even if they never repeat it, will furnish them with memories and stories for a life time. Every year new trails are broken, the one last year being over Gibbon Pass, named after the founder of the Order. The rides attract travellers from every part of the continent and from Europe, and some 1,500 of them are now enrolled in the Order.

Lay-out shows riders passing through Gibbon Pass, taking a rest at Shadow Lake with Mount Ball in the background, and feeding an arm of the Lake of Hanging Glaciers.

Thursday Night's U.F.A. Meeting

H. E. Spencer, Speaker, Mayor Fallow and Russell Love Also On Platform

The U.F.A. meeting in the interests of H. E. Spencer, who is seeking re-election after nine years of service in the house, was held in the Armories last Thursday evening. Mr. C. East acted as chairman and Russell Love, M.L.A. for Wainwright, and W. A. Fallow also addressed the meeting, the latter in the interests of the Conservative party and at the invitation of Mr. Spencer and Mr. East.

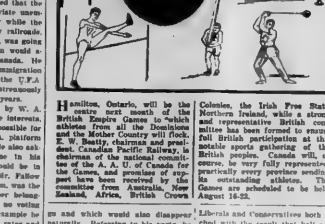
Russell Love opened the speaking and touched on several leading topics of the day, at the same time leaving the solution of the problems to Mr. Spencer. Mr. Love criticised the Beuett platform, saying that it would increase the national debt half a billion dollars and thus increase taxation in proportion. He also claimed that the Bennett policy would alleviate unemployment only temporarily while the public work, such as new railroads, trans-Canada highway, etc., was going on, then the same problem would again be on the hands of Canada. He also condemned the past immigration policy and showed how the U.F.A. group in parliament had strenuously condemned this policy for years.

Mr. Love was followed by W. A. Fallow in the Conservative interests, who stated that it was impossible for him to criticise the U.F.A. platform because there was none. He also asked Mr. Spencer to outline in his speech what his stand would be in Parliament if returned. Mr. Fallow also pointed out what, to him, was the futility of having a member belonging to a small group with no voting power in the house. For example he cited the Crow's Nest Pass rates, the Deuchanois power treaty, the Progressive group being instrumental in bringing both before the house, and barring the former passed, with Mackenzie King taking the credit for it, and being pushed aside on the latter. Mr. Fallow ably refuted several of the previous arguments concern ing the Conservative platform, and pointed out how this platform would tend to bring the country back to normalcy. He claimed the all-Canada highway would be a great benefit to the farmers, as it would be their produce which would be mostly bought by local people. He also stressed that the development of the vast potential wealth pr Canada would all date the unemployment situation and this the Liberals have made no attempt to do

In introducing Henry Spencer, Mr East stated that while he had not paid the Progressive group by the speaker of the house in which he ever had reason to complain, on the industry and untiring application to duty Mr. Spencer in taking the floor also offered congratulations to Mr. Morrison for the good clean campaign which he was conducting, and that it supplied him with ample ammunition for the day. He also admirably refuted Mr. Fallow's statement that there was no platform. Mr. East then went on to enumerate the record of the U.F.A. members for the past nine years and stated that he would let that record speak for itself. He showed the alleged failure of the party answer which came into being naturally some two hundred years a

Empire Games at Hamilton

Hamilton, Ontario, will be the centre next month of the British Empire Games to which athletes from all the Dominions and the Motherland will flock. E. W. Beatty, chairman and president, Canadian Pacific Railway, is chairman of the national committee of the A. A. U. of Canada for the Games, and promises of support have been received by the committee from Australia, New Zealand, Africa, British Crown Colonies, the Irish Free State, Northern Ireland, while a strong and representative Canadian committee has been formed to ensure full British Empire entry at this notable sports gathering of the British peoples. Canada will, of course, be very fully represented, practically every province sending its outstanding stars. The Games are scheduled to be held August 16-23.



WE feature Goodyear Tires because we know they're the most satisfactory and biggest-value tire on the market today. But you don't have to take our word for it. We've got two tests which will prove it.

Come to our shop and prove your hand on the Goodyear All-Weather Tread. That's test number one. You'll feel the grip of the deep-cut, sharp-edged blocks which are placed in the centre of the tread—where they belong.

Test number two. See for yourself on our cord-testing machine that Goodyear Supertwist Cord used in all Goodyear Tires has far greater stretch than ordinary cord. This extra stretch gives the Goodyear cushion, flexibility, enabling it to withstand road-shocks.

That's how to get the "low-down" on tire value. It's fun making the "Come to town" time you're passing.

Sir Thomas Howard, British ambassador to the United States, who was granted a barony on the recent King's birthday, has taken the title of Baron Howard of Penrith.

British unemployment figures are still showing upward a government report indicates. The Ministry of Labor announced that on July 7 the total out of work was 1,933,300 a gain of 14,275 over the previous week and 789,254 more than the same period last year.

Canada's Gold Production

Production in Canada Now Larger Than That Of U.S.

Canada has certainly been making rapid strides in gold production as compared with the United States, and last year the total production of gold east of Canadian territory was actually larger than taken out of United States. The United States, however, has also reports on production from gold mines in Alaska and in the Philippine Islands. According to mining engineers it is only a matter of a little time when the gold mines in Canada will be producing considerably in excess of what the United States is turning out, because the tendency is for the United States to report its smaller production, because many of the principal Canadian properties are gradually reporting a still larger output. Twenty-five years ago it was not thought that Canada would overhaul the United States in 100 years, and yet it has been able to achieve it in less than a quarter of a

Made Fortune From Linoleum

Ingenuity Of Englishman Started Him On Road to Success

Lord Ashton, whose amazing fortune was between thirty and forty millions, owed his wealth originally to his clever father's ingenuity says a writer in the World. The latter was a working house painter who started a little shop in Lancaster where he combined with his trade a picture-framing business. When oilcloth was introduced from America he improved on it by giving it a backing of powdered cork instead of cloth. He linoleum was invented and his fortune made. Lord Ashton himself worked in his father's factory from an early age and proved a wonderful salesman.

Will Increase Safety In Steel Construction

Electrical Finger "Feels" Strain In Steel When Under Great Pressure

An electrical finger that "feels" the invisible twists and strains in steel under great pressure was described to the American Society of Testing Materials.

The purpose is to increase safety in construction by making under conditions of actual use tests heretofore confined to research laboratories. The device was described by J. F. Shamberger, of Pittsburgh, who said it was designed by J. G. Ritter, of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

No longer than a human finger, and not much thicker, it bolts to the side of a rail and records the bend ing as a 180-ton locomotive thunders over it placed on a curve it will show the side twist of the rail under the locomotive's thrust. It can be laid upon an automobile wheel to detect how nearly bumpe comes to causing overturning.

The finger works somewhat like a slide rule, being of two parts, which telescope. This telescoping amounts only to the diameter of a tremor or a vibration, that is, something like one-ten-thousandth of an inch. Even so, a motion slides a piece of wire in or from between two sensitized electrical instruments on the finger These instruments correspond to the sense of touch They detect the motion of the bit of iron, and strike a pen-dicrotion which causes the movement. They register this movement by slight electrical changes.

The "nerves" of the finger then come into play They are plain wires, which carry the slight electrical disturbance to instruments that amplify them into movements an inch long that can be calibrated in terms of wear and tear

A Girl Fire Warden

Young Californian Guards Hundreds Of Square Miles Of Forest

Most people start at the bottom of the ladder and work up. A young California girl, however, says an article in the Young People's section of the London Daily Mail, has started as high up as it is possible to get, and is doing her exalted job very well.

She is employed as a watcher for forest fires up in a veritable eagle's nest on the very highest point of Black Mountain, almost 8,000 feet above sea-level, in the San Jacinto ranges

From her little log cabin, raised on stilts to give a clear view over the topmost trees, she looks out over hundreds of square miles of forest, signalling immediately when she sees a smoking column of smoke by day and flickering flame by night.

An Alsatian dog named Mina is her only companion. Food comes up to her on the back of a mule. For water she has to climb some way down to a fresh water spring, and the Forestry Service dammed up a spring for her.

She admits that she does not like the thunderstorms, when lightning flickers all around her watch-post, but declares that she seldom feels lonely for she was born in a cottage in the mountains and has always been accustomed to their picturesque solitude

Explanations and Comments

The Oppression At the Hands Of Jabin, verses 1-3.—When Ehud was dead, the Israelites were oppressed by the Philistines, and for fear of them travellers left the highways for the byways. With only his ox-goad as a weapon, probably at the head of many other peasants similarly armed, Shamgar killed six hundred Philistines. Then came a crisis. Jabin, king of the Northern Confederacy of the Canaanites, through Sisera, his commander-in-chief, had for twenty years held the Israelites in opposition over the northern districts of Canaan. The children of Israel cried unto Jehovah for help, for Jabin had nine hundred chariots, and they lived on the hills and had made

Deborah Judging Barak To the Defense, vev. 4-7.—The name Deborah means "Bee," and Matthew Henry, that ancient interpreter of the Bible, sees in Deborah, the judge, the fulfillment of her name by her industry, sagacity, and great usefulness to the people, her meekness, her humility and sharpness to her enemies. She is the only prophetess and the wife of Lapidoth. To quote Matthew Henry again: "The termination not being commonly found in the name of a man some make this to be the name of a place: she was "a woman of Lapidoth." Others take it appellatively, Lapidoth, signifying "lamps." The rabbis say she had employed herself in making lamps for the service of the tabernacle; and, having eloped to that place, was a prophetess

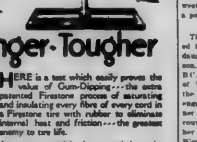
The Weight Test Shows Gum-Dipped Cords are Stronger-Tougher



HERE is a test which easily proves the value of Gum-Dipping---the extra patented Firestone process of saturating and insulating every fibre of every cord in a Firestone tire with rubber to eliminate internal heat and friction---the greatest enemy to tire life.

A two-ounce weight is suspended on the end of one strand of a cord (a) taken from an ordinary tire. The strand breaks in 15 seconds. A similar weight is suspended on a Gum-Dipped strand (b) taken from a Firestone tire---it remains unbroken for 45 seconds---three times as long!

Let your nearest Firestone dealer equip your car with a set of these stronger, tougher, more dependable tires that hold the world's records for mileage and endurance. See him to-day.

Novel Attempt To Escape From Prison

Robber Serving Sentence In Hong Kong Saved Up in Mattress

A novel method of attempting escape from Hong Kong prison was uncovered when guards found Jack Levy within a mattress made in the prison factory. Levy, small and middle-aged robber, almost got away with it. He would now be on his way to freedom but for the curiosity of Victor Brown, keeper-chauffeur, who thought a pile of mattresses on his truck looked suspiciously lob-sided although it had been twice inspected by other guards

Brown summoned Principal Keeper Shoehy and a search was instituted. Levy ripped open one mis-shapen mattress and discovered Levy. Levy had a razor with which to cut his way out, and a hammer. The rubber will be sent to Clinton prison, Dannemore, N.Y. His attempted escape will put back his earliest possible date of release to 1932. Levy was rewed into the mattress from the outside. His accomplice has not been found

Taming Out Noise

Idea Of Scientist, If Carried Out, Would Be Boon To World

A person is in an office that looks out on a busy street, and traffic is roaring past much normal speech inaudible. He touches a switch and the noises fade away to nothing. The traffic is still streaming past, but cannot beat a sound. That is the promise made by a well-known scientist, Dr. James Rishtmon. Dr. Rishtmon's idea is that sound waves might be turned out in the same way as we rid of unwanted broadcasting stations on our wireless set. Special apparatus built into the walls of a building would "trap" the sound waves and in this way we really shall get silence. Every day the mechanical noises to which we live gets noisier and noisier.

Patrol Northern Highway

Mounted Policemen To Watch Traffic On Prince Albert National Park Road

Mounted Police in Saskatchewan assumed a new role when a member of the force visited Canada's playground northward from Prince Albert recently on a brand new motorcycle to inaugurate the system of patrols on the Prince Albert National Park Highway. Speeders will have to watch their step in the future, for if they exceed thirty miles an hour the mounties may get them and then a fine up to the maximum of $100 awaits the offenders on conviction.

Other regulations to be enforced require motorists to keep on the right of an imaginary line down the centre of the highway, to observe traffic vision to the rear and to each side is not obstructed and not to catch up and pass another vehicle at a blind curve.

Heavily loaded trucks with loads protruding beyond the sides of the vehicle will be required to pull well out to the side and stop if necessary to permit an approaching vehicle to pass. There are no set hours for the patrol, but it will be maintained throughout the day, and at times when traffic is particularly heavy. The mounted policeman astride his motorcycle will be seen at sight slipping along the highway to check up on reckless drivers.

Puns are not always properly attributed to their original author remarkably because puns have been condemned as the lowest form of wit. Here is one which sums up whole systems of philosophy, but it was originally aimed at George Eliot boy's (1456-1753) contentions regarding matter and mind

Ramsay MacDonald and Peace

Says Peace Is the Greatest Cause Before the World Today

Belief that peace is the greatest cause before the world today was expressed by Prime Minister MacDonald at the concluding sessions of the Inter-Parliamentary Union Conference in the gallery of the House of Commons.

Until we come into personal contact, until we have looked each other in the eyes, until we have sat down side by side at a common meal, until we have discussed our national literature, music and arts, we will never be in a position to criticize the devastations others and has no suspicion in his heart of what "culture" of that land: compare 1 Samuel 26. 19.

"Ruth was a Moabitess, of an accursed race, who according to the law of Moses was not allowed to enter the congregation of the covenant. While this story finally teaches that no such disability remains when faith in God is exercised, we must not forget the difficulty as it existed for Ruth; how few people would be likely to look at her, how she herself, as she came late and met with the rebuffs of the Hebrew people, would realize the greatness of her distance. Again, there was nothing calculated to allure her from the standpoint of material prosperity. Those who had known of the people of Jehovah had been compelled to leave their land on account of famine. From them she knew of the perils of Jehovah and reminded in the land, and all the hardships of their return. She came back with Naomi into poverty, and to people who by their conduct were hostile to them both."—G. Campbell Morgan.

NAOMI AND RUTH

Golden Text: "And He made of one every nation of men to dwell on all the face of the earth."—Acts 17.

Lesson: The Book of Ruth.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 61:1-7.

Ruth's Choice and Consecration

The Beginning Of the Story. 1:1-18.—In the days of the Judges there was a famine in the land of Canaan, and the scene of the story is at Bethlehemite, Elimelech, and his wife Naomi, and their two sons, left their home and settled in Moab across the Jordan. The Jews have a legend to the effect that Elimelech was of a princely house, a descendant of Amminadab the father-in-law of Aaron, that he was wealthy, and left the country for the time of famine in order to preserve his wealth intact, for he was afraid of being besieged by his starving brethren.

In Moab the two sons married daughters of that alien land, Ruth and Orpah. Ten years passed, father and sons found their graves there, and Naomi, bereft, whatever she had been in Bethlehem, determined to return to her native land. Fare-wells seldom take place in the home in eastern lands, but the two daughter carried out the usual custom when they accompanied Naomi a short distance on her way. When Naomi thought that Ruth and Orpah had enough to show her fitting respect, she stopped in dismay. With tears and kisses she bade them return to their homes and let her go on her way alone.

Ruth's Great Decision, verses 14-18. Though it grieved Orpah to part with her mother-in-law, she kissed her and returned. But Ruth was determined her to do. Ruth, however, clung to Naomi. With all her power Ruth sought to dissuade Ruth from accompanying her. "Behold," she said, "thy sister-in-law is gone back unto her people, and unto her god: return thou after thy sister-in-law." In answer Ruth uttered those beautiful words which have become famous through the ages: "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God." The ancient belief was that each people had its own god, and that in going to another land one must necessarily serve the god of that land: compare 1 Samuel 26. 19.

"Ruth was a Moabitess, of an accursed race, who according to the law of Moses was not allowed to enter the congregation of the covenant. While this story finally teaches that no such disability remains when faith in God is exercised, we must not forget the difficulty as it existed for Ruth; how few people would be likely to look at her, how she herself, as she came late and met with the rebuffs of the Hebrew people, would realize the greatness of her distance. Again, there was nothing calculated to allure her from the standpoint of material prosperity. Those who had known of the people of Jehovah had been compelled to leave their land on account of famine. From them she knew of the perils of Jehovah and reminded in the land, and all the hardships of their return. She came back with Naomi into poverty, and to people who by their conduct were hostile to them both."—G. Campbell Morgan.

John Big Soldier, 94-year-old Indian whose people at Black River Falls, Wisconsin, depend largely on the blueberry crop to bring them a living, may be able to enjoy better than your favorite restaurant proprietor why the latter is not serving as many blueberry pies. Captain Sherlock Has Record Air Accident

Flew Mail Plane 1,500 Miles In One Day Making Five Stops

Record achievements in the air are just part of the day's work in the north country. The newest feat, unheralded almost among the brilliant exploits of the sub-arctic fliers, is that of Captain W. H. Sherlock, Commercial Airways pilot, in less than a day he flew the mail from Fort McMurray, in northern Alberta, to Aklavik, on the topmost rim of Canada—some 1,500 miles — making five delivery stops en route.

Son of Sir Francis and Lady Sherlock, Iron Hall, Cumberland, England, Captain Sherlock is a former member of the Royal Air Force. He has seen war and peace-time service in France, India, Egypt and Mesopotamia. Before joining the Commercial Airfleet, he was a member of the flying staff of Dominion Explorers.

On the morning of June 5 at 5:45 o'clock, Captain Sherlock took off from Fort McMurray air base, flying for a Dominion Remaker. Less than 21 hours later, at 3:20 o'clock the next morning, with the midnight sun in eastern lands, he had handed the mail at Aklavik, within the Arctic circle. On his way, he made postal deliveries at Fort Resolution, Fort Simpson, Fort Norman, Fort McPherson and Arctic Red River Long the return journey home.

Captain Sherlock's flight—just one of the records set up by fearless airmen speeding to and fro across the barrens of the northwest—was the first one-day flight from Alberta to Aklavik.

When Aviators Trespass

Judge Rules Private Own Air Five Hundred Feet Up

Aviators must fly at least 500 feet high in the country districts, or properly over which they pass, Federal Judge George P. Hahn, of Cleveland, Ohio, has ruled in a precedent setting decision.

The decision was on a bill of complaint brought a year ago by two suburban property holders against the Curtiss Airport Corporation, the Ohio Air Terminals Company and the Curtiss Flying Service.

The complaint cited the ancient English legal principle, "Whosoever controls land controls it from the centre of the earth to the zenith," and charged that some airplanes "plane to pass over the property.

Judge Hahn ruled that the "effective control" of such property extends only 500 feet up.

Long after she had read the letter a second time and put it safely away in prospect of a third perusal, part of it kept coming back to her mind, as: "You see why I thought a heartless mate with you, 'of all people.' I've sometimes wondered about that myself. Ask Grandma. Perhaps out of the wisdom of years she can explain that foolish self-consciousness on my part. . . ." And knew at every recurrence I wasn't mad—not even hurt, just a little sore, maybe. . . . I knew that down deep under you aren't a stuffed shirt—a Shylock anyhow — you just haven't understood. So it was the dear old doctor who gave me away . . . ." And near the end: "How's your boarder? According to Lizzie Baker he's slept in seven beds with a lady of my acquaintance for better, for worse,' etc.; only in this case it would be a great deal better than he, or any other man deserves. If this happens to be little gossip, Charmian, please pass the good word along. Yours always, Jim."

"Well," said John Carter, rousing the girl from her reverie, "was it satisfactory?"

"Too much!" questioned Charmian as they started back.

"I refer to the letter I was good enough to show you," he replied.

She laughed happily.

"More than satisfactory. It took a load off my psychic mind. You see, John, I said something mean and hateful to Jim Bennett before he went away. I didn't intend to be un-just; but I was, terribly. Now it's all right."

"God's in His heaven" quoted the doctor as she hesitated.

"You're a marvelously understanding soul," she answered. "That's exactly the way I feel, only I didn't think to express myself through Browning."

He smiled, drew up under a lonely tree and stopped the car.

"Trouble?" asked Charmian thinking of the engine.

"I hope not!" he replied. Then his face grew serious and he turned to her. "Charmian," he began, "now that you've digested that letter—got your mind cleared on the subject, is it fair to say there's something to tell you? Will this automobile pause, and . . . ."

But the approaching automobile didn't pause. It stopped, and Ezra Bascomb's familiar face peered at them from behind the windshield.

"Hi, Doc!" he greeted. "One of Luella Moore's twins is took down with appendicitis. Doctor Howe wants you should hurry right along to the Deacon's. He's waitin' for you there."

"Thanks," shouted John Carter to Ezra, who was evidently in haste, sped on. Then he turned again to the girl beside him, and added cheerfully, "Like tids and time, appendicitis waits for no man. It's our confidential understanding that we must wait. Do you mind if I drop you at the church? I ought to hurry."

CHAPTER XXII.

Where's the doctor?" questioned Grandma, who was surprised to see Dr. John and Charmian

Charmian explained, while the old lady uttered an ejaculation.

"Land sakes! Appendicitis!—and the deacon and Luella have just had words! Linda Baker told me the whole story. Maybe this trouble will bring 'em together again, though it's like as not to drive 'em farther apart, and I'm gettin' late! what John Carter's none of his business."

"I guess he thinks 'tis," responded Grandma with unruffled calm with a sudden change of subject. "I'll just run and make milk toast for supper, doctor-fashion, and I'll sort of relish it to-night. And be sure you have cocoa on the stove in the double boiler, Charmian. You're looking pale, most frozen, right in the face, I declare, Charmian," she added as the girl turned toward the kitchen, "I didn't understand what Jim meant by saying he'd appoint you his deputy in the matter of Towser and Mouser."

"That was merely a bit of sentiment," smiled Charmian. "I'll explain about it later, but now I must hurry with our meal. You want a lamp, Grandma? It's almost dark."

"I'll manage," she said. "Be off, here comes Jim Baker's buggy. You'll have a lonely time of it, I'm afraid, with everybody else gone."

Charmian laughed, but she flushed also, and answered: "I think I'll forget that question, Grandma. It's none of his business."

Charmian laughed, tossed the old lady an affectionate kiss and hurried to the kitchen.

Grandma smiled musingly then with a sudden change of mood, "I'll just run and make milk toast for supper, doctor-fashion, and I'll sort of relish it to-night. And be sure you have cocoa on the stove in the double boiler, Charmian. You're looking pale, most frozen, right in the face, I declare, Charmian," she added as the girl turned toward the kitchen, "I didn't understand what Jim meant by saying he'd appoint you his deputy in the matter of Towser and Mouser."

"That was merely a bit of sentiment," smiled Charmian. "I'll explain about it later, but now I must hurry with our meal. You want a lamp, Grandma? It's almost dark."

"I'll manage," she said. "Be off, here comes Jim Baker's buggy. You'll have a lonely time of it, I'm afraid, with everybody else gone."

Charmian laughed, but she flushed also, and answered: "I think I'll forget that question, Grandma. It's none of his business."

"I guess he thinks 'tis," responded Grandma with unruffled calm with a sudden change of subject.

POTATO BUGS SHOW UP AGAIN — IN TOWN NOW

Jim Dow Smells 'Em – Paris Green Fives 'Em

While Jim Dew was ambling down town one morning, he smelled a peculiar smell. It had been years since he had sniffed this particular odor, and it brought back pleasant — and some not so pleasant—memories of his boyhood down east. 'Twas potato bugs, no less. Jim had picked so many of this pest when a lad that he claims he can smell 'em a mile away. Following up the scent, he soon discovered the bugs in a nearby potato patch, whereupon he proceeded to sprinkle same with Paris Green. Who wrote "Ruth" to the carvers of all the bugs present, but Jim saved a few as exhibit A in the case.

About two years ago the Standard reported potato bugs as being found in the district, but nothing further had been heard of say till now.

VERMILION FIGURES IN AUTOMOBILE LIST OF "DOS, AND DATS"

According to information received, the following quotation is taken from a book which has recently arrived in Edmonton. The name of the book is "The Last Hunter"—an autobiography of one Lee Sage, edited by the writer, Harvey Fergusson. This man Sage, according to his own story, was a confirmed thief and liar and in the course of his line of business he visited Southern Alberta, met a sheep herder there and the two of them spent the winter trapping north of that point. It was on his return in the spring that he visited Vermilion and what he has to say about this point will interest many. Old timers will have to search their memories to see if they can place this here of the autobiography. If anyone does recollect him, drop into the town office and see H. P. Long—he will be glad of any information. The quotation follows:

"This town of Vermilion held its dumtown people. The men worked long hours in the fields. The women milked the cows and raised chickens, gardened and done the housework. There was a cleanliness and closeness about the town. Everyone was happy and showed a prosperous mien as they went and down the street.

"We were great for amusements such as small celebrations, dances and parties. Everyone was welcome to all of them. The town was too busy to gossip. It was you do as you please, and me do the same. I spent many happy playing with the kids. I'd watch their faces among them and then pay the winner. We was just about bought that town out. I think either one could have been elected Mayor. Don't you forget we was paying on good behaviour and not because it came handy. It was a prosperity because we didn't want to do anything else."

TENDERS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to 6 p.m., Thursday, 7th August, for the painting — exterior and interior — of the Clairmore school. Tenderers to quote price on labor only, all paint being supplied. Lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Further particulars from

MR. AND MRS. J. W. G. MORRISON "SHOWERED" ON MONDAY EVENING

Tenth Wedding Anniversary Falls On Election Day

A pleasing event took place Monday evening, July 28th, while election returns were being received in the Conservative committee rooms, when the ladies of the senior and junior organizations gave a surprise "tin shower" to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. G. Morrison in honor of their tenth wedding anniversary. Mrs. G. McComas presented Mrs. Morrison with a lovely bouquet and a large tub full of gifts to both, at the same time wishing them many more years of happiness. Mr. Morrison, in replying, thanked all for their kind thoughtfulness and gifts; he took occasion also to most heartily thank everyone who had supported him and worked so hard in the election campaign, and especially the town of Vermilion which had given him such a handsome majority. Although not successful in being elected, Mr. Morrison said it was a matter of great satisfaction that a much better showing had been made in the riding of Battle River by the Conservative party, and he felt certain that four years hence the Conservative candidate in this riding, whoever he may be, would regain the seat.

GRADE 12 RESULTS ARE ANNOUNCED

Department Sends Out Word by Mail to Students Direct

Grade 12 results in the departmental examinations were announced by the Superintendent of Education Tuesday, being sent out by mail to the student direct. The results in grades 11 and 12 will follow at short intervals, and the work of tabulation is proceeding on the lower grades.

The increasing number of papers this year has involved a greater amount of clerical work, but the checking of the results has been completed in about the usual time. A generally high standard of excellence in the examination papers seems to have been the rule this year.

All the results in grades 9 to 12 inclusive are to be announced only through the mails, each student receiving his marks direct from the department.

THE MEMORIAL

Lest we forget those who
So bravely fell o'er there,
We have in our park a Memorial
For those who did their share.
To those who bravely fought
Right to the bitter end.
That we might live in peace,
And their homes from shell.

"O, why was we boy taken!"
"O, why was we boy gone!—
A brave soldier on the battlefield
Who was not afraid to die.
The leaders of those who bravely fought
Shall be carved upon the stone,
To show we will remember those
Who never came back home.
And as we pass on our Memorial,
We are proud of every boy
Who fought for home and honor
That the world may live in peace and joy.

THE ELECTIONS.

The battle of the ballots Monday, terminating probably one of the longest and most strenuous political campaigns ever waged in Canada, resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Conservative party led by the Hon. R. B. Bennett, K.C., M.P., who at latest reports won 137 seats out of a total of 245, with three seats still in doubt. Without any further increase Mr. Bennett will have a clear majority of 29 (after the election of a speaker), over the Liberal opposition and the several other groups in the house, enabling him to carry out his policies as pledged to the people of Canada and endorsed by them in no representative manner last Monday last in every province throughout the Dominion.

OLD AGE PENSION.

As there seems to be some misunderstanding among those applying for old age pensions regarding the interpretation of certain sections of the Act, the Standard publishes a portion of a letter received by H. W. Brown, secretary-treasurer of the municipal district of Vermilion Valley from A. Blondin, acting superintendent. Mr. Brown had written asking for enlightenment upon the points in question and received this reply "... beg to advise that the general interpretation placed by our Board at the present time on Sec. 8, sub-sect 2 & 3, of the Old Age Pensions Act, is that of leaving pensioners in possession of any property which they may own at the time of application for Old Age Pension. The Act, however, authorizes the Board to recover out of the estate of a deceased pensioner the total amount of pension paid to him, or her, or both, plus five per cent. interest. This law led to believe that the Government is considering enacting enabling legislation which will enable the Board to recover from the estate of deceased pensioners."

TIMES DO CHANGE!

Monday morning the Edmonton Bulletin urged the electorate to vote "Mackenzie King and the continued Prosperity of Canada." Tuesday afternoon the Bulletin attributed the defeat of the Liberal government to "hard times."

ELECTROLYTES

The members of this club are enjoying a thoroughly delightful summer, the said, made especially so by weekly meetings which take on varied forms. When the short course girls were at the college we played them a game of softball and were decidedly defeated. Last week we went on a "picnic spree," entertaining several visitors. The lunch came up to expectations. Owing to the Fair, our meeting this week was held on Tuesday at our leader's home. It consisted of a sewing circle, the members working on novelties for the bazaar. Several other interesting schemes are to be undertaken in the future.

The funniest thing heard around the Club lately was "Polly" asking our secretary if she had brought the "seconds" to the meeting.

Our next meeting will be held Friday, August 8th and will take the form of a hike.

RUMAN FACTORY

One can compare the body to a human factory, says a diagrammatic chart illustrating our physical activities in a recent number of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

This clever picture shows the brain centres for the control of thought and of the automatic functions by means of switch board devices and conferences in various compartments of the skull. The eye is a great camera, the ear is a radio antenna.

Nervous impulses and stimuli go forth from the brain centres via the spinal cord.

The motor system of the muscles and the network of nerves may all be seen ramifying through the great machine of the body.

Of extreme delicacy are some of the workings of the body, and yet one is amazed to find how little care is taken by the majority of people of their priceless possessions.

Teeth are allowed to decay in early life until we find many young people using dentures. Eyestrain is so common that nearly all the world uses glasses before it leaves school. Hearts are subject to fatigue, nerves are allowed to go to pieces through insomnia. Posture of the body is neglected and one sees a poor slouch instead of a fine figure.

All of which is within our own power to remedy. Sickness is largely preventable today. Good health is your birthright. Claim it

The World's Grain Exhibition

The World Poultry Congress is now in progress at the Crystal Palace, London, England, including a representative display of birds from Canada and with prominent Canadians identified with the poultry industry in attendance. A year or two ago Canada was honored by being host to the World's Poultry Congress, held in Ottawa, and which proved to be the most successful of those world's congresses held up to that time Canada received most valuable publicity as a result, while the poultry industry throughout the Dominion was decidedly benefited thereby

Canada is again to be host to a world's exhibition and conference in 1923, when the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference will be held in the city of Regina, Saskatchewan. It will be the greatest grain exhibition and conference ever held with over $2000000 in cash prizes, an unprecedented sum, to be awarded while grain experts from all over the world will be in attendance to participate in the conference

Already the response of countries in every hemisphere has surpassed expectations. To date nearly one million copies of the official prize list have been distributed in 84 countries. They have been placed where they will do the most good and give a maximum of advertising to Canada and Western Canada in particular, in every corner of the civilized world

Canada as a country dependent on agriculture, and suffering all the growing pains of the young needs this advertising, and even supposing no person from outside Canada attended the Exhibition and Conference in Regina, in 1923, the world-wide advertising already secured would be an ample return for all monies expended to date

But the countries of the world will be represented, not only by interesting and instructive exhibits, but by leading agricultural experts The Government of Canada officially issued invitations to other countries to participate and today two years before the event eight countries have accepted. Those are Peru, New Zealand Guatemala, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Yugoslavia Belgium and the Netherlands The Governments of other countries such as the United States Great Britain, France, the Argentine, Australia, have asked for further and more complete information, and by 1922 it is expected at least 30 countries will have accepted the invitation and be present

The management of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference has taken advantage of the World's Poultry Congress in London, England, this month to further its campaign for world-wide participation at Regina in 1922, and has sent an exhibit to London and this week are entertaining, in London, the official delegates of 36 countries At this luncheon the management director of the World's Grain Exhibition will address these delegates and outline to them why they should participate at Regina Afterwards he will visit the ministries of agriculture, of the countries of Europe, to drive that message home

Exhibits of the World's Grain Exhibition are also being prepared for the Canadian National Exhibition and the Canadian Winter Fair, at Toronto, and the International Grain Show at Chicago

This is what is being done to bring the world to Western Canada in 1922. But, and this is important, Western Canada should put forth every effort to retain for this country the world's championship wheat trophy. Other countries are going to try and capture it; we are asking, even urging them, to make the attempt. Western Canada must therefore put forth herculean efforts The wheat farmers of Western Canada, the best in the world, should select and put forth their finest efforts individually and collectively to retain for this Dominion the proud title of the World's Wheat King

Now is the time to prepare for the exhibition It cannot be put off until 1922. It must be done in 1920 and 1921

Ages of the graduates ranged from 17 to well past middle age. In the class was a golf professional, an assistant sales manager, a chief auditor, a credit manager, an assistant treasurer and a field manager for a large oil company

Archbishop Opposed To Death Penalty

Says It Lowers Conception Of Sanctity Of Life

The Most Rev. William Temple, Archbishop of York, is one of the few witnesses who has come so far before the Royal Commission on punishments to favor the abolition of the death penalty.

"I dissent from the view that punishment should be regarded as regulated vengeance," the Archbishop stated. "From a Christian viewpoint, vengeance is entirely illegitimate. The infliction of death or outlawry would, perhaps, be justifiable in the case of a man who was utterly evil but no person was ever that."

The main argument advanced by the archbishop from a theological viewpoint was that the behaviour of a community as a whole was so largely imitative that the reaction to the taking of life by the state tended to a lower general conception of the sanctity of human life.

To Patrol the Straits

Government Ice-Breaker Is Leaving For Northern Waters

The new government ice-breaker, the "C. D. MacLean," is to take her maiden plunge into Arctic waters early in August. The ship, which was launched at Halifax a few months ago, is named after Major MacLean, the government's chief authority on ice and ice-breakers, who commanded the Hudson's Straits expedition two years ago.

The ships will take up supplies in four directional wireless stations, established by the ministry of marine and fisheries, and manned by wireless operators of the radio branch. These stations are located at Cape Hopes Advance, Nottingham Island, Nottingham Island and Port Churchill.

The ice-breaker will patrol the straits all through the fall months and when the northern ice begins to close down will protect the shipping in Hudson's Bay and through the straits.

Pleases Britain

First Student Naval Convention Will Sail From Montreal

Prime Minister MacDonald told the British House of Commons recently, that the British Government had learned with pleasure of arrangements made by the governments of France and Italy with a view of "friendly interchange of discussions on naval questions.

Mr. MacDonald said the British government hoped these France-Italian conversations would complete the work of the London Naval Conference and that the principles of naval limitation, as contained in part three of the London Naval Treaty, would be applied to all parties to the treaty.

His said it was not necessary for the British Government to take any action in this connection regarding the British naval program of 1930 since this was purely for necessary replacements within the reduced tonnage limits imposed by the treaty.

Tuberculosis Has Been Tested

Torpedo-Shaped Comet Is Driven By Two Propellers

The world's first experimental railplane powered by electric propellers and Northeastern Railway, has been inaugurated at Mingavie, Scotland.

The railplane is driven by two aeroplane propellers, operating fore and aft, and drawing electrical power from overhead rail to which it is suspended, flashed over an experimental stretch of track built above the main right-of-way of the London and Northeastern Railway.

It carried 23 passengers and is capable of developing a speed of 150 miles an hour on a long stretch of track, according to its designer, George Bennie, a Scottish engineer.

The railplane is England's answer to the demand of the aeroplane age for speedier transportation. The new system was inspected by delegates to the Transport Congress, which met in Glasgow. If it wins their approval, plans for a railplane system between Blackpool and Fleetwood, a distance of 25 miles, will be carried out.

A railplane system can be built at one-third the cost of a double track railroad system, say the London and Northeastern experts.

Short railplane coach will be self-propelled and will run alone. The overhead rail will direct the course and guide rails will keep it from swinging. The car is stopped by reversing the propellers, which then act as brakes

The aerial railway can be erected over roads, canals or as in the present instance, over railroads, without interfering with the ground traffic. Thus, in the case of railroads, a ground line could be used for freight, while the air line could be used for speedy passenger service and the carrying of mails.

Alberta creameries during the first four months of the year have shown an increase of 4.4 per cent, over a similar period of 1929, and 25 per cent. above the same period of 1928. Creameries in the south of the province showed an increase of 1 per cent., those in the central part a similar increase, and those in the northern zone a 19 per cent. increase.

That artificial sheep will grow real wool indefinitely is the prediction of the British Research Association for the Woollen and Worsted Industry following recent experiments in the hair growth of animals. By merely slicing off pieces of live sheepskin and placing them in vials containing a certain chemical solution, the pieces may be continuously nourished and they will grow hair year in and year out. Cowhide also might be treated in the same way, say the association's chemists.

Morning Eggs Weigh More

Tests Show Them Heavier Than Those Laid in Afternoon

Tests conducted on different chickens on the farm by C. Howard King, poultry supervisor of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets, revealed that eggs laid in the forenoon weigh 94.115 ounces a dozen while those laid in the afternoon averaged only 23.836 ounces, according to a report from Madison, Wisconsin. This suggests another problem for conscientious egg producers to make hens lay in the forenoon—and bigger eggs.

AIRWAY PLANS FROM HUDSON BAY TO BRITAIN

Vancouver, B.C.—Imperial airways spanning the Northern Atlantic Ocean and Hudson Bay Company link Canada with the other aerial routes of the British Empire, declared Major-General J. H. Mac-Brien, addressing the Canadian club here.

President of the Aviation League of Canada, he told how plans are now being laid for a trial flight across the northern route via Hudson Bay to Europe in 1931. Gasoline for this trip is now, through the courtesy of the Hudson Bay Company, being placed along the route.

At the same time, General MacBrien predicted that valuable as this connection will be in the Imperial scheme of things, a great portion of the air traffic between the United tates and Europe may have to traverse the polar regions.

Plans for the linking of the British Empire were first laid at the Imperial conference in London in 1926, he explained. As a result of these, the British-India route had been established and with it a feeder line running from Cairo across Afrika.

On this feeder line, as he called it, the gold of South Africa is already being taken to Europe and put into circulation in a few days, would otherwise reach great centres of population. This meant the saving of much interest.

The speaker also pictured the trial flight of the R-100, which will soon take to the air, promptly, as forging another link in the aerial chain around the British Empire.

"Canada's geographical position," the general said, "is a most fortunate one—we can control these routes that pass over our country, and we must control them. We must have Canadian operated services

Second Reading Given Naval Treaty Bill

No Division In British House Of Commons

London, England. The bill supporting the London naval treaty, having effect to the naval reduction compact signed recently passed the second reading in the House of Commons.

Parliamentary Secretary G. G. Ammon explained that under the British legal system a treaty, although it might be binding and have effect on the British Government could not be enforced in law courts against private individuals unless supporting legislation was passed.

Under the Washington treaty Britain entered into a similar agreement not to build or provide for private shipbuilding certain vessels of war. The treaty also provided alterations of three agreements To give effect to them, the Commons was asked to approve the bill

Aviation Pioneer Dead

Glenn H. Curtiss Did Not Lose Faith When Others Became Discouraged

Buffalo, N.Y.—Glenn H. Curtiss, widely known aviation pioneer, died in the General Hospital here.

Mr. Curtiss was brought to the hospital from his home at Hammondsport, N.Y., to undergo an operation for appendicitis. The operation was said to have been successful and he was reported recovering rapidly.

Mrs. Curtiss came here with her husband and has been almost constantly at his bedside.

Hospital authorities stated death was due to pulmonary embolus, caused by a blood clot on one of the main arteries leading out of the heart.

Glenn H. Curtiss nurtured the young science of aviation in the middle years of its explosive, when fainter hearts had grown discouraged.

With a tenacity can for a carburetor, he built his first motor bicycle in 1902. He continued to experiment with lightweight motors, and evolved his famous V-type motor. Its departure in design reflected in the radial aeroplane engines of today. In 1904 he set a motor bicycle speed record at Ormond Beach, Fla., of 10 miles in eight minutes and 54 seconds, and in 1906, over the same course, he made the same mile in one ever had before, a mile in 26 2-5 seconds.

His fame spread and drew the attention of the late Major Thomas Scot Baldwin, builder and operator of dirigibles. In 1907 the two men met in Hammondsport and installed a Curtiss motor in Baldwin's balloon. With this motor they made a flight of several miles.

Glenn Curtiss graduated Bell, inventor of the telephone, commissioned Curtiss to build a motor for a man-carrying kite. Others were interested with for a time, and then the men turned their attention to power aeroplanes.

Floods in England

Two Lives Lost In Consequence Of Unusual Rainfall In Yorkshire

Whitby, Yorkshire, England.—Two lives are already known to have been lost, and other fatalities are feared, as consequence of the flood that followed upon a cloudburst in the valley of the Esk River.

The last connection with the village of Sleighta, in the centre of the flood area, was established today when the telephone wires broke down

Many families throughout the area are imprisoned in the upper floors of their houses

The train service has been discontinued over a wide area.

Spectacular rescues were effected by the life-saving crews, who with particularly effective work in Runswarp. From one house a woman and four children, who had climbed to the roof, were hauled through the flood to safety by means of a breeches buoy rigged into play by the coastguard.

From another house five people were rescued by the coastguards with life-saving apparatus at a time when the water had already reached within a few inches of the roof.

Twelve people were rescued from the upper story of a mill.

The town crier of Whitby patrolled the streets and warned the people that the water supply would last for only 48 hours. The pipes from the reservoir had been burst.

Scores Drowned At Cobleni

Postoon Bridge Collapsed Under Strain Of Heavy Traffic

Cobleni, Germany.—Scores of persons were drowned by the collapse of a pontoon bridge here during celebration of the evacuation of the Rhineland in which President Von Hindenburg had taken part. About 100 people were on the bridge when it crumbled.

An enormous crowd had gathered along the banks of the Rhine during the afternoon to watch the so-called "Deutsches Eck," where the Moselle River joins the Rhine.

They stood watching the display of fireworks and the illumination at the ancient castle of Ehrenbreitstein in honor of President Von Hindenburg's visit.

When the display was over, thousands of people thronged across the pontoon bridge, which leads to a place known as "Security Harbor."

Suddenly, while about 100 persons were on the bridge, it collapsed under the strain of the unusual traffic.

Many were killed by falling timbers, and others were swept away by the black, swirling water and drowned before help could reach them.

In the darkness, which lately had been intermittently illuminated by the fireworks across the rivers, people could be heard splashing about and crying for help.

Rescuers immediately launched boats, many of the victims could not be located.

ADMINISTRATION OF PEACE RIVER BLOCK BY B. C.

Victoria, B.C.—British Columbia takes over the administration of the Peace River block and the railway belt on August 1, under tentative plans announced by the government. Efforts are being made now to adjust the necessary administrative details by that date.

The actual transfer will be accomplished without the disturbance of existing administrative machinery. For the time being, federal officials will carry on. As soon as possible, however, the administration will be entirely overhauled to eliminate the present duplication by federal and provincial officials, particularly in the railway belt, where two sets of machinery have operated side by side for years. In some districts the provincial officials will be able to carry on alone, possibly with addition of one or two. The federal territory in the forestry department, however, it may be necessary for forest patrol in the large areas to be transferred

Montreal.—In reference to the newspaper reports with respect to possible aviation developments in Canada, Mr. E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, made the following statement:

Discussions have taken place between the president of the Canadian National Railways and this company, looking to participation by both companies in the ownership of air-way companies, both in eastern and western Canada, and these discussions have proceeded to the point where an agreement in principle has been reached

Melfi picturesque mountain city, perched perilously upon the crater of the extinct Monte Vulture, in the area of greatest debris From the ancient cathedral whose history in several centuries has run back to the ninth century was wrecked

The almost inexplicable nature of some of the acts of destruction made difficult the work of rescue and the estimating of casualties. Most of the victims lay in the debris of their homes, but the banks of one of the principal of boarding with poor foundations and almost unscathed by the shocks.

Several supply trains have been sent to the railroads in the stricken area of Basilicata and hundreds of soldier workers were pressing into the region to help in the work of clearing debris of the still terror stricken people.

The quake turned all hills into mass of earthquake cracks Many cracks were filled with water and the ground was soaked with it. Its saturation of the soil made it impossible to bury the dead. Many bodies were left unburied in the streets and in the ruins of their homes. Its saturation of the soil made it impossible to bury the dead. General W. A. Griesbach Unveils Memorial To Fallen

Dedication Address Delivered By Chaplain Of Jasper Park, Rev. H. A. Edwards

August 4th, 1930—the sixteenth anniversary of the Empire's entry into the Great War—will ever be a memorable date in the history of this town and district, when the formal unveiling of the monument, in memory of those from this district who made the supreme sacrifice, was performed by General W. A. Griesbach.

By the unanimous desire of the members of the Vermilion branch of the Canadian Legion, the Rev. H. A. Edwards of Jasper and formerly rector of St. Saviour's Anglican church, Vermilion, was invited to undertake the religious part of the ceremony.

Delayed by a train wreck on his journey, the Rev. Edwards was forced to drive by taxi from Edmonton and made a dramatic arrival exactly at 2:30 p.m., when the parade was assembled at the Memorial hall. The parade itself was most impressive. Representatives of all the patriotic organizations in the town, as well as veterans from outlying points, were out in force for the occasion. Lined up before the Memorial hall were contingents of returned men of Vermilion and district, of Wainwright, of Marwayne, of Lavoy, of Mannville and other points—more than one hundred in all, and these were supported by companies of Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs, Girl Guides, Brownies, the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion and the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire.

The guard of honor was provided by the 1st Alberta Mounted Rifles, under the command of Major V. B. Casey.

Upon the arrival of Gen. Griesbach, who was attended by Col. H. Watson of the 19th Alberta Dragoons, the assembly was brought to attention by Lieut. F. J. Burk, who carried out the duties of marshal of parade with commendable efficiency.

After inspection by Gen. Griesbach, the parade, led by the Pipers' Band, marched to the town park for the unveiling ceremony.

A crowd, estimated at more than 1500 people, lined the fence of the park to witness the impressive spectacle. Heads were bared, and a tense silence reigned as the Rev. Mr. Edwards delivered the opening prayer for the boys who had passed beyond. This was followed by the "Last Post" sounded by Buster J. Hawksworth.

In his dedicatory address, the Rev. Edwards laid stress upon the need of such a monument as the one to be unveiled on the morrow. He pointed out that the immediate necessity after the war was to care for the returned man, and for that reason the Memorial Hall with its recreational facilities had been presented to the war veterans, but the time had arrived when a permanent memorial to those who did not return should be erected.

The singing of the hymn "O God, our help in ages past," was followed by the sounding of "Reveille," after which the president of the Vermilion Branch of the Canadian Legion, Mr. George Maxwell, formally requested Gen. Griesbach to unveil the Memorial.

Wreaths and other floral offerings were placed on the monument by representatives of various organizations as well as by individual sympathizers.

The unveiling ceremony concluded by the singing of the National Anthem, accompanied by the Vermilion Citizens' Band.

A "march past" of the entire parade, to the stirring tune of "Bonnie Dundee" was then conducted inside the park, Gen. Griesbach taking the salute at the north-east corner. This was a fitting conclusion to the day's proceedings.

Not since the war has there been such a wonderful day for the returned men of this district, and those responsible for the day's success have every reason to be proud of their achievement. Too much praise cannot be accorded Mr. Sid Evans and Chairman of the Memorial committee, did the lion's share of the work in carrying the project through to a successful conclusion.

It is the desire, too, of President George Maxwell and the members of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, to thank the people of the town and district for their generous response to the appeal for funds, as well as those who hauled rocks for the monument or in any way contributed to the success of the undertaking.

It would be impossible to mention every individual who gave assistance to the Legion, but the members of the local branch wish to specially mention the following: Major-General W. A. Griesbach, Rev. H. A. Edwards, Mr. "Scotty" Swanson, whose work in building the monument is a credit to himself, the Canadian Legion and the community; Mayor W. J. Palmer and the Town Council, Col. H. Watson, Col. W. C. Cruik, Major V. B. Casey, the Vermilion Citizens' Band, Mr. J. W. G. Morrison, and Mr. Hedley of the School of Agriculture.

CEREAL CROPS FIELD DAY AT DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL STATION, LACOMBE

Wednesday, August 20th, 1930

The annual Cereal Crops Field Day will be held at the Dominion Experimental station, Lacombe, on Wednesday, August 20th. This will be a day of special interest to all farmers interested in the growing of good crops, but particularly will it interest members of the Seed Growers' Association and Co-operators who are growing varieties on trial numbers.

The Dominion Cerealist, Mr. L. H. Newman, will be at the station on date and will discuss all questions pertaining to varieties and crop improvement. It is possible that the date, August 20th, may be a little late for some farmers but it is the earliest date on which we could arrange for Mr. Newman to visit the Lacombe Station.

A meeting of the Alberta section of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association will be held at the close of the field meeting.

All farmers are invited to visit the station for this field day. Bring your family and lunch with you. Coffee will be provided for lunch under the trees. Make this a day of pleasure and profit. Programme to commence at 1:30 sharp.

Chinese Stowaways

Party Of Six Have Narrow Escape From Death When Vessel Is Fumigated

Efforts of six Chinese stowaways to enter Canada aboard the British freighter S.S. Senatry, failed when they reached New Westminster recently.

The seamen were fortunate to be alive after more than two weeks in a coal bunker aboard the ship, and especially after fumigation operations took place. By some chance deadly cyanide gas failed to reach the hold where the Chinese were hiding.

Officers who entered the hold declared it was a marvel they survived the ocean trip as it was probably worse than the famous "Black Hole of Calcutta." It was believed that Chinese members of the ship's crew kept their compatriots provided with food on the long trip.

After being arrested they were turned over to the Vancouver immigration authorities to await deportation

Several grades were given new definitions, clauses were inserted to prevent mixing of grades and the whole field of the act's operations was reviewed.

OUT DOOR LIFE CALLS FOR NOURISHING FOOD

By AMY SMITH
Well Known Domestic Science Authority

Off for a day or a month—in the car or hiking, boating, fishing—after a few hours you will find FOOD looms up as the biggest thing in the world. Scenery, yes but such appetites!

Of course, milk and plenty of it, is essential for nourishing appetizing food—and for campers or picnickers Borden's St. Charles Evaporated Milk is by far the best choice, providing plenty of pure milk, regardless of weather conditions, rough journeys, out-of-the-way camping places—and lack of ice.

Because Evaporated Milk has had half the water removed, you can recipe in its extra richness, which can be utilized to take the place of eggs or butter in many kinds of cooking. For instance, an old guide, famous for his fish fries, told me that he cares he always dipped the fish in undiluted Evaporated Milk before the final coating with corn meal.

Borden's Evaporated is to be used instead of milk in any recipe it should be diluted with an equal part of water (never with less than that) and you will find it successful in every respect. Try "cream" pour sauce, use it undiluted.

A "try out" is used by Canadian guides for cooking large chunks. After dipping in milk, fish from Evaporated Milk and then in cornmeal they are ready for the frying pan, hot and fry until brown. And, by the way, fish fried this way is renowned camp cooks—a very little dry fat is required, so the fish are those iff possible sheltered from the wind) will do the trick and thus a most blistering conflagration

A savory dish to serve is always a welcome dish in camp, and it's easily made with Evaporated Milk

Fish Chowder

Cut the fish in chunks and remove the backbone. Put a tablespoon of fat in the bottom of an iron pot with slices of onion, then a layer of fish and then the fat. Remove part of the pork slices, then add a layer of sliced, raw potatoes, some more fish, and then a layer of fish. Cover with pieces of pork. Add another layer of potatoes, a layer, scanting the salt, for the pork is very salty. Then add boiling water until the pot is two-thirds full. Add a few slices of onion and cook for half of the fish Cover the pot and simmer for one hour. Add pepper, and until the potatoes and fish are tender. Add one can of Borden's Evaporated St. Charles Milk. Bring just to boiling Serve hot

Easy Hot Breads

Hot corn breads to eat with the fish, too, Borden's Recipe Book has a huge success after a day in the open or back in the city.

Cornmeal Flapjacks

1 cup cornmeal.
1 cup flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 cup Borden's St. Charles Milk.
1 cup water.
2 tablespoons melted fat (bacon fat may be used).

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Add the milk, diluted with water, and beat well. Add the fat last. Have the hot, greased griddle or frying pan ready. Drop by large spoonfuls and cook as you would griddle cakes.

Camp Corn Dodgers

Put one cupful of cornmeal into a bowl. Make a hollow in center of meal and into this put one teaspoonful each of salt and sugar. Add one tablespoonful of melted fat (bacon fat may be used). Add enough boiling water to make a stiff batter. Drop by spoonfuls into hot, greased griddle or frying pan. Cook slowly. Borden's St. Charles Milk and water brushed on in making the batter will add a time until a dough is formed which can be rolled out. Roll slightly, form into cakes and cook slowly on well greased griddle. (The quantity of flour will naturally depends on the kind of cornmeal used.)

Greatest Water Powers in Canada Can Be Developed At the Coast

The greatest water powers in Canada greater even than those harnessed along the St. Lawrence have been revealed along the coast of British Columbia, north of Vancouver, by government engineers, during the past summer, it is stated at parliament buildings, Victoria.

Engineer Hamilton reports that in addition to the noted Tsasho Chilko Homathko power, with a possible development of the coast district up to the huge figures of 2,000,000 horsepower.

The two new power sites, revealed by recent surveys, are at Tahtsa Lake and Eutsuk Lake. By turning the waters of these lakes westward by an un instead of eastward into the Fraser, engineers believe that 1,-500,000 horsepower can be harnessed. The third project calls for the diversion of the Chilko waters westward to the sea by the Homathko River.

HANNAH "A GODLY MOTHER"

Golden Text: "My son, hear the instruction of they father, and forsake not the law of thy mother."—Proverbs 1:8.

Lesson: 1 Samuel 1.1-28; 2.1-11, 18, 19; 3.1-18.

Devotional Reading: Luke 1.46-55.

Explanations and Comments

Hannah's Prayer For a Son. Chapter 1.9-11.—Although her husband Elkanah went regularly every year to the Sanctuary at Shiloh, there to worship and offer sacrifice at one of the great religious feasts, probably "The Feast of Ingathering," or Feast of Tabernacles, which was held after the grape and olive harvest.

As was customary, after a portion of the sacrificial victim was burnt at the altar, and another portion had been given the priests, the family partook of the rest within the sanctuary precincts. But Hannah could not eat, for sad and bitter thoughts filled her mind as she contrasted her childless lot with that of Peninnah, Elkanah's other wife, who was blessed with many children. After the meal was over she presented herself in the temple to pray to Jehovah. Her prayer was accompanied by many tears as, standing with her face towards the ark, she made the vow that if Jehovah would bless her with a child she would consecrate him all the days of his life to Jehovah, and he should be a Nazarite, one set apart to the Lord, of which this vow was the outward token. The characteristic marks of the Nazarite were the refraining from wine and all intoxicating drinks, the letting the hair grow, and the avoidance of contact with dead corpses.

The Answer To Prayer, 1.19, 20.—Hannah returned to her home in Ramah. When she was again blessed by the coming of a son, she named him Samuel, "Because I have asked him of the Lord." Hebrew scholars tell us that the word "Samuel" has no connection with the Hebrew word for "asked," and they suggest the first part of the name with the Egyptian word for "name," taking Samuel to mean "Name of God."

Hannah Gives Her Only Son To the Service Of Jehovah, verses 21-28.—When Hannah weaned her boy, he was three years old, she brought him to the house of the Lord at Shiloh. She brought also a bullock, as the law required for the first-born—three bullocks, a basket of meal and a bottle of wine.

Hannah made herself known to Eli the priest by revealing the time when he had seen her praying in the sanctuary, and then she presented the boy for whom she had prayed.

Feat Of Mountain Climbers

Eight Peaks Over Ten Thousand Feet High Are Negotiated

Eight peaks over 10,000 feet high, three of them unnamed, in the upper region of the Athabasca River and Mount Maligne Lakes, where the Canadian Alpine Club ascended at its annual camp, were reported to have been climbed for the first time with the return, after an absence of 17 days, of a party led by Dr. Max Strumia, of Philadelphia, and Dr. W. R. Hainsworth, of New York.

Accompanied by Newton Wolfe, of Orange, N.J., and John P. Lebanidis, of Evereit. Mass., Strumia and Hainsworth first climbed Mount Christie, 10,180 feet high, from a high camp on Fryatt Creek. Later, climbing Mount Belanger, 10,900 feet in altitude, they were within 50 feet of being swept to their death by avalanches and on their descent were held for three hours on a rock ledge till the descending sun rendered snowslides impossible and their progress less hazardous.

An unnamed peak near Mount Wolfe, 10,200 feet, was placed at 10,700 feet, offered the greatest difficulty. Only by inserting "pitons," -- iron pins to which they would attach their climbing ropes—into the crevices of the rock, were they able to attain the summit.

Climbing from the site of the Canadian Alpine club on Maligne Lake, they made trip just completed through Jasper Park he experienced some of the most difficult rock and iced for the first time tremendous ice fields surrounding it.

Dr. Strumia, who has climbed in Switzerland, Germany and North America, a total of 70 peaks and made 25 first ascents, said recently that the trip just completed through Jasper Park he experienced some of the most difficult rock and iced for the first time tremendous ice fields surrounding it.

The party was outfitted by "Curly" Phillips.

CHAPTER XXIII.

If there had been any doubt that Winchell Chamlan was a member of Howe's assistant, it was dispelled when he successfully removed Diantha Howe's appendix.

"And no wonder," the old doctor said to Grandma, a week after the operation, "that man's last name is the same as mine. Why, I almost believed he was my own son. But I'm not vain enough to think I could have produced a child with the skill that Winchell has shown in this case. He's a genius, that boy is. Mark my words, he'll be famous some day."

"Well," said Grandma, "I suppose these young folks will have to settle it themselves, Edward. The best meaning friends and relatives are not much at such a time. But I looks to me as if Jim was destined to spend his life picking peaches for Mr. Howe."

"I'd rather be picked one for himself. Polly!" said the old man whimsically. "I'm not much on the use of quoting: 'It is not good for man to live alone,' and no one realizes that more than I do. But I've had a happy life, and, I hope, a useful one; but I never come in after the day's work that I don't wonder how it would seem if Kate were there to greet me. No, I don't want either of those boys to live as I have."

Grandma sat at the window, waiting.

"It's the sort of day that Edward always loved," she mused. "Spring's in the air, and summer's on the way! And he went just as he would have wished. I remember he said only the other day, 'And may there be no sadness of farewell, when I embark.' He got what he deserved, a peaceful end, and in a useful life What more could a body ask"

His Kate, whom he loved and mourned for fifty years. Maybe she sees Father already and told him how it will be when we all die," she added softly: "The services must be most over now." He told Mr. Merry once to make 'em short by the book. Just the Lord's prayer (he wanted less and laughed and sympathized. The young people did their share of the talking, too; and their audience was fully as sympathetic. Even a telephone call to South Wickfield for Doctor Howe, did not mar the party.

"At least," said Charmian, "they let you finish supper!"

"And I'll go with you as chauffeur," declared John Carter, as the last man arose.

The doctor smiled happily at them all, and said: "I've had a beautiful time. Good-night, all."

He stooped, and with child-like gaiety kissed Grandma's head; then turned to Charmian and kissed her cheek.

"There are compensations for being over seventy," sighed John Carter, and they all laughed.

"Good-night," said the old doctor again as he reached the door. "Sweet dreams to both of you."

Afterwards they remembered that he had stood for an appreciable moment looking back into the room, as if to impress the scene upon his memory. And that night, the doctor's work done and his house in order, the old man slipped quietly away, so gently, so peacefully, that he did not even know he had embarked.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Grandma sat at the window, looking out at a strangely deserted Main Street—deserted

All Wickfield, she thought, must be at the church, paying the last tribute of respect and love to the old physician. The bank was closed; and the schools, also. Charmian had begged to stay at home with her grandmother need not be alone at this and time; and Linnie Baker had done likewise. "I'm going to remain indoors and down her cheeks as she implored. "Please let me. You mustn't stay by yourself."

Selina Knowles had said: "I'll stay with you, Grandma. The doctor wouldn't want you to be alone."

But Grandma, refusing all these kindly offers, had replied gently: "I'd rather be alone, if you don't mind it's what I want."

Doubtfully, sorrowfully, they had turned away. She remained with the young doctor, who, even more than Charmian, understood the old lady's mind.

"Don't you see," he explained at sight of their troubled faces, "it'll be easier for her with no one by? She's not even as sad about it as we are She knows that her old friend is not dead—he is not even away! Leave her alone."

So Grandma sat at the window, waiting.

"He's the sort of day that Edward always loved," she mused. "Spring's in the air, and summer's on the way! And he went just as he would have wished. I remember he said only the other day, 'And may there be no sadness of farewell, when I embark.' He got what he deserved, a peaceful end, and in a useful life What more could a body ask"

Canadian Women Score Again

Canadian Women Greatest Travellers In the Summer Months

Another distinction may be marked up for the women of Canada. Last year a British author publicly declared that in his opinion Canadian women were the most beautiful of the fair sex in the British Empire, and of the dozen women throughout the Dominion who met deputy what Canadians generally ought to be was an obvious fact Now Canadian women are credited with being greatest travellers than the mere mention of their country in summer. In the months of July and August the following lines recently appeared: —

Canadian Women Greatest Travellers In the Summer Months

Another distinction may be marked up for the women of Canada. They Like Canada

Earl and Countess of Stair Favorably Impressed With Dominion

Laughingly reminding reporters who met them on their arrival a month ago, the Earl and Countess of Stair were both very ready to give their impressions of Canada, when interviewed at Montreal just before sailing for home on the Canadian Pacific "Duchess of Richmond."

"You will remember," Lady Stair said, "that we were afraid you were going to ask our opinion of the Dominion on the day we landed, and then let us off when we promised to give that at the end of the visit."

Both were enthusiastic about the Dominion, which they visited from coast to coast during their six-months' stay. "What really appeals I to us more than anything," Lord Stair remarked, "was the hospitality of Canadians. By George, they don't care what it is you want, they jolly well put it done for you

"One of our principal interests during the visit was to see the conditions under which cattle are now shipped out here are herded. And I must say that I was disappointed to see so many Holsteins and so few Scottish cattle. The Ayrshires we sent out to British Columbia last September are in remarkably fine shape"

During their visit to the coast, the Earl and Countess paid a visit to the Agricultural College at Vancouver where they were shown prize-winning cattle also from their own Scottish estates.

This is the first memorial erected to Bliss Carman, who died in Connecticut, June 8, 1929, and whose remains were brought to his native province by the Government of New Brunswick and buried at Forest Hill Cemetery, Fredericton, where a suitable monument will mark his grave. It is proposed to erect a statue of this famous son of New Brunswick in the capital of his native province and the city where he spent his boyhood days.

Mysterious Fossil Bones

Many Queer Critters Made Up North Sea Fish-Stew

The barnacled trunk of a mammoth found in the nest of a Grimsby trawler, is but the latest of many queer catches made by North Sea fishermen. Not a few of the fishermen's gardens along the Norfolk coast are ornamented with fossil bones of the cave bear, elk, bison, rhinoceros, and mammoth brought up at various times by the trawls chiefly in certain regions about fifteen miles off Grimsby, sometimes called "the graveyards" or "the silver pits." Geologists suggest that the remains come from what was in prehistoric times the valley of the Rhine

BOY SCOUT NOTES

THE SCOUT LAW

1. A Scout's honour is to be trusted. Well, our summer camp is over for another year. We had nearly forty scouts in camp, including twelve boys from Marwayne and twelve from Dewberry, and with the enjoyable sentiments expressed we expect to have a bigger camp next year.

Guess our mothers will have to lay off cooking fish for awhile—we ate so much fish at camp. Did you notice at the last that pie would make his appearance every supper meal when everyone except the fatigues were through with the meal. The fatigues seemed to be getting it down in a habit towards the last—when the pie ran out!

Did you imagine we ever possessed so much talent as exhibited at our evening camp fire? I think the Marwayne and Dewberry boys were visibly improved—especially when our A.S.M. sang. Suppose you recollect one of our camp fires was almost a fiske smiling for Marwood and his name to make the scene. He did mention casually what the delay was, but I forget. Don't forget all those jokes you heard at the last camp fire, especially the one about the camel crossing the borders!

Quite a few sportsmen in mackinaw coming by some of our "chets" we must admit we had good food and lots of it.

Every camp means we are a year older—and don't let's forget to appreciate our parents who have shown such interest in us to send us to the annual Scout Camp.

Personal thing good at camp was the silent breakfast Sunday morning. Outside Tommy, no one seemed very conversational. Sure was tough on the Dailey twins—or was it the Dailey Bros? Really, I don't see how the Coyotes got away with it, or the Eagles either, because putting a quarter teaspoonful of sugar on the porridge was real provocation. The way Red Wilson over ate at the table is nothing to me as though his mother will need some padlocks around the house. Well, here's to good ol' Uncle Dudley.

IN APPRECIATION

The Scout Committee, and the Marwayne and Dewberry boys wish to take this opportunity to thank publicly all those kind people who loaned us tents and thereby enabled us to buy a tent of our own this year. We also appreciate very much all those kind people that felt for our wants for the same and responded in the matter of everything but macaroni - and that wasn't the macaroni's fault. We especially wish to thank Mr. Jim Lean who so kindly loaned us his boat that took us out to Whitney Lake and brought us back. Pic'ds or we are very grateful; not forgetting our thanks to our efficient d iver, Scoutmaster Bell, for his services helped in any way, including "Uncle Dudley," we express our gratitude to the old Scouts' way—by three hearty cheers, and they were all five long.

Charles Cattanach Of Islay Killed

Was Thrown From Horse

Charles Cattanach, well known resident of the Islay district, was accidentally killed last Friday at noon when the horse which he was in the act of mounting, jumped, causing him to fall on his head. Death was practically instantaneous. The accident occurred at noon Friday when Mr. Cattanach Sr. was in the act of taking his son's lunch to the field where the latter was working. Mr. Cattanach had lived on Lauderdale farm ever since 1927, but spent last winter in the east. The body was sent to the old home in Port Arthur where the funeral will be held. Mr. James Cattanach accompanied the body east.

Mr. Cattanach's life story as taken from the Port Arthur News-Chronicle follows:

Charles Cattanach was born in Lothian, Portarshire, Scotland, in 1856. A blacksmith by trade, he educated himself in the study of engineering, and in 1893 went to South Africa, where he remained for a year as consulting engineer for a coal company associated with various South African gold mines. He returned to Scotland at the outbreak of the Boer war, and in 1900 came to Canada with members of his family, settling on a farm in the Murillo district. After a short stay there he entered the service of the Canadian National elevator as millwright superintendent. Later he became employed as millwright at the Canadian Pacific elevator in Port William, leased at the time by the James Richardson interests. He assisted in the designing of the present Richardson elevator, and superintended the construction. Appointed superintendent of the elevator on its completion, he remained in that position until 1927, when he was superannuated, and since that date has served in an advisory capacity on engineering questions to the James Richardson & Sons Company.

He was for many years an adherent of Knox United church, in which he played an active part and filled various offices. Mr. Cattanach, who pre-deceased him in 1923. He was an ardent prohibitionist and temperance worker and a strong Conservative in his political beliefs. For many years an Honorary President of the Caledonian Society, he was especially well known for his lectures on Robert Burns and kindred subjects. He was a life-member of the Scottish Society of Scotland.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. K. B. Pattie, 320 McIntyre street, and Miss Jessie Miller, formerly of Port Arthur and now of Winnipeg, and three sons: John, Rochester, N.Y.; [illegible] Sydney, Australia, and [illegible] Minetown grandchildren and two great-grand-children and three sisters living in Scotland, also.

James A. Richardson, head of the Richardson elevator and grain interests, has received a message from Winnipeg as follows:

"It was with great regret that I learned of the sudden death of Charles Cattanach, for whom I had a very warm regard. Mr. Cattanach was a splendid engineer, a good mechanic and a type of Scotchman that has made a real contribution to this country. He never admitted that age could dim his activities, and I think, in fact, he should was responsible for the accident which terminated a very active life. I am sure that the general regret will be felt at Port Arthur, which he was so proud to call his home."—James A. Richardson.

GAS FRANCHISE SUCH IN DEMAND.

Four others for the gas franchise for the town of Vermilion faced the council at their last regular meeting, three from outside sources and one from a local body. The largest company have in mind a project whereby a pipe line will be layed from the Turner field to Saskatoon. A reply to this company acutely states that the town is without water-works and sewerage and that if the items were embodied the application might be regarded in a very favorable light. Just what will come of all the action along these lines is hard to forecast, but gas, running water and sewerage mains exceptionally good to us and any move that would facilitate matters along these lines would no doubt meet with general approval—especially since it would not be costing the town a cent it let to a responsible and well established company.

PERENNIAL SOW THISTLE

This king of thieves, whose victory in Manitoba caused thousands of hundred dollar crops to be turned in for taxes, has been placed on the only Class "A" weed on our noxious list which means that our government is prepared to spend any sum necessary for the eradication of any infestation of it we come on the land will not comply with the law. To better acquaint the public with the appearance of the weed, pictured plants have been placed in many of the store windows and those shop keepers who were public minded have kept the same surviving. There have also been exhibitions at many public gatherings, fairs, etc., and there should be no excuse for ignorance on the part of the public concerning the appearance of this weed in the event we consider public familiarity a primary step.

In the eradication of this weed, the application, strictly complying with directions, of chlorate chemicals has proven both successful and economical—specially where cultivation is rendered difficult. Where the patches are small the old rule of dig deep and burning the roots every week throughout the year is hard to beat, when conscientiously carried out. In those cases where these patches are in cultivated fields no implement should be dragged through a patch, since this is a method of spreading the growing roots throughout the field. In the cases of large infestations it is advisable to cut them in the blooming period, plow 4 to 5 inches deep just before freeze-up, thus permitting the frost to kill many of the exposed roots, and the following year to mow as soon as the plant starts in the spring, by a cultivation once every week the whole season does the foot cultivator or a rod weeder, thus never permitting a single plant to come above the ground and gradually effecting a smothering out of the infestation.

However, we much prefer advising methods of eradication where we know the type and lay of the land and the machinery power of the farmer and for this reason we ask that you get in touch with your weed inspector or write us, giving the location and you shall receive our immediate attention.

The Dedication Address

Delivered by Rev. H. A. Edwards

"I am going to another what I have to say to you this afternoon on to you Scriptures, one from the book of Joshua, and the other from the Book Genesis. I am not going to give you the chapter and verse, because you will only forget them; but I want you to remember the words themselves, and what I am going to say about them.

"The first Scripture is this: "What mean ye by these stones?" and the second Scripture is this: "Put off thy shoes, wherefore thou standest is Holy ground."

In regard to the first text, the children of Israel had just crossed safely the river Jordan and set their feet in the promised land; but before they all came up out of the river bed, God had commanded Joshua to select fifteen of the strongest men who were each to pick up a big rock and carry it on his shoulder to the other side. With these rocks they built a memorial — something like this, but of course not as large. It was to commemorate God's wonderful dealings with them, and they were told to teach their children, and their children's children and their's after them what the stones stood for. This was God's memorial, and the reason is clear: it was to make sure that there should never be any forgetting of men and women in the land who did not know what the Lord had done.

That is exactly what I want you to do in regard to this memorial. First of all learn what it means, and then tell your children, or your brothers and sisters, about it. I want each and never to be any man, woman or child belonging to Vermilion who will not know and respect this memorial.

And why? Because it stands for, and is today going to be solemnly dedicated to the memory of all those men — 423 in number — who went away from this and surrounding districts to the Great War and laid down their lives. Their bodies rest in France or Belgium or other War Cemeteries; but so far as we are concerned this is their tombstone, and we are met today to think of them before God on its side.

"Mr. George Bernard Shaw said the other day that any one talking about the War should be taken out and shot; and it is the fashion today to speak of war as if it were a shameful thing. But we have had nothing to do with it at all. A number of books have been written lately which make out that the men who took part in the war were criminals and scoundrels of the lowest type, or moral degenerates or half-witted fools. The writers of these books and articles are telling the cruellest lies about the boys who went overseas because they want the money which the sale of such books brings in; they do not care one cent about the boys; it is the dollars they are after. And, in order to get dirty dollars, they do not hesitate to do what every decent fellow would be ashamed to do, and that is tell a low down lie to a dozen. Those boys are down; they died; and they can't defend themselves; but we who know and loved them, who moved and mingled amongst them, who were their comrades and friends, we who are here today to know that those books are lies, and we want you to know it too, and to tell it to your children in days to come. I am speaking particularly to the boys and girls of today.

"And this brings me to the second text "The place wherever thou standest is Holy ground." That means that the place, the place I am standing on and you are standing by, I am telling you it is Holy ground, in some way different from all the rest of the town land and the district around it. Why? Because it is becoming sacred to you today in the sight of God and with all of you as witnesses, as a Memorial to those who made the supreme sacrifice. You know what a sacrifice is; and the Bible says that where there is a sacrifice there must be blood shed. And that is true in this case—blood has been shed, the precious blood of 23 men. THEY did that ground on which it, and they did not have to do it. They did it of their own free will. Why? In order that all of us, and especially you boys and girls of today, should be able to enjoy the freedom, and liberty, and have all the good things that you do have. They did it for you, and don't you ever forget it. They were just as fond of their dear ones, and of their homes, and of sports and games, and of all the things that make life so pleasant, as you are; and they threw it all up and sacrificed it all for your sakes—that is for the country's sake, because you represent the country of tomorrow. That was their part, and they did it, and did it splendidly. THIS, the Memorial, is our part; and we are doing nothing it in order to honour their memory, and keep it fresh and bright. We grown-ups have built and paid for it, and we were proud to do it, glad to show our love and respect for the boys who died. What about you younger ones? Ute boys and girls of Vermilion, the Cubs and Brownies, and Scouts and Guides? What can you do to show your respect? I am going to tell you, and please listen very carefully. The place whereon thou standest is Holy ground." I want you to help make this place Holy ground. There is nothing else you can do, but you can do that; and you will, won't you? See that this Memorial is kept clean and tidy. Blow the grass in France are kept clean and tidy. Let it be the cleanest, the most beautiful, the most speckless spot in Vermilion. What over litter of papers, orange peel, or other rubbish there may be in other part of town, see to it that there shall be none here. Every time you help to tidy up round this Monument you are showing your love and respect for the boys and men whose names are inside it—you will be helping to make and keep it Holy ground. The Israelites went down into the valley of the Jordan and came out again with the promised land; and twelve of their best men built them a memorial. Those men bring the Scriptures. A good program of horse races were also run off on this day.

Beecroft, 2. Corp. Guy Bell, 3. Private D. Williams. Presentation of special cups and shields by Jas. Enst of Edmonton to dealt with in more detail elsewhere in this issue.

The baseball tourney was the leading attraction on the third day, five teams being entered. The diamond was damaged slightly in position so that every play was easily visible from the grandstand; it had been worked into magnificent shape gratis by Pierce McKone with tractor and grader. Vermilion defeated Minburn; Tberaville defeated Bonnyville, then Vegreville trimmed Thorncliffe. As a grand climax the Vermilion kids triumphed over their long Vegreville rivals and took the big money for the day.

Th' high dives in the afternoon and at night drew a tremendous crowd each time.

The fireworks display kept the people on the grounds till 10.30, but they felt well repaid for their patience, the pyrotechnics being beyond description and commanding that is rather rare in small towns.

The desires of the torpsichorean inclined were fully catered to by the Vermilion Orioles in the dance pavilion, where Bitsy dances took place each night. They were well attended during the three evenings. Friday seeing the largest crowd.

Fair Drew Good Attendance

Exhibits In All Classes Were Heavy

Excellent weather for all but a few minutes on Friday afternoon favored the 25th annual exhibition of the Vermilion Agricultural Society, and to show that they appreciated the favor of the weather a large number of people from all parts of the district, both of the number turning out on Friday, "Farmer's Day." While the attendance as a whole was not up to record breaker, it was very satisfactory considering the general state of affairs. On Kiddies' day, for instance, some 200 free strips were handed out to the youngsters.

The Standard expects to have a complete list of prize winners in next weeks issue.

Livestock Exhibits

All of the livestock classes without exception, brought forth larger entry than last year, particularly our standing of course being the cattle, closely followed by the horse exhibits A pleasing feature of these classes was the predominance of local en

Main Building

In the main building were the display of Grasses and Grains, Vegetables, and the Ladies work, cooking and sewing. The cooking was the subject of special interest and anyone who broadcasts that the housewives of to-day don't know the time honored cookers would have all his arguments quashed by visiting the Vermilion Fair cookery display. The bulbous pudding and fancy work promoted a very pleasing appearance but we are not in a position to pass any comments on it.

Booth and Machinery Exhibits

Of leading interest in the booth exhibits was that of Mr. Foster with his garden of weeds in actual bloom, and what this great dooms'y lesson about weeds isn't worth the trouble of learning!

Each of the Hardware stores had interesting booth exhibits on the grounds, and practically all of the implement agencies machinery exhibits, chiefly in form of threshing outfits in full swing. Law's garage, Vermilion Motors and J. McKone & Son had displays of automobiles which always had someone looking them over with longing eyes and empty pockets Midway and Grandstand Attractions

Conklin and Carret again supplied the midway, the rides of which proved the most popular. Some of the sideshows drew their quota of patrons and some didn't.

The grandstand attractions were good the second day, the Nelson troup being the leading attraction. A good program of horse races were also run off on this day.

We are greatly indebted to those who so kindly loaned their trucks and to the persons who helped to load and unload them; also to the farmers who brought in loads of rock. We also thank those who donated material to complete this fine Memorial. Much credit is due Mr. (Scotty) Swanson for this fine specimen of workmanship and for his sound advice and assistance to the Committee. Memorial In Northland

Erected To Memory Men Who Lost Lives In Building Railway To Flin Flon

A few hundred yards west of the station at Cranberry Portage stands a monument with the simple inscription on a bronze plaque, "To the Sons of Martha."

Erected at the junction of the railway lines to Cold Lake and to Flin Flon from The Pas and other southern points, the large monument of native pre-cambrian rock is seen by almost all travellers into the northern mining area of Manitoba.

On a beautiful fall day in 1929, Marcy McLaren, president of the Manitoban Construction Company, standing within a few feet of the cold waters of Lake Athapapuskow gave orders to a representative of his company:

"Will you see that a monument is placed between the tracks just west of the junction. See that it is built to last forever. Have a suitable plate put on the southern face with the inscription "To the Sons of Martha." and be sure to record why there was the suggestion of a castle in the throat of the big Glengarry (Ontario) Boat.

He hesitated for a moment and gazed across the lake to where an aeroplane was taking off with a party of four passengers for Cold Lake and then turned to the company representatives at Cranberry Portage with the added instructions, typical of the man who gave them. "Paint it well. I don't care what it costs. When it is finished send the bill to me.

The monument that stands on the pre-cambrian rich of the north country was erected in memory of those who lost their lives in building the railways to Flin Flon and Sherridon. It stands in the gentle evening of summer the west of heat of the northern summer, and through the biting blasts of winter, a memorial to "The Sons of Martha."

With miles of pines and spruce thrusting their charred fingers skyward, by Sons of steel running three ways from the junction, the monument rises in the quiet of Canadian north. "To the Sons of Martha" who toiled that the railway might be built.

The Fruit Season

Authentic Advice On Best Methods Of Canning Fruits and Vegetables

With the season of fresh fruits and vegetables at hand the housewife is particularly interested in canning and preserving There are many ways in which these may be undertaken, but only the right way gives success. Methods which have been thoroughly tried and proven by the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture are fully outlined in pamphlet No. 160, "Canning Fruits and Vegetables." This little booklet, prepared by an expert, gives complete detailed instructions as to how to proceed, together with useful time-tables for the cooking of fruits and vegetables for canning It also deals with types of kitchen equipment particularly suited for the purpose, and also how to get the best results with equipment readily available in the average home.

An increase in the number of pounds of butter in cold storage in Canada on July 1, over the figure for the previous year is noticeable in a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Number of pounds of butter in storage, on July 1, was 21,961,000 compared to 11,337,000 on July 1, 1929, and 12,672,000 representing the average for the past five-year period.

Information For Bee Keepers

B. Columbia Are Kept Busy They Are Less Likely To Swarm

If bees are kept working hard they are less likely to swarm than if they have nothing to do. Many things can be done to divert the activities of the bees to storing honey instead of swarming, but it is impossible to prevent swarming altogether in all colonies except by certain drastic manipulations. By keeping the bees comfortable and supplying them with an abundance of room as fast as needed, it is often possible to coax them through without swarming. As soon as the honey flow begins, or even before if the colonies are quite strong and the weather warm, the entrance should be opened to the full size, which means ¾ inch deep by the full width of the hive Some give even further by sliding the hive forward on the bottom board to give ventilation at the rear. This applies to strong colonies only, and during the honey flow. Otherwise there would be damage of robbing with such large openings. It is well, also to place a wide board on the hive, projecting on the sunny side in order to prevent the sun shining directly on the supers The shade board should have cleats on the lower side so that there is a space between the cover and the board. By placing several boards together, a good shade board can be made that will be quite useful in keeping the bees at work during hot weather.

Extension To Grain Elevators

In order to provide additional storage capacity for wheat and other grains grown in Southern Alberta, the Provincial Government will build a 1,000,000 bushel elevator at Lethbridge this year. This elevator is to cost about $800,000. Extensions are also being built this year to the government storage elevators at Saskatoon and Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, at a cost of $450,000 each.

Canadian Grown Tobacco

Home Grown Article Praised Almost Than Imported Variety

Canadian farmers are producing practically all the tobacco manufactured in this country, Dr. H. H. Archibald, director of the Canada Experimental farm, told 150 departmental judges at Ottawa, attending a two-day course in identifying live stock and field crops. Dr. Archibald claimed that the Canadian grown tobacco was a choicer quality than the imported variety. He gave to the Dominion Department of Agriculture much of the credit for increasing the acreage, saying that research work had been largely instrumental.

He deprecated the attitude of some legislators and farmers that these engaged in scientific research were merely "book farmers." Scientific work is absolutely necessary," Dr. Archibald affirmed.

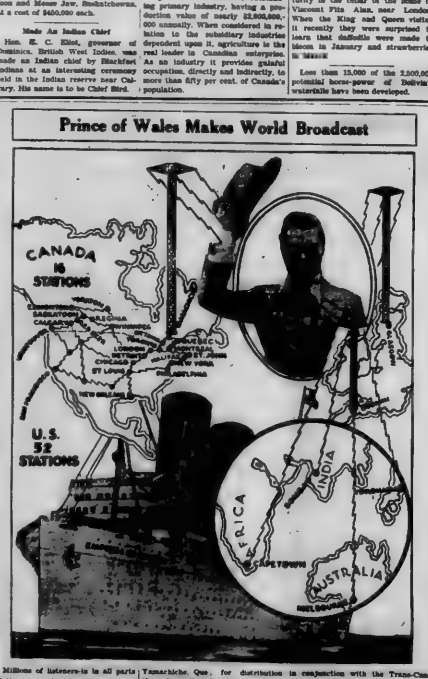
In this view he was confirmed by J. Lockie Wilson, superintendent of Ontario fairs for the provincial department of agriculture. "There never was a greater need for co-operation between the scientists and the farmers than today," he declared, adding that farming today was the most scientific business and "it will be harder to be a farmer than a high court judge."

L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist, who referred to Reward variety, now being considered the best type for growing in Canada, referred also to efforts being made to grow peas with different grains to secure a combination which will permit the farmer to harvest the highly desirable protein qualities of the peas by use of a binder.

Canada's Primary Industry

Agriculture is Canada's outstanding primary industry, having a production value of nearly $3,000,000,000 annually. When considered in relation to the secondary industries dependent upon it, agriculture is the real leader in Canadian enterprise. As an industry it provides gainful occupation, directly and indirectly, to more than fifty per cent. of Canada's population.

Prince of Wales Makes World Broadcast



Millions of listeners-in in all parts of the world heard the voice of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, as he launched the new 42,500-ton Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Britain," at Glasgow, Scotland, on Wednesday June 11. It was essentially an Empire as well as a Canadian function, for Marconi beam-wireless took the royal address to Australia, South Africa and India in the same instant that it was rushed across the Atlantic from Rodosto, Montreal, to Yamachiche, Que., for distribution throughout Canada and the United States. Simultaneously, as proof of the world wide Empire-wireless's launching by beam-wireless in Canada and the United States, 66 stations distributed the broadcast. Picked up at Yamachiche by land wires, for transmission to Montreal, the Canadian distribution was handled through station CFCF and piped other stations linked up through the radio trans-Canada system of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's Telegraph, in conjunction with the Trans-Canada Broadcasting Company. In the United States, a like synchronizing string of stations passed the message on in a record hook up, arranged out of courtesy to the Prince, with all commercial programs cancelled to make way for the news of the historic event. Others heard were Lord Abercromby, chairman of John Brown and Company, builders of the Empress liners, and Lt.-Col. W. Bamby, director and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Exhibition Of Weeds

Get the Weeds Killed Before They Have Time To Go To Seed

This is the period of the year when the farmer's greatest personal problem, weeds, becomes strikingly apparent. Now, too, is the time to get effective work in for their eradication. There is only one thing to do with weeds—get rid of them; and cultivation is the best way by which this can be done. Get the weeds killed before they have a chance to go to seed—hoeing is good in some crops; after-harvest cultivation helps clean grain fields; and other methods are used. Two good reasons for the elimination of weeds are given by experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture...(1) weeds take up a large percentage of the moisture needed by growing crops; and (2) they rob as much of the plant foods as necessary to growing crops.

Building Bridges

Everyday Life Cannot Wait For Working Out Of Theories

Roswell Jackson is said to have had in his army an old man who had long experience as a bridge builder. This learned education was in the school of hard work. On one occasion it became necessary to replace a bridge which the Yankees had destroyed, and there was no time to lose. The general called the old man into his tent and explained the situation.

"We must have that bridge at the earliest possible moment," he said. "Get a plan from the chief engineer and set to work at once."

In the morning the general met the bridge-builder coming to report, and asked, "Did the engineer give you the plan?"

"Sir'ral," replied the old chap, "the bridge is done. I don't know whether the picter is or not."

Life is a practical matter, and the building of its bridges will not wait for the working out of theories and dogmas. Free will and "free initiative" done, when it comes time to report to the General. The intuitive religious faith, the instinctive moral insights which the average man possesses, enable him to build the bridges of everyday life.

Elaborate creeds and sophisticated philosophies have their place, as men try to think out the deep meanings of experience. So in building a great railroad bridge across a mountain chasm there must be the highly specialized knowledge of the trained engineer, where an error in the tenth decimal place may spell disaster; but in the simple relationships of the daily life, men have no need of slogan and isms. Said John Wesley, the great and simple man: "I am sick of opinions. My soul loathes the frothy food. Give me a humble lover of God and man, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality and without hypocrisy." — Minneapolis Journal.

Contain Element Of Truth

Explanation Of Proverbs Which Could Have Been Well Rounded

Although the moon exercises no control over the weather, the appearance of this luminary is affected in certain ways by the state of the air and by the presence or absence of clouds, and these things, in turn, bear certain relations to approaching weather changes. Hence some of the old proverbs and rules connecting the moon with the weather contain an element of truth.

There is, for example, a widespread belief that moonlight is favorable to the occurrence of frosts. Moonlight itself has nothing to do with the temperature of the air, but the moon cannot shine unless the sky is clear, and a clear sky at night permits rapid loss of heat from the earth by radiation. The chilled earth cools the air near it; hence the absence of clouds that permits the moon to be seen is likewise a condition conducive to frost.

The common halo or luminous ring surrounding the moon when seen through cirro-stratus clouds is always of the same angular size—having a radius of about 22 degrees...but owing to an optical illusion it seems to be larger when the clouds are near and then when they are high. The clouds forming halos stream out far in front of an advancing cyclone storm, with its attendant rain area, and in general these clouds are higher the farther they are from the storm centre. This explains the old saying: "The bigger the ring, the nearer the wet."

As a Man Thinketh

People Naturally Lean Toward Things They Like Most

As you think, you travel, and as you love, you attract. You are today where your thoughts have brought you; you will be tomorrow where your thoughts take you. You cannot escape the result of your thoughts, but you can endure and learn, and accept and be glad. You will realize the vision (not the idle wish), of your heart, be it base or beautiful, or a mixture of both, for you will always gravitate toward that which you secretly, most love. In your hands will be placed the exact results of your thoughts; you will receive that which you earn; no more, no less. Whatever your present environment may be, you will fall, or rise with your thoughts, your wishes, your ideal. You will become as small as your controlling desire; as great as your dominant aspiration.—James Allen.

Preparing Seed For Exhibition

Valuable Prizes May Be Won By Observing Care

Interest in the exhibition of seed from cereal and field crops at the various fairs and exhibitions held throughout Canada, is rapidly growing. There are no particular difficulties in participating in these exhibits and with the exercise of a little care and good judgment in the preparation of the exhibit one may win valuable prizes. Officials connected of farmers, experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have prepared the following suggestions.

A good exhibitor will begin his plans before planting time. The exhibitor, whether it be a sheaf or a sample of threshed grain, should represent as nearly as possible his ideal. The best immoral are harvested only from vigorous crops, free from diseases and weeds. Because of its superiority, registered seed is recommended to all exhibitors.

The aim in showing sheaves is to display a few of the plants to the best advantage. Select only straight uniform plants which possess well-developed heads of grain, and clean bright straw. These should preferably be cut close to the ground with a sickle and cleaned until they will not be exposed to rain or dew. Slight bleaching by exposure to the sun while drying improves the appearance. Store sheaves by hanging the heads down to preserve the shape and compactness of the head.

Plotting size and neat proportions are of the quality most effectively. The ideal sheaf is a well-rounded bead obtained by allowing the stems in the centre to stand a little higher than those on the outer rows. The diameter should not be less than eight inches. All leaves should be stripped off the stem and become brittle and the sheaf should be neatly squared at the butt. Shattering may be avoided by making up the sheaves in damp weather.

Exhibits of threshed grain are usually shown in glass jars, paper or cloth bags. Grain should appear clean and free from impurities. Rain and weathering after harvest discolor seeds of all kinds if left in the open. Cure, under cover, sufficient amounts of the various crops for the samples. Clean thoroughly, remove chaff beards, etc., should not be overdone. Excellent samples of oats and barley frequently are discounted in judging on account of the rubbing off the tips so that the meat of the kernels is exposed.

A Scattered Antique

Statue When Assembled Sold For Fifty-ten Thousand Dollars

Some little while ago Sir Cecil Harcourt-Smith, formerly of the Victoria and Albert Museum, in London, had a holiday and found in his Sussex garden. When digging, the gardeners came across the feet of a statue, they found the remainder except the head. Still later, when in an adjoining town, Sir Cecil saw the head in an antique shop. Thinking it might be the head of the statue discovered in his garden he bought it for 10s. It turned out his surmise was correct. Still later on he sold the statue to the Melbourne Bye Art Gallery for £3,500.

Hands Affect Health

The mood of the mind determines the mood of the physical organs and thus influences the health of the body, Rabbi Morris Lichtenstein, founder of the Society of Jewish Science, told his congregation in New York. "If the mind believes that the slightly stain of the body is beyond hope, then recovery will be greatly postponed or actually impossible," he said.

"I advise you to smoke at work. It soothes the nerves."

"Impossible! I am a diver."

Fat people are more likely to die from accidents than lighter weights, recent statistics indicate.

"How much does a ride to the hotel cost?"

"One and six."

"And with luggage?"

"I don't charge for luggage."

"Then please take my luggage and I'll walk."—Lustige Kolner Zeitung Cologne.

N. D. CRIZZLY BEAR MINUTES

Council meeting of the Municipal District of Grizzly Bear No. 452 was held in the office at Wildmere on the 30th of July, Reeve Shane taking the chair at 10:45 a.m. with all the councillors present. Minutes of previous meeting were read and, on motion, approved. On motion, E. C. Symes was elected deputy reeve for the balance of the year. Report made re J. E. Green and family: Mrs. Green is still being supported in the Swinton Army home at Calgary, and as Mr. Green has failed to answer letters it was agreed to prosecute for non-support.

Memo was submitted from the Department of Municipal Affairs, with duplicate copy of new stock by-law which had been duly approved by the minister and which necessary report had been duly advertised. A refund of $112.00 was reported as having been received from the Provincial Treasurer on account of Wild Land taxes overpaid by the Hudson's Bay Company in 1929, to be forwarded to the company.

An account to a worker on the roads in Div. 5 had been reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board Regarding failure to register a road deviation on Sec. 8-49-1, the Director of Surveys wrote explaining that registration had been held up as the surveyor failed to agree with the monuments shown on the township plan. The surveys were now being checked up, and registration would be attended to without undue delay. An application for Old Age Pension by a female resident in Div. 6 was approved.

Communications from Mr. Morrison, solicitor, Vermilion, emphasized the importance of having the roads in use throughout the municipality always kept in a safe condition. Report made re municipal conference held in Vermilion on July 17th and attended by Reeve Shane, Councillor Wylie and the secretary, and of the interest and importance of many of the matters brought forward and discussed. Letter was submitted from Vermilion Municipal Hospital regarding balance due from 1929, secretary reporting that he hoped to be in a position to pay off same at an early date

Messrs H. Green, A. Trevithick and F. Arthur, waited on the Council regarding the spread of weeds and more especially of stinkweed in the Milhourne by locality. Mr. Huxley, Weed Control supervisor, also spoke of the importance of keeping the weeds in control, the Council eventually agreeing that any report as to neglect of weeds should be investigated by two councillors, and necessary action taken as agreed on. Messrs. Barr and W. Steele from the Vermilion Agricultural Society waited on the Council and were granted a donation of $75.00. Request for assistance by Rev. J. O'Sullivan on behalf of P. Carginal living near Vermilion, said to be suffering and indigent, was submitted and continued for inquiry. Other matters dealt with included letters regarding taxes, payment of pound mile deficit to poundkeeper, S. S. B. Lands taxes, and lands taken for road deviations, etc.

Tuxis Camp Lake Louis

The Tuxis and Trail Ranger boys went into camp at Lake Louis on August 14th for ten days. Two trucks transported the boys to their destination, who came from the north taking one group and Mr Burns from town taking the Vermilion and Quesnele Creek boys. About thirty-five boys under the leadership of Rev. J. Daley, with Allan .Y Routron assisting, constituted the camp. The nine chores was I deal, on the north shore with beautiful timber protecting the tents from all sides. The lake was all that could be desired; water clear and warm, and a good solid bottom of pure white sand.

Days passed quickly but the paper-chase and the trip to Angie Lake picnic must not be forgotten, or the visitors who were numerously dropping in and welcomed to the Camp.

The big event took place on the last Wednesday when the combined Tuxis picnic and sports day. The ball games were between Angie Lake and Camp, North vs. South, and then the Juniors took the bat. Mr. H. Sweet was a very able umpire for the games. Next on the programme was high diving which was enjoyed by all the spectators, as the senior boys gave them some real dives. Then came refreshments served by the ladies. Some of the girls very ably assisted in the booth where their services were in demand.

Basing proved a great attraction between Lorne MacPhee and Billy Wilson, Gordon Dixon and Stan Wilson, John MacConville and Dave Hopkins, and then, to show them how, Leon Goold and George Munce gave a whirlwind exhibition.

The water obstruction race created heaps of laughter as one boy and then another was "ducked" by his obstacle in the shape of junior boys. This was followed immediately by the water polo which was closely contested the score being only 3-2. Many of those who attended the above had never seen anything like it before but that did not detract any of the interest in the game.

The last of the programme was the big campfire out on the stretch of sand that runs into the lake. The boys sat Indian-fashion and sang songs while the visitors sat under the leafy bower provided for them. Ice cream and candy were served as the fire caught hold. What an impressive sight and fitting close to a happy day! The quiet lake reflecting the ruddy glow on one side, trees and sprucey faces on the other, faces of clean boys who says thrilling with the present, expectant of the future whatever it may bring, but determined to face it like men, and the fire pointing up ward and onward to the right

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard 5th AUGUST 1914

The great nations of Europe are now engaged in war and the countries at an armed camp. Events have developed with startling rapidity the past few days, with England, France and Russia arrayed against Germany and Austria-Hungary. Belgium has refused proffers from Germany to allow troops to pass through that country and has an army of 250,000 in the field. England has sent an army of 150,000 to Belgium. Engagements are reported on both land and sea. Owing to censorship grim silence enshrouds the far-flung battle line. France has hurled more than a million men toward the frontier of Belgium and Germany; General Joffre, commander in chief, has taken control of the troops on the German border Germany has demanded that Italy live up to its alliance treaty but it is believed that country will try to maintain neutrality Eighty thousand Germans troops invading Belgium devastated the frontiers of King Albert

Cause Of Our Economic Ills

Anything and everything that will have even the slightest effect in removing causes of friction between nations on the one hand, or of promoting goodwill on the other hand, should to an ever increasing degree receive the support of every government, every organization, every individual. There is danger as we get further and further away from the agony of the war years 1914-1918, and as the horrors of that great struggle begin to fade and become indistinct in our memories to forget just how awful war really is.

It is well, therefore, to be occasionally reminded of what the Great War continues to mean to us, even after the years it passed into history. Hon Philip Snowden, the British chancellor of the Exchequer, whose striking characteristics of wit and pungent speeches in the House of Commons unreserved by your reading of the current press, gave an interesting address which he pleaded for world peace and for the putting forth of every effort to attain that object.

Despite Mr. Snowden's well known pacific tendencies he dealt only with the more definite and exact aspect of war as an agent of destruction. Taking the case of Great Britain, he pointed out that if had spent some 50,000 million pounds in addition to the actual War Bill. This was apart from the loss of the wealth-producing capacity of the men of men drawn for four years from useful employment and the further loss and repugnance of the loss of life.

The war as Mr. Snowden pointed out left Great Britain with a debt of over thirty-five millions of pounds on which alone she pays costs one and three-quarter billions a year. It all has to come out of taxation.

At the present rate of payment, Mr. Snowden added, it will take 140 years to wipe it out. Today the British people are paying in taxes every day $300,000 every hour, $5,000 every minute for debt purposes. It takes the whole-time labor of 2,000,000 workers per year to and pay out to pay the annual cost of the nation's burden of debt. To this must be added $575,000,000 which Britain annually spends on war services and $250,000,000 it pays yearly for war pensions, which gives a total of $2,000,000,000 $5,000 a minute,—which Great Britain has to raise for war purposes

Such stupendous figures throw Mr Snowden's main point into bold relief. "It passes the power of the most imaginative mind," he said, "to conceive what prosperity and happiness could be added to the world if the resources wasted by war could have been used for the advancement of human wealth." But even the least imaginative mind must realize from the figures that now is the time for all good men and women the world over to ponder the folly of preparing for another war

The great economic ills from which the world is suffering today,—and from which Canada unfortunately is not free,—could all be overcome if the huge amounts raised by taxation to pay war debts could be diverted into constructive channels and to maintain what might have been done had the enormous principal sum expended during the war itself been devoted to improving world conditions in all countries

If the money spent waging war by Britain alone had, instead, been devoted to great constructive national programmes, there would have been no unemployment in Britain. Everybody would have been busy during the past twelve years, and everybody would be hard at work now. The whole standard of living in Britain would have been raised; housing and all social conditions would be on a higher plane than ever in the world's history.

And what would have been true of Great Britain would be equally true of all countries, Canada included. It is easy to thoughtlessly lay the blame for unemployment, depressed business conditions, falling markets, and sundry other ills to the cause and let that cause, and to lay the blame here or there, but the basic cause is the war, and the huge burden it has imposed on all people and on every constructive, progressive movement that the peoples of the world, in their several countries, are anxious to carry on.

Campaigning for world peace is not a fad, nor the mere business of the idealist. It is the hardest headed business proposition confronting the world today. In its success is bound up the future welfare of every worker, every man and woman, the future of their children and children's children,—indeed their very lives. Only by such achievement and maintenance of world peace can the present economic ills of the world be remedied

Experiments In Television

Broadcasting Of a Play In English Not a Complete Success

For the first time in England the Baird system of television was supplied to the public, although still in the experimental stage, with the broadcasting of a play by the British Broadcasting Corporation. The piece chosen was Luigi Pirandello's "The Man With a Flower in His Mouth."

The London Times assigned its regular dramatic critic to review the television production and in his review he said:

"Let it be admitted at once that plays by television are as yet a subject for men of science and not for critics of the finer points of acting. The visual transmission is far from perfect. You feel yourself prying through a keyhole at some amazing dazzling exhibition of the first film ever made. But if the process has still a long way to go before every subscriber of the British Broadcasting Corporation is fully enlisted by roving and hearing plays in his own library, the difficulties already overcome are many and remarkable."

The speech is still the science have their being is half a small cube, sliced diagonally by an effective plane of photo electric cells. Before eyes are kept as close to the projector as a man with his head in a band box with his nose screwed against the crate." When another actor appeared a diamond screen passed across the "stage" and the scene was received by C. R. W. Nevison's drawings and Baird apparatus.

The television "stage" is perhaps the world's most intimate theatre, the whole picture of the moving, working, in inches, where others work in yards. What it audience saw in television was as much like about postcard size of varying clearness. The London Times concludes that the future of television and the theatre may meanwhile rest in peace. The time for interest and curiosity is not ripe, and the time for serious criticism of television plays as plays is not yet."

Exhibition Grain

Kicks To the Front Of World's Fleet Show May Be Grown Any Year

There still seems to be a wrong impression in some parts of Canada regarding the year in which grain for exhibit at the World's Grain Show may be grown, says a bulletin of the show executive. It is well, therefore, to repeat that there is absolutely no restriction whatever regarding the season in which grain for exhibit is grown.

It may have been or may be grown in any year. Of course, because all exhibits must be in the hands of the exhibition authorities at Regina on or before March 1, 1932, it will be impossible to grow Canadian grain for exhibition in 1932. Canadian grain for exhibit therefore, if not already grown, must be grown either this season or during the season of 1931.

GIANT DIRIGIBLE R-100 REACHES ST. HUBERT PORT

Montreal.—After a weary wait, Great Britain's giant threat for the supremacy of the skies, hovered over St. Hubert airport, early on Friday, August 1st, just a little over three days after leaving Cardington, England, the R-100 reached the mooring mast, marking the end of the trans-Atlantic flight. Fabric trouble caused a delay of several hours, and cut down the speed after reaching the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

As newspapermen and ground crew awaited, the dirigible was first sighted 10 miles northeast of St. Hubert at 2:04 a.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, and was travelling slowly east toward the illuminated landing field. Half an hour later the huge, silver ship hovered over, but barely moving, at an altitude of about 500 feet above the ground.

The first attempt to moor the sky-wanderer after many hours of waiting, was the signal for an outburst of cheering. It failed, and the report. Behind the high fence surrounding the field, too, were perhaps a thousand people who saw the first a scorching day, then a wind-storm and rain.

It was not the first time the R-100 had experienced trouble with its fabric skin. On its first extended flight over England the fabric was worn on the tail surfaces and the rear portion of the car, and extensive repairs were remodeled in an effort to prevent a recurrence of the mishap.

The ship sighted over the Island of Orleans for two hours while repairs were made to the damaged fabric on the tail surfaces. Then while the big airship was almost within sight of Quebec.

A large piece of loose (fabric) was noticed in the top of the envelope. Captain Harry St. Martin of Montreal, pilot of the airplane flew within some miles of the airship and noticed that she was barely holding her head in to the wind.

"There seemed to be a tear in the top of the bag," Captain St. Martin said. "She hardly seemed to be moving."

She seemed almost to drift by Quebec, the noise of her motors being hardly audible from the ground.

Soon after passing the Quebec bridge the R-100 opened up her engines and speed was considerably increased. She was flying at about 1,000 feet.

The shores of the St. Lawrence to the northeast of the village were covered with people eager to get a glimpse of the monster as she sailed by on the last leg of her trip

Improved Crop Conditions

Betterment During the Past Week Is Reported In Some Areas

Ottawa, Ont.—Crop conditions have improved, particularly in central Saskatchewan and Alberta, according to the weekly crop report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In Manitoba there has been an increase in severity of stem rust infection, some stands in the central and southern sections of the province having infections ranging from 5 to 75 per cent.

The report continues: Western weather since our report of July 24, has been very favorable, showers and some good rains. Precipitation was heaviest in southern Manitoba, in the Swan River district and in central and northern Alberta over much the same territory which received heavy rains during the previous week. The first week temperatures of the harvest season were recorded from northern and southern stations of Alberta and from Yukon, Saskatchewan and Crop conditions show a further betterment during the week, particularly in central areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta. Frosts, sufficient to blacken potatoes, are reported by the Beaver Lodge sub-station, in the Grande Prairie district. Since then one to seven degrees of frost were recorded, some damage to grain will result, although the extent cannot be determined. With favorable weather conditions, stem rust infection shows a serious increase on the leafy, late bread wheat of Manitoba, with only slight increase on the lighter stands of Saskatchewan wheat.

The full text of the wire from the Dominion rust research laboratory at Winnipeg is as follows

"Weather conditions were favorable for stem rust development in the past week. Decided increase in severity of infection on common wheat throughout Manitoba. Some heavy stands in central and southern Manitoba have infections ranging from 5 per cent. to 75 per cent. No decided change reported in rust situation of semi-eastern Saskatchewan. Light to moderate eastern Saskatchewan rust has increased with severity of infection ranging from one to a few per cent. on wheat and barley and pustules appearing on necks of plants. Leaf rust found on wheat in Alberta, but no stem rust yet reported."

Changsha was divided into 50 districts for pillaging Directed by leaders, the deposters carried foreign effects into the street as plunder before firing the buildings Coolies looking on were heartened by the Red leaders, and many were persuaded to join the Communist army before the rebels were suppressed.

Changsha was completely looted as the result of the uprising. Practically all buildings owned by foreigners, including churches, residences and offices, were destroyed. Five buildings on Sinsilin Island opposite the city probably would be destroyed.

Value of foreign property already burned amounted to millions of dollars. The total could not be estimated

Saskatchewan Egg Pool

Increase In Prices Over Those Paid In 1929

Regina, Sask.—An increase in prices over those paid by the pool in period in 1929 is noted in the annual payment of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Poultry Producers, Limited. Egg Pool cheques for which are now being prepared at the head office here This payment covers the period from the end of the pool, which closed simultaneously with that of 1928, all in the hands of the sample and grading staff during the busiest season of the year. Pedestrian Hurt On Main Street

Mrs. Shattuck Hit by Car Tuesday Afternoon

Mrs. Shattuck, who lives some 16 miles south of Islay, was struck by a car on Tuesday afternoon and severely bruised. The car was operated by Mrs. Lauritson who resides on the Mannerville farm south of town.

Mrs. Shattuck, who is close to 80 years of age, in company with her daughter-in-law, was crossing from the Bank of Commerce to Long's drug store; the car was coming from the north at a slow rate of speed and turned east on Main street; the born had been blown twice to attract the ladies' attention. The younger lady continued across but the injured woman stepped on the crossing and although the car was turned as far as possible to avoid touching her, she was struck by the side of the vehicle and knocked down. The car was brought to a stop within 10 feet of the fatal contact. Mrs. Shattuck was taken immediately to Dr. Knell's office where she was found to be suffering from a lacerated scalp, and that one wheel had evidently passed over her legs causing several bruises. The aged lady was suffering greatly from shock. Mrs. Shattuck was reported from the hospital here where she was taken to be resting easily on Wednesday afternoon.

DEATH OF C. B. WOOD

The announcement of the death at Vancouver of C. B. Wood will be received with much regret by a large number of former acquaintances in the Manville and Vermilion districts. "C. B.", as he was generally called here, was accountant in Craigs' store coming to that firm from Manville. He severed his connection from the local business and moved to the coast on account of his health. Mr. Wood while here was one of the most enthusiastic tennis players of the club in his younger days he was a well known international cricketer of England, when he and his brother made the Wood name famous in cricketing circles. Much sympathy is extended to his widow and son.

Mistakes

Glancing through a magazine recently the writer's attention was attracted by an article bearing the same title as appears at the heading of this column, "Mistakes." It was a short article, but two paragraphs in it stood out as important and worth-while - worth pausing on for the consideration of those who read this column from week to week.

After reciting mistakes made by "Great Men of Business," and the different ways in which they react to them, the article in question offered comment:

"Looking back over history, it would seem that mistakes, of themselves, are comparatively unimportant. All men make them. The important thing is how a man acts afterwards."

There is sound philosophy in that observation. It is deserving of more than passing attention.

All people make mistakes. Not one of us is infallible. The real test is: Do we profit by them? Do we use them as stepping stones to real achievements: to the winning of success? Or are we embittered by them; discouraged, inclined to give up and let go?

When a business man makes a mistake, jeopardizes, even loses, the savings and accumulations of a life time, and then begins to think of throwing up his sponge: contemplates suicide or some other rash act. It is a confession that he was not really a big man after all, that he is lacking in stamina will power and true courage.

Experience is a hard taskmaster, a bitter teacher, but - it is a teacher, and a good one at that, because it is through experience that we do learn.

All men make mistakes big men as well as little men. Nor is it individuals alone who make them: governments make them, communities make them, nations make them. They must pay for their mistakes, but they can also profit from them.

One of the mistakes of this present age is to confuse bigness with greatness to confuse quantity with quality. Next year the census of Canada will be taken, and already communities are anxiously awaiting the figures to see which has grown in population, which has grown in wealth, each town and city hoping they have outstripped their rivals. But how many have been giving serious consideration during the past ten years to the quality rather than the quantity of their population? The United States census has just been completed and we find some of their larger cities, while boasting of their growth in size, seriously regretting that they were not smaller by some thousands of criminals and others of an undesirable class. In their ambition to become big and bigger they have made the mistake of ignoring the quality of their citizenship, and neglected those social provisions which would make their communities big in the truest, highest sense.

It is not the manufacturer who, through mass production is turning out an enormous volume of products who is the truly successful man and a benefit to his country, the really successful man is he who is producing quality products. Nor is it the farmer who is operating several sections of land in a more or less indifferent way who, in the long run, will prove successful: it is the farmer who is farming intelligently, striving to raise the best quality of grain, the best grade of stock, poultry and dairy products, with trees and flower and vegetable gardens, who is establishing a real home, making a lasting contribution to his country, and a success in his life work.

But to return to our theme. Mistakes." All men make them. Do not be discouraged by yours. Remember the important thing is how a man acts afterwards.

This is a comforting thought. You can retrieve your mistakes. If you had always been right during the past five or ten years you might be much better off financially today than you are. But you have those experiences to guide you now, and you can profit from them if you will

But, and here let us quote the second outstanding paragraph in the magazine article to which reference has been made. It reads

"Don't make the most serious mistake of all, that is to think about your mistakes."

Forget them, except to profit by them Don't brood over them, don't let them discourage or embitter you; don't weaken, don't regard them as irretrievable disasters. Be up and doing forget them use them to rise to greater heights and a larger success

Time Element in Cancer

Different Periods Of Life Have Bearing On the Trouble

A curious time element in cancer is described by Sir George Lenthal Cheatle, British cancer authority. He is chief surgeon of King's College Hospital, in London, England, and is attending the British Medical Association meeting in Winnipeg.

There is one time when previously harmless stages of growths are likely to become cancer and suddenly. This is in the same relative period of life for both men and animals.

"It is engaged," Sir George said, "that either some fresh, as yet unknown factor or agent may enter the body just at the critical time and cause cancer, or that the different parts of the whole cycle for a cancerous process, and one part passes naturally from one stage to the final catastrophe of cancer.

"The first stage is most prevalent from the late twenties to the thirties, the second stage takes form in the late thirties and early forties. The change into cancer occurs in the late forties and early fifties of life."

Guard Baby's Health in the Summer

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are chiefly indigestion, diarrhoea, colic and dysentery, come on so quickly that little time must be lost if you would prevent these troubles, or if they do come, cure them. Mother Graves' Worm Powders make them comfortable. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during the weather as Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe (said by medicine dealers). Mrs. Jos. Gosselin, of St. Jean de Matha, Que., says: "I have used The Dr Williams' Medicine Co. Doctor Performs Serious Operation On Board Ship With Crude Instruments

A cook's carving knife, a pair of pliers borrowed from the carpenter, a bottle of Holland gin and a needle and linen thread, saved the life a seaman stricken with appendicitis, and as a result Dr. David R. Robertson, Los Angeles surgeon, recently was presented with a huge silver loving cup by the Pluvet Steamship Company.

A little more than a year ago Dr. Robbins and his wife left Los Angeles on the steamship "Noorderdyk" for Germany, where the doctor was going to study for a year. He left all his surgical instruments at home, intending to buy new ones in Germany.

Three days out of Panama, the "Noorderdyk" received an S.O.S. from the steamship "Corvus" saying that Henry Lohse, 21-year-old sailor, was stricken with appendicitis.

The "Noorderdyk" steamed to the "Corvus" and when they met, Lohse was transferred to the "Noorderdyk." Dr. Robbins was asked to save the man's life.

Dr. Robbins borrowed a carving knife from the ship's cook, a pair of pliers from the carpenter and with the pliers removed the appendix. He then sewed up the incision with linen thread he had borrowed from his wife and disinfected the wound with Holland gin. A place was improvised for the patient and he was used for drainage. As a result of the operation, Lohse is hale and hearty. He has been on the same boat lustily sings, "Blow the Man Down."

Because he used such strange instruments Dr. Robertson refused to accept any pay for the operation, stating that the operation under such strange conditions might not prove successful.

However, the steamship company did not forget Dr. Robertson. It sent the high sea, and when he returned to Los Angeles from his year of study in Germany he was presented with the silver loving cup.

Importance Of Rubber Industry

Canadian Rubber Products Exported To Many Countries

Now-a-days the world moves on rubber, and this does not apply to automobiles alone. According to a recent return of the Canadian Government the people of Nigeria, in June, bought 300 pairs of shoes with rubber soles from Canada. Barbados took 5,000 pairs and Trinidad 6,555 pairs.

Although Canada is not a producer of raw rubber, the rubber industry is of much importance and rubber products are exported to many countries of the world. In June the export of Canadian automobile tires exceeded $1,000,000. The largest buyers were New Zealand, British South Africa, Belgium, Argentine and Brazil.

Millers of Great Britain and On The Continent Speak Highly of Garnet Wheat's Milling Value

Ottawa, Ont.—Considerable enthusiasm was expressed among millers of Great Britain and on the continent when investigated Garnet wheat as to its milling qualities. A report by L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist, on the result of the investigations of a specially bagged shipment of this blend of wheat overseas has been made public. For a time at least Garnet should be shipped as a separate variety, instead of mixed with Manitoba. This would give the millers an opportunity of knowing the wheat they were dealing with and they could treat it to the best advantage.

Garnet wheat, an early maturing variety of hard red spring wheat, was first available to Canadian farmers for testing in field areas in the spring of 1926. Since then it has become increasingly popular with growers of wheat in the prairies, particularly in the northern districts. The question arose should Garnet be allowed to go into the highest grade of Manitoba hard wheat without restriction of any kind or would it be preferable to set up at least one or two separate grades for the accommodation of the variety or to continue to handle it as at present.

The report just issued by Agriculture decided to submit Garnet to test by millers in the United Kingdom, and in different European countries. A year ago 6,700 bushels were shipped overseas to men expert in milling to obtain their opinions as to its suitability. These men were asked a series of questions, and Mr. Newman's report includes the replies they made.

In his summary of the results obtained from the tests Mr. Newman states that while practically all investigators have expressed the opinion that Garnet wheat, when milled alone or in mixtures. It should be kept in mind, however, the summary explained, that in both Great Britain and on the continent it is usually milled at a higher percentage moisture content than is the case in Canada, which fact may account for the relatively good milling behaviour of this variety in the Old Country tests.

The summary continues:

"The general attitude of practically all of those who investigated this wheat in England and on the Continent is that Garnet wheat promises to have been pretty well expressed in the words of Dr. Kent-Jones, whose concluding statement is repeated as follows:

"Garnet wheat, both in milling and in baking, has certain pronounced characteristics. Millers will always be faced with the fact that Garnet will give stability to their blends but not quite the spring and elasticity which is normally given by Manitoba.

"Since English and European millers are par excellence, blenders of wheat, they require to know the exact properties of the wheats they use I therefore recommend that Garnet when offered in bond goes to the market as a separate variety, and although in the first instance, its price might be slightly less than the corresponding Manitobas, I am inclined to think the market would rapidly appreciate its merits and there may be times when the Garnet may command the higher price."

"Another investigator is even more emphatic when he says:

"There is no doubt in my mind that we can make very good use of this wheat in London, providing we

Checking Up On Resources

Underlying Beds On Mineral Deposits and Water Power Possibilities

For the purpose of mapping, investigating mineral deposits and water-power and making more accurate data concerning the wide variety of natural resources throughout the Dominion, the Canadian Government Geological Survey has 33 parties at work this year in different parts of the country.

Thirteen parties will make topographical surveys. Three will investigate physical methods of prospecting and two will collect specimens for the national museum. The other 60 parties will be engaged in a variety of investigations. The most northerly party will work near Chesterfield Inlet on Hudson Bay, in latitude 63 degrees; the most westerly one will be in the Yukon Territory, and the most easterly at Sydney, Nova Scotia.

Forty-six of the parties will be in charge of permanently employed officers of the Geological Survey. The other parties will be in charge of university teachers or specialists from other institutions, who are employed during the field season. With the parties will be 115 university students in geology and engineering.

A pen of White Leghorns owned by C. D. Decker, of Cowansville, P.Q., holds third place with a total score of 835 points, while a pen of the same breed entered by J. C. Quandry, Port Dover, Ont., holds fourth place with a score of 782 points. The standing of all the international contest is an entry of Rhode Island Reds from France, total score 976 points. A second place is held by an entry of the same breed from Ireland with a total of 924 points. With some weeks yet to go the position of the Canadian entries may be materially improved if they keep up their present excellent performance.

Growth of Western Provinces Within Recent Years Has Been One of Great Modern Romances

On July 15th the Province of Manitoba celebrated its diamond jubilee as a province of Canada. Manitoba was created a province in 1870, and began its career as such on July 15th of that year. The name Manitoba is a contraction of the Cree word, Manitowaban, and is said to mean "The God That Speaks "

The first white men to set foot in what is now the province of Manitoba were Pierre Gaultier de Varennes La Verendrye and his sons, about 1732. In the early part of the nineteenth century Lord Selkirk began to establish a settlement of Scottish families on the Red River, and this became the foundation stock of the oldest white settlement in Western Canada.

In 1870 the province of Manitoba consisted of only a comparatively small section of land on both sides of the Red River. It has since then been twice enlarged and now has an area of 251,832 square miles. The population of the province 60 years ago was about 25,000, now it is over 638,000. The total population of Western Canada in 1870 was about 70,000. In 1930 it is about 2,650,000 Winnipeg, sixty years ago, was a settlement of a mere handful of people; in fact the official census of 1871 gave it a population of 241 Now it is one of the most modern cities of the world with a population of over 200,000.

Scarcely any of the rich fertile soil had then been brought under cultivation. The farm machinery of the time was crude, there were no competent advise s. Government experimental farms did not come until several years later Yet those hardy pioneers stuck it out and numbers of them are enjoying their declining days in the communities they wrested from the wilderness, prosperous, contented, with their children's families gathered about them. They have seen civilization step into the wild and the wilderness swept out. Today are thriving cities and towns where thesecond small section of land on both sides of the Red River. Lost Prospectors Found

Discovered After Spending Twenty One Days in Northland

The Pas, Man. — Harry Calrna prospector, of Baker's Narrows, and his 15-year-old son, who were lost 21 days in the northland wilds, were found safe and well last Thursday They arrived in the cockpit of a Vickers Vedette 'plane, piloted by Sergt. Tourgis, R.C.A.F.

The long search is over, a search that called upon the best brains of the wilderness to map out and carry through a search that even veterans of the trail found baffling for days and which terminated eight miles from the copper claims camp of the prospectors.

For 21 days father and son trampled the barren-ground caribou moss in the muskeg and fought on, ever hoping that they would strike a friendly trail or a landmark they knew. For the first five days they were drenched by thunder storms. For the first three days they lacked no food and knew no shelter, then they came upon blueberries, nearly ripe.

They constructed a shelter of spruce boughs, using bits of string to pull together their tattered clothes, and waited for the warm sun to ripen the berries. George the boy, was failing, his boots had given out and his feet were sore. Without matches they had no fire for signals nor for warmth at night. During all that time, close as they were to the railway, they heard no locomotive whistles and saw no signs of a living creature.

Then they heard men shouting in the bush while they waited on a rocky point of a strange lake and hoped to signal low flying 'planes. A minute later, R. R. Patton, veteran prospector, and Wilf. Caldwell, came upon them. They were taken to their camp.

Lack Of Moisture Detrimental To Crops

Much Uncertainty as Exists As To the Probable Yield

Ottawa, Oct. — "Although the western crop is generally well advanced in the ripening stage, there is still much uncertainty as to the probable yield," states the crop report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Lack of moisture in Saskatchewan and southern Alberta and damage from rust in Manitoba and southeastern Saskatchewan are features of last week's reports. Alberta crops alone have registered an improvement in the past two weeks, the large central area being again benefited at the last week-end by good rains.

Cutting of early wheat and barley is common in all three provinces. With indications that harvest will be general in a week or ten days.

The weather has again been hot and dry, with central Saskatchewan points registering over 100 degrees on the last day of the month. Effective rains in this district fell only in central Alberta.

Heat infection varies greatly with date of maturity, variety and stand of the crops. Although future weather conditions will have an important effect there is every indication that the damage will be light on early maturing, light crops. But heavy on the good crops maturing later. The telegraphic report from the Dominion rust research laboratory at Winnipeg for this week reads as follows:

"In Manitoba, hot dry weather at present has hastened maturity of all cereal crops. Cutting of early fields of wheat and barley is now general in central and southern part of province. Losses from stem rust will be heavy in about sixty per cent. of the eastern wheat in area included within radius of sixty miles from Winnipeg.

"Because of hot, dry weather, stem rust has not increased rapidly in Saskatchewan but has spread northward to Pontrilas and southwest to Shaunavon. Severity of infection about twenty per cent. on common wheat in eastern Saskatchewan. Durums have only traces of stem rust. No stem rust reported in Alberta."

Plans To Visit Argentina

Prince Of Wales May Pay Visit To South America Next Year

London, England.—The Prince of Wales who, among his many other roles, has been called the British Empire's "goodwill ambassador," is next year to visit Argentina and Brazil and, it became known recently. The visit will be the outcome of an invitation paid for the particular purpose of opening the British trade exposition.

The first official announcement came from Buenos Aires when Ambassador Ronald MacLeay informed President Irigoyen that the Prince would make the visit.

It has been announced that the British heir will extend his visit to Brazil if he was not known whether he would visit other Latin-American states.

Reports that the Prince would visit the United States next year have been definitely denied.

The bands mentioned are the Royal Scots Guards and the Recess of the Barn, the last-named a well-known civilian band in the Old Country. The Coldstream Guards and the Royal Air Force have played at engagements in Western Canada within the past five years.

Vancouver Port Has 7,551,765 Bushels Of Last Season's, Crop

Vancouver.—The new crop year of 1930-31, for the port of Vancouver, starts off with 7,551,765 bushels of wheat in store, a carryover from last season's crop, according to the weekly report of the Vancouver Board of Harbor Commissioners.

The railways report 367,000 bushels of old-crop wheat moving towards Vancouver.

BUREAU TO AID IN KEEPING TRADE MORE STABILIZED

Montreal.—The gravity of the business depression with consequent unemployment and lack of consumer demand confronts Canadian business with the necessity of establishing a research and administrative bureau composed of representatives of the government, the universities and the business interests of the country, whose duties should be to keep a perpetual survey of business development in Canada, to anticipate possible trade depressions sufficiently in advance to take preventive measures, said Joseph T. Crowder, president of the Retail Merchants' Association, of Canada, in convention here yesterday.

Federal, provincial and municipal governments are the bodies most capable of creating employment, said Mr. Crowder in his address. Their work could be more intelligently planned if there was advance just what was likely to happen in business circles, and where judicious control used to impending trade depression, these bodies could to advantage so plan government works as to absorb the excess of the unemployment in certain commercial enterprises, thus sustaining employment and buying power.

Explanations are not lacking for the reduced volume of business during the last few months, said Mr. Crowder. He cited the excess amount of wheat held over from last year, the slump in base metals, over-production, the natural business cycle and the increase of unemployment.

Unemployment, said the president "business is influenced by mob psychology. When one group ceases buying, others follow suit, and the disastrous effect of such cessation is easily realized."

While admitting the influence of world conditions upon Canadian business, yet generally speaking, so long as our farmers do a reasonably good job of farming, and factories do an equally good job of manufacturing and transportation goes on the same, each taking advantage of modern methods, inventions and facilities, it is difficult to understand why the amount of money in the country remaining reasonably constant, why such things as hard times or trade depressions should overwhelm us with such distressing regularity, said Mr. Crowder.

"Today," he continued, "we actually have farmers producing more foodstuffs than they can sell and factories producing more goods than they can sell, each in actual want of the other."

Tragedy At Royal Regatta

Racing Yacht Is Sunk In Collison and One Life Is Lost

Cowes, Isle of Wight.—A steward was drowned and a racing yacht, the "Lucilla," owned by J. Lauriston Lewis, was sunk in collision at the start of the royal regatta events. The King, aboard the "Britannia," witnessed the tragedy.

The "Lucilla," manoeuvring with the 32 metre boats for the getaway, was hit by A. A. Paton's big cutter, the "Galsworthy," and went to the bottom in three minutes. The "Galsworth" rescued the survivors of the "Lucilla's" crew.

When the crew of the "Lucilla" came ashore it was stated that William Saunders, a steward, had lost his life.

The King saw the accident from the "Britannia," which at the time was leading in the race for big yachts

The "Britannia" won the race, which was excitingly close throughout, and thereby scored her 200th victory.

OBITUARY

ANDREW BROWN SOMERVILLE

On Sunday noon, the third of August at his home in Vermil on there passed into rest one of God's gentlemen, Andrew Brown Somerville. The funeral was held on Friday, August 8th from First United Church and interment made in Vermilion cemetery. Messrs. Craig, Baker, Hunt, Parker, Wilmore and Welsh acted as pallbearers and a large number of sympathizing friends attended the funeral.

At the service in the church Mr. Somerville's favorite hymns were sung: "Jesus, Lover of my Soul," "Peace, Perfect Peace," "There is no night in Heaven," and from his hymn: He text "I shall be satisfied when I awake with Thy likeness" the sermon was preached. Speaking in feeling terms of Mr. Somerville's patience, courtesy, consideration and gratitude the minister, Rev. H. J. Boyd, said in all these he saw the hand of God fashioning our friend's life into likeness of the divine. But beyond all his achieving was the rising our friend longed to be "to awake with His likeness," "in one Him as He is." It is enough that the servant be as his master.

Andrew Brown Somerville was born at New Armagh, Quebec April 9th, 1860. He married Annie Kinsner of Kinsner's Mills and lived there happily and successfully for a number of years as a merchant. After spending some years at St. Anicetsburg, Vermont, Mr. and Mrs. Somerville and their two boys, Norman and Albert, moved to Inverness where Mr. Somerville bought the property of Dan Mooney which he farmed for ten years. Moving from Inverness the family next settled at Sherbrooke and from there 13 years ago came west to Vermilion. The younger son, "Bert" predeceased his father here eight months ago.

Mr. Somerville made many changes during his life time and as many friends. In every place he won high esteem for his sterling qualities of character. A staunch and true friend, a loyal citizen, a devout churchman, the community is today the poorer for his passing. As an elder in First United church his wise counsel, his gracious and kindly spirit will be long remembered. The spirit of his life could not be better summed than in a text found on a slip of paper in the family Bible, written with his own hand: "A soft answer turneth away wrath."

Mr. Somerville is survived by his devoted wife and son Norman who arrived from Quebec the morning of the funeral, and three brothers and five sisters, the latter all residing in the East. To all the deepest sympathy of the community is extended.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, acknowledgement of which here follows: Pillow, loving Wife and Son; Wreaths: First United Church, Session of First United Church, Jr. and Mrs. W. E. McCrae & Family, Mr. and Mrs. E. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. A. Morison, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Richardson; Cross, Mr and Mrs. F. J. Buck; Harp, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Hay; Sprays: Mr. and Mrs. J. Brimacombe, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. M. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. E. Curry, Mr. and Mrs. John Ironside, Mr. and Mrs Nimmo & Family, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Heethcer, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hill, Rev. and Mrs. H. Beyer, Mrs. W. T. Law, The Lipsey Family, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Morrison, Mr and Mrs. Jas. Martin son, Mr. Minard and the Boys, Mr and Mrs. McKenzie & Family, Mr. and Mrs. McQuarrie and Bille Robin; Mr. and Mrs. Oakley & Family; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robinson, Mrs. Sharp and Fenton, Mr and Mrs. J. OBITUARY

DUNCAN McPHEE

In the death of Duncan McPhee, the district deeply mourns the passing of one of its oldest pioneers—a man who was held in the highest esteem by all. As announced last week, Mr. passed away on Thursday, August 7th at the family home at the advanced age of 77 years, 7 months and 7 days. He is survived by his widow, six sons and three daughters, namely, Gordon of Camrose, Alta.; Mrs. Arthur Sumption, Vernon, B.C.; Howard and Will of Finday Forks, B.C.; Herbert, on the farm, Vermilion; Mrs. Walter McNirny, Leighton, Alta.; Edna, Lorne, and Norman at home.

The late Duncan McPhee was a Scotch parentage and was born in Colborne township, Huron county, Ontario, in the year 1853. Attracted westward in 1882 he came to Manitoba and homesteaded near Manoota where he farmed for five years, returning East in 1897. Two years later he married Miss Annie Young, who died in 1899, four children (Gordon, Bessie, Howard and Will) being born to the union. In 1903 Mr. McPhee married Miss Christina Good, who survives him. The family moved West in 1906, coming to Vermilion where deceased located on the present farm homestead near Pelican Lake. Three sons, Gordon, Howard and Will served in the world war. Throughout all his life Mr. McPhee was an earnest and devoted member of the Presbyterian church.

The funeral was held on Saturday, August 9th, services being held at the United church, Vermilion at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the Rev. H. A. Boyd officiating. The last sad rites were largely attended by numbers of friends of the family, many standing and sympathizers with the bereaved family beautiful floral offerings were received. Interment took place in the Vermilion cemetery, the pallbearers being Frank White, Fred Bull, Joe Killion, Henry Armstrong, Jim Daw and Sidney Barrick, all real old-timers of the district and personal friends of the deceased.

The sincere sympathy of a very wide circle of acquaintances is extended to Mrs. McPhee and the family in their bereavement.

Dear Mr. Editor,

[illegible] was mentioned for the War Memorial. Thanks were given to Scouts and Girl Guides who paid tags, and I would like to correct this, as far as the Guides are concerned. No Guides, as Guides, tagged on August 1st; it is against rules.

As president of the local Association, I appreciate very much the way the Girl Guides be allowed to tag for the Memorial. I therefore called an executive meeting, but there were not a quorum (many members being busy) and all members present did not agree on the interpretation of the Constitution, so referred to headquarters. The answer was most emphatic against allowing any Guide to sell tags. Any Guide who does, no matter how good the cause, is (I am quoting from the letter) "lowering the standards of Girl Guiding." The ideals of Guiding are high, and it is "up" to all in the movement to do their best to uphold these ideals.

I hope you will kindly publish this letter, making quite clear the attitude of the Guide movement towards any form of tagging.

Believe me, yours sincerely,
Grace A. Bury,
President of the Local Association for Girl Guides.

Sixteen Years Ago Today

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard
12th AUGUST 1914

Canada is sending an expeditionary force of 20,000 men to aid the Motherland. Canada has offered the imperial government 1,000,000 sacks of flour as a gift from the Canadian people, which has been accepted. The province of Alberta has given 250,000 bushels of oats for the field.

Great battles are looked for between the French-Belgian and the German forces. The Kaiser's army is pouring its troops through the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg and across the border. German artillery fire in front of the forts at Liege is inflicting terrific damage. Special despatches from St. Petersburg say that the Russian Baltic fleet has captured 25 merchant vessels. A report states two entire brigades of Austrian cavalry were destroyed after invading Russian near Kielgow.

OFF TO THE FRONT!—W. E. Sutton, W. L. Donald, A. Walker, W. McKenzie, N. L. Robertson, R. S. Tallack, J. Simms, John Stevens, H. Watson. Fifteen men were selected from the numbers volunteering for service at this point, but owing to the large number offering their service at the different points it was found necessary to reduce the number to be accepted to nine. The Vermilion detachment left on the 1:30 a.m. express for Edmonton Thursday and before leaving were given a smoker in the Pastime Club rooms, thrown open for the occasion, and tendered a rousing and most enthusiastic send-off by over 800 citizens.

Crops are ripening fast and many early fields are in stook; the yield throughout Vermilion district will be good.

The Spy Scouts, 22 strong, marched in from their camp at Indian Lake on Friday evening last after a great outing. Their brown and ruddy appearance indicates a perfect health condition.

Miss Ethel Smith of the Vermilion Hotel, was successfully operated upon for appendicitis Friday last by Dr. F. Day Smith. This is, the Standard believes, the first operation of this nature to be performed by a resident surgeon.

Mr. Florence Ryckman of the Vermilion Centre school staff has returned from a trip to the maritime provinces.

A union church service was held in the Church of Christ Wednesday evening, participated in by four of the local clergy when prayers were offered in connection with the present war. Rev.—An Vermilion private hospital on Thursday, August 6th, 1914, to the wife of Mr Howard Green, of Cummings, a son.

Little White Ribbeners At Jolly Party Given by Mrs. Sharp

A party for the Little White Ribbeners was given by Mrs. Sharp, the superintendent assisted by Miss Craig and Miss D. Lipsey on Friday, July 25th in the Presbyterian hall.

Mrs. Sharp opened the meeting with a short address to the members, after which a program followed, given by the children, consisting of: march and song by all; song by all; song by Dorothy, Leslie and Phyllis Lipsey; recitations by Audrey Hunt, Josephine Berry, Billy Fallow, Robin McQuarrie, Katherine Forbes and Jean Pibile

Tasty refreshments were served to all later.

The party was attended by the president of the W.C.T.U., Mrs. J. D. Stephens, the mothers of the children and several grandmothers and friends it was thoroughly enjoyed by all

WHEAT CUTTING IN WILDMERE DISTRICT

EIGHTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT, AUGUST 9th.

As harvest approaches the condition of crops throughout the Province is better than was anticipated earlier in the season, with the exception of the south-eastern part of the province and central eastern areas, crops are good. In the eastern area where conditions were unfavorable throughout the early part of the growing period late rains have caused an excellent growth of oats and barley, and if the frost free period is prolonged, there will be fair yields of wheat.

The hot dry weather of the past fortnight has caused too rapid ripening of crops in the south-eastern part of the Province, where moisture was not plentiful. In the central and northern area where heavy rains fell during July and where crops were making satisfactory, these high temperatures have caused more rapid ripening without serious injury to quality.

Wheat cutting has commenced in the south and will be general next week. Throughout the central and northern parts cutting will be general in from ten to fourteen days.

Frost has been reported from one point in the Peace River district, but damage does not seem to have been slight. Hail damage has occurred at several points throughout the Province.

Conditions with regard to pasture, hay and feed are fairly satisfactory. In the whole growing area, second growth of alfalfa is fairly heavy and of excellent quality. The sugar beet crop is better than the average.

U. S. SUFFERS WORST DROUGHT IN 80 YEARS.

The Literary Digest, New York, this week's issue, gives a map of the United States showing in black the 16 States where "The Great Drought of 1930" with which it heads the article, has done its worst. The opening paragraph reads "Like a fifth apocalyptic horseman, drought has been ravaging our land from the Rockies to the Atlantic, from the Gulf to the Canadian border." The Digest goes on to say that this condition, described as a national calamity, is but being made necessary nation-wide measures under the direction of President Hoover. "Heatless months and weeks of record-breaking heat, concentrated chiefly in the Mississippi and Ohio valleys, have been relentlessly scorching orchards, corn-fields and forests, drying up streams and lakes, until, as August opened, the entire nation became aware that a major catastrophe was developing."

One hundred and nineteen (119) cats in one head looks like some record crop. The Standard was handed a bunch by C. F. Stone, local real estate and insurance agent, the other day pulled from a big field on his Quesnele Creek farm, one of the heads counting up 119 cats.

VERMILION HORSES AT ST. PAUL RACE MEET

A few of the Vermilion horsemen went up to the St Paul fair and horse races last week. The free-for-all was won by a little black pacing mare, owned and driven by R. H. Brennan. In the race were also Mr. Donald, Browns Frisco and Frank Dillon. The time was 2.22, the fastest ever paced over the St Paul track which is 127 feet over the mile. In the 2.40 class there were three horses named, Bertha Patch, Billie Moody, and Baby Wilkes. Bertha Patch, a fast little pacer, came first and Billie Moody second in the second heat The latter had hard racing luck; in the second heat he broke a hopple and in the third heat one of the sulky wheels was broken. This horse is owned by Mr. Harry Gates.

The horsemen are all looking forward to another race meet at St. Paul in the near future.

Interesting Exhibits

Floating Museum Of Byrd's Antarctic Expedition

The City of New York, flagship of Rear-Admiral Byrd's Antarctic expedition, is to go on tour as a floating museum of the Antarctic. Admission will be charged to the public in an effort to overcome the expedition's deficit of more than $100,000, which continues to mount because of the expense involved in assembling the scientific material brought back by the expedition.

Announcement of the move came from Captain Ashley C McKinley, in charge of the expedition's affairs in the absence of Admiral Byrd. The ship will go on exhibition at the Ninety-sixth Street pier to the North River, and will be open to the public from 10 a.m to 10 p.m. On leaving New York it will go to Boston and other New England cities and will then proceed south along the Atlantic seaboard

More than a month has been spent in assembling the models and exhibits built by the expedition members during the Antarctic night," Captain McKinley said "When open to the public the ship will contain the most complete exhibition of Antarctic specimens ever gathered, as well as hundreds of other souvenirs of the expedition."

On view will be a model of Little America, constructed to scale by the American Museum of Natural History; models of the Floyd Bennett, the airplane used in flying over the South Pole; models of other "expedition planes; a model of the City of New York and a replica of a camping scene showing one of the exploration parties.

Aviators Have Trying Trip

Combat Engine Trouble While Flying North Of Port Churchill

After combating engine trouble away north of Churchill, making emergency repairs and carrying out their mission two Royal Canadian Air Force pilots are back at their base at Cormorant Lake, Mile 43, Hudson Bay Railway. The officers are R. Hickman, Fort Churchill, and M. B. Barclay, flying a Bellanca. They conveyed A. E. Porsild, Federal Government official, to the far north to collect data on reindeer pasture.

According to reports from Churchill, the officers were flying about 150 miles north of Eskimo Point on Hudson Bay and about 80 miles south of Chesterfield Inlet when a valve locked on the Fairchild. They dropped down in the sea.

The shop "Jork," plying northern waters, was nearby. The captain offered assistance but the pilots found they could make repairs. They managed to get off the water and limped through the air, finally coming down at Vavaux, a small trading post, and base of operations of Dominion Explorers. Vavaux is about 100 miles from Eskimo Point. The total distance was in the "narrows" about 150 miles west of Vavaux. At Vavaux they found a Bellanca on the floor of Dominion Explorers' base. He helped them with spare parts and they flew out into the barrens.

Claims Matter Is Weightless

Scientist Gives New Definition Of Weight and Force Of Energy

After delving into philosophical questions as a hobby from a very early age, W. Donald Mitchell, under the nom de plume of "Logus Philosus," has published "The Great Light of Relativity."

In his work, Mr. Mitchell, who was born in Pennsylvania of Canadian parentage, claims to reveal that, "the earth does not weigh so much as we assume, that matter is weightless," and gives a new definition of weight, and also of the force of energy. He claims to reverse Newton's equation of attraction, and Einstein's space-time-energy theory. He gives other concepts of philosophy in axiomatic form, chief of which seems to be his statement that, "knowledge, or intelligence, is the relativity transient, personal and material reflex from objects and elements of external reality, partially retained in memory - in or on the negative plates or cells of the brain."

The author of this remarkable work believes himself to have made the most remarkable discoveries in recent geoscience, in the earth theory, a new standard for philosophy, metaphysics, psychology, and the science of education. "It promises to affect the entire scientific thought of the age," he says. He makes no declaration dogmatically, but states: "I shall be delighted to receive, either personally or otherwise, any criticism for or against any statement, axiom or definition, appearing herein, for the spirit of progress is founded in criticism and unbiased investigation."

The Peking Man

Canadian Scientist Has New Theory Regarding Discovery In China

The "Peking Man" was really an adolescent girl, who lived possibly 1,500,000 years ago, Dr. Davidson Black, Canadian scientist, said, in announcing the discovery of a second Ancient skull.

The famous paleontologist, who dug up the skull of the "Peking Man" some months ago, said he had found the second cranium, that of a girl, in a rock of the same cave in which he found the first skull.

The second skull, of an adolescent male, Dr Black said, and the measurements further indicated the first skull was that of a girl.

SAUL, "A MAN OF GREAT POSSESSIONS WHO FAILED"

Golden Text: "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."—I Corinthians 10 12.

Lesson: 1 Samuel, Chapters 9 to 15; 13:13; 15:14-23; 16:1-13; Psalm 51; Devotional Reading: Psalm 1.

Explanations and Comments

God's Will Regarding Saul Revealed To Samuel. 1 Samuel 9:15-17.—In The Hebrew the word "revealed," as the margin of the Bible explains, means literally "uncovered the ear of," and signified the divine Spirit's announcement to the human spirit. "The revelation which Samuel received the day before Saul's arrival, that a man of the tribe of Benjamin would come to him, whom he was to appoint king over Israel, was psychological based on his constant prophetical, expectant reflection as to how God would establish the monarchy." When Samuel saw Saul he asked himself whether Saul were the individual whom he had been told, and felt assured that Saul was the man chosen of God to be leader of His people.

"God's voice is of the heart—I do not say

All voices themselves of the heart are God's;

And to discern the Voice amidst the Voices

Is that hard task that we are born for."

The Meeting Of Saul and Samuel, 9:18.—On the day of his (Samuel's) assent (9:3-17), Saul sought the aid of Samuel, he found him on his way to the "high place" where he was to offer sacrifice. Samuel at once set the conversation in motion by inquiring the lost animals, telling him they were found, and then turning to the larger expectations in Saul's heart by asking: "For whom is all that is desirable in Israel? Is it not for thee and for thy father's house?"

In astonishment Saul answered: "Am I not a Benjamite, of the smallest of the tribes of Israel, and my family the least of all the families of Israel?" Wherefore then speakest thou to me after this manner?" This extravagant expression of humility was in accordance with Eastern custom. In the Old Testament Whyte thinks, it seems to be the language of a man whose heart is really touched for the time being with divine grace. It is real humility.

The Anointing Of Saul, 9:27 to 10:1.—As they were leaving the city precincts, Samuel bade Saul send his servant on ahead. That servant poured oil upon Saul's head and kissed him. Before this, priests had been anointed by their office, and when Saul was consecrated as king by anointing, "the monarchy was inaugurated as a divine institution depending on a par with the priesthood."

It is not that Jehovah hath anointed thee to be princes over his inheritance?" mentioned Samuel. Thus he impressed Saul with the fact that it was God who had chosen him to rule, and to God, therefore, he was responsible for the way he ruled.

No Loss From Pool Guarantees

Wheat Pool Did Not Have To Call On Government For Funds

A special despatch to the Toronto Mail and Empire from Ottawa says:

"From no less a person than the chief statistician of the Canadian Wheat Pool's selling headquarters in Winnipeg, government authorities in Ottawa have received the cheering information that the prairie provinces have mustered no loss from their guarantees at the Wheat Pool's operations.

"Early in the year, when it became apparent that Canada was not going to be able to market her whole crop and that the market price had suffered a severe shrimp, the three prairie governments put their credit behind the Wheat Pool in the extent of guaranteeing its banks against loss through the advances made to the pool.

"According to information supplied to the Dominion government, there has been no loss. The pool's crop was sold by July 31. Everything transacted from July 10 onward is part of the 1930 pool. Compilation of the final returns of the 1929 pool is under way, and has progressed far enough to reveal that the pool sold enough wheat during the season prior to the last components for the quantity which had to be sold below that mark whereby the provincial guarantees cancelled.

"Andrew Cairns, statistician for the pool, was in Ottawa several days ago securing papers and missing preparation for a trip to Geneva, where he will represent that country for the purpose of surveying at first hand the state of wheat growing in the land of the Soviets and determining to what extent Russia is becoming as a serious factor in the export wheat situation."

Mr. Cairns informed the government of the situation in Russia as he found it, and, he said, would now expire."

Mediterranean Service

Inauguration Of a New Monthly Service To Mediterranean Ports

Inaugurating the new monthly service from eastern Canadian ports to Gibraltar, Malta, and other Mediterranean ports, the "David Livingstone" will sail from Montreal on or about September 16. This will be to follow about October 10 by the S.S Bengualo.

The new service, according to the Department of Trade and Commerce, will consist of special motorships, equipped for cargo and accommodation for 10 or 12 passengers. Owing to the absence of a direct steamship connection on the Great Lakes ports and Montreal or Halifax, Canada has not been able to share in these markets to any extent in the past.

New York now has four airpiazes for its police force, which will watch out for law-breaking from the vantage point of the air.

CHAPTER XXIV.—Continued.

So, alone at the window, Grandma watched her old friend carried by it, his last resting place, followed, it seemed to her, by all that was to whom he had ever ministered. Wickfield's stilts in shining automobiles; shabby drivers from the livery stables; tall rack faces peering from behind torn side-curtains; farm horses harnessed to work loads of every sort; hearses, long, long line on foot following the others. And last, straggling behind them all, hurrying breathlessly, a woman trundling a baby in a dilapidated go-cart—a baby whom the old doctor had helped into the world only a few months before. . . . Yes, all Wickfield was there, thought Grandma. . . . Or was she? . . . Yes, she was.

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes," the murmured softly "And there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying. . . . ."

—To—

CHAPTER XXV.

April, month of laughter and tears had come and gone. Grandma was "early," according to the old inhabitants and weather prophets. With the first sleigh ride in March, Grandma Knew a purple glory, and was p'ak buds adorned the orchards.

"What a fleeting, beautiful world it is!" mused Charmian, as she walked home from school one afternoon. It's a crime not to feel light-hearted every minute. I believe I should if it wasn't that John is leaving us Grandma will miss him terribly; and so will I."

Yes, in another week the Mitts office would be closed and John, with all bedroom crying for an occupant. John Carter had stayed until a furnace fire took from them their parents. On that he had insisted. He had been surprised and infinitely touched when Cass Garfield had told him that the doctor's worldly goods were now his own.

"He was quite bowled over," the little lawyer said to Grandma. "He hadn't the least suspicion of what was in the doctor's will."

"Did Edward leave him everything?" she queried.

"About everything there was—the house and furnishings. All bills were to be settled (there weren't any to speak of) and any unpaid accounts on his books were to be cancelled. Two hundred dollars to Charmian. Yor a hundred and the rest to John Carter. Yes, the young man was bowled over. Not a great legacy, but it showed that our old doctor loved and trusted him. And of course we all knew he had. Edward Charmian Wickfield will never be the same without him, will it, Grandma?"

Grandma sighed and answered, "Not to some of us; and yet, Gam. It's a wonderful thing to live a long life and then die in the harness before you get to be a burden, as Edward Howe did. I couldn't wish him back. Just look at me!" she said, exasperated. "Here I sit all day long just wasting the precious hours—I've even get out o' my chair without some one comes in for a spool o' cotton — so certainly am sorry to keep Charmian company, or—"

"No use!" supleded Gamaliel indignantly. "I dunno any one 'round Wickfield who's any more use! You're listened to and sympathized with all our troubles for twenty years, Grandma Davis, to say nothing of all the years before when you was bringin' children into the world. Hand in time of trouble. Many's the time I've heard my father say, 'Lucky Dave is the doctor for me.' And you're a good friend still. I haven't got one I value any more, and there's not a Wickfielder who'd say the same."

"You're a good friend, too, Gam," smiled the old lady, getting his hand affectionately. "I'll never forget how you persuaded Deacon Purdie to give up that last rum jug, just as I wouldn't get into trouble about those beads. There's times when I get thinking about them and wishing that I'm the least mite worried.

The lawyer grinned.

"I'll bet you'd say if that's the worst sin you've got on your conscience! Once I bought a horse of the Canuck, Cinnamon and I, Bijou Dave' I'would break our hearts to leave it, so what's the use? And if Charmian wasks to use the doctor's legacy to keep us here a little longer, I'm sure Edward Howe would be the last one to say 'Foolish.'"

It was on this very subject that Charmian was meditating that May afternoon as she walked home from school.

"It's too lovely a day to spoil with thinking," she told herself, "and I've got to face things sometime. It's not just John himself that we're going to lose, but the money he brings to board and rent. Summer's coming, and we can weather that, thanks to Uncle Ned, but what's going me to do some of the repairs; but next fall—Well, 'sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.' I won't worry—yet. Somehow this day makes me think of Jim. He was rather inartistuate when he went ahead to look over his books were to be cancelled. Two hundred dollars to Charmian. Yor a hundred and the rest to John Carter. Yes, the young man was bowled over. Not a great legacy, but it showed that our old doctor loved and trusted him. And of course we all knew he had. Edward Charmian Wickfield will never be the same without him. will it, Grandma?"

Grandma sighed and answered, "Not to some of us; and yet, Gam. It's a wonderful thing to live a long life and then die in the harness before you get to be a burden, as Edward Howe died

Graduate Of V.S.A. Passes Away At Edmonton Hospital

Untimely Death of Miss Verna Shackleton

Miss Verna Shackleton of Fort Saskatchewan passed away in an Edmonton hospital on Saturday following a month's illness. Miss Shackleton graduated last year from the agricultural college and was well known to many of the town people here. An extract from the Edmonton Journal says:

"Fort Saskatchewan is today mourning the untimely passing of one of the best known of its younger daughters, Verna Alberta Shackleton, who passed away in an Edmonton hospital after a month's illness. The late Miss Shackleton was born at Fort Saskatchewan twenty-three years ago, a daughter of a pioneer family, and her sunny disposition had endeared her to all. Besides her parents she leaves one brother, Mr. Albert Ray Shackleton and two sisters, Ruth and Jane Shackleton, all of Fort Saskatchewan.

"The funeral will be held from the United church, Fort Saskatchewan, on Monday afternoon."

Sneak Thieves Again Busy In The Town

An epidemic of sneak-thieving again manifest in the town promises to be short-lived, as certain characters looked on as the perpetrators are under supervision and if the petty thievery continues will no doubt be caught in the act. Wednesday of last week E. Ruff had $16 taken from his pocket-book down at the bathing house at the sand-pit, while he was in swimming. Mrs. Croft, who lives a few miles north of town had a week's supply of groceries stolen from her car, and a sack of salt left outside M. Wener's for a customer was lifted by some-one else. People are warned to take precautions to protect articles, groceries, etc., which might easily prove a prey to prowlers.

DUCK SEASON OPENS ON SEPTEMBER 15th

Hunting Seasons Remain Unchanged

Duck and chicken seasons are unchanged from last year, that for ducks opening on Sept. 15th and chicken season two weeks later, or on the 1st. The bag limit for ducks is 20, and not more than 200 in a season. Goose season opens on Sept. 15 also. From the outlook now local nimrods should find a plentiful supply of all birds in this district.

Claim 70 Cents Initial Payment Pool Wheat

Official Announcement of Decision to Be Made Shortly

WINNIPEG, Aug. 14.—The Winnipeg Tribune today publishes the following:

"The initial wheat pool payment on the 1930 western crop will likely be 70 cents a bushel.

"Although the announcement from the pool management will not be made until Tuesday or Wednesday, it was learned from unofficial sources today that the central selling agency of the organization and the banks had agreed on this figure. There are some conditions attached but for the moment they are not definitely known."

"They are to be the subject of further discussions at a meeting of the pool's and bank's representatives."

Near Drowning Sunday At Sand-Pit

The timely intervention of Sitton (Slim) Hammond prevented what might have been a double or triple drowning tragedy at the river swimming pool late Sunday afternoon. Munro Forbes, Jr. while swimming had got beyond his depth in the deep hole below the high diving board, and was evidently in difficulties when noticed by his sister Bertha, who waded in, fully dressed, to his aid but who also got beyond her depth. As Forbes reached the drowning lad, who immediately seized him and dragged him under, and had it not been for "Slim" Hammond, who was also fully dressed, wading in and taking Miss Forbes from the water and then dragging both father and son out on the second trip, the incident might have ended fatally.

NEWS FROM ISLAY

Dr. E. Knapp expects to attend the sessions of the British Medical association to be held in Winnipeg from Aug. 26th to 29th. About sixty doctors from northern Alberta alone are expected to attend and a like number from the south.

Miss Violet Edwards from the Bank of Montreal staff, Wainwright spent several days at her home in the Athabaska district last week and also a few days in Islay visiting Miss Jean Macdonald.

Make Good Soap

Scotch Make Toilet Soap From Rats, Mice and Other Things

Who would have thought before the days of the Soviet, that dead rats mice and marmots would provide Moscow with a popular toilet soap called "My Grandmother's Bouquet"? That is what the corpses of those creatures are now destined for.

Soap must be made, says the Soviet, from cats and dogs, too—and, boiled down gives five ounces of fat, one dog more than a pound.

The dead pets and slain pests of the community in general will yield it is estimated, 5,000 tons of fat for soap.

Here's a charming wearside frock of tub silk in green and white.

It will give young daughter a big thrill to make it, for it isn't half as intricate as it appears.

It is a straight one piece affair lengthened with a circular flounce. The white organdie frill at neckline and sleeves may be bought all pleated by the yard.

The belt is adjustable and may be worn as bow suits the wearer. If daughter is very slim, the higher waistline is extremely smart.

Style No. 2548 may be had in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years.

Shantung linen and printed chantly are other lovely ideas.

Hope For the Blind

Work Of Royal Commission May Prove Of Great Help To Sightless

The blind people of Manitoba and Saskatchewan are looking with much eagerness to the recommendations of the royal commission now investigating their situation, said D. Baxter Lawley, worker among the blind and without vision himself, who testified before the commission on the assistance given to blind people in the British Isles.

Mr. Lawley, who comes from near Manchester, is a notable example of a man who has mastered the disadvantages and overcome almost despairing of the future, Mr. Lawley passed through Winnipeg during June, 1914, on his way to the Old Country. He tells how, unable to find his way around, afraid to grope in the darkness into which he had suddenly been plunged, he travelled for six days and seven nights on a diet of sardines and crackers.

Seeking the aid of specialists on his arrival in England, he studied Braille in hospital, and learned to read classic Greek in Braille. In 1915 he gained a realization of the plight of blind people, and he threw himself vigorously into an effort to improve their and lot. He became associated with the late Sir Arthur Pearson, Bart., and was successful as a financial organizer and lecturer.

Later he became an official and later president for two years of the National League of the Blind, in Great Britain and Ireland, and was one of the leaders of the famous march to London, in April, 1920, of 250 blind men from Manchester, Leeds and Newport. They interviewed the leaders of the then coalition cabinet, and were successful eventually in securing substantial relief for blind people.

In 1923 he met Philip Layton, Montreal, a noted blind philanthropist, founder of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and of the Montreal school for the blind, with whom he carried on a correspondence for a number of years which eventually led to an invitation from Mr. Layton to come to Canada to engage in relief effort for the blind people of the Dominion. His home is now in Toronto. He is in Winnipeg assisting A. B. Howe, a local colleague, in connection with the investigations of the joint commission that is investigating the status of the blind in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Discussing the work of the commission, Mr. Lawley said he had been much interested with its progress thus far, and was convinced that it could not have been undertaken at a better time. Its findings would have an effect on every province in Canada, and eventually would influence the Federal Government to protect an improvement in the lot of the blind as a result.—Free Press.
